A crash program to develop nuclear electricity generation is not in the province commercially. When, however, nuclear generation becomes a commercial proposition in the future, then, Ontario Hydro will switch over.

Although Ontario is self-sufficient in electricity alone, and imports almost all other energy consumed here, nevertheless Ontario has an abundant cheap energy. It is also a fact that the domestic production of abundant cheap energy, but the ability to purchase it at a little cheaper rate is characteristic of a healthy economy with a high standard of living and a high future. Although the Middle East Possesses two-thirds of the world's oil, I do not think many Ontarians would like to change places with the inhabitants of that region.

Notoriety And Fame Get Confused

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal, Prejudices:

The only way to relieve the world's ills is to understand one another, but by each one's understanding himself first; there can be no genuine rapport between persons who are ignorant of their own motivations and needs.

The man who is always in a hurry is the man who has no destination at all his ends are but goads to other ends, and he is hurrying to avoid the necessity of thinking about his final goal.

Being unqualified to give an opinion has never yet stopped anyone, for everyone considers himself a universal expert in the art of giving advice.

Most of us prosper more through the errors of others than by the positive efforts by ourselves.

Public corruption in any city is not the only thing that makes it easy to gamble is forbidden by law; the chief reason for the success of British policemen is the respectability of betting at flutter on the horses or the football pools in that sensible and civilized nation.

It is a great, and frequent, failing of mankind to call the "normal" with the "average or the ideal" it is "normal to have no colds," but in fact most people get several a year, and the normal person is probably not the ideal one.

Our age has lost the necessary distinction between "notoriety" and "fame." We think that any man who is famous must be good, but in the schoolyard, the pool in the home; when they hire an older person as a maid, they really want her to be a mother as well.

Young wives who have been trained to work out a satisfactory relationship with their husbands have great difficulty, on the birth of a baby, in getting used to the home; when they hire an older person as a maid, they really want her to be a mother as well.

Every man who has known a man's faults, don't go to his wife and tell her about them; go to co-workers; the boss sees only a carefully edited version of the man, while others see the whole unpurgated edition.

Anybody can handle misfortunes that come from the outside — but it takes real character to cope carefully with the disastrous consequences of our own ingrained faults.

A county in Nova Scotia. It is the abbreviated word for Hampshire, old English "Hantescire," authorities suggest it was probably given to this county by United Empire Loyalists who came to Nova Scotia from Hampshire.

Now Brand X Is on Market

Montgomery Advertiser

It was inevitable; now it's official. A Brand X cigaret will soon be marketed by two advertising men who concluded the constant comparison of cigarets to be designated "Brand X" on TV and in magazines was just too much much free advertising.

The slogan is a natural: "For the man who is satisfied with nothing less than second best," with the added assurance that "Brand X is the cigaret that remember it promises a little less."

Such reverse snobbery is intended for the man "who as a gentleman from Lion's Gate" president." There may not be many users of the cigaret, but the owners of Brand X don't mind many cigarets. Neither smokes or knows anything about producing cigarets but they found a man who packaged cigarets under a variety of labels. By changing labels and not a case they found a fag they thought they might like if they did smoke.

Shakespeare Said It Best

Hamilton Spectator

A clergyman recently questioned the right of doctors as he put it to "give transfusions after transfusion" to some person in the throes of dying, forcing them to linger through a few more days of purposeless suffering.

Many are all familiar with the zeal to save life which causes the administration of intravenous feeding to persons who have suffered a massive brain hemorrhage and is in the grip of twilight awaiting the merciful release of death. Sometimes physicians will forfeit such measures only to have hospital authorities compel them out in their desire to feel that they have done "everything" that was humanly possible to save life.

But he did with most subjects which engage the minds of men, Shakespeare spoke of this very situation, and in words whose eloquence can never be surpassed:

Yez not his ghost; O, let him pass!
He hates him much
That would upon the rack of this tough world
Stretch him out longer.

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

10 YEARS AGO

December 5, 1950

The Belleville Branch of the Red Cross reports the following shipments to Toronto for hospital supplies, knitted supplies and new refugee clothing during the month of November; 20 cartons containing hospital supplies; 24 pairs pyjamas, 12 sheets, 10 pillow cases, 12 surgical towels, 6 hospital gowns, 60 khaki mkfds, 33 face cloths; new refugee clothing; 205 sleepers, 10 pyjamas, 25 night gowns, 31 skirts, 33 quilts, 3 blankets, 6 dresses, 15 pairs bloomers.

Voluntary expert sewers are greatly needed at once to assist in making coats for 14-year-old Flagfiu girls whose parents lost the warm clothing through German bombings.

Anticipating the earliest and longest hockey season in years the Belleville Minor Hockey Association issued a call for the registration of players to be held at the YMCA on Monday evening next. Teen-aged boys who are not yet 18 and who are desirous of playing hockey during the coming season must also apply in person at the YMCA on Monday night prepared to sign registration cards as the Association encourages all players to keep the league schedule late next week.

December 8, 1920

A largely attended meeting was held in the city hall to discuss Commission and City Management plans for the government for the city of Belleville. The meeting was under the auspices of the Board of Lion's Club and the president, J. L. R. Gorman, presided. The special speaker was ex-Mayor J. E. Carter of Guelph. At the close of the address a resolution favouring the scheme was moved by Lt.-Col. Lorne Ponton and seconded by ex-Mayor H. F. Ketcheson. Prior to the meeting Mr. Carter was entertained at Hotel Quinte by representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, city council, the Lions' club and Rotary Club. President J. L. R. Gorman presided and speeches were made by Mayor Riggs, Ald. Bone, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Mr. W. H. Benson, vice-president of the Rotary Club. Community singing was led by Ernest Dickens with Harold Wotten at the piano and vocal solos were rendered by Harold Barrett, all of whom are members of the Lions Club.

At a meeting of Oxford Lodge, Sons of ..., and the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: vice-president, Thomas Lewis; recording secretary, John Fenn; treasurer, Alfred W. London; chaplain, R. J. Johnston; committee, Messrs. H. D. Ford, W. Adamson, E. J. Follwell, Percy Fisher; inside guard, W. Stapley; outside guard, James Riggs; recording secretary to Col. Cox, auditing, W. J. Ridley, R. Tray and J. Lemmon; delegate to Orphant. J. Vickers and James Riggs.

Last evening the fine frame and store residence of Mr. Thomas G. Lewis, which was one of the country's oldest landmarks, situated at Avondale, Thurlow, was completely destroyed by fire. The property was known as the Clarke property and was over 100 years old. The cause of the fire is yet unknown.

Last evening a very pleasant social event took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bell, Bridge street, when a number of their friends assembled to spend a social evening. The evening was spent in music and games of various kinds, and at a late hour refreshments were served. Those present were Misses Bessie Bell, Mary Bell, Ethel Bell, Mary Bell, Ethel Bell, Mary Bell, Ethel

Non-Slip Type of Wax Used On Floors of County Home To Reduce Accident Hazard

Whether or not slippery floors contributed to the accident hazard for elderly patients at county homes, was a question asked in Hastings county council Wednesday.

Reeve William Shannon of Marmora village raised the question following the reading of the county home report by Deloro Reeve Carl Whittemore. The question was not asked in the way of criticism, the Marmora reeve assured.

Hastings county home superintendent Kenneth York said he did not recall any accidents at the home directly attributable to slippery floors, although he did admit the finish of floors in the newer type rooms would be more slippery than in old homes.

At the Hastings home a special non-slip type of wax was used, and this tended to reduce accident hazards as much as possible.

The home report showed that the county home was filled to capacity with a waiting list. Originally the home had been intended for 175 beds, but by utilizing other rooms, as many as 216 patients had been accommodated.

The infirmary wing had been intended for 24 patients but there were now 53 in this wing.

Mr. Whittemore said his committee was currently investigating the installation of an emergency power system at the home to provide electricity in case of a hydro failure. Details were not yet completed, but it was expected the installation could conceivably cost as much as $8,000.

WEED INSPECTOR REPORTS

Other reports heard yesterday by councillors included that of the weed inspector, Harry Coulter. Mr. Coulter said that 336 miles (one side) of road had been sprayed at a cost of $2,686 for labor and materials.

He emphasized the importance of farm crop spraying and said this was increasing every year.

Wild carrot, chickory, ragweed, yellow rocket and nodding thistle were said to be still the most troublesome weeds in the county with weed problems arising principally from vacant lots and farms where owners are working in factories.

Finance committee chairman Reeve Douglas E. Spencer of Tweed presented his committee's report. The report noted a grant of $626 had been approved for the United Appeal, indigent hospital accounts paid to date this year totalled $12,625.

He noted the auditing firm of Fred Page Higgins Company was asking for an increase in salary for auditing 1969 books. Two representatives from the firm appeared before council outlining the reasons for the requested increase.

The audit cost for 1968 was $1,050 and $1,200 is being asked for this year.

INCREASE DENIED

Later in council the request of the auditing firm for an increase for this year's work was denied.

Council felt that under the circumstances the auditing firm should complete the year's work at the price which had been tendered.

Harry Pound presented the agricultural and reforestation committee report with the report of the juvenile and family court committee and the Children's Aid Society representatives were present by Bancroft Reeve A. R. Brown.

He noted family court costs for the first nine months of the year were $3,284, of which $2,407 was assessed against the county and $2,756 against the city.

The cost of C.A.S. maintenance for the first 10 months of the year was given as $73,000, this including the cost of the preventive worker amounting to $8,000.

It was noted the county was paying for 101 children in care of the society.

There was considerable discussion on agency matters, it being noted by Warden Earl Sager that the number of children in care of the society for which the county is financially responsible was down this year as compared to last year.

On the other hand there had been an increase in the number of children from the city of Belleville, while Trenton had remained about the same.

County clerk Eric Deeves noted that annexation may have been responsible to some extent for the change in the figures.

NO ACTION TAKEN

No action was taken on a request from the Trenton Memorial Hospital for a 1971 grant and the matter was laid over until the January session.

Last spring the county voted a grant to the Trenton hospital and named Reeve Wilmot Rose of Frankford, as county representative on the hospital board.

Yesterday, however, Reeve Rose told council that he had not attended the meetings since May, when he was advised that the board of the Trenton hospital board did not provide for a board member from Hastings.

Reeve Holt of Stirling noted that if the Trenton hospital expected a county grant there should be a county representative on the board.

ASKS FOR GRANT

Two members of the Hastings County Tuberculosis Association, W. Harry Rollins and Frank Lang, appeared before council asking for a 1971 grant to assist in the Association work. The county normally votes a grant of $500.

Mr. Lang told council that due to heavier expenditures than usual the Association had operated in the red this year. Tuberculin tests of school children in Belleville and area was part of the Association's program, council was told.

Plans for a Hastings county museum was progressing favorably according to a communication received by council from the Hastings County Historical Society.

The proposal is to use the county registry office for a museum and if the necessary approval is received from the county, the city of Belleville and the town of Trenton plans are to open the museum next summer. The museum would be eligible for a government grant to assist in its operation.

Move to Licence School Bus Drivers Fails

A resolution calling for medical examination and special licensing of school bus drivers failed to get past the discussion stage in Hastings County Council Wednesday.

Reeve James W. Holt of Stirling introduced the motion noting that tragedies such as that at Lacombe, Alberta, which claimed 17 lives, made it imperative that the safety of children riding to school in buses should be our first concern.

But councillors felt generally that Ontario laws already afforded adequate protection. All that was necessary, it was claimed, was to see that present regulations were rigidly enforced.

Several councillors noted that Ontario Provincial Police carried out regular inspection of buses while it was also made certain that drivers were competent.

Warden Earl Sager commented it was unfortunate that in many instances it took a tragedy such as that at Lacombe before it was made certain that safety regulations were completely carried out.

Reeve Wilmot Rose of Frankford carried the discussion a little further when he criticized the departments concerned for slowness of action following requests for railway crossing signal lights.

He referred to a dangerous crossing in his village where the tracks were obscured by a curving roadway on a hill. He said it seemed that accidents had to get killed before action was taken.

With the compliments of the Safety Supply Company of Toronto, Fire Chief Gerald Vance was presented this morning with one of the first firemen's safety helmets made in Canada. Previously firemen's helmets have been imported from England or the U.S.A. Company representative William Bowes is seen making the presentation to the Belleville fire chief.

Music Teachers View Teaching Materials

The regular meeting of the Ontario Registered Music Teachers' Association was held recently at the home of Mrs. Emily Valley, with Mr. John Withers, president, in the chair.

There was a short business meeting and plans for the next meeting were discussed. At the first meeting of the new year, Mr. George Cox, of Brantford, president of the Ontario Music Teachers' Association, is expected to be present and speak to the teachers. This should be of special interest to all teachers.

Mrs. Veley, treasurer, was asked to send a donation from the Belleville Branch to the Mary Willan Schoolership Fund, all the teachers feeling that this was a worthy cause.

All members were happy to welcome into active membership of the Association, two teachers, Mrs. G. Sidney Martin, Frankford and Mrs. G. M. Stratton, Belleville, also an interim member, Mrs. Peter Paivio, Belleville.

A large quantity of teaching material, including sight reading and ear training books had been sent from the Frederick Harris Co. and the Gordon V. Thompson Co. and these had been placed on display so that all teachers could peruse them. A goodly portion of the afternoon was spent in a study of these materials and the kindness of these companies in sending them was appreciated—as well as the time the hostess had spent in arranging them.

At conclusion of meeting, a social time was enjoyed.

Tabernacle United Church Sponsors Delightful 'Frosty Fair'

One of the finest bazaars ever held this season took place at Tabernacle United Church under the convenorship of Mrs. A. E. Cornish and Mrs. H. Burry, yesterday afternoon, with an interested and patronized members and friends.

In having the fancy outside site, one immediately stepped into a fairy-like atmosphere as the stalactite cave with its pendant simulated tissue icicles in pale blue and white which adorned the entrance hall and beautified the tea room, blotting out the antips ceiling.

Round about the walls, adding a further delightful note to this "Frosty Fair," were silvered sprays of snowsword, blue snowflakes, and a mural depicting silver-haloed angels with spreading wings.

TEA ROOM

The tea room was marked by a cascade of snowsword with pale grey chairs, and an entrance modified by two crowded red cedars. Each little guest table was covered with a snow-white cloth, centred by a piece of white driftwood holding a tiny Christmas tree with miniature globes in silver, sapphire-blue, gold and crimson.

The twin tea tables were lovely in the simplicity of their appointments with centres of silvered Scotch pine tufts, scarlet poinsettias and silvered tree-like sprays of mosswood. Tall silver and white candelabra adorned the Yuletide accent.

On the platform, a tall evergreen, sparsely silvered, almost hid the mighty organ, at which Mrs. J. B. Ledingham, church organist, presided, rendering quiet music at delightful overall atmosphere.

SELLING

Receiving the guests were Mrs. M. G. McFarlane, wife of the pastor, the Reverend M. G. McFarlane, and Mrs. Harold Anderson, assisted by Messrs. Albert Avery, Lew Andrews, John Andrews and Earl Shepherd, assisting Mrs. McFarlane were: Mrs. H. Burry, Mrs. F. Kerr and Mrs. A. E. Cornish.

The various booths of attractive interest attended in the adjoining Sunday School rooms, each one decorated in Yuletide theme. A new venture was that of the Welcome booth, where gifts of all types of colorful hand-pressed candles for decorative effects were to be had; driftwood and replaces with candle; silver sea-shell pin dish which grew from pretty colors as they burn; paper lace ornaments, and baskets of delicious candies. The booth was placed at the left

Way to Fold Altar Linen Told Society

The quarterly meeting of The Altar Society of St. Joseph's parish was held last week in the Young Ladies' Parish Society.

The President, Mrs. Marion Panting, requested that a special vote of thanks be given to Mrs. Jean Armstrong and Mrs. Helen Clark for their constant help in church cleaning. New officers and new councillors will be nominated in January.

The president requested that special attention to be given to the recipe book project that it be finished this year. And also as the continuous bridge and euchre has started and will run till April, it was hoped that all would try to make this even a more successful project than last year. Good prizes are on hand for winners so all were urged to participate. Mrs. Anton has also been working on a special project since the bazaar, making felt shoe bags and decorating them for sales. It was also stated that a program convener will be elected for next year in an attempt to attract more members to the meetings.

Mrs. R. Hawkins gave a short demonstration and talk on the method of folding the altar linens.

The Spiritual director, the Rev. J. J. Buckley gave an interesting talk on The History and Use of Candles, Symbolic of the Burning Light of Christ and Faith, in the church.

Club Activities

WOOLER W. I.

WOOLER — The December meeting of the Wooler Mission Band met on Sunday morning, December 4th in the church basement, with a good attendance.

Mrs. N. Crosby, Mrs. P. Smith and Mrs. A. Putnam were in charge.

The meeting was opened and the Scripture lesson was read by Katharine Down, taken from Luke 2: 1-20.

The study book story was read and discussed by the leader, Mrs. Putnam, relating to the Christmas story.

A game was enjoyed by the children.

Each child received the December copy of "World Friends," and the meeting was brought to a close.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers

Louise A. — I can't bear being uprooted again.

Alfred A. — Is she with me or against me?

Louise A. — A woman marries for a home, but I'm beginning to feel that the only way I'll ever get a home is to get unmarried. Imagine moving five times in ten years and now Alfred asks me to pack again!

I feel within my rights to take a firm stand now. Either he finds some other work or he moves without me and the children even if it leads to a legal separation. If he really loved us he wouldn't even ask us every time a start to feel like part of a neighborhood.

Think of what it means to me and the children to have to start making new friends again. At Junior is particularly timid and it was such a victory for him to be admitted to the Cub Scout troop here.

I'm tired of trying to fit old curtains on new windows and planting things I can never watch grow. At last I have the things that really matter—a home and friends. Alfred shouldn't ask me to leave them again.

Alfred A. — If Louise acting like a wife or a Chamber of Commerce? I agree that's my present reply is cruel, but I've been offered the assistant manager's berth in a brand new factory out of town, while here I'm a floor foreman. It's a big step for me, and she should be jumping for joy.

What's true we've moved pretty often, the first two homes were to have more room for the children. We didn't leave our home state until I started to work for this company six years ago. They have many branch offices and want you to circulate for about 10 years before they assign you to one where you can hope to put down stakes.

Louise knows this. It may be hard on her and the kids to have to drop old ties and dig up new ones every few years, but if she'll only play along with the company another ten years or so, her reward will come. She'll be the wife of a regional executive. And regional executives in our outfit are resident executive. They stay put.

Whatever is good for me is good for Louise and the children, if she goes back on me now, she'll be reneging as both wife and a mother.

The Council: Before making her final decision, Louise must be reminded of the true meaning of the word "home." About 2,000 years ago, a roving Roman named Pilate said it was "where the heart is."

So if Louise stays behind and ends her marriage in order to hold on to a home, she may find herself with only a house, a building, a shelter, but no "home." In this highly mobile age where opportunity can spring up in any section of the country, a man on the way up must seize it. Instead of fretting that Louise must do the discontabulation, Louise might take a good look at the trust and hope in Alfred's eyes. That should make her take a deep breath, count three and then grin, "Here we go again!"

Of course the mechanics of moving are hard. And the emotional wrenching each time are painful. But, as Alfred promises, a settling-down period will come. Meanwhile, there's the compensation of seeing the world, which can make up for the temporary rootlessness, especially for the children.

We hope Louise straightens out her scale of values. At present she attaches undue weight to curtains, rosebushes and goldfish. All of these are replaceable, even if not duplicable. What a tragedy it would be for her to give up the irreplaceables — Alfred's love for her, a unique family for her children — for these!

Game — To Eat

By Mary Moore

A letter from Elizabeth S. asking a recipe from Ilse R. prompted this subject of game. Elizabeth wants ways of cooking rabbit. Ilse gives a recipe for cooking moosemeat.

The minority groups who are hunters should have some consideration here so today they are getting it.

Since I will give only one recipe for cooking rabbit I have chosen the one which is a general favorite.

SUNDAY

Baked Ham Slice in Milk; Pineapple Fritter; Brussels Sprouts; Hard Rolls; Crisp Lettuce, Cabbage and Cress (or Parsley Salad with Pickerike; French Dressing; Hot Fruit Soufflé (see Tuesday); Coffee.

HASEN PFEFFER: (Rabbit (stewed with Pepper)

2 cups water, 1-3 cup vinegar, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, 10 whole cloves, half of medium bay leaf, 10 whole black peppers, 1 dressed, cleaned average-sized rabbit, cut into serving pieces, 3 tablespoons butter or shortening, 1 medium onion, sliced, 1 1-2 tablespoons flour, 3 tablespoons water, 1-3 cup sour cream.

Prepare a marinade by combining first 7 ingredients in a saucepan. Heat to boiling point; cool. Place rabbit in an enamel or glass bowl and cover with the marinade. Cover bowl and set in refrigerator over night. Lift rabbit from liquid and drain slightly. Brown, turning frequently, in the hot butter over medium heat (about 15 minutes). Reduce heat and add 1-2 cup of the 2 cups strained marinade. Cover and simmer for 1 hour or until about tender. Add onion and a little more marinade and continue to simmer until rabbit is very tender. Make a paste of flour and water and stir thoroughly into rabbit liquid. Allow to boil 2 minutes. Stir in the sour cream. Blend thoroughly and heat just to boiling. Serve at once.

MOOSEMEAT SAUERBRATEN: (Courtesy Ilse R.)

Ilse says "I have just found a new way to perk up a moose roast with moosemeat being so dry. I have decided to make it like a "Sauerbraten". My grandmother did it lots of times with deer and rabbits.

You make a brine with 2 cups vinegar, 2 tablespoons brown sugar, 2 cups water, 6 or 8 peppercorns, 2 tablespoons salt, large onion and celery tops, one shredded carrot. Pour the whole thing over the meat in a big bowl or crock. Cover the meat with the onions. Let it stand 3 or 4 days, turning the meat once a day. Then roll the meat in flour and brown on top of the stove then add some of the brine (marinade) and simmer covered. In 2 hours flat it was done to perfection.

"I am so happy about remembering this old method why of tenderizing meat. Just had to let you know. Ilse R."

VENISON:

As Ilse has commented the same marinade method as above of treating and cooking moosemeat and rabbit may be used for venison also. Just excellent.

FORMAL INVITATION TO ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

Last week we covered invitations for informal wedding anniversary celebrations. I promised to go into the formal function, when the children of the couple join together as hosts. This invitation is difficult because some of the children may be married, others unmarried. How to indicate "who's who" is the problem. Actually it isn't necessary to worry about this! The following example of the formal, engraved invitation will show you why.

It should be engraved, in black ink, on a single card for it may be on a folded sheet of fine white paper, in which case the invitation itself is engraved on the front). The wording would be as follows:

In honor of
Mr. and Mrs.
John Philip Dow on the occasion of their fiftieth wedding anniversary their sons and daughters request the pleasure of your company at a reception on Monday, December twelfth at eight o'clock
The Star Hotel

Please respond to
Mrs. Daniel Robert Jones,
Fourteen twenty Second Street

It is most important that the request for a reply be included in the lower left-hand corner. The name of the person to whom it is to be addressed, and where it is to be sent, must be given. Usually the oldest daughter is the one to whom these acknowledgments are sent.

The recipients replying to such an invitation should use plain white stationery and handwrite it (never type). The wording and spacing should be somewhat as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. John Francis Proper accept with pleasure your kind invitation to a reception on Monday, December twelfth
at eight o'clock
The Star Hotel

The envelope is addressed to "Mrs. Daniel Robert Jones," the name given in the lower left-hand corner of the invitation. You will note that no mention is made of the names of the parents who are being honored on their

Club Activities

WEDDING RING CLUB

The Wedding Ring Club of College Hill United Church met in the church hall Monday evening with Carman Sine, president, presiding.

A Christmas carol was sung. It was decided to have a Christmas party December 12th, which will be in charge of Reg. Armstrong's group.

A fashion show of the latest clothes from Paris, London, and New York, were shown by Mr. Sine, Mr. Ritz, and Mr. McDonald. This was much enjoyed as Mrs. Dodds told of the clothes, scarves and purses to match.

Mrs. Eleanor Waite conducted some contests.

Mrs. Ritz read from the Bible the story of Jesus.

Five couples from the club attended the district rally at Picton on Sunday afternoon.

After lunch, Mrs. H. Thompson thanked the group in charge.

TWO KILLED

CORNWALL (CP)—Two men were killed Wednesday when their half-ton truck went out of control two miles west of Martintown, 18 miles northeast of here, and hit a tree. Dead are Remy Gauthier, 39, of Cornwall, a farmer, and Gauthier's hired man, as yet unidentified.

Cannifton-Corbyville WMS Hears Reports, Elects President

There was a good attendance of members at the December meeting of the Cannifton-Corbyville W.M.S. held at the home of Mrs. Douglas Brenton, Corbyville. Mrs. Brenton, as president, welcomed as guests, two ladies, who have recently joined the community.

The worship service was conducted by Mrs. Gerald Brenton, the subject being "Christmas". The story of Christ's Birth, as written in Luke's gospel, was read by Mrs. John Bottle, followed by the singing of appropriate hymns which included that lovely old carol, "Silent Night".

There was also a solo by Mrs. Fred Furnidge, appreciated by the ladies.

At the finish of the worship service, the meeting was taken over by Mrs. Roy Pound who gave for the study period a few messages from the book "Into All the World Together", to bring to the WMS notice of the different means of communication the church is using to carry its message around the world. The Mindolo Ecumenical Centre at Kitwe in the Copper Belt of Northern Rhodesia offers a three-to-six months' course in radio writing for young Africans. Christmas has begun to write and edit their own magazines.

MANY THINGS ACCOMPLISHED

The committee on world literature and Christian literature does many things; it unlocks the Bible for thousands by teaching men and women to read and assists in producing everything from mass-circulation magazines to theological texts. The United Churches share in this work in 1960 was $11,900 and study centres which help Christian leaders to work effectively among non-Christians are one of the projects of the International Missionary Council.

The contribution of the United Church toward the International Missionary Council annually amounts to approximately $8,000; the Christian radio station DYRR in Dumaguete City in the Philippines, has pioneered in the field as a supplementary teaching tool in both elementary and private schools.

SCHOOL OF THE AIR

Its "School of the Air" is highly valued. A private, non-commercial station like DYRR has an almost unlimited frontier in Christian broadcasting. The church is joining forces with churches of many traditions all around the world through such agencies. Together they can accomplish what none could do alone. That is what is meant by "ecumenical" co-operation. "Let us continue to do our part."

At the conclusion of the study period, Mrs. C. Bird presented the new "Bookshelf" which consisted of five new books.

A short business session followed in which the minutes were read by Mrs. G. Brenton and the treasurer's report given by Mrs. Roy Pound. Mrs. W. Brenton, supply secretary, stated that a second bale of used clothing had been sent overseas. During the past year, 120 tons of clothing had been sent to Korea and Libya by the United Church.

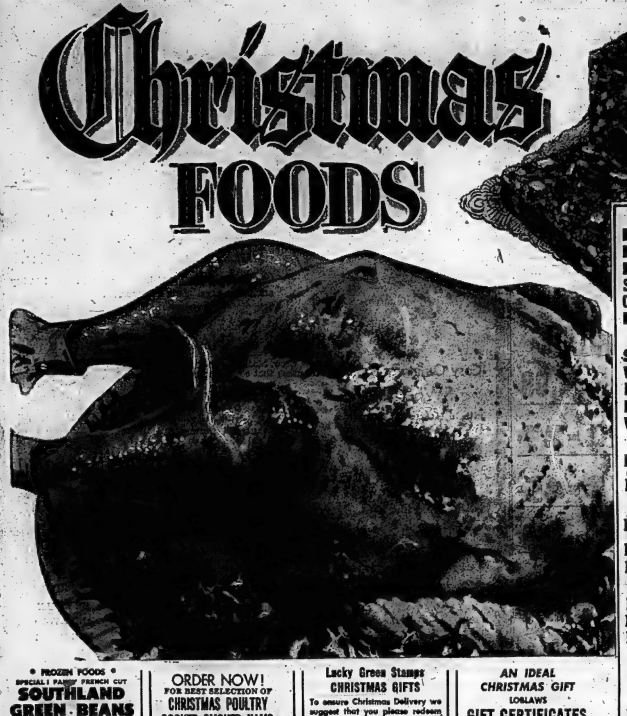
FRIENDSHIP REPORT

The friendship secretary gave her report. Mrs. W. Cole said that a total of 366 calls to sick friends had been made during the past year, also flowers and others to hospital patients.

Since this was the last meeting for Mrs. Brenton as president it was decided to elect a new president for the New Year. At first, the meeting was called to elect a new slate of officers, but after a brief discussion it was decided that the secretaries keep their present officers for another year, at which time, it was expected that the W.M.S. and the W.A. will amalgamate. Mrs. Harvey Putman was elected president for 1961 and it is hoped that all members will give her their whole-hearted support in the responsible position she has undertaken.

RETIRING PRESIDENT

The retiring president was thanked by Mrs. C. Bird, on behalf of all the members, for her loyal and untiring work during her years as president. The press secretary has been greatly helped by her words of encouragement and advice. In replay, Mrs. Brenton stated that she had enjoyed the work, but now felt that it was time for her to step down. After a year or so, she said, one's ideas became stale and she thought that someone with new ideas would be beneficial to the group. She promised to give Mrs. Putman all the help she could in her new capacity as president and said she felt that Mrs. Putman would make a splendid leader.



After the meeting closed, a brief social time followed with the hostess, Mrs. Douglas Brenton and her daughter, together with Mesdames Willis Brenton, Harry Brenton and Gerald Brenton, serving a delicious lunch.

Mrs. Boyd was the pianist throughout the service.

KING OF BALL

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Ian Morrish was crowned King of the Ball at the University of Western Ontario School of Administration's annual dance by Mrs. F. W. P. Jones, wife of the dean. The winner, in defeating three other candidates in a two-week campaign based his platform on the superiority of goat's milk over beer. The four candidates were rated secretly by a girl they all dated previous to the ball.

"Quality at Fair Prices"

"Lines on Life"

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

We live in a psychological age. At every turn, we are reminded that something has gone wrong with the mind of men. Almost every problem analyzed from the point of view of our mental attitude; usually we are told that there is something wrong with our minds.

It is time, however, to speak about the positive side of the mind of man. Men's minds, indeed can play tricks on them. When this happens, therapy is needed. But man has also within his power a great and dynamic instrument. Man can use his mind constructively; he can utilize his imagination to help solve problems even before they might arise. Of all the faculties of the human being, there is none to compare with the strength of a good mind at work.

What is at the heart of our mental strength?

Have you ever seen UNIVAC at work? What makes it so appealing and so interesting a phenomenon? Simply this: We have produced mechanically an instrument which can store up facts and figures in such a way as to rival a human being. In a single machine like UNIVAC you have the equivalent of thousands of people's minds at work, all of them trying to store up facts and figures to be utilized precisely when needed. Its power of memory, of storing up data is a very helpful and very significant one. If man himself did not have this power, oddly enough he could not create a machine which does have it. But one thing UNIVAC lacks that only man possesses. UNIVAC does not have a heart; therefore it does not feel anything. It can recall only the cold facts which the operator has put into the machine.

Yet even a single human mind has something more; because it has something else to aid it. For the memory of man is not restricted to cold, objective, impartial statistics. It can also revive and re-live beautiful moods, exalted insights, sentiments, feelings of wonder, strange excitement and beauty.

Our minds have the power to keep alive those who are no longer with us. When we use this power, we give meaning to immortality; there is significance to the hope that "love never dies."

When we fail to use the creative power of sweet memory, those who have left us, die a second death. It is an affront to the living, no less than to the dead, to be forgotten. To be remembered means that we are, and will forever remain, insignificant; that living or dying, we have made no dent upon anyone—not even upon those whom we have loved.

It has been well said that there is nothing we can do for the dead except remember them. If we do not remember them —nothing else really matters. The costliest funerals, the most elaborate caskets are gimpty and vacuous conspicuous displays — if we fail our loved ones, by not offering them the only gift we have in our power to give: the gift of memory.

PARTING GIFT

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP)—Members of the board of the Public General Hospital here did not know whether to be happy or sad when Mrs. D. E. Bothwell retired after two years service as the representative of the Junior Hospital League. Her parting gift was a cheque for $1,000 to be used for the purchase of new equipment.

THOMASBURG W.A.

THOMASBURG — On Wednesday, November 23, the pupils and teacher of the junior room of Thomasburg Public School, were served a hot dinner in the vestry of the United Church by the members of the W.A., the committee in charge being Mrs. Harold A. Morton, Mrs. Gordon Boldrick and Mrs. Harold K. Morton.

The regular meeting of the session followed at 2 p.m.

Mrs. K. E. Carter was in charge of the devotional and program part, of the meeting.

The election of officers for the year 1961 concluded the meeting.

The Christmas meeting will take place at the parsonage.

A sale of machinery and livestock of the late Ambrose Emerson who passed away suddenly at the result of a heart attack, took place on Wednesday afternoon, November 23, 1960. A good crowd attended and the various articles offered brought good prices.

Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Cheney of Ottawa, were overnight guests of Miss Emma Porter, last week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Morton spent a couple of days in Toronto, Ont., last week and Mrs. J. E. Bateman of Tweed stayed with her grandchildren while Mr. and Mrs. Morton were away.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Prindle spent Sunday in Kingston.

Miss Sharon Vance of Ontario Teachers' College, Peterborough, is practice teaching at Sulphide Public School, this week.

Mr., Mrs. Harold Rupert Mark 25th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rupert, R.R. 6, Belleville, were at home to about 45 of their friends, neighbors and relatives who called to offer congratulations and best wishes on the occasion of their recent 25th wedding anniversary.

The house was attractively decorated for the occasion with wedding bells and streamers of pink and white. A three-tier wedding cake, white was decorated by the bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. George F. Youker, made a lovely centrepiece for the dining room table.

While conversing and enjoying social time together, the couple were tendered a rousing charivari which brought back memories of 25 years ago.

They were the recipients of many lovely cards and gifts, including a chest of silver and lace dinner cloth from the family; also a silver tea service given them by their near neighbors of the third line, as well as numerous other gifts from relatives and friends.

Later in the evening, a buffet luncheon was served to the guests by members of their family and friends, and all returned home wishing the couple many more years of happiness together.

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of the W.M.S. of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Everett Stratton on the afternoon of December 1st, with an attendance of 18. Mrs. Charles Wood, president, welcomed all, especially the three visitors, and read a poem, "Love Came Down at Christmas."

After the opening hymn, Mrs. Arthur Houston, Mrs. Asa Cook, group leader, took charge and gave the invocation and had the worship service given in the "Missionary Monthly." The Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. Frank Dorrator from Matthew 12, the story of the wise and foolish virgins.

Mrs. W. Ross read a poem, "They Learn of Jesus". Mrs. Arthur Houston gave a reading entitled, "Portraits of Grandchildren." Mrs. Cook read "Missions in the Homeland," and thanked her group for their help. The president thanked Mrs. Cook and her group for the program and lunch and took charge of the business.

Notes of thanks for cards of sympathy were read from Mrs. Orval Stration at the time of her sister's death and one from Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reid at the time of his father's passing.

Mrs. Wood showed a sample of aprons sewn and it was decided to have them at one dollar a pair, the profit for W.M.S. funds.

Mrs. Charles Keirl, secretary of Christian stewardship, read a letter from Mrs. H. M. Davis, telling that the missionary for special prayer this year is Joyce M. Facey, of Glace Bay, N.S.

Mrs. Will Kerr gave her treasurer's report and also reported on the two sessions of the rally held at Hamilton in November. She was assisted by Mrs. W. D. Robertson, who read the hymns used at the rally. Both ladies were thanked by the president by a hearty handclap.

Mrs. Demorn Hinchey reported for the nominating committee. A donation of $5 was gratefully received from Miss Marie Emmons of Belleville.

The hostess and her assistants served refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

Mrs. Asa Cook kindly offered her home for the next meeting on January 5th, 1961.

Madoc W.I. Hears Talk On 'Weaving'

MADOC — The November meeting of the Madoc Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. R. Lewis with a good attendance.

The president, Mrs. George McCrimmon opened the meeting.

During the business period it was decided to send a Christmas basket to the Home for the Aged in Belleville and for the next meeting each member is having a box of cookies or candy for this project also bring a 50c gift to be exchanged.

GUEST SPEAKER

The guest speaker was Miss L. Connor, who spoke on weaving and gave a demonstration and showed some samples which were most interesting and educational.

The meeting closed and a social half hour was enjoyed.

The next meeting is at Mrs. K. Nicol's, on December 15.

Sponsored by the Women's Guild of Holy Trinity Church of Shannonville the euchre party held at the home of Mrs. B. Spencer, for the Recarded Children's Association was a great success.

The winners were: ladies 1st, Mrs. Treas, Mrs. B. Houston; consolation — Miss Mary Hall; men 1st, B. Spencer; Mr. Pickle; consolation, M. Pringle; lone hand — Mrs. A. Williams.

The winner of the hamper of groceries was Mr. Sinfield, of Belleville.

The members of the Women's Guild extend thanks to all who assisted in any way to make this party such a success for so worthy a cause.

Women's Institute

CANNIFTON-CORBYVILLE W.I.

Monday evening the members of Canniffon-Corbyville W.I. met at the home of Mrs. C. Hiscs, 3rd concession Thurlow.

Mrs. Hiscs graciously welcomed each one of as she arrived.

The president, Mrs. C. Ellsworth, presided.

The members remained standing while Mrs. Ellsworth offered prayer for the sick and speedy recovery of one of the institute members, who had undergone surgery that morning. Twelve members answered the roll, there were also five visitors present.

A card of thanks was received from the Lyons family.

Mrs. Weller gave a Christmas poem and reported on the meeting held at Foxboro where the various branches met to make plans re concession at ploughing match in 1961, much of the ground work was covered and the next meeting is to be held at Mrs. C. Reid's in January. The branch is to look after the purchasing of vegetables.

It was decided to make candy for sale at Christmas.

Collection, $2.10 and flower fund 50c.

Refreshments and a social time brought the evening to a close.

"Quality at Fair Prices"

Informal Evening

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE

A beautiful blouse and a graceful skirt can add up to a becoming and suitable outfit for informal late afternoon and evening use.

Here is an overblouse important enough for such an occasion. It is of silk satin in white, gold or black.

The blouse has a wide-open V neck and is semi-fitted with a half belt that ties in front. The back is not shaped to the figure. It can be worn with a narrow skirt or with one of the new pleated types.

To accompany such a blouse and skirt might be a dressy pump of suede with a draped satin bow set on the vamp slipped through a pleated tab.

United Church Women' Topic At WMS-WA

TWEED — A combined meeting of the W.A. and W.M.S. of St. John's United Church was held on the afternoon of Nov. 17th, in the church hall.

The president of the W.A., Mrs. Don Palmateer, was in the chair and she opened the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. Lorrie thanked the ladies for their help at the pancake tea.

The nominating committee were appointed from both organizations.

The opening worship service was in charge of Mrs. Don Martin and following the singing of a hymn, the Scripture was read by Mrs. John Rands. Readings were given by Mrs. Lincoln Elliott, "The Revised Church Schools," and "The Lamp and I", by Mrs. Stanley Webb, also "Choose" by Mrs. Don Martin.

Mrs. C. C. Alton, WMS president, introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. G. Dobbs of Belleville, who had attended the Jubilation General Council at Edmonton. She mentioned that by January 1st, 1961, all women of the church will be united in one effort and will be known as the "United Church Women of Canada." The purpose is to unite all women for the total mission of the church and to provide a medium for the expression of loyalty and devotion in Christian witness study and fellowship missionary givings.

The "World Friends" publication will be continued, but the Missionary Monthly and the W.A. Bulletin will be incorporated.

Mrs. S. R. Defoe thanked the speaker on behalf of the WMS, the WA and the Evening Auxiliary.

Christmas Concert

RYLSTONE S.S.

RYLSTONE — On Friday evening, December 2, the congregation of Rylstone United Church and Sunday School held their annual supper and Christmas entertainment. Over 90 men, women and children enjoyed the bountiful supper, in the church kitchen, and while the last of them were being served the folk were entertained by Mrs. Harry Seymour and Mrs. Will Rutherford with games and guessing.

The church was decorated with Christmas bells and wreaths and a pretty Christmas tree graced the dais at the front of the church. Two baskets of flowers in memory of Mrs. Will Allan, were lovely on the altar and piano.

Mr. Harry Seymour was chairman for the following program, almost entirely put on by the children:

"The Christmas Story," by Mr. Seymour; vocal duet, "Silver Bells," by Lynne and Suzanne Spencer with Marilyn Stewart at the piano; song by the intermediate class, "Ring, Merry Bells, Ring," with piano accompaniment by Marilyn Stewart; recitation by Craig Finch; recitation duo, "Dear Santa," by Johnny and Douglas Spencer; vocal trio, "Listen To the Bells," by Lynne, Suzanne and aKthy Thomson, with piano accompaniment by their mother, Mrs. Clarence Thomson; recitations by Dougie and Lynn McSkimbin, Beth Anderson and Morley Finch; song, "Star of Bethlehem," by Jimmie and Lisle Finch with Barbara Miles as accompanist; Mrs. Harry Seymour recited a Christmas poem and Barbara Miles rendered a piano solo, "The Bluebird."

Santa Claus paid a visit and distributed gifts to all the little folk. Gifts for attendance and Scripture memory work were awarded the Sunday School prize.

Mothers' Scout Aux. Plans F.S Banquet

The 1st Canniffon - Corbyville Scout Mothers Auxiliary's December meeting was held in Canniffon Church Sunday School room on December 5th.

Mrs. Kemper, president, opened the meeting and Mrs. Stevenson, secretary, read a letter of thanks from Mrs. Hands for flowers sent during her stay in Belleville Hospital. She reported her baby doing nicely.

It was announced that December 16th would be a Joint Christmas party for Cubs and Scouts, it was also decided that in lieu of a home-bake sale each mother would bring $1 to the January meeting.

Mrs. Furmidge instructed Mrs. Stevenson to send a thank you note to Mr. George MacDonald of Corby's for granting the Auxiliary the use of the cafeteria for the Cub and Scouts euchre party.

Plans were made for a father and son banquet to be held in February.

Mrs. Furmidge reminded members to bring used postage stamps for blind and injured Cubs and Scouts.

Mrs. Furmidge gave an interesting reading on "posting."

Everyone enjoyed a sing-song of Christmas carols, and a rousing game of musical chairs with Mrs. Coxon as winner.

Mrs. Kerr and Mrs. Stewart invited everyone to the dining table which was tastefully decorated with a Christmas motif and Yule log and candles. Christmas cake and coffee were served.

While all were seated at the table, Mrs. Stewart, acting as Santa, distributed the Christmas gifts. Mrs. Furmidge wished everyone a Merry Christmas and the best for the New Year.

Critics Pan Play Written By Canadian

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK (CP) — Theatre-goers welcomed Love and Libel, a Canadian comedy, to Broadway Wednesday night but there were strained smiles among the critics.

The three-act play written by Robertson Davies and directed by Tyrone Guthrie received warm applause at The Martin Beck Theatre — the producers said it was the best reception so far in the life of the play which already has been seen in Toronto, Detroit and Boston.

But the critics gave the production some rough treatment.

Howard Taubman of the New York Times wrote:

"Mr. Davies has a lively mind. Love and Libel carries an undertone of sharp comment on the thoughts and folkways of people in a university and cathedral town in Canada. But his writing style is arch, and his humor is unimpressively literary."

TELLS OF SUIT

The action revolves around a fake marriage announcement of a forthcoming union between members of two families that have been feuding for years. This results in a libel suit and there are innumerable complications before love does, in fact, unite the couple whose marriage plans had been fictitiously announced and the libel is cancelled out.

One feature is the action of an old rumpot—Dennis King—who dispenses earthy wisdom while trying to hold his job as a cathedral organist.

The play is based on the novel Leaven of Malice by the bearded avia, who is editor and publisher of the Peterborough Examiner as well as being an author and playwright.

There is an amusing interlude when a psychologist or guidance counsellor, who calls himself a humanistic engineer, tries twice to explain subtle facts of life to a gruff, short-tempered classics professor. The professor later becomes the butt of another point when his daughter complains she is the victim of a mixed marriage—"My mother is Catholic and my father is a classics professor."

'LACKS ORGANIZATION'

Walter Kerr of the New York Herald Tribune wrote that the sophistication of the author of Love and Libel is "unmistakable and sometimes jolly" but he considered the play a "curious series of odd-ball musings" that lacked organization.

William Glover, Associated Press drama critic, wrote that the play was "skittish in concept."

Kerr receives plaudits from the critics and others in the cast specially mentioned are: Madeleine Christie, Scottish-born star making her North American debut; Leo Leyden, ubiquitous star of the CBC and other productions; English-born Laurence Hardy as the Cowdrey professor; Robert Christie of Toronto; Corrine Conley, wife of Canadian actor - producer Bonar Stuart; John Milligan of Vancouver; and Gene Saks as the human relations engineer.

Glover commented: "Nothing serious, mind you, but this Love and Libel does get a strain on Canadian - American theatrical amity.

"The item—play seems too precise a word—unveiled last night on the Martin Beck's stage. Half the evening is gone before individual scenes and action snatches of coherent appeal or amusement emerge from the theopic fog."

Train Plows Into Gas Truck Six Are Killed

NASHUA, N.H. (AP)—A commuter train travelling at 70 miles an hour plowed into a loaded gasoline truck at a railroad crossing Wednesday.

Six persons, including an entire family of four, were killed. More than 30 of the 50 passengers aboard the Boston - bound train were injured.

The collision set off a series of deafening explosions that blew the small truck to bits and started a fire that raced through the single - car, self - propelled train.

The victims included the truck driver, his wife and two infant children, the train's conductor and a law clerk.

Passengers on the flame-filled train screamed in terror as the car hurtled more than a quarter of a mile down the tracks before the engineer could bring it to a halt. Many plunged from the train, which did not leave the rails.

Crofton

CROFTON — Mrs. E. Crook spent Wednesday with her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. W. Salisbury, at Belleville.

Mrs. George Hutson spent a couple of weeks with her sister Mrs. Gertrude Patterson, at Burlington and other relatives at Hamilton and Guelph.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Anderson, of Hoff's Island, called on Mrs. E. Crook, on Friday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Moran called on Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Munro and Keith, on Wednesday evening.

Mr. George Hutson spent a couple of weeks with his daughter, and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sharp and Dennis at Roslin.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gray and odsyrD otoeconr- no^iP and boys of Deseronto, were Sunday guests of their mother, Mrs. W. J. Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lefort and family.

Mr. and Mrs. John Grey and family spent the weekend with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Salker and Clifford, at Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Crook and Mr. Malcolm Allen were the hour guests of Mrs. E. Crook on Sunday.

ECONOMISTS

Mr. Coyne has been criticized for not increasing Canada's money supply and thus reducing interest rates. He has said the supply is adequate and that an increase would bring inflation.

M. C. Eastman, assistant professor of economics at the University of Toronto, said a letter bearing the signatures should reach Finance Minister Fleming today. The minister has been informed of the letter by phone.

Copies of the letter are being sent to every university in Canada, Professor Eastman said, to gather more signatures.

Asked in an interview about the contents of the letter, he said:

"It is an expression of opinion of the signatories.

"It says we have lost confidence in the ability of the Bank of Canada, under its present management, to ameliorate and resolve current difficulties in Canada, notably in the domestic economy and in the field of export trade."

SAID COYNE RESPONSIBLE

He said Mr. Coyne is named specifically "because, after all, he is governor and therefore responsible for the bank's actions."

"And he has also been making public statements which have alarmed certain people."

He said it would be premature to name the signatories since the letter had not yet reached Mr. Coyne.

REASONS NOT EXPANDED

The economist did not spell out the reasons for their lack of confidence in the central bank.

Mr. Coyne, whose seven-year term expires Dec. 31, 1962, has contended in the past year that Canadians are living beyond their means.

He said Canada's heavy deficit balance of payment with other countries was evidence of this. He called for less borrowing abroad, increased saving at home and the replacement of imports with domestically-manufactured goods.

Mr. Coyne, appointed governor Jan. 1, 1955, according to the Bank of Canada Act, holds office "during good behavior."

Eichmann Closely Guarded In His Tel Aviv Prison

By ARYE WALLENSTEEN

TEL AVIV, Israel (Reuters)—Everywhere the prisoner goes two guards follow, watching his every move.

The men never speak—their only communication is in sign language. A light shines constantly in the prisoner's cell and the guards work in shifts keeping watch, one inside and one outside the bars.

The mild-mannered appearance of the prisoner in his open-necked shirt and khaki trousers scarcely seems to warrant giving him so much attention. Even those who know his identity find it difficult to believe that the middle-aged prisoner is Adolf Eichmann, accused mass murderer of millions of Jews during the Second World War.

The constantly - burning light and the double guard are part of the elaborate security precautions Israel has taken to make sure Eichmann faces justice when he comes to trial sometime next year. Constantly haunting Israeli officials is the memory of Hermann Goering cheating the gallows by swallowing poison in his prison cell at Nuremberg.

WATCHED CONSTANTLY

The prisoner is kept in the innermost compartment of the grey-walled "Taggart fortress" in a cell about 20 by 13 feet.

An unarmed guard is permanently stationed inside the room, furnished only with bare necessities: A bed, a table, a chair. Outside, within sight and sound of the prisoner, an armed guard is on duty around the clock.

The only sunlight that enters the room is through a small, iron-barred window high up on the wall.

Each morning, Eichmann is led to the adjoining bathroom. The mirror which he is allowed for shaving is made of metal.

The razor given him is that of his guards. At meal times, a guard goes to the communal kitchen, picks up any of the many plates ready for prison personnel and takes it to the prisoner.

LONG CELL

As part of his daily routine, Eichmann scrubs the floor of his room, which he keeps spotlessly clean.

Occasionally, he washes his clothes in the bathroom, again under close watch from two guards.

Eichmann's only relaxation comes during brief periods of reading — light German-language reading provided from his police library.

He takes his daily exercise in a small courtyard specially fenced-in for his use.

The guards detailed to watch Eichmann form a tight unit, whose members are virtually cut off from the rest of the world. They were carefully checked and screened before being appointed and one of the qualifications for the job was that they must not have relatives in Germany.

A simple sign language is used to convey both orders and requests. Thus, when Eichmann wants his glasses, he draws a circle around his eyes with his finger. When Eichmann has finished reading, a guard takes them away again to protect against Eichmann smashing them and using the broken glass to commit suicide.

BILL LAMBASTED

A vote on the measure was rescheduled. Debate on second reading, or approval in principle, will resume later — perhaps Friday. Today's Commons agenda is headed by private member's bills.

Introducing his bill to second reading, Mr. Starr said the government "regards the development of skilled manpower as a prime importance in fostering national development." There were many compelling reasons for increasing training in Canada.

OUTLIVES PROVISIONS

He outlined these provisions of the bill:

The federal government could make agreements with the provinces for up to six years to provide financial aid for the costs of providing technical or vocational training programs "for youth or adults who require this service in order to work at their full potential."

Ottawa already contributes to the cost of training unemployed persons, students being trained in technical or vocational courses in secondary schools, apprentices, supervisors in industry and elected persons.

The bill adds three new groups —persons who need scientific or technological skills to work as technicians, those over school-leaving age who actually have left school and have to develop or increase their occupational skills and teachers and supervisors needed to carry out the training programs.

WILL PAY MORE

Ottawa will pay 75 per cent of the cost of building and equipping new training facilities up to March 31, 1963, and 50 per cent thereafter. This would represent a substantial increase over the existing federal contributions.

At present, a total of $25,000,000 is being allocated to the provinces over a five-year period on a population formula. While capital costs under this formula have been shared 50-50 in some provinces, in others the federal share works out to much less.

The only limit on the over-all amount the central government will pay out under the new program would be the amount that Parliament was prepared to authorize.

The bill continues Ottawa's present 75-per-cent share of training costs for unemployed persons. A new feature provides 50 per cent of the operational costs for schools or institutes which are not part of the province's secondary school system. Also added is a one-half share of costs of training teachers, supervisors and administrative personnel.

The present National Technical Vocational Training Advisory Council of 21 members will be enlarged by adding two more members. Membership will include equal numbers of employer and employees, along with provincial government representatives and other interested groups.

REFUSED BURIAL

BOSTON (AP) — Attorney-General Edward McCormack has asked the Massachusetts commission against discrimination to determine whether Hillcrest Park Cemetery of Springfield violated the state's discrimination law. Rev. Ralph Stutzman of Springfield Unitarian - Universalist Church told his congregation Sunday the Korean bride of an American soldier was refused burial at the cemetery "because of the color of her skin."

Work Minister Walker Gives Emphatic Rebuttal to Speech On Govt. Housing Policy

OTTAWA (CP)—An emphatic rebuttal by Works Minister Walker followed presentation of claim of government housing policy by A. C. Ashforth, retiring president of the Toronto-Dominion Bank.

"Mr. Ashforth is guilty of four major misapprehensions," said Mr. Walker, commenting on the criticism in the bank's general meeting in Toronto.

The works minister began his reply in the Commons, and finished it later outside the House after a ruling by Speaker Roland Michener ended Commons exchanges on the matter.

Mr. Walker said Mr. Ashforth had been critical on one hand of too much government money going into housing—yet suggested a need for spending increased vastly by making existing homes eligible for mortgage credit.

Secondly, he said, Mr. Ashforth stupidly left the impression young married folk were being forced into new small houses when the three-bedroomed home in fact was an exception today in Canadian construction.

Thirdly, contrary to the housing surplus Mr. Ashforth appeared to envisage, "this government is not building in advance of demand—over-present requirements for National Housing Act loans are under control of this."

Finally, said Mr. Walker, Mr. Ashforth erred in thinking that the government presumes inflation will continue in the housing market — a presumption the bankers said on the extension of the term of government loans to 35 years from 25. Mr. Ashforth said "a saving inflation some houses sold under easier credit terms would be worth less in 10 years than the remaining mortgage."

In fact, Mr. Walker said, that extra period will be "a protection to borrowers only if it is requested to meet payments of principal, interest and taxes. It reflected government policy of attempting to assist lower-income families to build or buy their own homes. At no time would the house depreciation exceed the owner's investment if payments were made promptly.

Mr. Garland (L—Nipissing), housing authority for his party, gave Mr. Walker a chance in the Commons to speak his piece by asking for comment on part of the Ashforth speech which said the government is "building the wrong kind of houses for the wrong reasons, in the wrong places, designed for the wrong people, at the wrong time."

The question was ruled out of order but Mr. Walker started his reply after a second question whether he had consulted with the Canadian Bankers' Association about them getting back into the housing mortgage field. He characterized that field of lending as "practically dead" and one of the economy became more lucrative.

The Ontario cities have asked the federal government to extend provisions of the act to permit the purchase and renovation of existing houses, Mr. Walker said in the Commons. It said the government is considering the submission and will announce its decision in due course.

Those listed are Fort William, Port Arthur, Windsor, London, Guelph, Kitchener, Brantford, Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie.

Lesage Gives Further Details On Hospital Bill

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage disclosed further details Wednesday night in the legislative assembly on Quebec's hospital insurance bill, still scheduled to come into effect July 1, 1961.

"Non-residents will come under the Public Charities Act if they need to be admitted to hospital and hospitals which do not participate in the plan will also be under the jurisdiction of the act, he said.

Under the act, the province and the municipality where the hospital is situated will pay a flat sum to meet the cost of treating a patient who is unable to pay.

The hospital would pay the loss if the cost is higher than the two contributions.

Mr. Lesage said no hospital and no individual will be forced to participate in the plan. Anyone who wishes to pay his hospitalization has the right to do so.

He said payments to hospitals will be made from the total operational costs of insured services.

Earlier, opposition leader Antonio Talbot said the bill states a contract will be signed with a hospital but there is no contract in the bill.

Mr. Lesage's reply was: "You don't know what a hospital is according to the law."

Mr. Talbot replied that individual contracts will be signed with patients "to respect their freedom and characteristics."

Cost of the plan in the first year would be about $180,000,000 shared evenly by Quebec and the federal government. The plan will provide all hospital services listed under Part VII of the Hospital Insurance and Diagnostic Services Act.

The bill now goes to committee stage where details will be thrashed out.

Say Montreal Man's Profits In Stock Sales Over Million

FREDERICTON (CP) — The Dickson report on alleged boiler room stock peddling in New Brunswick Wednesday named Kenneth R. Gregory of Montreal as "the man whose operations were far far largest" of nine companies and individuals investigated.

The 65-page report said Gregory, organizer of the investigated Canada Investments Limited, is shown by available records as probably having made profits totalling more than $1,250,000 in 2½ years.

David M. Dickson, acting as administrator of the provincial Security Frauds Prevention Act, conducted an investigation last summer on the instructions of Attorney-General Bell.

Mr. Robichaud said he had information that United States investors had been defrauded of $2,000,000 in the past year through wet stock-selling operations.

Premier Robichaud said Wednesday some of the individuals involved in various promotional deals "may yet" face the courts of this province, if criminal charges appear to be warranted upon a full study of the report.

Other sections of the document charged thirty were violations of the Criminal Code and that the former Progressive Conservative administration of Hugh John Flemming, now federal forestry minister, permitted the operations to continue for political benefit derived from a "show" of industrial expansion and activity.

Commenting in Saint John Wednesday, former attorney-general R. G. L. Fairweather said he agrees with the conclusions "which are based on actual evidence," "but he does not agree with other "conclusions" which were based entirely on conjecture and guesswork tainted with political overtones.

In Ottawa, Mr. Flemming declined comment. He said there was nothing he could add to the statement of Mr. Fairweather who had studied the report.

Probe Into Union Nationale Actions Adjourned for Week

MONTREAL (CP)—The provincial royal commission on the former Union Nationale administration adjourned until Dec. 13 Wednesday after hearing one witness and receiving several documents in evidence.

The witness was Raymond Leveille, an engineer and commissioner of the Gaspe Peninsula, establishment as a Crown corporation in 1944.

His testimony and the documents dealt with Quebec-Hydro's pre-distribution enterprise before the time conversion of the system to standard 60-cycle electrified gas was recommended in October 1954.

The commission is investigating the sale of Quebec-Hydro's Montreal distribution system in 1944 to the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation, a private company, for $19,000,000.

Later it is to investigate public purchasing and the activities of the Montreal Executive Institute of the Union Nationale government.

TENDERS DEMANDED

Mr. Justice Elie Salvas, commission chairman, reserved decision on a request by Edouard Masson, counsel for the Union Nationale, that the commission declare itself "bound to respect the jurisprudence" of the Superior Court and the immunities and privileges of its members.

Mr. Masson questioned the competence of the commission to investigate the 1954 Hydro transfer sale because laws concerning it were passed by the Quebec legislature.

He said the executive council "has the right to call on any subordinate to the legislative assembly, but not another organ, a royal commission the power to inquire into the legislature and the laws it has adopted concerning the sale of the Quebec-Hydro gas network.

"This infringement," he said, "would be contrary to the rights and powers of the legislature — conditions which are extremely dangerous precedent."

Park and Camp Sites in Demand Meeting Told

SARNIA (CP)—The lands and forests department is hardly able to keep up with the increasing demand for parks and camping sites, Alfred Wheatley, acting chief of the department's parks branch, said Wednesday night.

"It appears that in a very few years the revenue of the parks will equal the cost of operation," Mr. Wheatley told delegates to the Southwestern Ontario Chamber of Commerce meeting.

Since 1956, he said, the government has spent $10,000,000 on acquisition of parkland. Since 1954 the parks system has been enlarged from six parks to 72, with a further 19 in the planning stage. Park revenue has increased from $30,000 in 1956 to $750,000 in 1960.

Sunday Sports In Hamilton By Big Majority

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton voters Wednesday reversed a vote taken in 1950 when they refused Sunday sports by a margin of close to 7,000 votes.

The plebiscite, held as part of the civic elections, produced a final count of 38,154 in favor and 31,300 against the proposal. In 1950—the last time the question went to the voters—the vote was rejected, 32,020 to 30,064 votes.

George Goodrow, co-chairman of the Sunday Sports Committee declared the result showed "it's what the people wanted."

Rev. Marinus Dekiegl, co-chairman of the "Vote No" committee, said the vote was "disappointing."

The Presbyterian clergyman blamed the result on a trend set by Sunday - activity votes elsewhere in Ontario "change and the lucky tactics" of the Sunday sports proponents.

"It was completely false of them to state that our committee spent $20,000 to defeat them when we spent only $3,500," he said.

LEADS BOARD RACE

Victor Copps, an advertising executive and a member of civic politics, led the race for board of control with 43,702 votes. He was followed by Mrs. Ida Pritchard with 43,170 and Archie McCoy with 39,220 votes. Jack MacDonald, who placed first in 1958, lost the fourth and last controller's seat with 37,116 votes.

Leslie Parker polled 34,708 votes in an unsuccessful bid for the board of control. He was beaten for behind with 15,966 votes in 1958 and last" attempt to become a controller.

Mayor Lloyd Jackson was re-elected by acclamation.

The voters in a newly-annexed part of city ward approved by licensed dining lounges (547 to 283) and cocktail lounges (530 to 273) is the only other referendum held with the election.

Process for Using Uranium As Alloy to Strengthen Steel Now Patented and Available

OTTAWA (CP)—An exclusive Canadian metallurgical process for using uranium as an alloy to strengthen steel has been patented and now is available to the steel industry, Mines Minister Comtesse announced Wednesday.

The method, developed after 18 months of research by the physical metallurgy division of the mines department, involves the addition of about one pound of uranium to a ton of steel. This small amount of uranium improves the strength of steel by resistance to corrosion and its properties at high temperatures.

Officials of the division said they are unable to forecast what amounts of uranium the industry will use on an annual basis. They said this will depend on the extent to which steel manufacturers find a use for uranium.

Mr. Comtesse said the new development could prove important to the Canadian uranium industry by opening up possible new markets. The industry has been hit hard by a reduction in production caused by a United States decision not to buy more Canadian uranium beyond contracts expiring in the mid-1962 and mid-1963.

RESULTS CORROSION

The minister also said the new product would enable the steel industry to produce steel with enhanced qualities of strength and corrosion resistance from inexpensive low carbon and low alloy steels without a substantial increase in their cost.

The mines department initiated the research program as a request from Crown-owned Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited to investigation into possible non - nuclear metallurgical uses for uranium. The work was financed by the department and Eldorado at an annual rate of $150,000 and $100,000, respectively.

The patent on the method is owned by the Crown. In addition to the Canadian patent, world-wide patents covering the new steel have been applied for in the United States, the United Kingdom, France, Germany, Belgium, Italy, The Netherlands, Sweden, France, Luxembourg and Australia.

The research was conducted under direction of S. L. Gertsman, chief of the physical metallurgy division, and Dr. R. L. Cunningham, principal scientist. A team of seven worked on the method, including Dr. W. A. Sagoo, Dr. Gurtat Contractor, Robert Barry, R. D. McDonald, Charles Makepeace, J. W. Meier and J. C. Edwards.

No substantial increases in costs are involved in the new process because uranium is used in only small amounts in each ton of steel. Larger amounts of uranium will be used in tool steels to improve properties at high temperatures but still will be economical.

The greater strength of the new steel gives it a definite edge for use under conditions of extreme stress. Its higher resistance to corrosion and improved qualities for use in boilers, tubing and wire cable and both of these qualities will make it suitable for oil-well drilling, mine drilling and gear-hobbing equipment and for railroad sales.

Verwoerd Pushes Apartheid Policy One Step Further

PRETORIA (Reuters) — Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd pushed his apartheid policy one stage further Wednesday by announcing that South Africa's 1,500,000 coloured people will improve qualities for use in boilers, tubing and wire cable and both of these qualities will make it suitable for oil-well drilling, mine drilling and gear-hobbing equipment and for railroad sales.

Verwoerd pushed his apartheid policy one stage further Wednesday by announcing that South Africa's 1,500,000 coloured people will improve qualities for use in boilers, tubing and wire cable and both of these qualities will make it suitable for oil-well drilling, mine drilling and gear-hobbing equipment and for railroad sales.

Until now, the coloreds have formed an uneasy alliance between conflicting forces represented by the country's 10,000,000 Negroes and 3,000,000 whites.

Verwoerd said the coloreds eventually will be given autonomy at local government level in their own areas and have their own ministry of colored affairs.

Verwoerd ruled out the possibility of the colored being integrated with the white population and rejected the idea of their having their own members

Child of Vaughan Township Councillor Is Threatened

MAPLE, Ont. (CP)—The nine-year-old daughter of a Vaughan Township councillor who is in a controversial election Saturday was today reported safe after she left her father did not quit council.

Jesse Bingley, 9, was described for four years who is running for deputy reeve, said his daughter Ruth Ann, also 9, was missing.

"You tell your daddy if he doesn't quit council you will die."

Mr. and Mrs. Bryson found the letter Tuesday night. She had written the message on a piece of paper.

Threat delivered — by a male voice which first asked for Mrs. Bryson, came after an elected council meeting Tuesday night at which two councillors were questioned about allegations of conflict of interest between their business and public lives.

Columnist Pierre Berton of the Toronto Star, a resident of this township in suburban Richmond Hill, said Councillor Bruce Polley, a lawyer, had done work for the development company that panies while in office.

He said Councillor E. W. Arnesley had a close business relationship with a key figure in several township land development companies.

Both councillors denied they had acted in bad faith. Both are seeking re-election.

Mr. Bryson notified police of the threat but did not ask for protection.

Dairy, Poultry Co-op Shows Strong Position

TORONTO (CP) — Charles A. Cameron, executive secretary of the Dairy Farmers of Canada, said Wednesday farmers' Co-operatives should not let their actions defeat their purpose.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the United Dairy and Poultry Co-operatives of Ontario Mr. Cameron said a strong farm organization could give farmers an advantage in putting their products on the market. "But he added that too strong an organization would lead to a monopoly which could harm consumer nor the producer desires.

The co-operatives ended its second year of operations with a net sales total of $16,000,000 and a membership increase of 126 per cent to 2,362 farmers.

Robert S. McKechnie, president of the co-op, said the co-operative has brought producer marketing facilities in Ontario in line with those existing elsewhere in Canada, the United States, and Western Europe.

Joseph F. Cruickshy, Durham farmer, was elected new president, Bruce McCutcheon of Preston left, was chosen first vice-president and Harold Shantz of New Hamburg second vice-president. Elect to the board of directors were: W. J. Sutherland, Chatham; Alex. Bell, Frankstown; Ralph Hayes, Waterford; Richard Hansen, Guelph; R. S. McKercher, Dublin; Harold Forrester, Malleytown.

Fifty Killed By Liquor, Barbiturates

VANCOUVER (CP)— A mixture of liquor and barbiturates has killed 50 persons in Vancouver this year, coroner Glen McDonald said Wednesday.

He said many victims apparently weren't aware of the danger. However, many other victims had committed from drug addicts using the mixture because they couldn't afford heroin, or heavy drinkers trying to get a bigger kick from liquor.

Mr. McDonald said a dose of eight pills taken with beer or liquor may be fatal if treatment isn't given immediately.

Police and medical officials met Wednesday to investigate ways of stopping the mounting toll, possibly by establishing tighter controls on the sale of barbiturates.

Deputy Police Chief Gordon Ambrose said the department was concerned because pill victims were being charged as drunks and placed in jail cells when they actually should be getting medical attention.

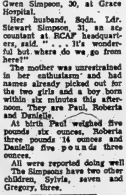
Says He Paid $1,800 to Get Boy Into Canada

TORONTO (CP)—Lee Jones, 72, a Kingston laundryman, told a preliminary hearing Wednesday he paid $1,800 to George Chan of Toronto for getting a Chinese boy to Canada from Hong Kong in 1958.

Jones was a crown witness at the hearing of Chan, 49, a travel agent, notary public and justice of the peace charged with illegally conspiring to bring Chinese into Canada and making a false statement in an affidavit.

Chan pleaded not guilty and elected trial by judge and jury.

Jones said he gave Chan $900 in advance and another $900 on the arrival of Lee Wan Chiu, 15.



He said the boy admitted under the name Lee Quan Yee, was not related to him but that he had been sent his picture from Hong Kong and decided to bring

Publisher Suggests U.S. Magazines Coming to Canada Pay Same Taxes as Canadian

MONTREAL (CP)—Ronald J. Cooke, publisher of Rod and Gun magazine and the French edition Au Grand Air, has suggested that United States magazines coming into Canada pay taxes to the same extent as Canadian magazines.

This could be worked out on a circulation basis, said Mr. Cooke in a submission to the royal commission on publications.

He suggested that if a Canadian magazine with, for instance, $1,000 circulation pays a certain amount in taxes, this tax figure

The plan would also eliminate dumping, he said. Now a U.S. publisher in many cases will predate his magazine by three months. If at the end of a month it appears there will be adequate copies for home use, extra magazines are dumped in Canada and no permission of any kind is required.

Another problem could be solved, he said, by requiring that Canadian editions of U.S. magazines be printed in Canada, with at least half the editorial content written in Canada. Otherwise, "plates" for the U.S. edition, will be shipped in and all that Canada gains is the cost of printing."

Mr. Cooke said the post office at Ottawa reports 35 U.S. publications are shipped into Canada by truck and then mailed from Canadian points, primarily from Toronto. The postal rate on these magazines, with a total monthly weight of 2,500,000 pounds, is lower than it would be if they were mailed in the U.S.

Possibly 30 national Canadian magazines, weighing only a fraction of what the U.S. magazines weigh, use the low postal rate. "As the required postage at the pound rate does not cover the cost of mailing U.S. magazines in Canada, it is quite obvious that the cost must be borne by Canadians."

Mr. Cooke said his calculations show there are 850 different U.S. titles sold on Canadian newsstands, excluding 250 of the comic book variety. The rest are general magazines and do not include such as trade journals and association publications.

"About 30 Canadian magazines attempt to compete with these 850 titles.

GM RECALLS WORKERS

OSHAWA (CP) — General Motors of Canada Limited is recalling 175 employees laid off during model changeover in September, the company announced Wednesday.

Mrs. Chris Tonk Being Abused By Neighbors

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Chris Tonks, wife of the defeated reeve of suburban York Township, said Wednesday she would leave the area if she could.

"I went to school with the folks around here and I've known them all my life," she said in an interview. "Yet my own neighbors won't talk to me."

"For the last two years, people have been phoning to abuse me and call me filthy names. I can't take it any more."

Her husband, long-time reeve here, was ousted by more than a two-to-one margin Monday by voters after a royal commission report on township administration between 1953 and 1958 said there were "flagrant and continued infractions" of township bylaws.

Mr. Tonks insisted Tuesday that he gave York Township a businesslike administration—but made "just one little mistake" in buying a lot for his home earmarked by the municipality as a road allowance. It is illegal for a public official to buy publicly-owned land.

Won't Tell Amount

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Nathan Phillips says "it's nobody's business how much I spent" in the campaign that got him re-elected Monday.

Controller William Allen felt the same way and refused Wednesday to disclose his expenses, but defeated mayoralty candidate Jean Newman said her expenses were about $4,500.

New Book About Nickel Says Mining Management Must Be Realistic, Visionary

By FORBES REUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The function of a mining manager is to be both visionary and realistic, says Dr. John F. Thompson, former head of the International Nickel Company of Canada Ltd., in a new book, For the Years to Come.

The book, written by Dr. Thompson and Norman Beasley, is much more than a story of International Nickel.

It is rich in the mining excitement of the late 19th and early 20th centuries; with incidents of Canadian history which might have been lost if it had not been written; and with the stirring events of later years.

Colorful figures walk through it in a drama whose stage reaches from Northern Ontario into the United States and across the ocean to Europe—all part of the story of how Canada became the world's greatest nickel producer.

A typical passage is the description of the meeting in 1900 of Hinaldo McConnell, prospector and timber cruiser, with Ludwig Mond, German-born British industrialists, a meeting which brought the Mond interests into Ontario's Sudbury area.

MET IN ROME

They met in Mond's winter home in Rome, the Palazzo Zuccari, with its huge ceilings, priceless paintings, with a music room to which came the great artists of the day, a vast banquet hall, and a magnificent library.

Describing the scene, the book says:

"Facing high (Mond), a timber cruiser whose paintings were on the broad canvas of the eastern hills when the bright fingers of morning reached across the sky; whose music room was a high hemlock from which whispered the soft, silvery song of a hermit thrush; whose banquet hall was a campfire on the shore of Nipissing; whose books were stands of poplar, jack pine and birch, and the sands and gravels, drift clays and rocks of the Canadian shield—this was Hinaldo McConnell, into whose eyes Ludwig Mond, in characteristic inquisition, had stared while acknowledging the introduction. The men sort understood one another."

Their future meetings were to be in railway cars, clearings and saloons of Northern Ontario.

The book is chiefly on people, and of an ore, and of the efforts of people to extract metals from the ore and, when they had extracted them, to create markets in which to sell them.

RECALLS SINKING

Into it come such historical events as the sinking of the Spanish fleet by the American navy, armored with the relatively new nickel-steel. Into it, too, come such figures as Sir John A. Macdonald, Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir William Van Horne, Thomas Alva Edison, and many others.

Corporate doings, as such, have a relatively minor part, except to relate how one man or another, one interest or other, invested money, and showed faith in the future.

For instance, of Robert C. Stanley, who joined Inco in the early 1900s and later headed it for many years, the book says:

"Stanley was of that breed of men who are willing to take risk, win or lose, in backing up an idea; and, win or lose, to keep on risking. It was this trait that caused him to urge that spending (in 1923) of more than $3,000,000 for the building of a rolling mill at a time when $3,000,000 was almost all the money the company had in the bank."

The main story starts around 1885, continues with the companies which preceded the present Inco set-up and into the establishment of Inco's present mine project in northern Manitoba, where Dr. Thompson's name is perpetuated in the name of a town.

A LITTLE ON AUTHOR

Though Dr. Thompson joined Inco, in 1906, and headed it from 1951 until early this year, there is relatively little in the book about his own activities, but it is full of his philosophy and humorous recollection of events.

Here are some expressions of his views:

"Inco is not in the business of making ghost towns. From a local point of view, and a national point of view, it is essential that mines be conserved over a long, regular period."

"In negotiations where the public interest is the dominating interest, everybody comes out all right."

"There is only one way a company, large or small, should be run. The people sitting around a table should sit there as equals. At the end of the discussion the man who is carrying the biggest load, and on whose shoulders the ultimate responsibility rests, should review what has been said and whether general agreement has been reached. If not, then he has the right to make the decision; and, having given it, is entitled to the unqualified support of everybody."

Mr. Beasley, the co - author, who spent his boyhood in Ontario, is a former newspaper man. For 18 years he was a reporter in Detroit, and for a number of years was a contributor to national magazines. He is the author of a number of books, including The Cross and the Crown, The Continuing Spirit, Men, Money and Motors, Knudsen, Freighters of Fortune, and Wall Street Merchant.

For the Years to Come is published in the United States by G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York, and in Canada by Longmans, Green and Company, Toronto.

Senator Molson Says

Young Canadians Are 'Soft'

Royals Lose To Kingston

KINGSTON (CP)—The injury-riddled Montreal Royals, playing with a thirty-string goaltender and only two defencemen at the end of the game, dropped a 4-1 decision to Kingston Frontenacs Wednesday night.

The loss sank Royals deeper in the Eastern Professional Hockey League cellar and moved Frontenacs into a third-place tie with Kitchener - Seavers, one point ahead of Sudbury Wolves.

Royals lost the services of defenceman Andre Tardif in the second period when he was hit by Don Blackburn and cracked the ice with a charley horse.

Coach Floyd Curry has Jim Roberts and John Longarini on the injured list and had to use forward Guy Blank on defence.

REPLACED PRONOVOST

Claude Cyr was in goal, replacing Jacques Pronovost who cut the top of two fingers in an accident at his home earlier this week.

Pronovost is the second-string goaltender and had been playing in place of Charley Hodge who is now with Montreal Canadiens.

Goaltender Ed Di Biase was back in the Kingston nets and almost had his first pro shutout. The Montreal goal was scored with less than a minute remaining in the game. The smallest crowd of the season, 1,532, saw Real Chevrefils, Don Blackburn, Tom Williams and Stan Maxwell score for Kingston.

The lone Montreal goal was notched by Loin Denis.

Kingston outshot the losers 46-26.

N.H.L. Stars

Montreal's Bernie Geoffrion, who scored two goals and assisted on another to lead Canadiens to a 6 - 2 victory over Toronto Maple Leafs.

Detroit's Alex Delvecchio, who scored two goals—including the winner—as Red Wings beat fifth-place New York Rangers 5-1 in New York.

ENGLAND WON SERIES

LONDON (Reuters)—Birmingham City, the English first division club, entered the semi-finals of the Inter - Cities Fairs Football Cup tournament Wednesday night by beating Boldklubben of Copenhagen 6-0 in the second game of their quarter-final series at Birmingham. Birmingham won the total-goals series 9-4, the first game having been a 4-4 tie.

By JOHN E. REID
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Young Canadians are "soft" because few receive encouragement from adults to take physical training or participate in sports, Senator Hartland Molson, (lib), said Wednesday, president of the Montreal Canadiens Athletic club, said Wednesday.

The senator from Montreal said in Senate House speech debate that this is one of the main reasons Canada has such a poor record in sports, except in hockey.

Senator Molson, 53, who played for Kingston in the 1936 Memorial Cup hockey finals, said the physical condition of young Canadian males is relatively low.

"Our young men are not as sturdy as those in other countries. They are soft. That means that fewer of them are participating in sports; fewer are taking any form of physical training."

He hoped that a government proposal in the throne speech to aid to amateur sport in Canada would help encourage Canadian youth to take a more active part in all types of sport.

TURNING INTO SPECTATORS?

"We in Canada are in severe danger of becoming a spectator nation."

Senator Molson said agreement could be reached on a federal-provincial basis to ensure that all Canadian children receive adequate physical training at school.

"Then we would stop producing so many youngsters who puff after going up a flight of stairs and who tend to sit and gaze at television or go out and stand on street corners just whistling."

The federal government could set up schools for sport instructors and arrange with the provinces to use them. He proposed federal grants to amateur athletic bodies to help them stage sport meets. Greater facilities also should be provided for training Canadian athletes for international competitions.

Billy Shipp Leaves Als

MONTREAL (CP) — Veteran tackle Billy Shipp, 30, said Wednesday he is leaving Montreal Alouettes to establish permanent residence in Toronto.

Shipp, all-star two-way tackle in the Big Four Football Union in 1958 and 1959, said in an interview he is interested in playing for Toronto Argonauts.

Alouettes general manager Sam Berry said the club would like to trade the 200-pound lineman for two good Canadian players.

In Toronto, general manager Jim Hannan of the Argonauts said he thinks it would be great if the two Argonauts could get Shipp, but "it would have to be on a fair-trade basis."

Syracuse Group Quizzes Loop Re Franchise

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—City officials, eager to obtain the Montreal baseball franchise in the International League, asked league president Tommy Richardson Wednesday for a bill of specifications, including the cost and the availability of players.

The Syracuse group, led by Mayor Anthony Henninger, insisted that the league submit a package outline before they push a drive for community ownership. Richardson promised that he would go to work on the matter at once.

The city officials expressed the hope that Richardson would arrange a transfer of the franchise for a nominal sum and effect a working agreement with a major league ball club. They did not indicate what they meant by a nominal sum.

Los Angeles Dodgers recently withdrew the Montreal franchise which now is in the stage of forfeiture to the IL.

Syracuse dropped out of the International League in 1955, when its former franchise was transferred to Miami.

MANY IN TRAINING

TORONTO (CP)—A record 6,720 students are training to become elementary teachers in Ontario, the legislature's standing committee on education was told Wednesday by H. E. Elborn, superintendent of teacher education.

Calgary Stampeders and Vancouver Canucks may be battling for first place in the Western Hockey League but the hottest team in the loop is Portland Buckaroos.

Hal Laycoe's squad moved into a tie for fourth place Wednesday night with its fourth straight victory, a 3-1 decision over Seattle Totems at Portland.

Calgary, meanwhile, gained a point on Vancouver with its second consecutive win over Edmonton Flyers, 4-2 in Calgary. Canucks had to settle for a 3-3 tie with Winnipeg Warriors.

Arnie Schmautz, Art Jones and Larry Leach scored for the Buckaroos. Gordie Sinclair got Seattle's goal.

At Winnipeg, Dave Duke fired two goals for Canucks, Gord Kendall and Nick Mickoski replied for the Warriors.

Stampeders ran into a sensational performance by Edmonton goaltender Dennis Riggan and were still good enough to edge the third-place Flyers. Riggan blocked 50 shots, 22 in the third period. He gave up single goals to Gerry Koch, Lou Jankowski, Wally Hergesheimer and Oyvi Veijovara. Don Polle and Ray Brunel scored for Edmonton.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Thoroughbred trainer Frank H. Merrill Jr. of Brantford saddled 124 winners in the first 14 months of the year, 37 more than his nearest rival.

Merrill, winner of the North American trainers' title in 1955 and 1958, leads trainer William H. Bishop by 27 wins and a current winning streak at Narragansett is expected to increase his margin.

Bishop, who started as a stablehand, saddled 154 winners in 1958. Last year he lost the title to Vesper (Tennessee) Wright.

Senior Hockey

STRATFORD (CP)—Woodstock Athletics pulled into a second place tie with Stratford Indians in the Ontario Hockey Association senior series by downing the Tribe 6-4 Wednesday night before a crowd of 600.

Ed Harrison's third-period goal at 17:54 avenged the loss although Larry Pratt scored his second goal into an open net at 18:28.

For two periods it was a see-saw struggle with the teams taking turns holding the lead.

Carl Hatt also scored two goals for the visitors, R. G. Novak getting a single. For the Indians it was single goals to Walt Wilson, Barry Hearn, Maurice Lesvesque and Bill Frick.

It was a clean game with but one penalty.

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A few years ago it seemed as if by the accepted custom that National Hockey League rookie-of-the-year winners either faded into obscurity or played around an average player. None were crowned out of the league in jig time.

There have been notable exceptions—Boom Boom Geoffrion of Montreal Canadiens and goalkeeper Terry Sawchuk of Detroit—but first-year sensations in many cases have been just that. Not so, Frank Mahovlich.

But there have been times when hockey fans openly wondered whether the Toronto Maple Leaf left-winger would amount to anything in the NHL after he won the rookie award two years ago. No one really doubted his ability—it appeared to many that the big guy appeared so cussed lazy or that he didn't really care.

Big M, as he is referred to by hockey writers in Toronto, has the natural ability of a superstar and the color to go with it. But there are times when even Leaf fans get on his back.

HAVING BEST YEAR

This season, after an in-and-out 1959-60 sophomore campaign, the 23-year-old native of Timmins, Ont., has been the scourge of enemy goalkeepers. He's figuring in much the same manner as he did with Toronto St. Michael's College Juniors in 1955 and 1956 and as a result leads the league in scoring after having one of their best years.

The saying around Toronto now is that the Leafs go as Mahovlich goes and the six-foot-one - inch dark - haired winger scored 21 goals in his first 36 games. That is three more than his 79-game output last year and could have been up near the top since Mahovlich caught fire in mid-November.

The Leaf brass have been high on high-scoring Mahovlich. Frasy (King) Clancy, the talkative manager, has maintained since he had signed Big M that he has the ability to become the most valuable player in the League.

"All the material is there and since we got Red Kelly from Detroit a year ago, Mahovlich seems to have perked up considerably. Red has been a pretty good influence on him."

FRANK AGREES

To this, Mahovlich agrees wholeheartedly. "I feel comfortable when I'm out there on a line with Red. He has done a lot for me."

Kelly, incidentally, is one of the many greats who were passed up by selectors in their rookie year. Included in the list are Maurice Richard, Gordie Howe, Jean Beliveau, Ted Lindsay, Doug Harvey and Ted Kennedy.

Richard, eligible for the trophy in 1943, lost out to Gaye Stewart of Toronto. Howie Meeker of the Leafs won in 1946 when Howe joined Detroit Red Wings and the selectors settled for centre Jimmy McFadden in 1947 when Kelly and Harvey broke in.

Goalkeeper Frank McCool won the award in 1944 when Lindsay joined Red Wings and Pentti Lund of New York Rangers was the 1946 rookie.

Beliveau joined Montreal in the 1953-54 season and Camille Henry of the Rangers got the nod as the rookie.

Tigers Have Bruton

Braves Land Bolling

By JACK HAND

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Milwaukee Braves second baseman Frank Bolling and Detroit acquired centre fielder Billy Bruton Wednesday in a major inter-league deal involving six players.

To get the second baseman, the Braves gave up Bruton, second baseman Chuck Cottier, catcher Dick Brown and rookie relief pitcher Terry Fox. In addition to Bolling, Milwaukee will get an "acceptable minor league player" to be designated before March 1.

"We've been working since the 1959 world series to get Bolling," said John McHale, Milwaukee general manager who formerly held the same job at Detroit.

This was the second major swap since the inter-league trading period, which extends to Dec. 12, began Nov. 21. Last Saturday San Francisco Giants traded left-hander Johnny Antonelli and outfielder Willie Kirkland to Cleveland for Kosmo, an outfielder - outfielder and former American League batting champion.

The Braves also acquired another second baseman, Billy Martin, from Cincinnati in a $40,000 purchase Saturday.

Bolling, 29, hit .254 last season in 139 games. He has been with the Tigers since 1954. He is a right-handed batter.

Bruton, 34, a left-handed batter who had been with the Braves since 1953, finished with .286 last season.

Cottier, 24, a right-handed hitter, spent most of the 1960 season with the Braves. He hit .227 and appeared in 95 games. Brown, 25, was brought by the Braves from the White Sox just last week. He was in only 18 games with the White Sox, hitting .163.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

There are persistent tales along the rumor rialto that Wren Blair, the little man with the big curl, is giving up his job as coach of the Eastern professional Kingston Frontenacs and will confine his activities to managing the club. The rumors say that Rudy Migay of Toronto is slated for the coaching job.

But Billy Reay told me the other day at the McFarland press conference that such is not the case. "Migay will not act under Blair," the Blonde William said.

As Kitchener's Len Taylor remarks "the rumors probably spring from a reckless tear of northern points last week, by the Frontenacs, which culminated in Blair stalking out of the club at Sault Ste. Marie midway through a game in which his club was clobbered 11-4."

A story in the Kingston Whig Standard said that Blair, thoroughly disgusted, refused to handle the team for the last half of the game. Trainer "Bun" Cook took over the bench job.

Blair is noted for his iceland theatricals. Once he nearly mashed four of this reporter's toes in the Whitby press box when he went into an Apache war dance because his beloved Dunlops looked, as he said, "d . . . lousy."

He thinks nothing of smashing his hat to the floor and jumping on it while in one of his arena tantrums. He's not a two-hatsalary all the way; each player who has performed for him. He can wither your ears with a blast in less time than it takes to write the statement.

His leaving-the-club action came on the heels of an earlier hot blast at the players by Blair in a Sudbury interview.

He told a Sudbury sports writer that he wondered if it was worth while taking a pro coaching job.

This comment came after a 6-1 shellacking of his Frontenacs by the Sudbury Wolves. Since then Kingston lost 8-4 to the Soo and 4-1 to the Kitchener Beavers 4-3. They did squeeze out a 3-1 win over the Montreal Royals last Sunday.

Would the Sudbury sportswriter Blair apologized to the head coach for a beam effort by the Frontenacs which stunk out the joint."

"I can buy a loss on the road," he said, "but it's how you lose. I believe that the visiting team draws the crowds. My Whitby club always drew well on the road. The players really took pride in playing before fans all over the circuit and we used to pack them in everywhere."

"I really don't know the answers now but the players always have enough excuses. Those guys are pros so they know they know the answers. We have a whole bunch of coaches. They always blame the other guy. They can lose a game by a big score but the guy who got the only goal is happy. Well, if that's pro hockey they can shove it," the little man said.

He went on: "Any amateur club I ever ran would take skrill philosophically and go out and beat that team the next time they met. It was a team effort and a message. I've been reasonably good to these guys but that's all over from now on. I may have a miserable time with this hockey team, but I'll guarantee 16 others will too."

As friend Taylor remarks: "Whether this interview will help things in Kingston is another matter. Frontenacs are, by their own admission, in a make or break year. Only time will know if these tactics can pay off in any kind of hockey, amateur or pro. One thing is obvious, for Blair the honeymoon is over."

THE JUNIORS

The Belleville McFarlands Junior "B" squad will parade in their new name and "Mace" sweaters Friday night here when they meet the Oshawa Generals. The borough youngsters in a league fixture. Since it was announced the change-over from the Lambert-Bellina sponsorship to that of the McFarlands organization, it is assumed Gordie Ball will make his debut as a junior coach. The young Mace were not up to par the other night when they were defeated by Kingston, but it is expected they will be at full strength and at top form come Friday evening.

PREDICTS EXPANSION

VANCOUVER (CP) — President Dewey Soriano of the Pacific Coast League believes that Manila, Tokyo, Singapore, Hong Kong, Yokohama and Mexico City will all be league members within 10 years. He said in an interview the decision of Honolulu to enter the baseball league may spark a boom around the Pacific rim that could see the other cities follow suit. He said, "10 years from now there can be a world series that is a world series."

Habs Crush Leafs Behind Boom-Boom

Wings Defeat Rangers 3-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bernie Geoffrion scored twice Wednesday night as Montreal Canadiens drubbed Toronto Maple Leafs 6-2 at Toronto to become the fifth highest scorer in league history.

The goals were the 370th and 371st for Geoffrion which boosted him ahead of his late father-in-law, Howie Morenz, and Aurel Joliat, both Canadien players of a bygone era who each retired with 270 goals.

Detroit Red Wings, led by Alex Delvecchio's two goals posted a 3-1 victory over the Rangers in New York in the league's only other game.

Canadiens' victory gave them a season total of 36 points, five more than the second-place Red Wings.

The Leafs, who went into the game in a second-place tie with Detroit, fell to third with 29 points, idle Chicago Black Hawks remained fourth with 27 points. Rangers have 18 and last-place Boston Bruins 17.

The goal that tied Geoffrion with Morenz voided the controversy hockey player in The Canadian Press historical poll in 1956, and Joliat, came at 9:13, of the first period. The tie-breaker came at 11:07 of the same period.

Geoffrion fished both pucks out of the Toronto nets to keep them as souvenirs. The Canadian organization promised him the pucks will be gold-plated and engraved.

Only one active player—Gordie Howe of Detroit—has scored more goals than Geoffrion, who also leads this season's league scoring race with 17 goals and 26 assists for 43 points.

The all-time goal scorer is Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Canadiens, who retired just before the current season got under way with 541. Howe is second with 472 goals.

Ted Lindsay, who retired last summer after 16 years with Detroit and Chicago, is third with 365 and the late Syd Howe, who played with Boston Bruins and the old New York Americans and Montreal Maroons, had 204 goals.

Jean-Guy Gendron also scored twice for Montreal while singles went to Henri Richard and Dickie Moore, Eddie Shack and Bert Olmstead tallied for the Leafs.

Leafs' defenceman Allan Stanley suffered a bruised jaw in the second period. They are already without defencemen Carl Brewer and Tim Horton and forwards Ron Stewart and Larry Regan, suffering various injuries.

Stanley lunged for c. Billy Hicke's shot at the Leaf blueline, missed and was struck by the Montreal forward's stick. The cut required 25 stitches and Stanley is expected to be out of action for about three weeks.

Delvecchio's second goal was fired in to open net with only five seconds remaining after Rangers had removed goalie Lorne Worsley in favor of an extra attacker.

Hookie Allan Johnson scored Detroit's other goal while Andy Bathgate and Red New York's marker in the second period.

Howe, the league's all-time point-getter, assisted on Delvecchio's two goals.

Hank Bassen filled in for veteran goal tender Terry Sawchuk.

Probe Committee May Call Norris

WASHINGTON (CP) — James D. Norris learns today whether he must face the public or in private United States Senate investigators who have associated him repeatedly with hoodlum Frankie Carbo in boxing's inner circle.

Norris was foremost promoter in the United States for 10 years until he quit the sport last fall. His lawyer asked that Norris be allowed to testify at a closed hearing.

Physicians who have treated Norris say the tension of a public hearing might precipitate another heart attack. Norris already has been stricken twice.

Senator Estes Kefauver, chairman of the subcommittee seeking a legal deterrent for an alleged underworld tarnish on boxing, said a decision would be announced today.

Attorney Solomon Basille, former world middleweight champion, promoter - manager Jack Kearns and boxing referee - manager Herman (Hymie the Hunk) Weisman, the investigators Wednesday linked Norris and Carbo in close discussions of boxers and bouts.

HYPAGED IRC

Basille, who owns Chicago Stadium, was in charge of the International Boxing Club until they sold out to IBC Inc. in the Supreme Court last year for monopolizing championship fights. He then headed the clubs' Chicago promoter before pulling out altogether.

Carbo long has been described as the underworld's Mr. Big of boxing. He is serving a two-year sentence for undercover managing and matchmaking.

The subcommittee heard Kearns say that he has been dickering with the Teamsters Union and the AFL-CIO on a project to unionize the entire boxing industry.

Kearns went so far as to recommend his chief interrogator, special subcommittee counsel John G. Bonomi, as commissioner of boxing if the U.S. Congress should place the sport under federal control.

Kearns and Waltman said Norris and Carbo had socialized and talked business in their homes.

Waltman, in grand jury testimony released by the subcommittee, labelled Carbo the real man in charge of a number of fights handled on the surface by other managers. Among them were world lightweight king Joe Brown.

Basilio, who still hopes to regain the middleweight championship, said Carbo had called on the night of the fight stating his terms for a possible rematch with Sugar Ray Robinson at Norris' home in Coral Gables, Fla. Basilio testified that he knows Carbo and fellow racket figure Frank (Blinky) Palermo and Norris.

"The quicker those fellows get out of boxing quickly, 'the better it is going to be for the sport,' Basilio said federal control probably would cure 99 per cent of boxing's ills.

Hockey Hints

By Lloyd Percival

PRACTISE MAKES PERFECT

Watching the Toronto Maple Leafs practise you will often notice Leaf coach, Punch Imlach supervising a mass shooting drill that has goalkeeper Johnny Bower leaping around fast enough to melt the ice. Punch believes that this type of drill is needed to keep Bower on his toes, with his reflexes tuned to the high pitch needed to turn back the speedy shots of such sharpshooters as Hull, Geoffrion, Bathgate, Howe and Richard.

Such drills, which give the "goalie" a tremendous workout, should be used in age-limit hockey on a regular basis. If you take a moment to think about it, you will agree that in the average practice session, with the emphasis placed so much on scrimmage only, the goalkeeper might have very few shots to stop. There is no petition that can test skill, stamina or practise control like a good drill.

A good drill to use is to place the players around the goal, about 10-15 feet out, in a semi-circle with each player about two or four feet apart and each in possession of a puck. The players shoot in turn, waiting only until the goalkeeper is ready again before blasting away. The goalkeeper makes a stop but then quickly gets set for the next one. Ten minutes of this will not only give the goalkeeper a great workout but will give every player an effective shooting practise. The coach should tell each player to vary the height of his shots as much as possible.

"I was stubborn and my pride was hurt," said Simmons, 32, after a 50-minute session with Lynn Patrick, Bruins general manager.

"But I realize now that the only way I'll ever get back in the NHL—either with the Bruins or somebody else—is to go to Providence and do my very best. That's what I'm going to do."

Simmons walked when the sidelining Bruins brought up rookie Bruce Gamble Nov. 18 and ordered Simmons to report to the Reds.

Chatham Beats Sweden

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Chatham Maroons, Canadian amateur ice hockey champions, defeated Sweden's national team 3-1 in an exhibition game here Wednesday night.

Stan Long, former Montreal Canadiens defenceman, opened the scoring for Chatham in the first period and George Aitken made it 2-0 on an assist from Lou Bendo.

The Swedish team fought back in the second period with Bengt Johansson scoring. In the third period Mats Lormer Edmonton Flyer, scored on an assist from Long to fix the final result.

Chatham had several lost five games, tied one and won one in Moscow series, will play one more game here.

Goalie Harold (Boat) Hurley, who played on the Canadian Olympic teams, was kept busy throughout the game and it was apparent that his defensemen bled heavily on his sure grip and fast action.

The first Chatham goal, by Long at 1:25 of the first period, punctured the confidence of the Swedes who started out strong in the opening minutes.

Aitken raised the Canadian margin to 2-0 at 3:25 of the period.

In the third period, with Canada on the short end, Johansson netted the puck but the goal was disallowed as it was a Swedish player was inside the crease.

With less than five minutes left to play, Mats scored the third Canadian goal.

Springfield Indians, leading the American Hockey League by 13 points, are out of their league if you can call two straight defeats a slump.

Just when their rivals were keeping the league leaders' noses headed for a long run of defeats, Quebec Indians snapped Wednesday night and Hershey Bears 4-1. Providence Reds moved to within one point of leaving out of the cellar by defeating Buffalo Bisons 7-4. Victory ran the Reds' total to 22 points, one fewer than Hershey and Rochester Americans.

Harry Pidhirny set up the first Springfield goal and scored the final one.

Hershey led only once in the game, when a Jack McIntyre scored at 8:05 of the first period. Ron Lebeau, Bill McCreary and Gerry Foley scored the other Springfield goals.

Paul Laviere, Bob Beckett and Stan Bellish each scored twice for Providence. Bill Duppantini got a single.

Billy Dea, Larry Wilson, Doug Barkley and Wayne Hicks scored for Buffalo.

Peace Reigns Over Major Baseball

By JOE REICHLER

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Peace reigned again over the majors today following the American League's official move into Los Angeles with the blessing of Walter O'Malley, owner of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and his fellow National Leaguers.

The American, which will operate with 10 teams next year, has a blueprint calling for 12 clubs by 1962 or 1963. So has the National, which will continue to function with eight clubs in 1961, adding New York and Houston, Tex., in 1962.

Informed sources said during meetings of club owners here this week that the National has been sounding out Buffalo and the Dallas-Fort Worth area for possible 11th and 12th teams in 1964. Toronto is a 1965-teem possibility in the American.

Thanks to commissioner Ford Frick's insistence on a suitable amendment to rule No. 1, which required unanimous consent for the shifting of any club under league's territory, any future moves should be done in orderly fashion.

MUST BE STABLE

A territory now will be permitted to have two years only if its population exceeds 2,400,000. The new ownership must ratify the commissioner of individual character and collective financial stability to guarantee at least five years of operation.

The new clubs pack also must be located at least five miles away from the existing team's stadium unless both agree. The existing team must be reimbursed $100,000, one half of the amount it had cost in the form of indemnity to minor league teams. In the Dodger case, O'Malley received $325,000. It cost him $450,000 to pioneer the West Coast.

Frick said the amendment will

'Moe' Hunter Stars in BCI Floor Hockey

"Moe" Hunter, versatile young athlete of Belleville Collegiate Institute, was named the school's Mr. Hyde Hockey Player yesterday.

The award was made after Hunter starred in the school's annual all-star floor hockey game.

He scored five goals in Ron Dulmage's Red team's 8-4 victory over the Black squad coached by Pat Asselline.

The selection was made by the student spectators "to the player who gave the best performance".

Helping Hunter in the Red victory was Clyde McFarlane with two goals; Larry Soule with one goal and an assist; Weston, one goal and one assist, and Graydon Scott with one assist.

"Red" Kellar scored twice for the Black team with Adams and Dolan getting single markers.

The Reds led the Blacks 4-0 at half-time.

The two all - star teams were picked from the four squads which participated in the Upper School Floor Hockey League. The players were selected by a special committee.

The lineups:—

Reds: Dupuis, Hunter, Cornell, Hallam, McFarlane, Regensburg, Soule, Scott, Weston.

Blacks: Campbell, Adams, Burr, Dolan, Kellar, Andrews, Muir, Latimer, Taylor.

Referees: Dave Smith and Brian McKenzie.

Scorer, H. M. Townsend; timer, Richard Herrington.

Young Runner Gets Award

TORONTO (CP)—Bruce Kidd, 17, a Toronto distance runner, Wednesday was named winner of the Viscount Alexander Trophy, awarded annually to the outstanding Canadian athlete in midget, juvenile or junior competition.

He becomes the first person to win the award, made by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, two years in a row.

Only other two - time winner was Rich Ferguson, Toronto sailor who was selected in 1946 and 1951.

Kidd runs for the East York track Club and won more than 20 events in various parts of the country, at distances varying from 880 yards to 3,000 metres.

The Ottawa-born athlete plans to concentrate his training on long-distance events and has set his sights on a gold medal in the 1964 Olympics.

The award will be presented at a dinner here Dec. 6.

Last May, Kidd broke his own world record for the junior three-mile run, breaking the tape at 1:07.8 to clip his previous best by 36.4 seconds.

Royals Edge Marlies 3-2

TORONTO (CP)—Guelph Royals defeated Toronto Marlboros 3-2 in an Ontario Hockey Association junior A game Wednesday night.

Rod Gilbert, top scoring Royal right winger, fired the winning goal into an empty net with two minutes to play.

Paul Andrea gave Guelph a one-goal lead early in the first period, and Royals made it stand up until early in the third period when Gary Jarrett fired the first of his two goals for the night.

Mike Middleton put Guelph ahead again just 20 seconds later, but Jarrett scored again while carrying two Guelph defensemen on his back.

The win put Royals within one point of first place in the league standings, and left Marlboros still holding fast to last place in the seven-team league.

Sugar Ray Named Fighter Of the-Month

NEW YORK (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, after his draw with Gene Fullmer in San Francisco, today advanced to no. 2 among the middleweight contenders and was named fighter of the month by Ring magazine.

Ring, in its monthly ratings, recognizes Paul Pender of Brookline, Mass., as the world middleweight champion and ranks Fullmer, of West Jordan, Utah, the top contender. Fullmer was considered champion by the National Boxing Association.

Robinson, who was listed ninth in the top 10 heavyweight, George Chuvalo of Toronto, who defeated Bob Carson of Montreal for the Canadian crown recently in a rematch last month, is no. 8 among the challengers for Floyd Patterson's crown. Chuvalo is rated ninth.

Unknown Italian Defeats World Champ

MILAN, Italy (AP)—Giordano Carnpari, little known outside his home, was a class cut decision Italian homeland, scored a stunning upset Wednesday night by defeating world lightweight boxing champion Joe Brown in a 10-round, non-title bout.

The decisive development came in the second round when Brown went down for a count of eight after taking a stinging left hand blow on the chin. Referee Campari weighed 135¾ pounds, Brown 136¾.

Campari, using his sweeping left jab to an advantage on Brown's left, let down outside his form, was a class cut decision. The Associated Press gave the Italian four rounds, Brown one and called five even.

Plenty of Non-Executive Spots for Women in TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Virginia Payne, an actress with many years experience in broadcasting, recently remarked that for a woman to succeed in television she must "look like a girl, think like a man, act like a lady and work like a dog."

Certainly, the studios and offices of television are crammed with bright young women ready and eager to fill this demanding bill. But few indeed are called before the cameras. There is plenty of opportunity, however, in the behind-the-scenes, non-executive spots for the ladies.

Statistically, there are at least two actors hired for every actress. And a recent survey of the membership of the American women in radio and television—1,646 members — showed that about one-third earned less than $1,000 a year in broadcasting.

REPORTERS RARE

But even rarer than the steadily employed actress in television is the regularly employed U.S. network reporter and broadcaster. They can be counted, in fact, on two fingers — Nancy Hanschman of CBS and Pauline Frederick of NBC.

Nancy has only been an official "Washington correspondent" —which means cameramen work —since last February. CBS made Pauline, however, has been a broadcasting reporter for several years, many of which were spent in efforts to get a chance to do something besides the woman's angle. Finally NBC gave her a chance, assigning her to an important beat, the Unified National Where her thoughtful, thoroughly informed reports have been widely appreciated.

Robert Mitchum Tells Why He Moved to Maryland

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I don't mind paying my taxes. The only thing I resent is having to do the blankety-blank bookkeeping."

This was Robert Mitchum, relaxing some false notions about his two-year absence from Hollywood. He has been making films in Australia, England and Ireland and no longer makes his residence here. But his reasons are not the same as those of other tax-wary stars.

Home for Mitchum is the far shore of Chesapeake Bay, a verdant stretch of Maryland coastline 75 miles from Baltimore. But it is no tax haven for the actor.

"If anything, I'm paying more in taxes," he said. "Everybody thinks I've got a big deal back here, an agent tried to tell me how I could get a big tax write-off on cattle. Not interested. I moved back to Maryland two years ago for reasons other than money."

What reasons, then?

FOUND AN ISLAND

"I took—I lived in California from 1934; that's long enough to be in any one place," he explained. "I wanted to make the move a few years ago and found an island in the Inland South Carolina. But my wife knew if I ever lived there, she could never get me to leave.

"Maryland isn't as remote. I can fly anywhere in no time at all. But when I'm there, it's like living in a different world. Living there means the burning of another bridge behind me.

"My unsocial nature is well known. In Maryland, I can be as asocial as I want and nobody gives a damn."

His fellow Marylanders cooperate, he remarked, often giving obscure directions to would-be gawkers looking for the Mitchum place.

Bill to Provide Treatment For Drunkenness Approved

TORONTO (CP) — A government measure to ease the penalties for chronic drunkenness offenders and develop a system of rehabilitation was approved in principle Wednesday by the Ontario legislature's standing committee on legal bills.

The bill amending the penalty for — drunkenness section of the Liquor Contro Act, provides for treatment in an approved institution but retains the jail term.

"Half the population of our jails are there for drunkenness," Attorney-General Roberts said in support of the bill.

The new approach to alcoholism, with which some 80,000 persons in Ontario are afflicted, is to treat the confirmed instead of confining him to jail.

The present act provides up to $50 fine or 30 days in jail for the first offence, up to $100 or one to two months in jail for a second offence, and two to six months in jail for subsequent offences.

The amending bill provides three alternatives:

A fine up to $50 or imprisonment up to 30 days or both.

Forced detention in an institution for the reclamation of alcoholics for not more than 30 days.

Detention on a voluntary basis for not more than 90 days if the alcoholic signs a pledge consenting to remain for treatment.

The government now is trying to find a suitable property on Toronto Island for establishment of its first "drunk" farm where alcoholics may be treated. The offenders will be drawn from magistrate's court.

WORLD AMEND ACT

Committe passed a bill to amend the Devolution of Estates Act which would increase the preferential share of a surviving spouse to $20,000 from $5,000 when a person dies intestate.

Approval in principia was given to a bill amending the Credit Unions Act. The bill will permit credit unions to delegate powers to one or more employees of a union to process applications for loans.

Another provision, enabling credit unions to continue in business after suffering financial deficits, prevents impaired capital from being withdrawn at more than its actual value and guarantees that new capital will not have to share the burden of previous losses.

A bill was passed amending the Law Society Act, which will enable the society to fresh a lawyer's trust account when he has been found guilty of misconduct in connection with a property in his possession or under his control.

The legislature must still approve the bills.

FIRST READING GIVEN

LONDON (Reuters) — The House of Commons gave the first reading Wednesday to a private bill which would make it illegal in Britain to discriminate against any person on the grounds of color, race or religion.

Council of Churches Urges U.S. Take Sides in Struggle

By GARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A growing concern within the United States over the basic American attitude toward the nationalistic movements of Asia, Africa and Latin America has been articulated by the U.S. National Council of Churches.

In blunt terms, a report to the influential body has deplored the U.S. passion for maintaining the status quo. And it has urged the U.S. to take sides with the reform struggles in backward countries.

On a theoretical level, political and business leaders have applauded this as a noble sentiment. In practical terms, there is no chance that U.S. foreign policy inextricably harnessed with the U.S. dollar, could overnight adopt such an about-face.

The inevitable result is that the U.S. finds itself holding tickets on such losing horses as Fulgencio Batista, Syngman Rhee and Adnam Menederes.

But recently the U.S. has tacitly or overtly backed the "strong man" regimes in a rash of Latin American outbreaks in Guatemala, Nicaragua, Venezuela and Argentina. No one seriously expects it to do otherwise.

Nevertheless, the national council report points out areas where the U.S. could make its mark outside the local bureaucracies without stepping on anyone's toes.

The council notes reports of "massive human suffering" in northeastern Brazil and asks:

"What reaction have we shown? . . . What reaction will we show if it becomes apparent in Cuba? Do we really care for the Cuban people?"

It also comments that when Guinea became independent, five months passed before the U.S. sent a charge d'affaires to open an embassy.

"Our indifference and inertia contrasted with Moscow's alertness and speed. No wonder Guinea is under Moscow influence."

A special report on Cuba also criticized America's indifference. It said a social revolution was being overtaken in Cuba and cited "appalling lack of knowledge" on the U.S. in the situation under ex-dictator Batista.

DECORATING HINT

An increasingly popular decorating idea is the use of a scatter rug placed over the regular living-room carpet.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Friday, December 9

General Tendencies: Until 8:30 P.M. all kinds of strange and odd events can happen to take away from your ability to make a big success of what you are trying to do. Then through tonight you find you can make a diagram, a blueprint, a model of what you want in the future and put into effect in a very skillful, satisfactory manner.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Do not be too forceful with others until early evening, since they will not respond to your ideas. Also, beware your figures are correct in any reports or bank statements. P.M. put all in order on home, get clothing pressed.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — This is one of those days when you are unable to get a correct trial balance or other figure; do not jibe until early P.M. when you are thinking more clearly. Then you will get the answer quickly. P.M. fine for social pleasures.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Important you meet any commitments you have made to partners and do whatever public-spirited work you have promised. Tonight you must cheer up closest of kin and do for them whatever is most needed and appreciated. Be good.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — It is advisable to pay strict attention to the words of a higher-up, though it may not be exactly what you want to hear. Follow advice given. P.M. fine for taking a little trip, visiting and writing.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Try not to be too extravagant until early evening though you seem to have so little control. By 6:30 p.m. you will then be able to thing more clearly and also do whatever will insure security instead. Make any repairs necessary.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Do not reach any important decisions until early evening, since you are not apt to be thinking clearly. Evening is then very favorable for you. Change your attitude to a more co-operative one. Be very sociable, also.

Libra (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) — The right day to be dynamic if you want to clear up any private matters. Evening is best spent at the theatre, playhouse, or just watching TV in the quiet of own home. Think.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Keep that appointment for practical reasons during daytime and permit nobody to stop you. Steer clear of gossip, however. P.M. take initial steps for increasing abundance. Don't take anyone into our confidence.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You have to be careful not to get into an argument with one in powerful position until late afternoon. After that, all runs smoothly and you can make the contacts you need. An interesting and helpful persons, can study new material, prepare yourself for advancement. Be controlled. Use good judgment.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — If you do not permit secret anxieties to disturb you until late afternoon, you can meet interesting and helpful persons, can study new material, prepare yourself for advancement. Be controlled. Use good judgment.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — It is best to follow the good advice of a good friend rather than the intuition of some superiors authority who really has no interest in your affairs. P.S. come to better understanding with all those vital to your well-being.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) —Remain neutral in that heated discussion today between a partner and a higher-up. Tonight a good comrade shows the best way to express that into associate and how best to get along together in the future. Follow advice.

If your child is born today . . . they will early appear to be a good deal of confusion in his or her young life because the mind is full of great ideas but there is doubt as to how to carry them through. Give fine spiritual training in order to increase confidence and so thorough an education in higher mathematics as well as other practical subjects. Maturity should bring a tremendous success.

New Transmission Tower Demonstrated by U.S. Utility Seeking Means to Cut Costs

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The sight of an 85-foot-high power transmission tower dangling from a helicopter startled two Virginia drivers so much that they drove their cars into the ditch.

But, says engineer Brian White, this sight soon may be relatively commonplace.

Mr. White, 36, of Montreal is transmission line engineer for the Aluminum Company of Canada, and that dangling tower was his responsibility.

It was being used in a demonstration by a major U.S. utility seeking means to cut costs on high-voltage electric power transmission.

The design and development of Alcan's variation on an old high-voltage power pole idea has been Mr. White's project for two years. He has named the product the guyed V tower, so called because it is constructed in the shape of a V with a crossarm at the top, set on a single base and held upright by four guy wires.

The principle is old, guyed towers having been used in Europe since the late 1800s, but the Alcan design has at least two innovations which he believes will make it competitive with the best from European suppliers who have held much of the Canadian market for several years.

LIGHTWEIGHT METAL

The first is its V-shaped construction, second its use of aluminum instead of steel.

Use of aluminum, which pound for pound costs more than steel, gives the guyed V tower a transportation and erection advantage which permits considerable field savings over the standard tower, like V shape, Mr. White says. first it additional marginal advantages over the two-legged guyed towers used widely in Canada.

The standard, or rigid tower used in high-voltage lines across Canada now is of steel construction and is built with broad base to the ground. Its superstructure rigid without use of guy wires.

In time, the pieces are brought to the site, sorted and assembled into lower sections, which then are hoisted separately into place. Aluminum's higher cost in this kind of tower is not overcome by the advantage of its lighter weight.

In the guyed tower, however, the aluminum construction is less than 40 per cent of the weight of steel construction. This permits use mostly pre-assembly in the yard where materials are kept, transport to the site in complete and simple erection—more of a land crane if necessary.

And the aluminum towers are so light they can be transported in part by helicopter, a method of tremendous value in reaching power areas where nearly all of Canada's remaining high-power sites are located.

ENGINEER TO PLEASE

Mr. White, who pole-vaulted for Sir George Williams University in Montreal, says engineer is the man to please.

"The engineer is the man who will make it competitive with the best from European suppliers who have held much of the Canadian market for several years."

said, but there are marginal advantages too.

For instance, only one footing is needed, eliminating much of the precision work required in foundation preparation for a two- or four-legged tower, especially on mountainous ground. Where one leg must be longer than the other, footings must be exact to maintain a level crossarm. With one-footed V tower, six inches here or there don't matter.

"We began our studies of this type of structure because we wanted to reduce costs on our transmission lines," Mr. White said. "We can justify all of we've done so far by the possible savings we'll make in future lines."

Right now there are four towers, installed in 1958, in Alcan's 345,000-volt Chute-des-Passes line in Quebec, the experimental tower erected in Virginia, and a test tower in Vancouver. Under construction at Pittsfield, Mass., Aluminum Electric is a 106-foot tower with a 90-foot wide crossarm, for use in tests with voltages to 750,000.

Alcan, in co-operation with U.S. and Canadian fabricators, is negotiating and bidding on transmission line on the continent and Mr. White says he believes the design is competitive with anything else in use.

Moscow Trying to Spoil Indians' Image of Canada

By RUKMINI DEVI
Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP) — The Soviet Union is obviously unhappy about the pleasing image Indians have of Canada and the Canadian people. Moscow is out to try to spoil it.

Russian magazines mass - produced in Moscow and distributed here at nominal prices have in recent weeks devoted increasing attention to Canadian conditions. The picture painted is that of a country haunted by the spectre of unemployment and groaning under the "economic domination" of the United States.

The latest issue of New Times (the yearly home-delivered subscription of this weekly is less than $3) contains a blistering attack on Canada in which the country is likened to a deflated drained colony" of the United States.

Dr. Walter L. Gordon, the Canadian economist, is approvingly quoted for his reported view that Canada is on the way to becoming "a helpless satellite of the United States.

Painting a bleak picture of unemployment in Canada, the Moscow - printed journal says that "this situation is reflected all across Canada in foreclosures of mortgaged homes, small-business bankruptcies, virtual collapse of private house-building industry and a precipitous drop in automobile production and sales."

IMMIGRATION DOWN

"Population facts are equally demonstrative," the article says. "Fewer Canadians are getting married. The birth rate is declining. After a great controversy Canadian propaganda spree in Britain and Europe the government has suddenly slammed the immigration door shut and no more eloquent speeches are heard about the 'limitless expansion of free enterprise' in Canada's vast spaces."

New Times devotes three pages to explain the Canadian flag looking on the bright horizon of Canada's competitive economy. Women competed for jobs not only with their husbands, and sons but, with great numbers of immigrants brought to Canada in the last few years.

Other Soviet propaganda journals distributed in this country also have devoted considerable space to the activities of "reactionary Estonian emigre organizations" in Canada and other Western countries.

The Soviet government's information department in New Delhi distributed to newspapers an account of atrocities allegedly committed by Aleksander Laak, a former SS officer, during the war and charged Canada with granting him asylum. Laak later committed suicide in Winnipeg.

"One Bombay editor said he would have published the account but for the fact that the whole idea of distributing the release appeared to be more anti-Canada than anti-Nazi."

Canadian Ship In Distress

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — The 250-foot Canadian grain carrier Starbelle today reported a distress call from the centre of storm-swept Lake Superior.

The U.S. coast guard sent the tug Naugatuck to the aid of the ship. The skipper reported the Starbelle had suffered two vertical cracks forward in her hull.

Youth Admits Role in Robbery At Verona

KINGSTON (CP) — One of two youths charged with armed robbery and kidnapping in the holdup of a bank at Verona last Friday pleaded guilty today.

Stanley Peter Davis, 17, of Lansdowne admitted his role in the $17,000 holdup, the kidnapping of Mrs. W. F. Crosby and armed robbery of Mrs. Crosbie.

His companion, Arnold Breed Mawery, 21, also of Lansdowne, was remanded without plea to Dec. 20, when his lawyer suggested a mental examination.

Davis was remanded to the same date for sentence.

Mrs. Crosbie, wife of a Kingston bank manager, was taken hostage by the two youths who held her up and stole her car in a city parking lot.

Later the car appeared at Vernon, 35 miles north of here, when a man masked in bandages "like a mummy" robbed a Bank of Montreal branch. A teller, Shirley Akey, 20, was taken along by the bandit as hostage.

Police found the car, with Mrs. Crosbie locked in the trunk of the abandoned vehicle, at Trenton. Police officers later forced another car off the road and arrested two youths. The car was recovered.

A charge of kidnapping Miss Akey was withdrawn.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Strong southwesterly winds are moderating and will end by most of Ontario today but this trend may be short lived with the next outburst of Arctic air already reported itself felt in the northwestern part of the province. Snow falling across Northern Ontario in advance of this latest cold wave will spread rapidly into Southern Ontario tonight. Saturday will see clearing conditions and lower temperatures in most regions although locally heavier snow squalls will continue in the snowbelt areas south of Lake Huron, Georgian Bay and Lake Ontario.

Charged with the task is a 10-member Canadian team of experts which arrived here Thursday afternoon following a non-stop flight from Montreal.

Seven members of the team including Dr. Ira Lyon, Assistant Minister Julio Camacho were required to submit to smallpox vaccination before being allowed through immigration. Unable to produce vaccination certificates as required by Canadian law they were ushered into an anteroom at Uplands airport where the shots were administered by a Cuban army doctor.

Head of the mission Economy Minister Regino Boti said it is best to come to "find out what we can

ORATORY KILLS BID TO BROADEN DIVORCE GROUNDS

Hint CCF Would Have More to Say

OTTAWA (CP)—A CCF member's bill to broaden the grounds for divorce in Canada was killed by oratory in the Commons Thursday night. But there was a hint that the CCF would have more to say about Parliament's handling of divorces.

The politically delicate subject was a debate for two hours and private members' day before discussion was halted by the 10 p.m. adjournment.

No vote was taken. The bill died on the order paper in the Commons agenda with almost no chance of bobbing up again this session.

Sponsor of the bill, Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming), said at the outset that he had no hope of its immediate acceptance. His attitude was justified by criticism that came later from other members.

Most MPs who spoke said a section in the Canadian divorce laws. But some objected to any step that might "sway the vote." Mr. Peters's proposed bill was answered by objections on religious, legal and constitutional grounds.

During the debate Mr. Peters dropped one not-so-subtle hint that he and Frank Howard (Skeena) — who last session filibustered with him for five days in a private parliamentary handling of Quebec and Newfoundland divorce cases — may have other tactics ready for this session.

The warning note was sounded while Robert McCleave (PC—Halton) was speaking. He told Commons committees that handle private divorce bills, signed them for a "shameful" blocked of hundreds of bills at the last session.

"It will be worse this year," Mr. McCleave added from his seat, without giving any further clues as to possible future action.

Bongo Drums Are Silenced

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)— The drum-beating Bongo Boys are no more.

The Navy has put a top enforcement officer on the case.

The order written by municipal Judge Frank Christopoch ordered up with a shrill admonition:

"Let us be quiet from 9 p.m. until 8 a.m. every day."

For retired Rear - Admiral Harding the ruling constituted a victory of no mean proportion. At stake, said he, was his sanity.

Every night, said the admiral, the drums would commence until 2 a.m. in Rudy Escobedo's restaurant across the alley.

The judge visited the scene. Then the retired Shoshone of disturbing the peace and gave the order which put the drums suspended. The moratorium on drums is effective for one year.

Violence Erupts in Algeria As de Gaulle Seeks Support

ALGIERS (AP)—Mob violence erupted in Algeria today as President Charles de Gaulle sought to win the rebellious territory wearing a general's uniform to rally up support for his plans for home rule.

Special riot police battled thousands of demonstrators in the packed streets of Algiers and soldiers moved into the great city square of Oran, 220 miles northwest of Algiers, to control a push of thousands more.

There was a general strike proclaimed by the Front for French Algeria, largest group of diehard settlers, were hoping for a large extent in most big cities.

The French chief of state went ahead with his tour, previing his plan that could even lead to Algeria's independence from France. This is what the settlers fear most, for they would be far outnumbered by Algeria's Moslem majority.

(A series of about 10 explosions shook central Algiers today, a Reuters dispatch said. There was no immediate explanation of the blasts.)

De Gaulle's first stop was Algiers yesterday, a city of some 200 people, about half of them European.

At he stopped from his car, scattered cries of greeting were drowned out by a roar of "Algeria is French." Police said 5,000 people stood in a chill downpour to shout their protests.

De Gaulle smiled and strode erect to the city hall. After he had gone inside an army colonel and 100 troops bought up papers, told the crowd to "demonstrate no further."

De Gaulle set the tone of his visit after conferring briefly with officials in city hall.

He walked through a cordon of police ringing to shake hands with a dozen or so Moslems. Beaming, they clasped his hand and shouted "Vive de Gaulle." Those present said de Gaulle then left Algiers and Moslem cooperation. One source said he told the officials:

"On your faces I see a new

Jets Deliberately Flying Collision Course in Quebec

OTTAWA (CP) — Two RCAF CF-100 jets were flying a course that would have caused a collision when they meshed in a screech of steel Wednesday night over Northern Quebec.

The four aircrew involved are missing in what the air force described as a routine interception exercise.

Course but collision is the method used in making interceptions, Dep ent chief, at a hearing of earthings, RCAF, CF-100 crews practice this tactic seven miles up.

Interceptions are made on a collision course — usually at a right angle—as the fastest and most efficient means of destroying a hostile bomber.

In other words, there is no error, as there was from land, World War, for tail chases. Canadian air George Galloway, flying, like Billy Bishop in the First World War, was able to run a big score only because he didn't have to get behind his quarry. He was deadly accurate with his deflection shots from all directions.

FLAME "LOCKS ON"

Galloway's kill is a two overcomes the possibility of the quarry outrunning the interceptor. This is especially important to RCAF officers say, because the CF-100 is not a fast.

This is how course for collision is done.

Ground radar warns the interceptor that a hostile plane is approaching and gives him a course to steer to put it within range.

About 26 miles from the target, the CF - 100's own radar takes over. This is called "getting on" the target. This means that when the other plane does it can't escape the CF-100 radar.

When the interceptor's radar is locked on the target, a dot is shown in a scope in front of the pilot. It is the pilot's job to keep the dot in the centre of the screen. The dot represents the hostile plane.

The closing speed between the two jets is so great that deception is awesome. It may be 1,000 miles an'hour or more. In daytime, the target is sighted and can be clearly seen, it is a "fair-raking" duel.

When the CF-100 is within firing range, its radar automatically fires the guns at the right second, the dot on the scope is centred on a large X.

This is the signal for the pilot to break away immediately to avoid the explosion which would result if he continued on the interception course.

On some interceptors—but not CF-100s—the break-off is done automatically.

In the CF-100 break-off, death is well and the pilot merely blinks an eye at the target and then at the figures on his screen. If his attention is distracted for even a fraction of a second, his reaction on the stick may be too late to avoid a collision.

A malfunction in the radar system could be fatal for the pilot and his navigator.

WINDSOR GAS EXPLOSION CHIEF TOPIC OF DEBATE

Energy Minister On 'Hot' Seat

TORONTO (CP)—The natural gas explosion at Windsor which killed 19 persons, left 200 homeless and injured 53 others last October became the chief topic of debate in the Ontario legislature Thursday.

After three hours of sometimes heated discussion, Energy Resources Minister Macaulay said he could not say when he would be prevented by a book full of safety regulations and a squad of inspectors.

They attempted to disconnect a two-inch main with an open fire in the corner," Mr. Macaulay said. "A man determined to break the law will do so."

He said a transcript of evidence from last week's inquest at Windsor will be referred to Attorney-General Roberts to determine whether criminal charges should be laid.

SEE IF ACT BROKEN

If not, the energy department will determine if the Ontario Energy Act was broken—one of the findings of a coroner's jury.

Speaking in the presentation of his department's estimates for the 1961-62 fiscal year, Mr. Macaulay said "A man determined to break the law will do so."

He said a transcript of evidence from last week's inquest at Windsor will be referred to Attorney-General Roberts to determine whether criminal charges should be laid.

"We will punish the offenders wherever they may be," Adding that the department will study the jury's 12 recommendations to see whether they can contribute to the safety laws.

Canada Striving to Avert Cutoff of U.S. Foreign Aid

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada is striving to avert application to this country of new United States regulations that would curtail foreign aid program which might cut into a $10,000,000 market for Canadian farm products, goods in less-developed nations, an informed source said today.

The regulations, which are before the U.S. to recognize that while there is a solid financial position, it should be regarded as the same drain on limited aid as a country in need, West Germany, Britain and France.

Canadian government sources declined for the present to say whether the campaign is having success in Washington, but hint that Canadian officials are hopeful assured of U.S. sympathy.

The U.S. regulations, from a U.S. state department order recently, would limit Export-Import Bank loans to countries which are by what he termed a "socialistic direction" there just happen to be hundreds of such people in town from all parts of Canada. Liquor-Hazed Brendan Behan Puts Blast on French Leaders

MONTREAL (CP) — Brendan Behan took on France and the McGill University Thursday night and left both sides of the Atlantic baas as the undisputed winner.

The happy Irish playwright overrode an attempt to cancel a scheduled lecture at the university with regal though slightly unsteady confidence. He said: I don't want your fee, I'll talk for nothing"— and called France's President Charolais cattle, Charlier. The Farming Express, a weekly published by Canadian brook Newspapers, said that Canada objected to Britain's proposed plan to import the cattle duty free. They might bring disease into the country which would affect the export of British cattle to Canada, and the sales of Canadian cattle in the United States.

Mobutu Given Ultimatum By Oriental Boss

Will Arrest All Whites And Kill Some of Them

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — Supporters of Patrice Lumumba who is Oriental province today threatened to kill an unspecified number of Belgian hostages unless the deposed premier is freed.

(Reuters said "the threat included a 48-hour deadline which it understood expires tonight.)

The threat was contained in a telegram to President Joseph Kasavubu and Col. Joseph Mobutu, the Congolese army commander whose troops arrested Lumumba and clamped him into prison.

Bernard Salumu, boss of the regime at Stanleyville, capital of Oriental province, threatened to arrest all Europeans, kill some of them, and "sabotage all Belgian interests in the province" if Lumumba was not released within 48 hours.

The United Nations took immediate emergency action to protect the lives and interests of Belgians in the province, half of them in Stanleyville.

The United Nations spokesman said Salumu threatened only Belgians, but was not specific. There is no distinction between Belgians and other whites.

An unknown number of non-Belgians are believed to be in Oriental province. Many of them are missionaries.

The UN has 1,900 Ethiopian troops in the province. They took over a school building in Stanleyville Thursday as a protected refuge for all whites.

Police were unable to evacuate the entire white population to Leopoldville if necessary.

Salumu's cable reached Leopoldville Thursday, but the threat became known to UN officials after a press conference given by the elected Stanleyville late Wednesday.

Early today UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold told the Security Council meeting in New

SR. CITIZENS HOLD DECEMBER MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Senior Citizens' Social Club was held Wednesday evening in the regretion rooms on Pinnacle Street, at the usual hour of 7.30 p.m.

The President Mr. Harry Scales opened the meeting with "The Queen," followed by greetings to all members who had celebrated or would be celebrating birthdays in December, and also to couples having a wedding anniversary during the month.

The members were then pleasingly entertained by recitations graciously rendered by Mrs. Emily Stewart.

The 70 members present then enjoyed the usual euchre games and entertainment, as arranged by the co-chairmen, Mr. James Scott and Mrs. Lulu Adams. Member of the door prize was Mrs. Dorothy Wallace. Winners of the euchre were: ladies' first, Mrs. N. Wilson; second, Mrs. Mc. Kinnon; men's first, N. Keegan; second, G. Thorne.

Refreshments were then served by the refreshments committee members, Mrs. Fred Cook, and assistants.

"Y" JUNIOR MEMBERS AID "WORLD SERVICE"

The junior members of the local YMCA are embarking on a project to raise funds to help the less fortunate children in other parts of the world through the YMCA "World Service" programs. The local lads find issues will be selling two-pound boxes of licorice candies and are hoping to raise about $400 by this method.

OFFICE EQUIPMENT STOLEN IN NIGHT

Two pieces of office equipment, including an adding machine, with a combined value of about $1,300 are missing from the office of the Ontario Cheese Producers' at their headquarters on Main Street.

Inspector J. B. McLauchlin said entry had been gained by breaking a pane of glass in a back loading ramp, from where the intruders proceeded to the office.

Also big-night thieves smashed open the coin chenge machines in the cafe and laundromat on North Front Street and got away with an undetermined amount of change.

LOCAL FIREMEN HAD BUSY DAY

Local firemen had a busy day yesterday with four alarms being answered. The first of these was called in at 7.31 a.m. when oven-heated stove pipes were reported at 44 Centennial Road.

At 11:51 a.m. a car belonging to Ron Austin of 373 Sydney St. was parked on Front Street de veloped a fire in its engine compartment. Some damage occurred before the flames were extinguished.

This call was followed shortly, at 11:37 o'clock, by a second call to a similar overheated stove pipes. This time firemen were called to 27 Wallbridge Road. As in the other case no damage was apparent.

The final call in the day came at 5:01 p.m. with equipment from both units being summoned to the Belleville School for the Deaf. The alarm proved to have been accidentally tripped.

FIRM ENGAGED

The McAlpine firm of Bannon hoe Limited has moved in to carry out the necessary land survey work to secure land descriptions. Mr. McAlpine said this work was now nearing completion and preparations would be ready for the January session.

Harry F. Rollins, M.L.A. for Hastings East, urged that purchase of the required right-of-way be completed as soon as possible in order that tenders for the construction of the first section of roadway may be called.

Any delay acquiring the property might mean delay in the contract with result that construction might not get under way next year.

Reeve Rollins said he was prepared to go along with the wishes of council and the municipal engineer on the matter of the Ivanhoe by-pass, but looking into the future realized that re building of the Madoc road would have the effect of greatly increasing the traffic load on Ivanhoe.

Although the department has declined to take the road over as a provincial highway, Mr. Rollins said his personal opinion was that the county should be entitled to later consideration in maintenance of the road following reconstruction.

He did not favor deletion of either No. 14 highway or 37 highway as provincial highways in order to have the load county assumed as a continuation of highway 62 leading to North Hastings.

WILL ALLEVIATE KNOLLS

Mr. Rollins expected that work would be shortly underway on No. 14 highway in the vicinity required for reconstruction of the Madoc bypass to alleviate a couple of blind knolls and to widen the roadway. "The work would be welcome to employ men," he said.

The joint engineering report showed that a total of $380,652 had been spent on the county road system during the year of October, 1959 to October, 1960. This amount included expenditures on development road projects.

Considerable maintenance work had been done on county roadways during the late summer and fall, being facilitated by the low water levels.

A total of $27,181 has been spent on the Tweed-Eldridge development road, while additional work had also been carried on the Ridge Road east of Stirling.

Work of the major capital items on the roads program this year had been the construction of a bridge and approaches crossing on the Harry Carter farm north of Foxboro. Cost of the building was $27,219.

Road maintenance work during the year totalled $191,000.

Mr. Hamilton said the subway under the Canadian National railway north of Trenton was now nearly completed. Total cost of the subway was about $170,000 with the net county share being about $6,000.

Expenditure Not Warranted To By-Pass Ivanhoe When Foxboro-Madoc Road Built

Local residents would like the village of Ivanhoe to be by-passed by the Foxboro-Madoc road when it is rebuilt as a development road, but Highways Department engineers do not think traffic conditions warrant the expenditure.

Traffic congestion in the villages, particularly in the morning when many trucks are arriving at the cheese factory have caused many residents of the area to think the villages should be by-passed by the new road but engineers point to the cost factor, stating the by-pass is not justified at the present time.

They point out that any bypass would actually be of greater length than the existing road, while construction of a by-pass would require two new trans Wells would have to be re-installed.

Reeve Rollins (Sidney Hall) had been interviewed.

He said that the northern section of the road on which there are no settlements, could be moved, would be the most expensive item for right-of-way purchase. He estimated the right-of-way purchase cost might run to $61,000.

The reason for the apparent delay in acquiring the property was that road plans were still being changed.

FIRM ENGAGED

Geo. Vanderwater & Sons of Belleville have been awarded the contract for the construction of the new Foxboro-Madoc road, it was announced today by Hon. Charles MacNaughton, minister of highways.

The contract price is $1,191,000.

Ken Edgecombe New President Of ANAF Here

Two executive positions were filled by acclamation at last night's annual meeting of Unit 201, A.N.A.F. Veterans in Canada.

Ken Edgecombe becomes president for the coming year, and Frank Gray was unopposed for the position of treasurer.

The remaining members on the executive will be filled on election night, Thursday, Jan. 12.

An advance poll will be open at the Front St. clubroom from noon on Wednesday, Jan. 9, until p.m. Thursday, Jan. 12.

EXPECTS INCREASE

EDMONTON (CP)—W. E. Robertson, commissioner of Canadian wheat board Thursday told the annual Farmers' Congress of Alberta convention Canadian wheat exports are expected to pick up again this year after falling off by 17,000,000 bushels in 1959.

Lack of Funds Holding Up Number of Winter Works Projects in Hastings County

Lateness of the government decision to extend the period for the winter works program by having it commence earlier in the season has resulted in many municipalities being unable to take full advantage of the extended program because of lack of funds.

This was indicated at Hastings county council Thursday when, following a talk by Cecil Hiuser, national employment office manager, one northern county reeve said his municipality had been unable to get an early start because it had budgeted for the additional work.

Montegeip township reeve Pat Fitzgerald said if his municipality had known earlier of the extension it could have made the necessary provisions.

That finances were holding up a number of winter works programs in the county was indicated by Mr. Hiuser. He noted that so far 17 different projects to employ a possible 182 men had been approved, but lack of local finances had resulted in only 64 men being set to far put to work.

He said this was regrettable in a period which is seeing increased unemployment.

Mr. Hiuser regretted a tendency on the part of municipalities to lean toward welfare rather than an active employment scheme. He said it was much better for a man to work than to receive unemployment insurance and welfare.

23 P C INCREASE

Compared to the same period last year the unemployment increase in Belleville during December had shown a 23 per cent increase. Total unemployed registered for jobs at the end of November was 2,003, including 1,390 as compared with 1,528 at the same time last year.

Of the total unemployed about 800 were in Hastings county and the other 600 in Belleville.

The darkest employment picture in the county at the present time was at Deloro where closing down of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company at the end of the year would throw many more out of work.

As result of this a number of areas had been declared a surplus labor area, which meant that if jobs could not be found elsewhere for Deloro men, the government would consider giving financial assistance to families moving to another area.

Mr. Hiuser urged if any councillors knew of employment opportunities in the Hastings area to communicate with him. "We don't like to see these men, but if they cannot find work locally there will be no alternative," he said.

IN MEMORIAM

WRIGHT. — In loving memory of our dear son, William Frank, who was killed in a motor accident on December 8th, 1956.
Heavy we our hearts today,
Memory brings you back once more;
To the time when you were with us,
The happy days of yore.
Sadly missed and remembered by mother and family.

WHITLEJUFFE.—In loving memory of a dear son, William Frank, who passed away suddenly one year ago on December 8th, 1959.
Dad did we know, as we sowed and planted,
The harvest that in May would be reaped,
For the seed we sowed, alone would nourish,
To pain and sorrow one loved so dear,
Memories are his here to understand,
Why such a one was taken away,
God in His wisdom has planned
Beyond our power to know,
God gave us memories of Bill to hold,
And courage to bear the blow;
And that is rest to lose you, Bill,
God will ever know.
Sadly remembered by Mother and Dad.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Herbert L. (Pat) Gibbard wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, floral tributes, messages and beautiful food offerings received from relatives, neighbors and friends during his illness and bereavement. A special thanks to Dr. Ross, Dr. Hubbs, Dr. Wood, Dr. Woodley, 21st Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans, and the Crane Funeral Home.

Camera Club Sees Slides on Color Error Takes

The December meeting of the Belleville Camera Club was held on Tuesday at the Kiwanis Centre. A slide presentation was called, "Picture Clinic", was shown as part of the program and it covered many common mistakes which the average color photographer makes.

In the club's picture competition foy December titled "People", Lewis Lee took first place in both the color slide section and the black and white print group. The subject for January is "Night Scenes" and the club executive should provide material for everyone with the cold weather conditions being so beautiful.

During the business meeting, it was reported the Ontario Photographic Association of Canada group's color slide competition at Brantford had placed eighth in the November competition. Slides were judged by approximately 30 clubs from 30 to coast in Canada.

Frank Huson, chairman of the darkroom committee, reported that a new sink has been installed, which means that the club has a well equipped darkroom available for members.

Two Aspirants For Trusteeship In Ward Three

Another municipal election will be held in Belleville Dec. 19 involving two aspirants for the separate school trusteeship in Ward 3, where the city clerk's office says more than 1,400 eligible voters reside.

The contest will be between Paul E. Fleming, a chartered accountant who lives on Stanley Park Drive, and Patrick Cullen, an industrial accountant who resides on Willow Drive.

George O'Brien, local funeral home director, who was nominated to contest the trusteeship, resigned before the 9 p.m. deadline last night.

A second nomination meeting was ordered by City Clerk Adam Stalker when no separate school trustee candidates were decided in Wards 2 and 4 at the November nomination meeting at which most civic officers were returned by acclamation.

James Culligan, a pricing supervisor who lives on Shannon Rock Road, received acclamation in the separate school trusteeship in Ward 6 when no other candidates were nominated for that seat on the separate school board.

City Clerk Adam Stalker said an advance poll will be held at city hall Dec. 15-16-17, with the regular election day being Dec. 19.

A previous municipal election was held Dec. 5 for the public school trusteeship in Ward 4 where incumbent trustee Francis E. Clarke defeated newcomer Donald Harvey by a 65-vote majority.

Complete Cost of Courthouse Including Furnishings Will Be Over $600,000 Council Told

The completed cost of the new Hastings county courthouse now nearing its final stages of construction will be over $600,000, including cost of furnishings.

This was told to members of Hastings county council as they concluded their final session of the year yesterday at Shire Hall, where council sessions have been held for the past century.

Yesterday's session of council will be the last gathering of county fathers in the old Shire Hall building. The inaugural session of the 1961 council will be in the council chambers of the new county courthouse building.

Bancroft Reeve Jack Brown, chairman of the special committee overseeing construction of the new courthouse building, yesterday told council that plan changes had boosted the official construction contract figure by over $11,000.

The original tender figure was $542,096, but over 200 plan changes, mostly minor, had boosted the figure to $553,885. This figure would be still upped some more before final completion.

Furniture and carpeting for the building will cost $45,211, and venetian blinds another $4,000 and landscaping $1,200.

Construction costs for that portion of the building used for administration of justice will be shared by the trusteeship of city of Belleville and the town of Trenton, with the county to pay the entire cost of space used by county administration.

The official opening of the new building will be held March 18th, during the April county session of county council.

WILL LAY CORNERSTONE

Operations at the courthouse include the laying of a cornerstone with other phases of the construction to be left to others.

Attending will be members of county council, members of the judiciary and county and city representatives.

In the evening of the opening day an open house will be held at the building for the public and he will be invited to inspect the new courthouse.

Reeve Brown and his committee, now in the process of hiring other council members for their part in overseeing construction operations.

Reeve Carl Whitmore of Deloro expressed satisfaction of council, noting that few council members had questioned the amount of work the number of headaches which the overseeing entailed.

Warden Earl Sager said new furnishings for the courthouse will cost more than was originally anticipated.

"We could have cut the furnishing cost, but in the light of future years we would have been justifiably criticized if we settled for a lesser standard."

Finance committee chairman Donald Deacon urged that furniture in the present buildings be moved to the new building future after it was suitably refinished. "If all new furnishings were purchased, the cost of the item might have run as much as 21-30 per cent," he said.

NAMED CARETAKER

Merritt Wallis, 35-year-old Belleville man, was named caretaker of the new courthouse and lockup house with duties to commence Dec. 15 and position carries a salary of $4,700 per annum, with a dwelling unit to be thereof for an apartment to be occupied by the caretaker and his family.

Due to the work load involved, an executive committee was decided against hiring of an assistant man. Educational background and the applicant's mechanical ability were also factors in the choice of caretaker.

REPORTS RED MISSILES

LONDON (Reuters) — The Soviet Union may have developed an intercontinental ballistic missiles, Aviation Week magazine Western estimates published here today. The Institute for Strategic Studies, a non-government body, said in a pamphlet that on the basis of its estimates Russia may have the capability to produce 250 intercontinental missiles by the winter of 1961-62. It added that the Russian air force now operates 700,000 men and some 20,000 operational aircraft.

KNIGHTS TEMPLARS TO MARK CHRISTMAS

King Baldwin Preceptory of Knights Templars will hold its annual Christmas Observance in the Masonic Temple on Friday, Dec. 16th, December 11, at 8 p.m. This one of the five festivals exhibited under the Templar and military order. It also provides a very fitting means of commencing its hundredth year of service to the Order.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Eric Quirk, and guest soloist will be Mrs. Ralph. All the Masons and their ladies are cordially invited to share in this ceremonial. Light refreshments will be served at the close.

Two Sanitary Sewers Laid In Two Sections

Public works department crews have been busy over the past week installing sanitary sewers in the city. A 200-foot sewer has been laid on Pine Street between Goldale and Stanley and another sewer is being laid on Victoria Avenue west of Smith's Crescent to service the new Lambert-Rolfes subdivision.

Once this latter project is completed and water mains are also laid it will be possible for a road to be built which will be open up Victoria Avenue through to Farley Avenue. The time of building this road is not, as yet, scheduled although it is hoped to be in the not too distant future.

The water works projects have been progressing satisfactorily with crews busy clearing brush from the area to the south end of Foster Avenue, which location is slated to become a land fill project. Similar work is being done on at various city parks also.

Included amongst the above projects is a ditching program between that and Foster. The city are free of overgrowth and the like which might cause them to flood in the spring.

If and when the city receives any more complaints of not fully prepared advises deputy city engineer Mark Hartman, all equipment has been readied for instant use upon demand, and the necessary repairs have been fitted with their plows to make sure that there is no delay due to fitting difficulties when the snow comes. Routes, Gladiles and drivers have all been laid on so that citizens will be able to drive over cleared roads in the shortest possible time following a snowfall.

Other routine maintenance chores and duties have been the only ones which this department has had underway this week.

C of C President Gives Helpful Hints on Parties

Belleville Companies holding parties at any time within the next two weeks will help maintain the high traffic safety standard, hospitality, provided that their guests get home safely.

That is the reminder comes from Enos David, president of the Chamber of Commerce.

Drawing attention to the increasing hazards of December festivities, he calls on all Christmas party hosts to observe the following precautions:

"If you plan to serve 'alcoholic beverages, suggest that all drinking guests forget about their cars and use taxi or public transportation.

"Don't overfeed your guests; too much food may make them drowsy at the conclusion of the party. It will help everyone, including the host and hostess, to stay alert and alive.

"It is quite of your thoughtful planning if your guest is unfit to drive or walk, get him a lift or put him to bed.

"By observing these precautions, the business man can protect his guests from traffic hazards, and himself from remorse," Mr. David concluded.

Attempt Made To Enter Vault

Thwarted in an attempt to pry open the vault door at the Quinte District Cattle Breeders' Association in Sidney, between Wednesday night, would - be thieves then attempted to gain entry by removing the entire door and frame. The attempt was unsuccessful.

Dr. J. M. McLean, Breeders' Association manager, said railway bars were apparently used in the attempt to force the vault door. When this was not successful the bars were then used in an attempt to pry the entire door and frame assembly from the wall. The vault door and frame will have to be replaced by a new assembly.

Breeders' Association officials are at a loss to understand why the attempt was made to enter the vault. Only office records are kept in the vault. Entry to the Association office was gained by forcing a door.

Weekend Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—Trading was active on the Toronto dollar lamb steady on slaughter steers and yearlings this week at the Ontario public stockyards.

Heifers sold readily at steady prices while cow prices were 50 cents per hundredweight lower and bull prices generally unchanged. Replacements sold actively on a short supply at higher prices and feeder steers were in price gains of $1-2.

Hog prices $1.25-1.50 lower at the close, trading on lambs slow throughout the week with most of the offering lacking top quality and a few fancy lambs sold at a premium.

Cattle receipts, estimated at 6,000, were over 700 head more than last week at 1,700 more than the same week in 1959. Receipts from Western Canada totalled 352, 216 more than last week. Included were 1,000 head of choice fat cattle. Stock calves numbered 1,000 of those at last week at 64.

Shipments to Eastern Canadian slaughterers were comparable to last week at two loads and three cars, as exports to the United States.

Slaughter cattle: choice steers $24.50-25 with sales to 26.25; odd lots to 27.50 and one load at 28; common 15-18.50; good heifers $21-24 with sales to 24.50; medium 18-20; common 12-17; choice cows 16-18; canners 9.25-12.50; with odd sales at 26.50; common 12-13; canner and cutter sows 14-16; good to choice bologna bulls 16.50-17, an odd top to 17.50; common and medium bulls 13-15.50.

Replacement cattle: good light feeder steers 22.50-25; stock calves 26; common and medium stocker steers 20-22, with off colored light feeder steers down to 15.

Calves: Choice vealers $1-26.75; good 24-26; medium 22-24; common 18-22; boners 13-18.

Hogs: grade A closed at 21.50; heavy weights 18.50; light 20.50; stags 15 on 2 dressed weight basis.

Sheep and lambs: good handyweight lambs 21 with odd sales to lots at 21.50; bucks discounted $5 per hundredweight; good heavy lambs 17-18; medium and common sold downward to 14; feeders 15-17; sheep 3-10 according to quality.

Trenton Council Briefs

TRENTON — Town council met last night in brief session. Present were all members of the 1960 council before the end of the year and the date for the meeting has been set for Dec. 29. This will allow the final bills and accounts to attend to other money matters before the end of the year.

Council passed a by-law making it an offence for any person to distribute milk or milk products, for retail sale, under bottling plants are located within the confines of the corporation.

The licence fee of an initial $15, plus $5 for each vehicle used by the milk distributor will remain in effect during 1961, C. Graham, a local milk distributor, who was present at the meeting, said he was satisfied with the by-law and the licence fee schedule.

Solicitors for the Tasham Construction Company have billed the town $1,000 for the work in surfacing the re-surfacing work done on the town's streets last year. The company claims it wasn't the fault of the contractor's job didn't hold up. The company blames chemicals used in the process of making ways for the deterioration. Tenders on the re-surfacing for the second time again asphalt.

"Our work was completed within the time limit and done as specified by the contract," said the solicitors' letter. However, strict penalties laid down for failure to finish within the time limit.

Councillor Whitley said he thought Tasham had left traffic on the original surface too soon after the work was completed.

The town solicitor will investigate the matter and report to council.

Town engineer Walter Murray reported that from Jan. 1 to Nov. 30, the estimated work in building and re-surfacing totalled to $1,830,563, and that if the proposed addition to Dundas and the work being done on the annexation were included, the sum would be more than $2,000,000, which would be $500,000 more than the total estimates for 1959 and 1959.

The Department of Municipal Affairs will be asked to consider the sale by the town of a number of registered properties. In two cases the town plans to demolish the existing buildings and sell the lot at a future date. There was some question about whether one house on Front St. was empty. Councillor Lange said that there were no windows in the house.

"If is isn't vacant now it will be after tonight," he said.

Assessor Alan Smith and the town engineer will determine the value of land which the PUC wishes to acquire from the town. As most of the land has to do with pipe lines, well sites and pumping station sites, councillors suggested that the lots could be considered "serviced" as far as water was concerned. The PUC will be charged the current land purchase price.

The various staffs of the town will be given Dec. 26, Dec. 27, and Jan. 2 as holidays, because Christmas Day and New Year's Day falls on Sunday next year.

The town's two theatres will be permitted to open shortly past midnight Christmas and New Years Eve, as well as on any other days throughout the year when the legal closing hour falls on Sunday. Council passed a by-law to this effect last night.

The Board of Education will be asked to apply to the town for building permits for any further additions or new buildings. While there will be no charge for this, it will help keep the record straight.

The town engineer asked council's permission to have his work crew install catch basins under the Sidney Street subway and the County of Hastings for the job. The county engineer had reported to Mr. Murray that he did not have a work crew available for this. Mr. Murray, once sent first class mail, stated that the underpass should soon be finished and that the street would be open near Christmas.

Subject to the approval of the minister of health, several citizens will be required to have sanitary services installed on their properties and the charge in taxes over a five-year period. The Board of Health had recommended that these installations be carried out at four houses.

* * *

Final sealing was given to the air pollution by-law and was passed by council.

Patterson Home From Workshop

TRENTON — Jim Patterson was to return to his home here from Ottawa where he has been attending a March of Dimes workshop for six weeks.

Patterson has been taught to assemble costume jewelry. The Quinte Disabled Persons' Club is looking for a small house where he may live and carry on with his trade, meanwhile teaching other members of the club the work.

Miss Eva Morrison, club president, has been appointed convenor in charge for the March of Dimes blitz might which will take place January 30.

Woman Claims Man Snatched Her Purse

TRENTON — Mrs. Harry Hillaker of Trenton said a man in his early 20s snatched her purse from Under her arm yesterday as she and two other women walked along Queen St. on their way to a meeting at their church.

She said the incident occurred near the corner of Queen and Shirley streets and that the man fled on foot, eventually turning on Queen St., ran across the railway tracks and disappeared on Quinte St.

Mrs. Hilladay went to a neighbor's home and called police who were unable to find any trace of the man. Police are still investigating.

Housing Policy Questioned

A. C. Ashforth, president of the Toronto-Dominion Bank, wonders whether the unfavorable effects of stimulating home building by easy credit may not be beginning to outweigh benefits.

Others have been wondering the same thing, too, but have hesitated to speak because they lack Mr. Ashworth's knowledge and, therefore, his authority as an expert.

At the bank's annual meeting, Mr. Ashforth said that "the backlog of housing demand has been satisfied; the trouble this year has been lack of demand."

This statement, it seems to us, should be kept ever in mind when attempting to judge residential housing programs. The days when there was an acute lack of adequate accommodation for Canadians able and willing to pay a fair price for such accommodation have passed. There are Canadian families which are still ill-housed, because of their poverty; it is extremely questionable whether they will be aided by reducing down payments for houses costing $10,000 or more, and by extending the period of the mortgages on such houses.

A much more effective approach would appear to be a program of subsidized housing, probably in multi-family buildings, since this would reduce cost.

It is easy to understand why the Federal Government should have decided to make credit easier, reducing down payments and lengthening mortgages to 35 years. There will be a ready sale for such houses and, as a result, the government will achieve its primary objective, which is not to provide houses for Canadians desperately in need of them but to stimulate employment in the building trades.

This will, however, be a price to pay for this relief to the unemployment problem. It will certainly it will become much more difficult for owners of existing houses to sell them, should they desire to do so for any reason. It is unlikely that many of these owners will be able to offer terms as attractive, (or perhaps it would be more accurate to say apparently attractive), as the low down payments and long mortgages on new homes. Inevitably this will tend to reduce the price of real estate. There is no reason why home-owners should be immune from the hazards of the law of supply and demand—but so many Canadians are now buying homes and their equities in these homes represent such a large proportion of the savings of the average Canadian family that the end result may be very depressing for the economy as a whole. This cure for unemployment may eventually only serve to prolong the disease.

In the words of Mr. Ashforth: "We need to consider if we are not building the wrong kind of houses, for the wrong reasons, in the wrong places, designed for the wrong people, at the wrong time."

If only a few of these suggested errors are being made, we may be storing up trouble for ourselves.

Action Central

One of life's minor sorrows is provided by radio station WKBW, Buffalo—or variants thereof.

Adults who do not understand the reference dwell not with teenagers.

For the uninitiated, WKBW claims to have the largest listening audience in the United States. If this is true, it is a poor commentary on the U.S.

The WKBW diet consists of recorded music, news and weather reports.

The music is the usual mixture of junk and pleasing popular numbers. In spite of the occasional wailing, it is not too hard to take.

But the news—and the commercials!

"The BIG, big story of the moment." "WKBW Action Central."

Very often everybody on these kind of stations have to speak as if being chased by a catastrophe? Can things really be sold by announcers who sound like men giving out a final SOS from a sinking ship in a tempest?

It is true that makes a radio station popular, are we going to see the day when television shows are conducted at the same pace?

Or the time when newspapers will endeavor to duplicate the frenzy in print. We doubt it.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

TRUE WEALTH

John Ruskin once remarked that there is no wealth but life. He declared that a country in this world nourishes the greatest number of noble and happy human beings. Also he said, that the only rich man is one who having developed his powers to the utmost has also "the widest beneficial influence, both personal and by means of his possessions, over the lives of others."

Our generation of the present generation in human history. There are all too many poverty-stricken people amongst us, yet compared with other ages our age is fabulously wealthy. And we are a generation which thinks a great deal about wealth. Is it not time that we asked ourselves what wealth really is? Is it a true bank balance? Is it not? Material values, have their place but their place can never rightfully be first place.

Moral and spiritual values come first and must remain first.

How Electricity Is Produced
Part One

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

ARTICLE 46

What is electricity and how is it produced?

No one can provide the answer to the question "What is electricity?" The most that we can say is that given certain conditions something will result.

In short, science can tell us how to create electricity and can invent machines that will use electricity—but no one can really say what electricity actually is. Nor can anyone define light or how it travels.

How is electricity produced?

Electricity is produced by harnessing one part of what is called a magnetic field. Generator consists of two main parts:

1. An immense wheel lying on its side which is composed of magnets. This wheel spins inside a metal case.

2. A huge case of metal coils which encases the spinning wheel of magnets.

As the wheel of magnets spins at great speed inside this metal case an electrical current is produced.

Why? No one knows! It just does.

How does a little boy become a man?

Isn't it enough to know that by spinning a wheel of magnets (rotor) inside a case of metal coils electricity is produced?

What do we use to make the rotor spin?

WATER CHEAPEST

We can use a motor driven by coal, by oil, by gas and electricity, but generally speaking, the cheapest way to make the generator turn is to attach it to a paddle-wheel which turns as water falls in it.

Have you ever seen the picture of old grist mills? Water falls from a height turning a paddle-wheel and the force of the falling water turns the wheel. This generating station the wheel is attached to the shaft on the generator. So, as the water falls it turns the paddle-wheel; as the paddle-wheel turns it makes the rotor turn. We ask is attached at its end to the rotor. So, as the paddle-wheel spins so does the rotor.

So, as the water falls it turns the paddle-wheel, this turns the rotor and as we have said earlier, this produces electricity.

HYDRAULIC ELECTRICITY

But, how can we get the water to fall where we want it?

We select a river that has a swift current and a large volume of water. We build a big dam across the river. The water hits the dam and can go no farther — so it backs up and forms a large lake behind the dam. When a huge lake has been formed and the water has risen, say 50 feet, it is led through holes and pipes at the top of the dam to fall down upon the wheels that turn the generators.

The electricity produced from falling water is called hydraulic electricity that is, "The agency which produces most of the electricity in Ontario is called the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario — Hydro standing for "Hydraulic".)

To produce electricity from falling water is the cheapest form of electricity known to man, because the fuel is free. The water just rolls along down the river whether we try to use it or not.

In Ontario, the generating station is more expensive to build than the generating station using forms of power other than water because of the need for extensive flooding to form the site of production to the place of use.

LOW COST

Hydraulic power produced at the site by Ontario Hydro averages between less than two and slightly more than one and one-half sixteenth hour at relatively high voltage. In 1959 the average was 2,850,300 hp of electricity and 2,832,300 hp was purchased from other producers.

By 1980, 20,122,000 hp will be available and we expect that 8,650,000 hp will come from falling water, 10,528,000 hp from coal and gas, 2,000,000 hp from nuclear energy.

Nearly all Ontario we are nearing the end of our hydraulic sources of power and we are turning more and more to thermal and nuclear energy.

Can Copy Ike Or Roosevelt

Manchester Guardian

Kennedy's first opportunity to prove his courage will be in his appointments.

The unhappiest feature of the Eisenhower administration — and perhaps the greatest single reason for the declining prestige in the outside world — has been the failure of intellectual energy and vision in Washington.

Mr. Kennedy now has the opportunity to create once again the atmosphere which reigned at the early days of the New Deal.

Some of the finest minds in America have given him their support. But they have no hesitation in rewarding them.

The record of a whole administration has often been determined by the men close to the President. President Roosevelt had the "Onlie Gang." President Roosevelt had the Brains Trust. President Eisenhower has had a succession of business managers, culminating in Republican politicians.

Mr. Kennedy should have no doubt about the right example to follow.

Three Ways To Shoplift

Sherbrooke Record

A recent survey by a firm of packaging designers has come up with three new ways of shoplifter of the supermarket age: The cap changer — one who switches the cap on a large bottle of salad dressing to a fancier bottle and hopes to get it by the cashier; The coupon clipper — one who clips coupons today and pushes the multilisted items in a cart at the back and the box burgler — one who cuts large holes in cardboard boxes the boxes behind. (This technique calls for an already-opened box, usually the meat or fresh vegetable counter.)

According to Intelligence Newsletter, thefts from supermarkets in the United States now total $2,000,000 a year and the figure is still rising. It is the honest customers are paying for this loss as well as the shoplifters.

Widespread shoplifting has made necessary the creation and employment of detectives and spiler - awkward packaging and the "frisking" of customers. The customer by paying a larger price for his legitimate purchases.

Good Cooking Low on List

Sherbrooke Record

The best way to a man's heart is no longer through his stomach.

Authority for this iconoclastic utterance is the supreme arbiter of male fashion, the British publication Esquire, no less.

It seems that food and cookery just don't rate highly in the modern young fellow's scale of values, a dream girl.

A matter of fact, the magazine list eight other qualities and ten precedent to it.

Elegance tops the list followed closely by a sense of humor. A fine figure, and good legs come in a close third. In descending order the other qualities listed are: an attractive voice, coinciding interests, a good general education, perfect health, something called "off-beat attractiveness," charm — and long last — good cooking.

It would seem that a young Briton's taste these days is mostly in his eyes, ears and reason.

Sydney Suffers From Fearful Tollway Tremor

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

As a motorist, I appreciate the speed and safety of those new superhighways, the Queen Elizabeth ways, and five-ways that are springing up all over the American landscape these days.

But I am deeply disgusted man whose eye and brain are not as quick on the reflex as his foot is on the gas pedal. I refer to the getting befuddled and panicky on these superhighways because I am suffering from a new mid-20th century disease called Tollway Tremors.

The other evening, for instance, I was driving on the superhighway to make a speech and almost missed the exit to Grand Central. As I approached the juncture of the new tollway and an older superhighway, I saw dozens of grinning green signs flashing past me in the most diverse lanes.

I felt for a moment as if I were being sucked up by some man-eating plant. "Rockland" beckoned one sign, "Astoria" said another. A third invited me to visit "Yonkers." And my hands twisted me seductively up to Millbrook.

Along with these, were heather signs, telling wholesaling travel information incredibly faster than I could absorb it at 60 miles an hour — and I couldn't slow down, or I would surely be rammed from the rear.

"Make Two Right Turns To Go East," said one. "Take Right Lane Into Cloverleaf to East-West Tollway" proclaimed another. "Toll Way" proclaimed another. And third. There were arrows, breathless, diverging, merging and at least four vertical layers of traffic all moving like some fantastic vehicular maypole dance.

Not long ago, I made a previous turning on Chicago's Calumet Skyway — was it Tollway, Throughway or Expressway? — and found myself in Gary when I really meant to be 40 miles west of it. Earlier I embarked on "Exit," has a nightmarish application to modern traffic — once you're on the high road there is no getting off for 22 long, interminable miles.

No doubt, as I become more used to it all, I will learn to fight off the mounting sense of panic as I am now confronted with a dozen choices all at once. But right now Tollway Tremors has me in the grip of fear. I am a speaker of the evening in late November, and I don't know if I want you to know why. He's Sydney J. Harris, 20,000 feet near Cape Hatteras.

Facts Prove Peas Weak

Windsor Star

Whenever railways decide to close a branch line which is losing money, towns along the line protest loudly and ask the help of the Board of Transport Commissioners. Usually these protests are rather weak.

Only a couple of railway drop these lines is because they are not paying their way. Passenger traffic disappears and so does freight revenue, and so does the expenses. People living in towns and cities served by the line don't use it for service. Other forms of transportation, cars, buses and trucks, supply it.

In most cases, communities object to the railway company's decision

CHANGE OF COMMAND — Veteran member of Hastings County Council with 29 years' service to his credit, Tudor and Cashel township Reeve James H. Sprackett is seen (centre) handing over desk nameplate to his successor Reeve-elect Verne McMurray of Gilmour, as Reeve William Davis looks on. Council members made presentation to Reeve Sprackett on his retirement from municipal life.

Reeve of Tudor and Cashel For 29 Yrs., Former Warden, James Sprackett Honored

Hastings county councillors yesterday concluded their fourth and final session of the year at Shire Hall, the three-day session ending Thursday afternoon being devoid of any contentious matters.

The session, however, was marked as the final conclave of the county fathers in the present Shire Hall with the next meeting in January scheduled for the new county building.

Also, councillors bade goodbye to Reeve James H. Sprackett of Tudor and Cashel township who is retiring from municipal life after 45 years — 29 of them as reeve of his township. During his time at county council he had headed up most of the important committees and served one term as county warden.

Yesterday the retiring reeve was presented with a handsome plate glass mirror as a token of appreciation from his fellow councillors.

In making the presentation on behalf of councillors, Reeve William Davis, dean of county councillors, said it was with mixed feelings of regret that council was bidding goodbye to the Tudor reeve. He said the long service and good judgment of Mr. Sprackett had been much appreciated.

WOULD MISS FRIENDS

Mr. Sprackett said it was with mixed feelings of regret that he was leaving council. He said he would miss the good fellowship enjoyed over the years but on the other hand he believed that he would not have the responsibility of municipal government.

Council representatives on the various county high school area boards were named. These were — G. A. District High School Board — Brooks Allin; Centre Hastings — Lincoln Millest; Trenton High School — Basil Brooks; Stirling High School — James Johnston and North Hastings — Wm. Follis.

Frankford Reeve Willmot Roes was named as county representative to represent the Lake Ontario Development Association at a sports show to be held in Cincinnati.

Brochures advertising the district are distributed at sportsman shows as a means of promoting industry and tourism.

To provide for additional bronze tablets and to enlarge and improve the annual booklet, council voted a grant of $600 to the Belleville Chamber of Commerce which publishes the brochure.

The spectre of unemployment which affected the Hastings county area was in the minds of county councillors. Their discussions during the session intermittently was the subject of talks, two by council members and one by the local manager of the national employment office with special emphasis on the unemployment problem.

As the session concluded Carl Whittemore, reeve of Deloro township and assessment official at Deloro Smelting and Refining Company whose operations are due to cease at the year end, said next year assessment setbacks would be necessary in connection with his company-owned village.

He said it was unfortunate that his plant was being forced to close down, but failing world prices of cobalt had made profitable operation no longer possible. Application would be made for dissolution of the village, he said.

Mr. Whittemore paid tribute to Marmora Reeve William Shannon and members of his municipal committee for their efforts aimed at keeping the Deloro plant alive.

The Deloro reeve said that lack of technical skills was a major factor in the cause of unemployment and he urged councillors to do whatever possible to encourage parents in their communities to see that children got a good education. In future with increasing automation, workers with technical skills would be in much greater demand.

Earlier in the session Warden Earl Sager referred to the unemployment problem urging local financing or secondary industry as a means of providing jobs. The council session was also addressed by Cecil Risser, manager of the national employment office with special emphasis on the unemployment problem.

Carleton Rowe Elected Reeve of Seymour Twp.

CAMPBELLFORD — Carleton Rowe was elected to the position of Reeve of Seymour Township for 1961, by a substantial majority over Melville Hunt, a former reeve attempting a return to office after a long absence. The two sitting councillors, Harry Stephens and Clifford M. Anderson, were returned with large votes. Harry C. Bedford, a former councillor, took third place ahead of K. R. Bright and Alfred E. Bennett.

Morden McMillan was elected deputy - reeve by acclamation.

Reeve Hamilton Of Sidney Seeks Warden's Chair

With the election of a 1961 Hastings county warden still more than a month away, at least one candidate is already in the field for the position.

He is Reeve Haziagh Hamilton of Sidney township, this year's chairman of the county roads and bridges committee. Mr. Hamilton announced yesterday that he would seek the warden's chair next year.

Reeve William Shannon of Marmora village, had also considered running for the warden-ship next year, but as the December session of council ended yesterday Mr. Rancours reeve said he decided against it.

Reeve Hamilton received acclamation as township reeve for 1961 and will be commencing his fifth term. He has been a member of his township council for ten years.

Richter Lives up to Reputation As World's Greatest Pianist

By EUGENE LANG

An artist is a person who succeeds in transferring his own thoughts, moods and emotions to other people. If beauty and truth are the same, as has been claimed, then an artist arrives at beauty by expressing his own feelings in such a way that others will recognize the truth. Perfection is the attainment of the highest manifestation of emotional accomplishment in a given form or art. When these two meanings are combined, that of an artist and that of perfection, the natural concomitant can be arrived at in the person of Sviatoslav Richter, renowned Russian pianist who is making his first North American tour at present. The writer of these words first heard of this pianist through the media of recordings about three or four years ago, and was astounded at the art of this musician, not only in the technical proficiency of his playing, but also in the "heavenly interpretation" of what he was playing.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Among those attending the recent Kiwanis 'Ladies' Night' from out-of-town were: Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Randall, Mr. and Mrs. Murray Eagleson and Raymond Steele, of Cobourg.

Surprise Christmas gifts were won by: Mrs. Wendell Cameron of Belleville; Miss Elizabeth Stuart of Belleville, Mrs. Lorne Greene of Frankford, Mrs. A. E. May of Belleville, Miss Barbara Joan Fairman of Belleville and Mrs. T. H. Rupert of Madoc.

Musical entertainment was provided by the Quinteboalls Chapter of sweet Adeline," who were thanked by Mrs. D. M. Curran for their delightful singing.

The conveners for this Christmas dinner were: Mrs. H. L. Graham and Mrs. H. T. Floyd.

The members wish to thank them most heartily for the excellent organization of this enjoyable evening.

Christmas Concert

ST. JOHN'S S.S.

CAMPBELLFORD — St. John's United Church auditorium was filled to capacity last Saturday evening when the children of the Junior Sunday School presented their annual Christmas concert. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Donald Bennett, superintendent of the junior Sunday School, with Mrs. Gerald Thompson acting as pianist at the piano. Dr. D. M. Smith was chairman for the evening.

After the entertainment was finished, Santa Claus made his appearance and distributed candies and oranges to each child present.

The program was as follows: kindergarten, "Away In A Manger," "Be Careful Little Hands;" primary department, "Welcome," Heather Holmes, Vaughn Symonds; Heather Symonds and, Debbie Donald; pianist, Mrs. Thompson; chorus (by the entire cast), "Infant Holy," and "The Secret of Christmas;" "Christmas Wishes" by Mrs. Fisher's class; "In Bethlehem," Mrs. Ginter's, Mrs. Mc-Master's, Mrs. Loucks', Mrs. Gillman's and Mrs. Thompson's classes; "Christmas Lullaby," Miss Robertson's class; "The Christmas Toyland Band," Mrs.

Mr. and Mrs. John Young are shown signing the register following their marriage in Christ Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Kathleen Ann Rombhim, daughter of Mrs. M. Kornbhum, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Kornbhum. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Young, also of Belleville. (Photo by Kenny Chambers, Belleville).

YOUNG — KORNBLUM

Pink, yellow, white and mauve chrysanthemums adorned the chancel rail and standard while satin bows the guest pews in Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, November 26, at 2.00 p.m. when Kathleen Ann Kornbhum, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. M. Kornbhum and the late Mr. Kornbhum, became the bride of John Thomas Young, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Young, Belleville, organist, rendered the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in her white Chantilly lace and chiffon bridal gown, fashioned in floor-length with sequin, rhinestone and seed pearl trim. She wore a crown type headpiece encrusted with rhinestones, pearls, sequins and rhinestones, and a full length veil. She carried a bouquet of red roses. Her veil of illusion tulle was in shoulder-length.

Mrs. A. Guthrie, of Canniton, matron of honor, was in powder blue accented with white and pink daisies. She wore a powder blue, pink and lilac veil, and carried a bouquet of white mums centred by one blue mum.

The two bridesmaids, Miss Heather Guthrie and Miss Helen McConnell, were attired in Christmas corsage scents with crown headpieces trimmed tiny white veils, and carried bouquets of white daisies centred by one single pink mum.

Little flower girl, Miss Heather Guthrie, niece of the bridegroom was sweet in her mauve chiffon frock with matching floral headdress, white gloves, black slippers and carrying a little basket filled with yellow, white and mauve mums.

Master Sammy Kornbhum was ring-bearer.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Arthur Guthrie, of Canniton, while the guests were ushered by Mr. Ted Kornbhum and Mr. Bruce Cairns, both of Belleville.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in Canniton Hall, where guests were welcomed with pink and white streamers, white balloons and wedding bells.

The bride's table was appointed with white damask linen, and centred by a four-tier wedding cake, as well as a large pink and white bridal cake and flanked by tall white candles. The toast to the bride was made with champagne.

Receiving the guests was the bride's mother, wearing a white low-green sheath with mid-rift rhinestone and black velvet accessories and corsage of white carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who assisted in powder blue in sheath with white lace trim; black and white accessories and corsage of white mums.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the bride chose a yellow-gold dress with white accessories and corsage of pink carnations.

Guests were present from Belleville; Toronto; Picton and Marmora.

Mr. and Mrs. Young are residing at 151 Church Street, Belleville.

The bride, previous to her marriage, was the honored guest at a miscellaneous shower at 245 1-2 Front Street, Belleville.

St. George's Guild Enjoys Yuletide Party

A happy time was spent by the members of St. George's Guild and their friends on Tuesday at the annual Christmas party. A turkey dinner was served with all the trimmings.

Following the repast, gifts were exchanged and a few speeches given, as well as the singing of Christmas carols, all of which were greatly enjoyed. Several games of euchre were also played during the afternoon with some of the members enjoying visits with their friends.

Wishes for a joyous Christmas and a happy new year were expressed as they departed for their individual homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Arthur MacKinnon are pictured signing the register following their marriage in Bethel United Church, Ivanhoe. MacKINNON BENSON

Baskets of red gladioli and white mums adorned the altar for an autumn wedding in Bethel United Church, Ivanhoe, when Miss Irene Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Benson, became the bride of Garnet Arthur MacKinnon, son of Mr. Arthur MacKinnon of Mooretown, and the late Mrs. MacKinnon. The Rev. H. Slobbert officiated, assisted by the Rev. W. G. Fletcher.

The wedding music was rendered by the church pianist, Mrs. K. Bray, who accompanied Mrs. M. Shaw in the rendition of "O Perfect Love," during the ceremony, and "O Promise Me," while the register was being signed.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her floor-length bridal gown of white organza over lace featuring a fitted bodice of white organza with a scalloped neckline of sequins and seed pearls and full-length sleeves. She wore a bridal cap of encrusted sequins and seed pearls, and elbow-length illusion tulle veil, and carried a white Bible crested with a white orchid with white streamers ending in forget-me-not. Cultured pearl earrings completed her ensemble.

Mrs. Max Watts, sister of the bride, of Brockville, attended the bride as matron of honor, attired in a gown of sky-blue organza with three-quarter-length sleeves, fitted bodice, having a bateau neckline and gathered skirt with an insert of matching lace.

Miss Vivian Blight of Trenton, as bridesmaid, wore a similar gown of pink. Flower girl, Miss Marsha Watts, niece of the bride, attired in a gown of white organza with floral headbands of white and carried nosegays of white baby 'mums encircled by blue tulling.

The two little flower girls, Miss Maxine Watts and Miss Stephanie Bleeker, niece of the bride, were frocked in light blue organza with white apron, featuring puffed sleeves and Peter Pan collars. They wore white shoes, socks and gloves, and floral headbands of tinted baskets of pink tinted 'mums and white baby 'mums and white satin bows and streamers.

Young Couple Honored by Fine Gifts

On Friday evening numerous friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hamilton, 2nd of Thurlow, and tendered the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Bleeker, of Ashburn, (nee Shelia Hamilton), a presentation party and charivari.

Mr. Clayton Eggleton, master of ceremonies, gave a speech and several humorous readings. Several of the young girls favored with a solo, Mrs. R. Chaplin read a Christmas message from the Scriptures, Luke 2, 4-19, followed by Mrs. R. Sherwin who read a poem entitled, "The Newlyweds' Makes Excuses".

Mrs. Margaret Ralph sang a beautiful Christmas number, accompanied by Mrs. Riedel, after which Mrs. T. Colden entertained the group with a delightful monologue depicting the spirit of Christmas in its many forms and aspects.

The carol "O Little Town of Bethlehem" was sung.

Mrs. Hamilton extended a sincere vote of thanks to the Coldens and Mrs. Colden.

An exchange of gifts between the bride and groom and a draw of names for friends for 1961 was conducted by Mrs. Kerr.

Mrs. D. Bateman and Mrs. R. Bateman led in the games, Cherry and Green Ears. Ice cream and coffee were served by members of the executive, from the table decorated with a Christmas cloth, small Christmas tree, stockings and candles.

Thanks of the W.A. go to the absentee members who sadded and in particular to Mrs. R. Epp, Mrs. F. Lover and Mrs. D. Leslie for a Christmas parcel which drawn the members closer together in the fellowship and friendship of the spirit of Christmas.

ST. PETER'S W.M.S.

MADOC — The Christmas annual meeting held at the home of Mrs. Brett was well attended, with 26 members attendance. The hall was decorated with evergreen and poinsettia, miniature snowmen, and Christmas ornamentia. The bazaar was opened in song by the group.

The tea tables were centred with sprigs of evergreen and little angels.

Those serving were: Mrs. John Lyons, Mrs. William Hutchinson, Mrs. Janet Punchard, Mrs. Charles Gray, and Mrs. Brett. Assisting in the kitchen were Mrs. William Allen, Mrs. W. Joyce, Mrs. John Hopson and Mrs. H. Brett.

Guides, Brownies Sponsor Successful Christmas Concert

WHITBY DISTRICT — The Guides and Brownies held a most successful concert on Friday evening at Bayside School with Sgt. Jack Gordon as master of ceremonies.

Guide Kathy Jones welcomed all by singing "We're Glad We're Here." The Guides sang "Happy Wanderers," a round composed by Mrs. George Caves, District Commissioner of Guides and Brownies. Two carols sang "We Are The Bayside Brownies", which was also composed by Mrs. Caves.

Brownie Linda Cotten recited "Baby Brother"; the Misses Nicky, Deborah and Dana Glydon sang "When Santa Claus Gets Your Letter"; Miss Kathy Augerinterpreted a tap-dancing number and Miss Shawn McAllister recited "Visiting the Sick".

SHORT SKETCH

A skit, "Santa's Trip" was well done by Brownies Cynthia Jones, Deborah Glydon, Rosemary Caves, Cheryl Knowlton, Betty Cooper and Jo-Ann Richards. Miss Wendy Jones sang "Good King Wenceslas." A trio, Cheryl Knowlton, Susan Vlaun and Joy Miller, sang "We Three Kings"; Miss Gail Little recited, "Mrs. Daddy Trimmed the Christmas Tree," and Miss Margguerite Fulton tap-danced to "When You Were A Tulip."

Guides were grouped around a camp fire with their captain, Mrs. Jack Glydon, telling the story of "Artemis and Orion." A piano duet, "Come All Ye Faithful," was contributed by the Misses Vicky and Debbie Glydon. The Brownies Linda Cotten, Betty Cameron, Dana Glydon, Tom Mosse, Diane Vlaun, Kathy Auger, Wendy Jones and Darlene Fulton did a star drill, and sang, "The Glad Bells of Christmas" song. Sylvia Miller contributed a tap - dancing number. The Misses Nicky Ackerman, Kathy Dale, Linda Howe, Vicky Glydon, Susan Moore and Yvonne Latham took "The Woodpecker's Song."

SPELLING

The Brownies, Linda Rightmeyer, Kathy Auger, Sharon Knowlton, Dana Glydon, Linda Cotten, Nancy Fell, Kathy Jones, Cheryl Knowlton, Rosemarie Fulton and Joy Longhurst spelled a word and sang, "Santa is a Jolly Fellow". Betty Cooper contributed a dance number and Miss Sheila Caves contributed a tap dance.

Miss Kathy Auger did a baton exercise and Miss Cindy Jones recited, "My Christmas Wish". "Winter Wonderland" was sung by Susie Johnson, Patsy Genereaux and Susan Veitch who replaced Jo-Anne Vlieg who was ill and unable to attend. Miss Rosemarie Fulton did a baton exercise.

MANGER SCENE

The manger scene was well done with angels, Mary and Joseph in centre of stage flanked by Guides and Brownies. Carol Susie Johnson sang, "Lullaby".

The Guides and Brownies sang "All Thro' the Night" and "Silent Night." Suzanne Pitt sang "Away In a Manger" and joined in sing, "O Come All Ye Faithful," and "Joy to the World."

The mothers, who were members of the local Association for Guides and Brownies, assembled the dresses and made the necessary alterations.

Old Santa arrived and handed out bags of candy for all and as he departed all sang "Jingle Bells." The concert ended with the singing of "Goodnight From Us to You".

BAKE SALE

A bake sale was then conveyed by Mrs. Edward Genereaux and Mrs. Eric Jones who was the treasurer.

Much credit for the success of the concert goes to the accompanist, Mrs. James Fulton and Mrs. Kenneth Bird, who assisted at practice each week but who was unable to attend the concert; to Brown Owl, Mrs. Clifford Millar; Tawny Owl, Mrs. George Cotton and Mrs. Betty Fulton; Guide Captain Mrs. Jack Glydon, District Commissioner of Guides and Brownies, Mrs. George Caves; Mrs. Eric Jones, who made the dresses; Mrs. Edward Genereaux who decorated the Christmas tree to the Scouts, Lawrence Claus, Gary Millar, Allen Burnett, Bobby Caves, Rodney Carter and Wayne Claus, who were ushers and drew the curtains; Mrs. Gordon Ackerman and Miss Diane Dale, beauty counsellor; Mrs. Pauline Veitch for decorating the stage with insignia of the Brownies and Guides; and last, but not least, to those who helped with the cake and last minute needs, Mrs. Betty Mosse, Mr. Eric Carter, Mr. George Millar, Mr. Carl Knowlton, Mr. Jack Little, Mr. Thomas Brodie, Mr. Caves, Mr. Clifford Millar, Mr. Gary Glegola, Mr. Thomas Bush and the caretaker Mr. Walter Jones.

Advent Message Topic At WMS Meet

The members of Holloway St. United Church Women's Missionary Society held their October Thanksgiving meeting on December 5th with a splendid attendance.

The meeting was opened by the Call to Worship and Hymn "Holy, Holy, Holy" followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Lough and their group members were in charge. Mrs. Scott introduced Taylor Carter of the local Salvation Army Band, as guest speaker, who brought a challenging "Advent Message" based on the sign of the birth of Christ as given in Luke 2. The two men and the shepherd took time to seek the Christ Child. He presented a dance or gathering of the young group followed later.

Mrs. Scott then said, "These gracious formalities seem to be getting lost in the rush! Today most debuts take the form of wedding receptions or a dance, the guests being selected chiefly from the girl's own age group. Sometimes I think it is a pity that the old formalities be allowed to die out if this trend persists, I believe the whole idea of presenting young girls to society will fade into the past. It will evolve into just regular parties for the young folk.

I am heartily in agreement with our speaker, change that has occurred in the procedure to be followed at the formal debut. Formerly, the mother and the daughter were the only ones to attend the reception. The latter mingled with the guests, but it was considered proper that the mother make the actual presentation. Today this has been changed so that all three of them stand together, first Mother, then daughter and then Dad. It is still proper that only mother do so but it seems to me that Dad belongs there too. He naturally feels as much pride in presenting his daughter as does his wife

It is customary for the debutante to carry a small, old-fashioned bouquet presented to her by her father. A corsage is never worn. Should she receive other small bouquets as tributes from relatives or friends, it is perfectly permissible that she take them carrying them during the reception.

Following the program, Mrs. Frederick and Mrs. Townsend served tea. Refreshments were served by the group members. This lovely Christmas session was a highlight of the year.

FEW NOW FLAW TRADITIONAL DEBUTS

Two weeks ago Mrs. Eisenhower opened the debut season by presenting her two nieces, Miss Ellen Dood Moore and Miss Mamie Eisenhower Moore, at a glamorous afternoon tea held at the White House and all Washington attended. Everything was done by the dignity of the protocol. Only the oldest traditions were followed. It was not a glorified cocktail party as is customary for debutantes of today's debuts — but a tea conducted in the old-fashioned way. Most of the guests were older folks to whom Mrs. Eisenhower wished to introduce her nieces.

This also followed the old custom, which is really the basis of the "why" of a debut. The original idea, which has come down for many years, was that the parents of relatives, of a debutante wished to present her to their own generation, when she reached the age where she was ready to join adult society. The reason for this was that many of the parents' friends had not seen the girl for years. Usually a dance or gathering of the young group followed later.

Nowadays, these precious formalities seem to be getting lost in the rush! Today most debuts take the form of wedding receptions or a dance, the guests being selected chiefly from the girl's own age group. Sometimes I think it is a pity that the old formalities be allowed to die out if this trend persists, I believe the whole idea of presenting young girls to society will fade into the past. Harriet U. — Hg married twice. We have someone to torment.

Seymour U. — My first marriage was so happy, I wasn't prepared for such selfishness.

Harriet U. — Seymour and I were both widowed and this is a second marriage for each of us. He is 63, a silk merchant, and I'm 58. My late husband was in the fur business and when we met Seymour and his wife were again on the course of business dealings.

Only since our marriage have I learned the reason why the man doesn't want a wife, he wants a slave. He has a big apartment and he married me to get a cook, maid, housekeeper, secretary, nurse, valet, room mate — all under the title of wife.

My first husband took me out to nice restaurants once or twice a week. Not Seymour! He says no chef can beat my cooking. Go to a show or a movie! Oh, no, says Seymour. Not with such good TV. He must have missed saving somebody to push around.

He says his first wife was an angel. If so she must be glad to be where she belongs, with the other angels. I'm no angel, just a wife. Seymour never learned the difference.

Seymour U. — How people can change! When I used to call on Harriet in her apartment I noticed that she "we have dinner there. She wanted to show me what a skilful homemaker she was.

The sooner were we wed than she packed away her aprons in mothballs. She retired from homemaking and went into business as a socialite.

My first wife was a real wife. She understood me, helped me build my business, got along without help for many years. She saw to it that my suits and underwear were attended to. Now my suits are crowded out of the closet and hang in a portable wardrobe. And mang's the time I

"Meet Your Friends" at the FOUNTAIN PARK

I have to wash out my own socks because Harriet has let my reserve supply run out!

Worst of all, though, my other wife knew I couldn't go on working forever and she urged me to save, often she was eager to economize. Harriet not only runs through every cent she can lay her hands on, but is urging me to expand my territory and hand more money her way for her high living.

Maybe my former wife spoiled me, but I'm willing to take a reassignment with Harriet is no marriage. It's a coalition!

The Council: Until the ghosts of former spouses are exorcised from this new relationship, this marriage hasn't a ghost of a chance. It's all right for Harriet and Seymour to think back lovingly to their previous marriages, which develop a more and more hazy aura as time goes by. But thinking back to them is not throwing them up and carrying odious comparisons. The latter is unfair and probably disparagement of the dead is dishonest.

If each of these middle-aged other says, their prior spouses must have been glad to shuffle off this mortal coil and leave the field to the claims.

Putting aside the past, there's no reason why these two adults can't embark on what Dr. Marc Hungerford, of the American Institute of Family Relations, calls the High Art of Marriage and Communication. Consideration and Companionship. While a second marriage may start out as a marriage of convenience, it can grow into a real love match by the way of those C's.

These complaints are petty and indicate that they haven't given tried their first — talking things out to chart the way to goals they agree on.

To paraphrase the old bromide, if in the first you did succeed, try, try again.

QUESTION:

. . . I am writing for help. I would like a recipe for individual chicken pies. I want to make some for a dessert bake sale table . . . Mrs. R. C.

ANSWER:

INDIVIDUAL CHICKEN PIES

1 1-2 pounds ground raw chicken, 1 small onion, chopped, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup water, 1-4 teaspoon sage or poultry to like and cover 8 or 9 individual pies.

Combine first five ingredients and cook gently in saucepan for 25 minutes. Cool. Pour into individual pans which have been lined with pastry. Cover with gashed top pastry, seal edges and bake in 450 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes. Reduce temperature to 350 deg. and cook until pies are nicely browned. Enough to fill six or eight individual pies.

LETTER:

I think the recipe Mrs. Y. B. was looking for is the following:

CHOCOLATE COCOANUT SQUARES:

(Courtesy E. S.).

Cream together 4 tablespoons butter, 1 cup brown sugar 2 tablespoons milk, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-4 cup cocoa alternately with the milk. Spread in 8 x 8 x 2" buttered pan and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes. Meanwhile, whip 3 egg whites with 1-2 cup white sugar, added gradually. Fold in 2 cups cocoanut. Spread on cake and and rebake in oven 400 deg. for 10 minutes. When cool ice with chocolate icing. Recipe for chocolate icing you gave for cocoanut dreams is ideal for this cake . . . Edith S.

ANSWER:

Thank you, Edith, for giving us this excellent pan cookie. I hope Mrs. Y. B. sees it.

QUESTION:

I would have given me much help in baking and cooking. Now I have a problem. Soon I am going to make my Christmas cake and would like to decorate it with fruit and nuts on top, but don't know how. Would you be so kind as to tell me? . . . Mrs. C. M.

ANSWER:

Dark fruit cakes are glazed by brushing cake batter in pans before baking, with mixture of 1-4 cup dark molasses and 1 cup water. Light fruit cakes are glazed by brushing cake batter in pans before baking with mixture of 1 egg white slightly beaten with 1-4 cup water. To decorate cakes, after cake are baked make a Simple Syrup of 1-2 cup each sugar and water by bringing them to boil. Select the cut fruits and nuts you wish to use as decorations, dip under side in simple syrup and place in position on cake, pressing them firmly into baked glaze.

THE COMPACT CAR

WITH THE "BIG CAR FEEL"

IT'S BIGGER WHERE IT COUNTS...

BIG CAR POWER—Choose either of two great engines . . . the new, more powerful 170 C.I.D. or the economy winner V-8. Both these fine engines are loaded with power.

BIG CAR COMFORT—Enjoy limousine luxury that the so-called "standard" cars can't offer. You get really generous legroom, hatroom and hiproom, plus chair-high seating. It's a revelation!

BIG CAR SAFETY—Relax with new, fade-free, bonded brakes; wide, all-round vision; solid construction and finger-tip steering . . . you're in command!

BIG CAR "FEEL"—You be the judge. Test-drive the '61 Lark before you decide on ANY car. You, too, will likely exclaim: "I wouldn't have believed it!"

IT'S COMPACT WHERE IT'S SENSIBLE

COMPACT FOR ECONOMY—You'll like the Lark's sensible ways—even if you can afford a car with useless overhang and the extra gas to drive it around.

COMPACT FOR DRIVING EASE—You'll find the '61 Lark easier to park and manoeuvre—as you'd expect—but its masterful "Big Car Feel" will really amaze you. You have to Drive it to Believe it!

BACKACHE May be Warning
Backache is often caused by lazy kidney action. When kidneys put out of order, excess acids and wastes remain in the system. TAKING IT GREEN — Almost hidden by a net, the Canadian frigate Swansea starts to bury her prow in another. This photo was taken in the North Atlantic by Toronto photographer Gilbert A. Milne and is included in his book "H.M.C.S.", a photographer's impression of the Royal Canadian Navy in the Second World War. "I remember the picture well," says Gib. "We were with the mid-ocean escort force in the North Atlantic in December, 1943. We crossed that day from the Mainze (another frigate) to the Swansea in an open whale-boat."—(CP from National Defence).

D-DAY LANDING — Canadian troops move ashore from a landing craft on a Normandy beach on D-Day. Gilbert A. Milne, Toronto photographer, includes this photo in his book of a photographer's impressions of the Royal Canadian Navy, "H.M.C.S.". Soldiers in the left are carrying their bicycles through the surf. In background, over port bow of the craft, a soldier is hit and is being held by a comrade. During the landing, the craft was under heavy fire from German machine-guns and artillery. "Jerry wasn't shooting at anything in particular," Gib recalls. "He was just shooting." Gib didn't suffer &crwatch but he learned years later from the landing-craft captain that the gun mount in the foreground, from which he took more pictures was riddled with shrapnel. (CP from National Defence).

Gib Milne Went to Sea With Camera and Recorded Canadian Navy Impressions

TORONTO (CP)—Gib Milne, an Alberta - born landlubber who went to sea with a camera, has recorded his impressions of the Royal Canadian Navy in the Second World War in a book just out.

His collection of 109 photos is entitled H.M.C.S. after the letters on cap tallies of wartime naval ratings whose ships could not be identified. From its title-page photo of a squad of grim-faced, bayonet - wielding bluejackets to its last picture of newly-liberated Athens, the book is full of sheets of ships and the men who manned them.

Milne, now 45 and president of the Toronto photographic firm of Gilbert A. Milne and Company Limited, got his first taste of photography as a small boy in the Medicine Hat darkroom of his partrait photographer father. He late Charles Milne. He worked a bows photographer and building up his own commercial business in Toronto when he joined the navy as a photographic officer during the war.

Gib remembers vividly many of the scenes in his book.

As a lieutenant aboard the converted cruiser Prince David whose landing craft helped in the liberation of Greece, he was one of the first allied officers in to Athens. He took part in the victory parade, sometimes dashing out of the line of march to photograph the procession.

SHOT THE ACROPOLIS

Newly - liberated Greeks asked him for all sorts of favors but he got the big one from them. He persuaded them to turn the flood-lights—used for years—on the famed Acropolis so he could photograph it by night. The photo is the last in his book.&

Before the invasion of Normandy, the navy assigned Milne to photograph officers and men aboard Canadian landing craft whose chances of survival were not considered great. When due to some mix-ups, he was ordered as naval photographer to duty on one of the landing craft bound for the beaches.

"I even had to photograph myself," he recalls.

Gib's first worry was to make sure his film got back safely to England if anything happened to him. He assigned a stoker to this task and then began filming the invasion fleet.

Disembarking troops were hit and the upper works of the craft were spattered with German fire but the panoramic shots of the invasion Gib took from a gun-mount on the upper deck are among the best detailed in North America.

"Years later," he says—"I learned from the captain of the landing craft that that gun mount was riddled with fire."

FULFILS DREAM

Many of his photos are of ships in the angry Atlantic or moving in to invasion beaches. But his favorite shot has an almost peaceful quality. It shows men on landing craft waiting under lowering clouds and the brooding cliffs of the Italian island of Ponza. That was where crews trained for the August, 1944, invasion of southern France.

Gib's book is a dream of more than 15 years. He began plans for it before the war ended. This year the RCN marked its 40th anniversary and he was asked to produce the book as a record of the navy as he saw it in his viewfinder.

He and his collaborators have donated royalties from the book to the Royal Canadian Naval Benevolent Fund.

Working with him in putting the book together were Frank Lowe, war correspondent now associate editor of weekend magazine; and three former naval lieutenants: Max Newton, production editor of Weekend; Scott Young, Toronto Globe and Mail sports columnist; and Joseph Schull, author of the official RCN history.

VOTE FOR TENDERS

SUDBURY (CP)—City Council voted 11 to 6 Wednesday night to call tenders for cost estimates of both a sewage treatment plant and a trunk sewer through almost four miles of solid rock. The star dissenting members said the city should build two sewage treatment plants to serve 20,000 residents of suburban areas to be annexed Jan. 1. They said the $18,000 cost was lower than an estimated $4,315,000 for the single plant and one treatment plant.

Sunday School Lesson

The Picture in the Frame

By ROY L. SMITH

No one knows precisely, and wife of Joseph of Nazareth, when the hope of a Messiah that night, grew to manhood dawned among the Hebrews, and became a teacher of the but we know that much of it was people. Then suddenly, one day, that the prophet Isaiah some- a humble Galilean in an impliwhere near the year 700 B.C. ed moment saw the resemfurnished the nation with the blance of Jesus to the one whose most detailed description of picture they had long longed to their divine deliverer they had see in the frame. And in that never had. moment of revelation he cried elaborate and detailed language in presenting their ideas, as a result we are under the necessity of using a certain amount of caution in interpreting their statements.

It was the habits of oriental out "Thou art the Christ, the preachers and writers to use Son Of The Living God!"

The prophecy from Isaiah which is presented in this week's Sunday school lesson seems to have been a part of a ceremony designed to be used on the occasion of the crowning of a king. Its figures are intended to describe the ideal ruler, prevailing with the hope that the one being crowned might measure up in at least some of the points. Or, perhaps, ever expected any king to be that each one might be better than the last one was.

THE NATION'S HOPE

As a result of the frequent changes on the throne, the frequent coronations and the frequent disappointments, there grew up as a result — one that was never quite realized but one that could never be surrendered. As every new king strode to his throne his people said within themselves, "Perhaps he will be the one."

Alongside the recurring disappointments was the growing confidence that sometime, according to the pleasure of Jehovah, there was to be raised to the nation the ideal ruler. He was to be one whom God Himself would choose, and to whom God was going to grant powers and attributes divine.

Among the Romans of Paul's day there was a growing disposition to the effect that the Roman emperor was divine, and one of the most abhorrent conditions with which the Christian Church was confronted was the demand that every new emperor made in which he insisted that he be accorded the honors of a god.

There is a difference between these two ideas. The Hebrews did not anticipate the coming of a god. They only believed that God would choose a man and invest him with the unusual powers which would make of him the nation's saviour.

Thus it was that an empty frame hung within the hope of the Hebrews — a fitting expression of God's chosen one. But as one century after another came and went ,the frame continued empty.

THEN CAME JESUS

Then there came a night when some shepherds were keeping watch over their flocks by night, and a weary couple from Nazareth were doing their best to transform a stall in the stable attached to a little inn in Bethlehem.

And the child born at that

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for December 11 is "GOD'S PROMISE OF A SAVIOUR." Isaiah 9; Matthew 4:13-17, 23-25; Galatians 4:4-7.

It was not that the singers and prophets of old had foreseen the birth of Jesus, but that Jesus, when He had come to manhood and spiritual maturity, exhibited all the features of the one they had been promised.

It is more than a little interesting, at this point, to notice that in the early years of his ministry the prophet Isaiah had predicted the birth of a child and had given him the name Immanuel (Isa. 7:14). In the years since the birth of Jesus many Christians have believed that the prophet was thinking of Jesus when he prophesied. But oddly enough, nowhere in the New Testament is Jesus ever called by that name.

But His picture does fit the frame that the prophets had fashioned throughout the centuries!

It must be that He proved His messiahship by the words He spoke and the words He did rather than by the name He bore.

Certainly Jesus has fulfilled in every sense of the word every promise God ever made to mankind concerning his Messiah.

Until He came, however, the Hebrew people fed their souls on the hope of a Messiah, the Lord's "Chosen One."

Out of Step With the Facts Says Official

NEW YORK (AP)—State Attorney-General Louis Lefkowitz on actuarist dancer Monica Darvas, who penned the best-seller How I Made $2,000,000 on the Stock Market, is out of step with the facts.

Lefkowitz has announced he has obtained a state Supreme Court order requiring the author and others to appear with his books and records. Darvas last was reported residing in Paris.

Darvas' toms relates how he purchased $37,000 into $2,000,000 from his "system" of playing the market from January, 1953, to July, 1956. From that point to October, 1960, Lefkowitz said investigation showed, Darvas lost $65,000 in the market.

Lefkowitz said a probe of Darvas' accounts and records make the figure nearer $218,000 than $2,000,000.

The attorney - general's court order, charging fraudulent and deceptive practices, also directs court appearances by American Research Council, Incorporated, New Rochelle, N.Y., publisher of the book, and the book's publisher, Bernard Mazel, also of New Rochelle.

All were ordered to appear Dec. 20.

Lefkowitz charged that Darvas, in his book, suppressed "many unfavorable transactions . . . which would give an entirely different perspective" and which "did not conform to the system he claimed he employed."

JET AIRPORT — This is an aerial view, looking toward the air field, of the new $30,000,000 terminal to be opened December 15 at Montreal International Airport, Canada's busiest. The eight-storey building is described as the most modern in the world, replacing the old terminal which became overcrowded since jet traffic began moving through the airport two years ago. Montreal Moves Into Jet Age With Opening Dec. 15 Of $30,000,000 Air Terminal

By GERRY MONELL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's busiest airport moves fully into the jet age this month with the official opening Dec. 15 of a $30,000,000 terminal.

The interior of Montreal International airport's dazzling terminal is crammed with modern passenger comforts and electronic devices. The eight-storey building is described by the department of transport as "the newest, the most efficient and the most modern in the world."

It replaces an outmoded and overcrowded structure that has been described as a general nightmare, especially since heavy jet traffic began flowing through the airport two years ago.

The new terminal itself has been something of a nightmare for successive Liberal and Progressive Conservative governments. It was planned in 1953 at a projected cost of $4,000,000. By last year, the price tag had soared to the point where the treasury board ordered a special review of expenditures.

This review resulted in modifications—not the first the terminal bluebirds have since actual construction began in 1956. MANY OBSTACLES

Work was held to a small's pace by a steel strike, the bankruptcy of several sub-contractors and squabbles between the D.O.T. and the airlines over basic design.

One sweeping change involved plans for aircraft parking space. Originally, all aircraft were to park beside finger-like corridors extending from the main building.

The advent of jets made this impossible, partly because of the effects of noise and engine blast and partly because jets need plenty of space to turn around.

Now, jets park at a 980-foot aeroquay 576 feet in front of the terminal. Twelve jets can be accommodated. Three passenger tunnels extend from the aeroquay to the main building. Ten airlines now schedule jet flights through Montreal.

Jet-prop and propeller aircraft park at fingers protruding from the east and west ends of the terminal. Basically, the west end is reserved for international flights and the east end for domestic flights.

The ground floor is used by passengers coming to Montreal while those leaving enter the terminal from a half-mile-long ramp leading to the first and main floor, directly above the ground floor exits.

From a passenger's viewpoint, the terminal's only drawback may be the distances he must walk. The 575-foot aeroquay tunnels and the long corridors lead into a building that has 750,000 square feet of space on the ground and first floors.

However, there are plenty of relaxation areas — nurseries, reading rooms, bars and restaurants—and the ticket booths, government departments and baggage outlets have been planned to save steps.

The airlines moved into the building Dec. 7, with all the essential facilities functioning by that date. However, the main dining-room and the immigration department offices were not expected to be fully completed by Dec. 15. Finishing touches also had to be put on several concessions and this work was expected to run past the official opening date.

The first four floors form an 810-foot long rectangle in which 12,000,000 passengers a year can be handled comfortably. About 2,500,000 now pass through Montreal annually.

The upper floors—occupied for several months in some cases—are much smaller. They contain the administration and air traffic control departments that keep the airport functioning smoothly.

The terminal stands on the southeast side of the airport, near an 11,000 - foot concrete double runway designed especially for jets. The central heating plant, located more than a mile away, provides a steam load 2½-times that of the Queen Elizabeth, one of the largest hotels in the British Commonwealth.

Snowy Owls Invade S. Ont., Don't Kill Them

TORONTO (CP)—Snowy owls are moving into Southern Ontario in a search for food and it's good news for farmers.

The Ontario department of lands and forests says it has received dozens of reports of snowy owls, which normally inhabit arctic regions but move south every four to six years when food crows short.

Mice, rats and some small birds are the snowy owl's normal diet. Because of its liking for rodents the large grey bird is protected by law and may not be killed.

Wildlife spokesman warns of heavy fines against persons convicted of shooting snowy owls. The birds are most often seen perched on posts or stumps in open fields.

Cheese Producers Ignoring U.K. Market in Cheese Says Agricultural Report

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario farmers are overlooking a large export market in the United Kingdom, particularly in cheddar cheese, says a report of the Agriculture report released Thursday by Agriculture Minister Goodfellow.

The 37-page report, arising out of findings of a government-sponsored export market study by Hayden Stanton, M.P., Prince Edward, says cheese manufacturers are ignoring a U.K. market that will require at least an additional 6,000,000 pounds of cheese in 1961.

The demand for cheddar cheese in the U.K. could be further increased over current exports by the postage of 200,000,000 pounds.

The report says the Ontario cheese industry has not supported the U.K. Cheese Bureau which boosts the sale of cheese as a food.

SUPPORT COST GIVEN

Support to the bureau is in direct proportion to the quantity of Ontario cheddar sold in that particular country within the year, the report says. It also says importation of 18,000,000 pounds of the cost of full support to Ontario cheese industry would be $20,000.

The report says an almost equally interesting opportunity may exist for the Ontario cheese people - fill and canned cheeries, honey, frozen foods, canned vegetables and fruit juices.

There is an export market also for Ontario beef, pork and white beans "in quantities greater than our present normal surpluses."

The report says tobacco exports to the U.K. are declining during the Canadian dollar value is also higher in relation to sterling parity.

Increased sales could be improved by exporting only quality products, a vigorous promotional campaign, and continuous consultations program and the immediate discontinuation of products at any cost, the report adds.

STUDIES WILL CONTINUE

Agriculture Minister Goodfellow said the study group will be kept in existence and used in order to assess the export market requirements and promote the production of Ontario to meet these needs.

He said a copy of the report would be sent to each of the 30 per cent of Ontario farmers who received questionnaires.

"I would increased overseas trade materialize, consideration will be given to the formation of a separate branch within the department's marketing division to co-operate with the producers' co-operatives and private trade in advancing the sale of farm products both overseas and at home, Mr. Goodfellow said.

The study group included members of the newly-created marketing branch and representatives of the Ontario dairy, meat, poultry, fruit and vegetable, grains, clover and grass seed industries.

Tribute Paid Hayden Stanton By Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker and spokesmen for the opposition paid tribute in the Commons to Hayden Stanton, C., Prog-ressive Conservative member for Leeds who died at Kingston early Thursday.

After the tributes, the House continued with its work. It normally adjourns only when an M.P. dies in Ottawa while the House is sitting.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Commons had suffered a "heavy loss" in the death of Mr. Stanton who had served in the House for the last seven years. He had been chairman of the standing committee on agriculture in recent years.

"Hayden Stanton was one of those whom to know was to love," said the prime minister.

EARNED PLACE

"Unobtrusive in demeanor, generous in his judgment, high in integrity and sound in judgment, he had made for himself in the House a place in the hearts of his fellow members."

"As a farmer, he naturally took a particular interest in agricultural pursuits. The family farm would be an example of an outstanding dairy farm, especially being Jersey cattle."

On behalf of the House, Mr. Diefenbaker extended sympathy to Mrs. Stanton and her family and to those of men who in his day and generation gave of their best to his area, to his county, to his province and to his country.

For the Liberals, Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) described Mr. Stanton as "quiet, unassuming," a man who possessed "a deep knowledge of the matters which interested Eastern Ontario in a special manner."

CCF Leader Argue said he had "always found him co-operative, kindly and prepared to treat all members here on the fair and equal basis." Mr. Stanton had always been a champion of agriculture and the countryside, he said.

Mr. Stanton's seat-mate in the Commons—Gage W. Montgomery (PC—Wentworth) — also joined in the tributes.

"He was a man to whom you could always go for good, sound advice," he said.

Prime Minister Takes Issue With Report

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker Thursday took issue in the Commons with part of a press report of his speech here Wednesday night to the governments part of a press conference.

On a question of privilege, he said he objects to the heading and first paragraph of the report of his speech as carried in the Toronto Globe and Mail.

The headline—Future of U.S. capital must be cut, P.M. says. The first paragraph: The future inflow of U.S. capital investment into Canada must be cut back to reduce the drain of interest and dividend payments across the border, Prime Minister Diefenbaker suggested tonight."

Said Mr. Diefenbaker today: "I made no statement at any time in the course of my remarks which would in any way have supported the heading or the first paragraph of the story based on this occasion I have a transcript of what I said."

He said he was correctly quoted by the newspaper when he said:

"Canada must expand its exports in the United States, reduce the demand on national earnings from non-resident investment and resolve the conflict between non-resident corporate interests and the national interest."

Design of Speed Plane Outlined Before Society

WASHINGTON (AP)—A design for an airliner which would fly from New York to Melbourne, Australia, in one hour and 20 minutes with passenger fares lower than available at present was outlined before the American Rocket Society Thursday.

A normal feature would be seats individually molded to each passenger, with the airline hostess "dressing" the passenger's mold after he had snuggled deep into the structure.

The design was described by William Bell Sweeney, project engineer for preliminary design at Bell Aerospace Corporation, Buffalo, N.Y.

He calls for mounting a 30-passenger transport pilot-back on top of a six-engined mother craft. Then the big mother craft is boosted plane had attained an altitude of 30,000 miles and a speed of 5,200 miles an hour, 100 miles per hour faster than space ships.

The rocket-engine would burn for four minutes, climbing to an altitude of 300 miles and attaining a speed of 18,000 miles an hour—only 2,000 miles an hour less than orbital velocity.

Sweeney said the booster plane would cost $15,000,000, the transport $10,000,000, and the operational cost of each flight $100,000.

That would permit a one-way trip fare of $1,000, compared with the present first class fare of $1,800 for the 10,300-mile New York-Melbourne flight. The trip now takes 37 hours and 50 minutes, including stops at facilities where they are available.

Quarrel Erupts Over Financing Of Power Project

VICTORIA (CP) — A dispute over the financing of the British Columbia River power project erupted Thursday when Premier W. A. C. Bennett and Opposition Leader Davie Fulton clashed on different interpretations of the latest federal offer.

Premier Bennett said Ottawa is trying to make a profit of $40,000,000 on the $172,000,000 and is also demanding 30 per cent of the power from the development.

Mr. Fulton said there hasn't been any federal government interference with the province's right to market its own resources. The export market requirements and promotes the production of more power these needs.

Mr. Fulton said Ottawa has offered to guarantee the borrowings of B.C. Hydro and Power Authority to the extent of $200,000,000 on the basis of farm products both overseas and at home, Mr. Goodfellow said.

The study group included members of the newly-created marketing branch and representatives of the Ontario dairy, meat, poultry, fruit and vegetable, grains, clover and grass seed industries.

$40,000 Loss, Many Homeless In Highgate Fire

HIGHGATE (CP)— The biggest fire here in 50 years destroyed a day destroyed or damaged most of the business section of this village 20 miles east of Chatham.

Damage was estimated at between $35,000 and $40,000.

Fire officials said the municipalities fought the flames for seven hours.

A two-storey farm implement building, in which the fire started, was owned by Fred Reinhardt, owner of the business, and a collapsed frame apartment and store was placed under sedation at his home.

The blaze also destroyed the adjoining home and barber shop of Harry Mallett, leaving homeless Mr. and Mrs. Ealcrift and their two children, and another family with five children.

FLAMES JUMPED

The flames jumped an adjoining building occupied by dentist Dr. R. C. McCutcheon, and damaged the roof and back wall of a home occupied by Mrs. Jeffery Mallett, a widow.

Children were ordered out of the nearby Highgate Public School as flames jumped from the unoccupied store adjoining the school. The school was damaged but the school was saved.

Flames then jumped a street and caught in the roof of a house occupied by Miss Fannie Aldridge before firemen snuffed them out. Damage was slight.

No one was injured in the fire. Cause of the blaze, and the extent of damage were not immediately known.

Profits Are Made Primarily In Markets, Not in Ottawa Rotary Club Meeting Told

PRESTON (CP) — Eric W. Kierans, president of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges, told Preston Rotarians Thursday it is mainly up to Canadian capitalists to counter the hostility of socialism.

He said businessmen these days constantly ask the federal government for special tax concessions in the form of depreciation allowances, deductions for research expenses, tariffs on imports, quotas and subsidies.

... One wonders if we have forgotten that profits are made primarily in the marketplace and not in Ottawa," Mr. Kierans told the joint meeting of the Rotary Clubs of Preston, Hespeler and Galt.

Canadian industry must be willing and able to meet foreign competition on the world markets.

"To make Canada as a island, hedged in by tariffs and quota restrictions, means the dissipation of our standard of living and confines us to a nation."

He said if Canada is to compete, costs of production must be reduced. The burden of reducing costs must be borne by management as well, he said. Labor costs were not as responsible for high product prices as some imagined.

An examination of manufacturing costs in Canada reveals that administrative and clerical costs have been a more important element in rising prices than the direct wage bill," he said.

"If we wish to maintain a capitalist economy, we cannot run to governments for assistance. We must face the competition ourselves. This is the capitalist's personal commitment."

Mr. Kierans said to keep capitalism strong in Canada, a highly competitive economy should be encouraged, and public investment stimulated.

It is a good time that we stopped apologizing for capitalism or downgrading it," he said. Too many corporations kept their affairs secret from the public. They would not disclose information about their business that was necessary information that would be highly useful to the governments and to the public.

Furore Over Demands for Coyne's Ousting Likely to Continue

OTTAWA (CP) — The furore over demands that James Coyne be removed as governor of the Bank of Canada was likely to get further airing in Parliament.

Mr. Coyne's term expires on the $50,000-a-year job as head of the agency responsible for Canada's monetary policy was questioned by 17 university economists in letters to Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

Mr. Fleming, who agreed to table them in the House, remarked that the economists gave no reasons for their contention that they have lost faith in the bank's management to fulfil Canada out of her economic difficulties.

The matter rested there in the Commons Thursday but the opposition CCF party revive the issue during the debate on Mr. Fleming's supplementary budget estimates for an investigation by a Commons committee.

BANKER ATTACKED FIRST

CCF Leader Argue gave an indication that the CCF will not back off on the issue. He asked whether the government will "permit the matter to be investigated by the Commons banking committee."

Mr. Fleming replied that the Commons will have to decide that question when considering the estimates of the bank's department which usually is presented in March.

The economists—12 from Universities in Ontario, Quebec and Carleton University here and one from St. F. X. University, Antigonish, N.S.—charged that the Coyne "public statements "have seriously shaken our faith in the wisdom and competence of the bank's management."

Coyne said policies pursued by the bank "have not displayed sufficient concern for the difficulties and uncertainties of the financial market for sufficient awareness of the problems of the economy in general."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker Professor William C. Hood of the University of Toronto, who drafted the refused to sign their letter, indicated the quarrel centres on the bank's attitude with regard to money supply.

SENIOR DEMANDS

Mr. Coyne he's come under fire from chartered bank officers for keeping the money supply at an amount of money in circulation and Professor Hood told the Commons Thursday before the Senate man power committee, school that demands for an increase.

He said that this, coupled, with income tax cuts, expansion of government spending and expenditures on research, could put the economy out of the doldrums.

Mr. Diefenbaker in the House of commission in a speech last month that the greatest factor in the economic troubles is the heavy burden of taxation which has been placed on the back of the real culprit is a slackening of demand at home and abroad for the goods and services the Canadian economy normally produces.

Mean while, Mr. Coyne remained silent on the controversy, returning only "no comment" to requests for statements by reporters. Mr. Coyne, he was appointed to a seven-year term by the Liberal government.

Cuban Assets Of Royal Bank Have Been Sold

MONTREAL (CP)—The Royal Bank of Canada has given up operations in Cuba, it was announced Thursday.

The bank's Cuban assets, estimated at $180,000,000, were sold to the Cuban government by the Cuban central bank.

Financial terms were not disclosed, but the Cuban bank agreed to take over the Royal bank's Cuban staff and its liabilities. The settlement was described as friendly.

Banking sources in Montreal said the assets were just about all the bank owned.

Since the Cuban government nationalized the bank last year except two Canadian - owned banks, the bank found itself doing little business.

A statement issued by the bank in Montreal said it was unable to operate satisfactorily in Cuba under nationalization laws and decrees.

With the exception of the Royal Bank and the Bank of Nova Scotia, all banks in Cuba were nationalized in 1960.

Under the nationalization law, said a statement issued on the letterhead of Canadian Ambassador Ellis.

"The whole project," the announcement said, "is a sentimental one, involved in pulling out of Cuba after business there for more than 60 years."

Referring to the law nationalizing most banks in Cuba, the announcement said:

"Notwithstanding this sale, the Royal Bank will keep a general representative office and a special representative in Havana to settle all official entities and others on outstanding business matters relating to Cuban-Canadian trade and international financial transactions generally."

Toronto Man Files Notice Of Appeal

TORONTO (CP)—Ben Smith, Thursday filed notice of appeal of his conviction Nov. 24 in charge of theft from the treasury of Britland Mines Limited.

An assize court jury found Smith, 46, and two others, Mrs. New York lawyers S.R. Saunders, and Stanley J. Schonbrun, 45, and Nassau Bay businessman Charles Stuart, 34, guilty of stealing $960,000 from the mine treasury.

In his notice of appeal Smith contends the verdict was unreasonable and that Mr. Justice G. A. Gale failed to separate his case from the other accused. He also argued the evidence for the Crown to convict him, he submitted.

Book Dealing With Explosion Creating Another

WINNIPEG (CP) — A novel by Canadian author Hugh MacLennan dealing with the 1917 Halifax explosion is creating another one in Manitoba schools—censorship.

Manitoba school trustees suddenly discovered Barometer Rising was approved reading in provincial schools and decided to get rid of it.

Delegates at the Provincial Trustees Association convention described Barometer Rising as both profane and vulgar.

They voted unanimously to ask the department of education to remove the book from all classrooms and school libraries and take it off curriculum lists.

The move brought a sharp response from both Mr. MacLennan and the book's publisher, Macmillan Publishing Company of Canada Limited.

AUTHOR PUZZLED

In Montreal, Mr MacLennan said he was puzzled at the ban just about what."

He doesn't know what they are kicking about," he said. "The book seems pretty mild to me. Every word of mine remembered out of it before it went into the school libraries."

Mr. MacLennan admitted the book, published in 1945, does contain "a few words" common in military swearing.

Manitoba's President John Gray said in Toronto the ban was ridiculous.

Said trustees delegate P. F. Dunne: "This book has no place in society, let alone in schools. Sections from the abridged version were read at the convention.

The book resolution also called on the government to exercise more censorship over all school literature.

Tourist Centre At Niagara Falls May Be Built

OTTAWA (CP)—An opportunity to cut Russian caviar or Indian curries from a vantage point 400 feet above Niagara Falls Gorge will come to Canadian and American vacationers next year, it was announced Thursday night are carried to completion.

The plan, which the backers said has won the support of the Niagara Parks Commission, is to build a $2,000,000 tourist centre, exhibition and tourist centre at Niagara Falls, Ont., high on the edge of the Niagara Gorge directly south of the Rainbow Bridge that links Canada and the American falls.

It would cost $40,000,000 to develop the permanent Canadian trade and cultural exhibition feature, said a joint announcement issued on the letterhead of Canadian Ambassador Ellis.

Cross-Canada Survey

Eastern Anglers Had to Work Harder for Creels, Westerners Enjoyed Best Year in History

By BEN WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Low water and poor catches in the Atlantic provinces are indicating rumor of a 15 - pound speckled trout in Quebec; an outstanding year for Manitoba, and a 63-pound spring salmon caught by a girl only a few pounds less river — these were the highlights of a mixed year of sports fishing across Canada.

Eastern anglers generally had to work harder for their catches while Westerners enjoyed one of the best seasons in years.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press indicates that at least 3,000,000 persons went fishing in the country this year, including anglers from the United States.

Abnormally low water levels played havoc with salmon fishing in the Atlantic region. In Newfoundland, salmon streams were practically dried up and the salmon catch was down to about 18,000, well below the record years of 1956 when more than 24,000 were taken.

Nova Scotia and New Brunswick had the driest summer in 35 years, cutting drastically into the salmon catch in Nova Scotia was lowest on record.

New Uranium Uses Needed To Aid Industry

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian uranium industry needs a comeback only with the discovery of new uranium uses in industry, agriculture or elsewhere in the field of power, Energy Resources Minister Macaulay told the Ontario Mining Association here.

He said the nickle industry, which also had its ups and downs, sometimes in the face of circumstances at the end of the 19th century, found new uses by introducing nickel into steel and now it is a "thriving, vital and prosperous industry."

New uses for uranium are now the subject of investigation by the government — sponsored Canada Research Foundation, he said during the course of which department's estimates.

Already the studies is one into the effect of small additions of uranium on metals to reduce pitting and corrosion.

If the study is successful, it is conceivable that 50,000 tons of uranium could be used every year in the automotive industry alone, Mr. Macaulay said. Present production is about 15,000 tons a year.

USED AS AN OXIDE?

Uranium will be investigated as an oxide to oxide as a fining agent for glass.

Elmer Sopha (L — Sudbury) said Ontario, out of Ontario's uranium-producing centres, produced "quite a substantial payroll" as residents leave to find work in other areas.

He charged the government with failing to take any concrete steps to improve the uranium market since an emergency debate during the last session of the legislature.

Uranium contracts with United States and the United Kingdom expire in 1962-63. Many mining companies have closed down operations or have begun to slash production.

God's Lake Yields 4 Strike Settled

WINNIPEG (CP) — A new delivery contract was signed out early Thursday after a strike deadline but before any walkout actually was called on the city's nine biggest newspapers.

The Newspaper and Mail Deliverers' Association had scheduled a strike for midnight Wednesday.

The new contract provides a 5-cent weekly increase the first year and $2.50 in the second, plus other benefits.

Deliverers averaged about $100 a week under the old contract.

VANGUARD ARRIVES

MONTREAL (CP)—The Vickers Vanguard arrived here today on its Trans-Canada Air Lines inaugural turbo-powered flight, arrived Thursday night. The first of 23 such aircraft to be purchased by the government-owned airline and will be used on short-to medium-range routes.

FIGURET

The monkeys had collected about a hundred turtle-eggs. Every night they dug, and every night curled up on the warm sand.

Then they hatched.

Quite quickly, he sampled an egg and then exactly a third of the rest. But Filp was honest, as few monkeys are, so he returned the eggs to the heap before going back to sleep.

And that was that. And he went through just the same routine, even replacing one as he ate it.

Finally Flop wakened, and ate an egg, and then another an egg, he also took a third of what remained, and put one back on the heap.

And, when morning came, the three shared the much reduced hoard equally without having to break a shell.

How many were collected?

LAGGING IN SPORTS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Manitoba's physical education program is the worst in Canada, Dr. Frank Kennedy, University of Manitoba physical education director, told delegates attending the annual meeting of the Manitoba School Trustees' Association Thursday. The association passed a resolution urging the provincial government to implement "adequate staff and financial support" for physical education and recreation.

PERTH (AP)—David Freed, United States Davis Cup captain, said today he was deeply concerned about American magazine article criticizing the sportsmanship of his tennis players.

"These boys are far from perfect but they are not a bunch of rowdies either," said the Sault Lake City financier. "I think these incidents of outbursts and temper tantrums have been blown up all out of proportion."

The magazine (Sports Illustrated) said in an editorial the American Davis Cup team was the international competition for poor sportsmanship and bad manners.

"Our boys when annoyed have been heaving their rackets into the air and the nets, banging balls into the crowds and swearing under their breath loudly enough to be heard around the world," the magazine said.

All four of the active Davis Cup players — Barry Mackay, Earl Buchholz, Dennis Ralston, and Chuck McKinley — were cited for tirades of various sorts.

"I have not approved of all their court actions." Freed said. "I have admonished them at times and advised them to keep control of their emotions for their own good . . . most of their expletives have been in anger over their own play. I will not stand for them doing anything obnoxious."

ORATORY KILLS

The Peters-Stewart team lifted the blockade a few days before the last session ended in August after receiving a promise from the government that the House committee on procedure would study handling of divorce bills at the current session. The committee has not yet been set up.

The bill debated Thursday would have established Canada's first national divorce law which would be offered, but not imposed, on whatever provinces wanted it. It provided an all-Canada doctrine so that Quebec and Newfoundland residents could petition for divorce in other provinces, instead of coming to Parliament.

HAVE OWN COURTS

At present, eight of the provinces have their own divorce courts, applying pre-Confederation laws that recognize adultery as the major ground for divorce. Nova Scotia adds the ground of cruelty. Other exceptions are minor.

The CCF bill would have retained adultery as a ground, applied habitual cruelty to all parts of the country, and added completely new grounds.

Mr. Peters said that the new bill would make it possible to get a Canadian divorce "without lying, cheating, getting involved in collusion with a lawyer, or hiring a dishonest detective." He said the present system is inviting hypocrisy and dishonesty.

MOVES TOO FAST

R. D. Caldwell Stewart (PC—Charlotte) said the "exceedingly wide departure" in the domicile law, combined with the wider grounds, would make divorce "too easy to obtain" and would open the way "for abuses, connivance and collusion, and thus defeat one of the purposes of the bill's sponsors."

J. P. Deschatelets (L—Montreal Maisonneuve — Rosemount) indicated that the new law would not be acceptable to Quebec, where divorce is regarded as indissoluble both in the teaching of the Roman Catholic Church and in the civil code.

He suggested this solution: Amend the British North America Act so that Parliament's present jurisdiction over divorce would be transferred to the provinces. Then would leave the provinces free to make their own divorce laws.

LIQUOR-HAZED

lantern hall collecting their returns, Bebas called it.

His coffee was open, his hair dishevelled and his shirt stained. But he struck out from the auditorium stage.

"I understand I am not being paid for this performance," he said. "It had intended to come here and to thank you as best as I know how and I intended to pay you about Second Baptist."

No sooner did tell about Bebas, a nineteenth-century English orator, and he launched on a few insults.

Instead, he sang a couple of choruses of a French-Canadian ballad. Then, suddenly serious, he turned the lash of his scorn on France's Algerian politicians.

"I don't like Nazis—I don't like French Nazis any more than I do German Nazis," he said. "I like France. They entertained me last year but now they are murdering Algerians. Montrealers love France, but now France is led by madmen, gangsters and collaborators."

French - speaking Canadians could influence the French government to change its Algerian policies.

"If you won't, who will?" he asked. "What can those other idiots—I can't call them Canadians, because they're not, and I can't call them Indians, because they're not—what can they do to help Algeria?"

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Ken Soden's proud, young all-Ontario Junior "A" baseball champions shouldn't have much trouble in winning their final post-titular battle of the season.

On Saturday night the conquerors of the best boarding house baseball buckaroos in Mr. Frost's domain will tackle a delectable buffet dinner—and if all reports are true, they shouldn't have much trouble in disposing of the "enemy."

What this healthy young bevy of athletes can do to a mac-size meal would make an old-time threshing gang go green with envy.

The big party honoring the young champions is being held at the Odd Fellows hall, 371½ Front Street, and Dog and Moss and the girl-friend will be along to join in the celebration.

Highlight of the evening will be the presentation of Jackets by sponsor Ken Soden. Vic Morris and others who helped the club. The jackets will wear the crests of the OBA signifying the championship effort of the team in bringing to Belleville the Junior "A" title.

The Kenmor club is one of the best sports championship organizations turned out, baseball-wise, since the days of the famous Grand Trunks and Nationals, and other title-winning teams of the famous old Central Ontario Baseball League.

Welded together by Soden, Morris and company when they were bantams or younger, they played together as a unit, down the teach midget, juvenile and junior baseball trails.

Perhaps the exceptional balance of the club was one of its success factors. Soden and Morris sought this and graded the club until it reached their ideas of near-perfection. They reached it a little better, claims that that during the past two years or so.

The club has a pitching staff headed by its ace right-hander, Leroy Soden, that is second to none in junior ranks of the province. The Kenmore have three or four hurlers who can step into the breach.

True, like any other baseball club, they "goofed" once in a while, but generally speaking, their fielding was of championship calibre.

Their prowess at the bat was their hitting. There is not a man on the club who cannot belt a ball a mile, and this consistency at the plate with Larry Soden, Gary Geyer, Mavety and others playing major roles pulled out many a hard-earned game.

And the powers-that-be, plus other baseball men of this part of Ontario are going to make an all-out effort to keep their fine young baseball clubs intact. Plans are now under way which should lay the foundation of a Central Ontario Baseball League next summer and something of a more or less definite nature will be laid down perhaps early in January.

Peterborough, Belleville and Oshawa are definitely interested in the formation of such a league, and those in the know do not anticipate much trouble in getting one or more other teams to round out a fine circuit in this district.

Fred Garver of the Peterborough Juniors, likes a four-team set-up of Belleville, Peterborough, Oshawa and a Cobourg-Port Hope combined club. He feels that Kingston is too far to travel, while Lindsay has its own intermediate district set-up.

It is understood that efforts will be made to acquire the Fair Grounds baseball diamond, and that Sunday baseball will come under discussion. Some want the age limit confined to 18 years, while other aggressions call for the limit to be extended to 21 or 23 years of age.

However, this is all tentative, and nothing much will be done until January when it is understood the Belleville interests will call a meeting of those interested.

As was said before, the movement has the all-out blessing of Jack Carson, first vice-president of the Ontario Baseball Association. Jack will likely be named president of the OBA next year and it would be a fine thing for the new proxy to start a term of office with a brand new baseball league in his own home district.

Move Ahead Of Rangers

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

While Montreal Canadiens, Detroit Red Wings, Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks fight it out for first place in the National Hockey League, Boston Bruins and New York Rangers are having their own family affair in the league cellar.

Thursday night, Bruins moved one point ahead of New York by defeating Chicago Black Hawks 5-1. It was the sixth time this season the lead changed hands between Boston and New York.

Boston now has 19 points, but has played three more games.

General manager Muzz Patrick of New York and his brother Lynn of Boston, engaged in a friendly squabble that began a few years ago, have often been cooled by saying they would rather beat each other than beat another NHL team.

HALL UPPER HAND

But Muzz seems to have the upper hand right now, in six games between the two teams, Rangers have taken five decisions to Boston's one.

Charlie Burns led Boston's attack with two goals, both coming when Bruins were shorthanded. Leo Labine, Johnny Bucyk and Joe McKenney scored once each.

Ken Wharram averted the shutout for Chicago.

Team Handyman

Bruins Like Mr. Burns

BOSTON (AP)—Charley Burns once was told he never would be able to play hockey again. The same talented hustler today is the man who led Boston Bruins out of the National Hockey League cellar.

Handyman Burns, a centre, scored twice Thursday night as Boston defeated Marlboros of Chicago Black Hawks 5-1. The Hawks have won only one of their last seven starts.

One of the few players in the NHL who wasn't born in Canada —he is a native of Detroit—Burns, 24, received his "no hockey" edict when he suffered a severe head injury while playing for Detroit Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series. He proved the doctors wrong and has survived other head injuries since to become of the leading hustlers of the NHL.

Burns's specialties are killing penalties and harassing enemy skaters. Last year he scored 10 goals while serving time than twice that many.

When the Bruins needed more scoring strength this fall, they sent Burns to Kingston Frontenacs of the Eastern Professional League but recalled him in late October when Boston was stricken by injuries.

Amerks Get Ron Howell

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, although beset by player injuries, have sent recently acquired defenceman-forward Ron Howell to Rochester Americanas, their American League farm club.

Leafs are missing defencemen Allan Stanley, who suffered a broken jaw, and Carl Brewer, out with torn knee ligaments, and forward Ron Stewart, who has a broken ankle.

Defenceman Tim Horton, sidelined for some time with a groin injury, will be pressed back into service.

CHATTAN OOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Co-eds around here might as well trade in their shoulder pads for compacts.

The Hardin-Simmons School Board Thursday banned tackle football games for girls.

The board voted to ban such contests on county school grounds after chairman Charles W. Lusk Jr., said there had been reports of girl's football at two schools.

Roy Scruggs, board member who played football at the U of Tennessee at Chattanooga, said games in which girls tackle their opponents were too dangerous for the fairer sex.

Maroons Complete Tour With Tie

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Canada's Chatham Maroons Thursday night tied the Swedish national team 3-3 in their rematch at Johanneshov Stadium in Stockholm.

The game was the second of a two-game set here. Maroons beat the National team 3-1 here Wednesday.

The Canadians had come from behind a 2-1 deficit Thursday in the third period to gain the tie.

Right-winger Jack Stoddard, a former New York Ranger, opened the scoring at the 15-minute mark of the first period. He slapped the puck in after taking an assist from Floyd Martin.

The Swedish team did all its scoring in the second period, with Meninger scoring twice within two minutes and Pettersson adding the third tally.

Frank Bathgate reduced the lead early in the third period and Bill Forman tied it. Forman's goal with less than five minutes left.

GAME ENDED TOUR

The game ended Maroons' nine-game European Exhibition tour.

In a seven-game tour against Russian teams the Canadian Allan Cup champions won only a single game, tied one and lost five.

Chatham goalie Harold (Bosh) Hurley was the star for the Canadians. The three goals scored against him all came during wild scrambles around the Maroons net and could hardly have been prevented. Every shot on which Hurley had a clear field of view he blocked.

The game suffered from a heavy snow storm and play in the outdoor stadium was stopped several times for the ice to be cleared. On several times the puck was lost in snow.

The Canadians moved to a 1-0 lead in the opening period on Stoddard's goal. In the second period, the Swedes led by center Sven (Tumba) Johansson, reared back, Wilf Meninger scored twice and Ronald Pettersson cut to Johansson set up the pass patterns.

Beavers Beat Charlie Hodge, Birds Lose

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Charlie Hodge, top goal for the National Hockey League Montreal Canadiens' current six-game winning streak, was on the shelf Thursday night to his old Eastern Professional League team, the Montreal Canadiens. Brought back for the one game under an emergency clause in the NHL's agreement with the minor league, Charlie could do nothing to prevent Royal's 3-2 defeat in Montreal by Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers. It was the cellar-dwelling Royal's fourth loss in five games.

In other EPHL action at Sault Ste. Marie, the Soo won their fifth derbirds lost 4-0 to Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, who chalked their seventh straight victory to stretch their lead at the top of the table to 12 points.

Hull-Ottawa now ride high with 41 points, followed by Sault Ste. Marie with 28, Kitchener, 26 Kingston 24, Sudbury 23 and Montreal 16.

At Montreal, rookie Len Rosson's deflection at 14:30 mark of the third period gave Kitchener the decision. He scored on a power play while Montreal was shorthanded with Guy Black off for leaving.

Ed Hoskatra and Bob Sabourin also netted for Kitchener. Royals' marksmen were Wally Clune and Skippy Burchell.

Hodge stopped 25 shots. He has been replacing the injured Jacques Plante in the Canadiens' lineup but was returned to the

Hull Gets Geo. Bouchard

HULL, Que. (CP) — Hull-Ottawa Canadiens of the Eastern Professional Hockey League announced the acquisition of defenceman Geo. Bouchard from Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League.

He became available when the Aces purchased Jim Morrison from New York Rangers of the National League.

Bouchard, a 26-year-old right-hander, played with Cleveland Barons last year and had a season record of four goals and 32 assists.

He will report to Canadiens today and will be in the lineup against Sudbury Wolves tonight. Bouchard, a native of Montreal, weighs 190 pounds and is six feet tall.

Barnum Leads Coral Golf

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich., parlied his way to a six-under-par 65 and a one-stroke lead in the first round of the $20,000 Coral Gables open golf tournament Thursday.

Tied at 66 were Marty Furgol of Coghill, Ill., and former PGA champion Jim Turnesa of Rye, N.Y. Deadlocked at 67 were Tom Garrity of Kansas City, Mo., Dan Massingale of Jacksboro, Tex.; Gardner Dickinson Jr., of Palm Beach, Fla.; and Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla.

Eight more were tied at 68 including Sam Snead of Boca Raton, Fla., and the pre-tournament favorite, Arnold Palmer who would have had a much better score except for erratic approaching.

Red Wings Clobber Teeps, Petes Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Coach Phil Vitale of St. Catharines Teepees said recently he's going to "make him into the best in the league—if they'll only take off a little fat.

It may not have been weight that felled them Thursday night, but they were outclassed and out-scored 8-2 by lowly Hamilton Red Wings, last place club all season.

In one other Ontario Hockey Association Junior A contest, fourth place Peterborough Petes dumped second - place Niagara Falls 4-1. Toronto St. Michael's still lead the loop, Guelph holds third place and St. Catharines are fifth behind Peterborough.

Hamilton's win lifted them from the cellar—that unenviable place being taken by Toronto Marlboros.

"I'm just getting to know these kids," said Vitale, "And the more I see them the more convinced I become that we can and will clinch a ballgame. . . ."

ENTERED A BRAWL

Led by boisterous goalkeeper Roger Crozier, five Teepees were their gloves to enter a wild scrum'mook behind Crozier's net Thursday night. Crozier drew a misconduct and other players were banished with majors.

Lowell MacDonald led Hamilton home on a 1.764 face with a four-goal splurge. Lyle Porter scored twice, Larry Jeffrey and Larry Hicks once each.

Bill Sloan and Bill Ives scored for St. Catharines.

A Peterborough crowd of 3,600 fans saw Jerry Toppazzini in the final period Flyers' Ron Ingrott Herbie Saltarelli and Marty Rutledge and Petes' Fernand Gaumia, Dennis Plager and Bob Boddy were thumbed off the rink with misconduct.

Doug Favell, Lou Kazowski, Boddy and Plager scored Peterborough goals and Favell and Plager counted one for the losers.

Third Title in Row

WIN THIRD IN ROW—Ontario School for the Deaf boys won their third OFSSA volleyball championship in many years as the recent tournament held at OSD. OSD Boys Win 'B' Volleyball Championship

The Ontario School for the Deaf "B" section COSSA boys' volleyball champions won their third straight OFSSA title here recently.

The tournament for both "A" and "B" sections attracted eight teams, five in "A" and three in "B". It was held in the OSD gymnasium.

The School for the Deaf squad, coached by Wayne Fox, defeated Brock High School of Cannington and Sherbrooke High School to retain their title.

Guelph Collegiate won the "A" championship, defeating Leaside High in the final. Other competing schools were Stella Collegiate, Moira Secondary and Trenton High School.

The OSD "B" champions have compiled an enviable record. They are undefeated in two straight years of volleyball competition and have lost but three times over a period of three years.

A Guelph player won the most valuable player trophy of the tournament. He is A. "Pete" Beach, secretary of the Ontario Federation of School Athletic Associations, Toronto, was in charge of officials and the schedule.

The tournament was open to all high schools in Ontario.

Members of the OSD "B" champions for this year were: coach, Wayne Fox; co-captains Eugene Fowler and John Wright; Gilbert Little, Adrien Aylsworth, Bruce Fisher, Gerry Sullivan, Bruce Gregory and Doug McConachie.

Bay of Quinte Basketball

Picton Prospectors moved into second place in the Bay of Quinte Basketball League standings last night when they defeated the Belleville Lightnots 89-56.

Prospectors now occupy a two point lead over the Belleville Theodores' quintet.

The winners took a 32-16 lead in the first quarter and increased it to 62-34 at the half. They led 66-43 at the three-quarter mark.

The game was played in the Moira Secondary School gymnasium.

Hopkins topped the winners with 25 points, Mathews paced the Lightnots with 12 points.

The lineups — Picton (23)— Hopkins 25, Scott 10, Kingma, Klaon 19, Smith 4, Lawcett 2 and Dingman 6, Tyrrell 10, Reynolds, Klaon 19, Smith, 4, Lawcett2 and Silvert.

Larks Say Simpson Signs For 1961

MONTREAL (CP) — Reliable reports from the Montreal Alouettes say that Jackie Simpson, star guard with Hamilton Tiger-Cats last few years, has signed a 1961 contract with the team.

Simpson, 29, had announced earlier he would quit if team-mate Bill Hudson left the team. Hudson, played out a one year, no option contract last year and now is a free-agent. He hasn't said whether he'll come back.

Tackle Billy Shipp is contemplating a move to Toronto, Leo Lyons, Alouettes' head coach said during high because he wanted to play in Toronto he would keep his business interests.

Argonaut coach Lew Hayman said he would be interested in meeting Alouette coach Perry Moss to make a deal for Shipp.

Logart Wins Over Ward

PORTLAND, Me. (AP) — Veteran Cuban welterweight Isaac Logart weathered a furious 10th round rally Thursday night to score a unanimous decision over Steve Ward of Hartford, Conn., before 1,372 fans. There were no knockdowns.

The win boosted Logart's won-lost - draw record to 36-4-1. Ward, who holds the New England junior welterweight boxing championship, is 24-4-2.

Logart weighed 146½ and Ward 146.

Frisco's Gun Packer 'Hows' Will Duel

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco's shotgun and a pair of Green Bay howitzers provide the attack theme for a National Football League tie-breaking battle.

Nevertheless defence may be the key to victory.

The 49ers exploded their spread formation, or shotgun as coach Red Hickey calls it, against Baltimore Colts' two weeks ago for a surprising 30-22 victory.

The exploits of the Packers' Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor have been season-long.

Already Hornung has established an NFL scoring record of 138 points for a season while fullback Taylor ranks second in rushing with 808 yards.

So it's natural for Hickey to declare: "The key thing in this game is to stop the Packers when they have the ball; the last two have to keep it ourselves. We've got to move it."

San Francisco, Green Bay and Baltimore are tied in the western division with 6-4 records. Baltimore gets its chance Sunday against Los Angeles Rams.

Green Bay's defence must stop the 49ers in their regular T-formation attack and also in the new spread where the quarterback stands about seven feet behind the line and takes a direct snap from centre.

Norris Admits Tie-In With Carbo

By WHITNEY SHOEMAKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — James D. Norris, who says he dealt reluctantly with mobster Frankie Carbo, faced his last round today before Senate investigators who want more details of relations between the two priz fight figures.

Norris was called back for additional closed - door questioning by the Senate anti - trust and monopoly subcommittee, which is trying to get to the bottom of money he gave Thursday.

He testified he associated with Carbo in the fulfilled hope of averting difficulties with boxing managers who bowed for more money and threatened out pull out of televised bouts.

Norris, 53, formerly headed the International Boxing Clubs, disbanded by court order last year for monopolizing championship fights. He was excused from testifying in public after doctors agreed the strain might provoke another heart attack. He already has suffered two.

PLANS TO QUESTION

John G. Sonsmi, special counsel to the subcommittee, said he planned to get down to cases today about Norris's contacts with Carbo. Long regarded as the underworld's boxing boss, Carbo is in the midst of a two-year prison term for racketeer manipulations as manager and matchmaker.

Other witnesses had linked the names of Norris and Carbo. Norris said Carbo visited his New York apartment about twice a year for a decade. He portrayed Carbo as knowing more fight managers than anyone else in the game.

He said he employed Viola Masters, who later married Carbo, as a "goodwill representative." He denied that the move was an effort to curry favor with Carbo, but conceded later that "possibly unconsciously I had that in mind."

Norris testified he was more skeptical of Carbo's influence than were others. Of his relationship with Carbo, he said:

"It was a reluctant one that in some ways I sought to develop."

Norris said he felt he needed no more problems than he already had in assuring a supply of boxers for the twice-weekly fight shows his organization promoted for television.

TALKS OF KEARNS

He also discussed his employment of Jack Kearns, a veteran boxing manager who later witnesses had said received $137,000 from Norris enterprises over a period of years. As Norris told it, his televised boxing shows were in desperate trouble, caused by Kearns's international Boxing Managers Guild.

Kearns, testifying Wednesday, had made light of his role in the guild, but Norris said he viewed Kearns as a power in the organization.

Norris said he blamed the guild for labor troubles at Madison Square Garden, boycotting of his fights by some managers, and other troubles. "They were threatening us all the time," Norris said.

He called the situation desperate, because a last-minute cancellation of a fight could cost a sponsor $20,000 for a non-championship match.

Frisco Packer Signs

SAN FRANCISCO (CP) — Tackle Bob Toneff, 6-foot-4, 250-pound defensive lineman from Wake Forest College, has signed a contract with the San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League, it was announced Thursday.

Toneff was drafted by the 49ers on the 20th round in 1959 but did not sign a contract with them.

Sell Franchise?

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The Dallas - Fort Worth baseball franchise in the American Association probably will be sold within a week to an out-of-town group that is bidding for a seat in the National League, the Dallas Times Herald said Thursday. The paper said the National League is working quietly toward granting 1961 franchises to Dallas-Fort Worth and Buffalo.

Wants Special Act Giving Him Citizenship

MONTREAL (CP)—A United States citizen has broken a 74-year precedent by applying for Canadian citizenship after two years residence in Canada.

Robert H. Morse III, president of the Canadian Dextra-Morse Company Limited, said Thursday he has petitioned Parliament to pass a special act giving him citizenship.

Normally, five years must be spent in residence before a citizenship is granted.

A statement issued through the company said Mr. Morse, 36, who lives in suburban Westmount with his wife and two children, "felt it would be not only in his own personal interest but more significantly in the interest of the company that he obtain citizenship as soon as possible."

Mr. Morse, interviewed later, said he had "high hopes" of becoming a citizen as a result of the petition.

Yul Brynner Believes Show Will Make People Think

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Yul Brynner, the suave actor with the shaved skull who became a star in The King and I, has found it easy to retain a plunge into television.

The only reason he is finally giving in—Saturday night in a 90-minute Special on CBS called Rescue—if that he believes the show will make people in this country aware that there are still some 15,000,000 displaced persons around the world.

Brynner's show, made with United Nations assistance, tells about the unhappy grownups, children and adults born in camps and growing up there, members of a new race of rootless, hopeless camp dwellers.

These people are of great concern to the actor, and for some time he has been acting as a special unpaid consultant to the UN high commissioner for refugees, travelling to the camps, trying to relocate them permanently, attempting to better their living conditions.

WAS PIONEER

Brynner has not kept away from television all these years because he has that fear of the unknown that afflicted many a nervous motion picture or stage star. Brynner was one of the successful pioneering directors of television, working on Studio One, creating series called Danger, and — his proudest boast — discovering several young men, including John Frankenheimer, who now are has proved pretty dull viewing top-flight TV directors.

"I know television so well, as a director and as a creator, that it just didn't appeal to me to go back in as a performer," he said. "I just wasn't interested and never thought about it."

ABC and NBC are planning detailed coverage of Pasadena's annual Tournament of Roses, but it's hard to say why. It's just a parade, and to date it has proved pretty dull viewing.

Economic, Trade Conditions Strain Relations Between Canada and United States

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — An era in the face of totalitarian aggression, headed to cool in 1960 as the danger of war receded and Canadians paid more heed to the fact of their independence and national identity.

While statesmen from both sides publicly extolled the virtues of Canada-United States relations as a model for the world, American authorities anxiously listened to increasing reports of "creeping Canadianism" in Canada coupled with growing criticism of American domination over Canada's industry.

This American anxiety increased with the Canadian government decision to seek new laws forcing foreign - controlled industry to publicize information about their holdings in Canada.

Qualified Canadian informants said American authorities were mystified and stunned when Canada steered clear the U.S. embargo on exports to Cuba. The American view was that Canada was becoming less of a staunch ally against Communist aggression.

BLAME GOVERNMENT

On the Canadian side, there appeared to be increasing distrust of American leadership, especially after the U-2 spy plane affair and the collapse of the summit conference at Paris.

There may be some change in 1961 when Democrat John Kennedy replaces Republican Dwight Eisenhower as president of the United States. Prime Minister Diefenbaker got along well with Eisenhower.

Canadian Ambassador Arnold Heeney, a popular Washington figure, is likely to step down in 1961, severing some personal Canada-U.S. links. Three may be required to develop new ones.

Meanwhile, the two countries worry about markets and signs of temporary recession at home. Canada is vastly more dependent on exports than the United States, but the U.S. is worried about its diminishing gold supply.

Both countries plan big export drives as a time when world competition is increasing, with West Germany and Japan showing a big spurt through lower prices and lower labor costs.

What may aggravate Canada-U.S. difficulties is the rise of demands in the U.S. for more protection and John Kennedy's own pledge to pay closer attention to domestic industries hurt by foreign competition.

The U.S. still remains Canada's top market. While more Canadian natural gas will undoubtedly flow across the border in 1961, the flow of Canadian uranium will continue in decline because of world

Sinatra Planning Big Show For Eve Before Inauguration

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The biggest one-night prom in the history of show business"—that's what Frank Sinatra is planning to celebrate John Kennedy's inauguration as president Jan. 20.

It's no secret that the singer has been one of Kennedy's biggest boosters. Sinatra has been put in charge of a gala to end all gala on the night of Jan. 19 in Washington. Who appointed him?

"The gang in Washington, including Jack," he said.

Sinatra disclosed details of the event in his Duval at 4 o'Clock dressing room: "This is something that hasn't been done before. Usually there is a ball after the inauguration and that's it.

BOX SEATS $10,000

"This year we're having a show on the night before the inauguration. It will be held at the armory, and it'll be a theatre-to-be-round — the stage in the middle and seats all around. The place holds 10,000 and the seats will sell for $100 apiece. Some of the upper seats might be scaled lower; boxes will be sold for $10,000.

"We expect to raise $1,700,000 for the night. There's never been anything like it in show business."

The proceeds will help pay off the inaugural party's $2,000,000 debt from the 1956 celebration.

Sinatra listed those who will help him as Democratic producer Al Jolson, Jan. 19; Harry Belafonte, Gene Kelly, Louis Prima and Keely Smith, Ella Fitzgerald, Peter Lawford, Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh, Nat King Cole, Dean Martin, Peter Lawford, Sammy Davis Jr., Sammy Davis Jr., Mahalia Jackson, Juliet Prowse, Red Skelton and I hope Judy (Garland) will be able to come over from Europe."

surpluses.

AGREE ON POWER

But there also are signs of disagreement. After years of effort, the two countries finally got to the stage where they agreed to join in developing the big west coast Columbia River for power.

And in June, when Diefenbaker visited Eisenhower, the two leaders said they noted with pleasure the extent to which conference "yielded to the process of friendly and continuing consultation."

"They expressed their belief," a communique said, "that there has been established between the two countries a model for the relationship between neighbors."

In the U.S. Congress, continuing efforts to increase import quotas on lead and zinc were beaten down along with pressure for diversion of Great Lakes water for Chicago sewage disposal. Mounting the biggest war on industry worth of the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile, of which Canada is to get two squadrons, finally ended with congressional approval of the program.

But as the year ended, there were signs of trouble ahead. The Bomarc would be virtually useless without its atomic warhead. Diefenbaker said he would not accept American atomic warheads in Canada without some Canadian control over their custody. There was little likelihood of early change in American law which requires the U.S. to retain sole control over American atomic warheads.

MECCANO CHRISTMAS!

Boys of all ages delight in constructing things with their hands and Meccano is truly engineering for boys! That's why thousands will be thrilled when they find a MECCANO SET under the Christmas tree. Meccano is such a fascinating hobby ... building bridges, aircraft planes, tanks, and hundreds of other models from easy-to-follow instructions. MECCANO—POWER-DRIVEN MODELS! The crowning thrill comes when models are set in motion by means of a Meccano Clockwork or Electric Motor. There is nothing to equal the excitement of seeing a model, built by your own hands, working! Just like in the real thing.

No Offence To Heckle Priest

CATANIA, Sicily (Reuters)—A Sicilian court has ruled that it is no offence for an Italian to heckle a priest during a church sermon if the priest is talking politics.

An article in Italy's penal code provides for jail terms of up to two years for anyone disturbing a priest at mass or other Roman Catholic religious ceremonies.

Giuseppe di Bella was charged under this article after he shouted in church at Trecastagni during a sermon by the local priest: "Don't hold a political talk on with the mass."

Di Bella was found not guilty after evidence had been given that the priest was discussing a church appeal to Catholics not to vote for political parties promoting the Communist cause. Local elections were being held in Sicily at the time.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, December 19, 1958

General Tendencies: Now you have a Saturday when you are under beautiful aspects for making out your shopping list, for getting larger and accessories that are required not only for Christmas presents, but also whatever happens to be your own interests and duty in everyday living. Expand and really make everything that is important to you workable today and tonight. Action.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — The ideal day to put better order into your living quarters or office and installing new mechanisms, etc. that will be a boon to you. Be kind to co-workers this evening and you will win them over, show your appreciation.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — The ideal day to have a most happy time at the hobbies you most enjoy. Also a good day to do kind things for those you love, to buy holiday presents, entertain them, etc. Be jolly and have a lot of fun.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Greatest progress can be made today in the privacy of your own home and in conference with Science, of kin. Make any repairs that are necessary there, too. Evening is fine for entertaining or just being happy with loved ones.

Those Children (June 22 to July 22) — Now you can buy just the very presents you have been searching for. Also, you can find the right gadgets you need. Evening is fine for study, visiting, taking a little trip or just clearing up some long-standing problem.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — Now is the right time to think constructively exactly how you can increase your income appreciably by using newer methods. P.M. go out socially where business experts can be consulted over a cup of coffee or at dinner. Grow.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Get your appearance improved through expert hands and take any health treatments you need in A.M. Then be off to social affairs where you can reach better rapport with more important persons as well as have a good time.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — Whatever is of intimate nature can be taken care of very wisely today. However, get the good advice of authorities or those very close to you. P.M. fine for any club work, or doing the town. Also excellent for romance.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — Think seriously about your true desires, whether of a personal or business nature, then plan how best to attain them. Evening can then be very pleasant in the company of good friends or relations. Be happy and cheerful.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Step out and see as many higher-ups, especially in public life, as you can so that you can get ahead of them. Take some important individual out to dinner and combine business with pleasure in a social way. Be dynamic.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A good day to get together with associates socially and exchange ideas. Also, take a little trip, if necessary, so that you 'get a broader view of affairs in own field of endeavor. Look for romance — don't procrastinate.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Find out what your true position is with the people today. Get your bills paid, collect whatever is owed you, and garner the information you need from those who will now release it. P.M. be sure you get together with key people who are too busy during work and thrash out any differences or problems that require immediate attention. Listen to their ideas politely and then reach perfect accord. Be kind, cooperative.

If your child is born today — you will early note that your child will have a passionate love for order and neatness, and since "cleanliness is next to Godliness," this youngster will best be fitted for any profession where sanitation is a prerequisite, or will be steadily sulled for the religious life, whether boy or girl. There is much practical sense here, too, and much success is possible. Educate well.

CHILD FOR ADOPTION

MAURICE — a likeable French-speaking three year old needs a permanent home where he will be loved and cared for by parents and children. This youngster is olive-complexioned, has dark eyes and dark brown hair. Recent examinations reveal that Maurice is in good physical health and developing normally. Maurice's mother is single and because of her limited income is unable to provide adequate care for him with his mother's consent a birth mark on his face will be removed. After surgery he would receive lots of attention and affection.

Roman Catholic couples interested in making Maurice with a view to Maurice's adoption, should write to:

MOBUTU GIVEN

York that he has "deeply disturbing news" from Stanleyville and Oriental province. He declined to go into details at that time.

PEREMPTORY MESSAGE

The cable said: "Demand immediate liberation Patrice Emergy Lumumba and members legal government arrested by Col. Mobutu.

"Liberation must take place within six hours.

"If not will arrest all Belgians in Oriental province and begin shooting any of them . . . ."

Lumumba was arrested Dec. 1 in the interior of The Congo by Mobutu's troops while heading for Stanleyville, where his aides went after his government fell. The Congo chief has since been held incommunicado.

Early today to investigate the reports of his arrest.

Gen. Iyassu is to be in complete control of all UN action to free Lumumba.

Stanleyville is 775 miles northeast of Leopoldville.

The UN spokesman said Saturday at his press conference had also threatened to loot the property of the arrested Belgians.

Columns two weeks ago raped in virtually every town while in Stanleyville for an "identity card check" and kept them standing in the blazing sun for up to seven hours. A score of whites, including a woman and a young child, were kept in prison and brutally illtreated for several days before being released through UN intervention.

Soviet resolution calling for the immediate release of Lumumba and his supporters and his restoration as premier.

The Soviet proposal would also instruct the UN Congo force to "take the terrorist bands of strongman Joseph Mobutu immediately. It would demand that the "legitimate" Belgian military, paramilitary and civil personnel leave The Congo" immediately.

REPORT REBELS

Lt.-Col. Francois Rene Vandewalle was identified as Ramiro Rodriguez Vandewalle of Holguin, a passenger believed to have been on the ground.

Three of the insurgent group were captured when they hid in a cane field after crash landing, and a fourth member, who was badly injured, was reported surrounded by militiamen.

The pilot, Capt. Francisco Martinez, 32, a 30-year veteran with Cubana, was gravely wounded.

A total of 17 persons on Cubana—were aboard the plane, a twin-engined DC-3 on flight originated in Santiago.

The note delivered to U.S. Charge d'affaires Daniel Braddock protested that the U.S. was endangering Cuba, life and property by launching its space rockets over this island.

Chunks of the rocket weighing up to 40 pounds fell in an unpopulated area 60 miles east of Havana after it was launched from Cape Canaveral and then disintegrated because of malfunction.

appointment with Trade Minister George Nees Cuban sources reported.

Mr. Bod said Cuba is prepared to buy up to $150,000,000 worth of goods during the next year and insisted that it has to convertible currency to pay for them. Among the commodities in which it was interested are newsprint, cows, spare parts and wheat.

The mission which expects to remain in Canada for six days and may visit Montreal and Toronto in addition to Ottawa also wants to inquire into the possibility of increased exports to Canada.

MENTIONS SUGAR, TOBACCO

He did not mention specific items but among Cuban products included in this connection in the past have been sugar, tobacco, rayon fibres and fibre manufactures, leather goods and certain raw materials such as manganese ore.

Last year Canada sold $15,250,000 worth of goods to Cuba while importing $24,000,000 worth, in contrast the United States in 1956 sold Cuba goods worth $254,500,000 worth of goods.

VIOLENCE

Algeria which is being transformed from co-operation between the two communities (European and Moslem) into open violence.

DRAFTED IN FLAG

The deputy mayor of Ain Temouchent, Mohammed Minoui, came outside with a French tricolor draped about his shoulders.

"We are all for de Gaulle and independence," he told reporters.

"De Gaulle is to spend six days trying to persuade the population his policy is the right one. His presence, as the symbol and author of a policy they hate, stirred die-hards to riot in Oran and Algiers.

In Oran relative quiet was restored when soldiers replaced hated riot police. Tear gas was fired on the crowds to hold places.

The army also moved into some areas of Algiers shortly after noon. Soldiers set up machine-gun emplacements near the university district as students who took to the streets.

Most of the rioters appeared to be students who had turned out early in the morning. Boys and girls some of them still wearing bathrobes lowered huge French tricolor flags in the marchers and urged them on. The students had notebooks, sticks and even typewriters.

The riot squad turned back 2,000 demonstrators marching to-installations when people are present.

He said a company employing an independent contractor should feel a responsibility to supervise him and see that the work is done properly.

Despite a word of caution from Mr. Macaulay that writs have been issued against the company and the contractor, and the matter is before the courts, the debate remained the main order of business.

CCF Leader MacDonell said the coroner's jury declared that gross negligence had been committed by the company. They quoted Russell Perkins, a company official, as saying "we feel we were not negligent . . . we did not violate any of the code."

CRITICIZES COMPANY

Mr. MacDonald called Union Gas a "rough and tumble" company that knows always how to please.

"I hope the minister will not waiver," he added.

Mr. Macaulay said he attempted to suspend the licence of contractor Charles Jessop, after the explosion but discovered he did not have the authority under the act to do so.

"But I'm now going to let him have a licence in 1961," he said, adding that subsequently the city of Windsor suspended the contractor's licence.

Kenneth Byrden (CCF—Toronto Woodbine) called the Windsor situation "one of apparent, wide-spread negligence on the part of the government."

"The minister says he has the finest regulations in the world . . . but the finest regulations are useless if they are not observed."

SAYS MINISTER HASTY

Mr. Maurice Belanger (—Windsor Sandwich) and Bernard Newman (—Windsor Walkerville) criticized the minister for being too hasty in trying to cancel the contractor's licence.

Mr. Newman said a briefing this week of the 33 departmental inspectors at Queen's Park—the first to be called since passing of the Energy Act—looked like a case "of locking the barn after the horsey have been stolen."

Allan Lawrence (PC—Toronto St. George) said the Energy Act should be amended to give the minister power to cancel or suspend licences in an emergency situation. At present, only the Ontario Energy Board has the power to act.

During the night sitting, Liberal Leader Winternmeyer urged the Hydro-Electric Power Commission to purchase Canadian-built electrical generators for new hydro plants.

He said one generator would provide 2,000,000 man-hours of work. The current unemployment situation made it imperative that Hydro buy Canadian - manufactured goods "if the prices are at all reasonable."

England, which sells most of the generators to Hydro, was using Canada as a "dumping grounds" by selling generators below the price of its own domestic market and the Canadian price, he said.

Howling Rightist Mob Driven Back By Gas Grenades

5,000 Attempt to Storm Algiers' Palais d'Ete

ALGIERS (AP) — Riot police firing tear gas grenades today drove back howling mobs of 5,000 rightists attempting to storm the official residence of President Charles de Gaulle's representative in strife-torn Algeria.

Police attacked as the demonstrators marched on the Palais d'Eze, residence of Jean Morin. The tough riot squads stopped a similar attempt Friday.

Riot police and army troops also rushed to battle stations in Oran, Algeria's second largest city. Many European settlers massed in the streets shouting, "De Gaulle to the stake! Algeria is French!"

In Algiers police estimated up to 10,000 persons surged through the streets to protest de Gaulle's arrival in Algeria to garner support for his home-rule plan.

But police maintained the rioters were a violent, vocal minority of the city's 400,000 residents.

On the beleaguered Rue Michelet, the mob kept charging in waves despite a steady barrage of tear gas grenades. Two blocks from Morin's residence a club-wielding gang of youths chased a police squad into an alley, converting the police with rocks, tiles and bricks.

Passers-by standing nearby did not go to the aid of the police.

As yet no leader has appeared to match Pierre Lagaillarde, colleader of last January's strong but unsuccessful uprising and now a fugitive reported in Spain.

These rioters were reckless and disorganized as they spread a savage trail of violence across the city, shouting for de Gaulle's blood.

Reports from the seaport of Oran, 220 miles west of Algiers, said a crowd went on a rampage and fought police.

The mobs pillaged business places and invaded offices of the city's newspaper, Echo d'Oran and the Oran Republicain.

Police report said 5,000 commando squad of demonstrators have been on situation alert that skirmishes had broken out between Moslems and European peasants.

LEAVES BIG ESTATE

TORONTO (CP)—Irving Leyton, late owner of Leyton Printing Company, left an estate valued at more than $1,378,000, an application for probate of his will revealed Thursday.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synoptic — Temperatures in the lower lake regions will be up to about 30 degrees before arrival of cold air from Northern Ontario. Very cold weather will continue throughout the the week-end. A low of 30 below is forecast for White River tonight.

Tough Old Canadian Grain Vessel With Cracked Hull Limps Into Port

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — The Canadian grain freighter Starbelle, a tough old lady of the sea, limped safely into port here Friday night 12 hours after a storm on treacherous Lake Superior cracked her hull and deck.

The 253-foot, 47-year-old Starbelle passed through the Soo locks about midnight to drop anchor after coming from Fort Lake under her own power. She was escorted by a pair of coast guard cutters.

The grain carrier, less than half the size of many of the freighters which ply the Great Lakes trade routes, had sent out a trouble call when vertical cracks developed on both sides of her hull and a transverse gash opened in a superstructure deck. The skipper, Capt. D. H. Parland, reported his vessel and the 20 seamen were in no immediate danger unless the cracks opened.

The 18-inch long, one-inch wide gash in the hull plates were above the water line. The Starbelle was empty and rode high out of the water.

As a precaution, McFarland had the crew tie one-inch wire hawsers around the ship's hull to keep the cracks from opening.

The Starbelle, was near midlake, riding upbound, when the cracks were discovered. McFarland ordered the freighter put about to return to Sault Ste. Marie and radioed his predicament.

The U.S. coast guard sent out two cutters: Naugatuck and Tamaraack, which met the Starbelle at the entrance to Whitefish Bay about 60 miles northwest of the locks. The cutters stood-out duty the rest of the way.

The coast guard air station at Traverse City, Mich., on northern Lake Michigan sent an amphibian aircraft to the scene. The plane circled above the stricken ship, hailplaining contact with her and the base.

The Starbelle, owned by K. A. Powell Limited of Winnipeg, was one of the last vessels on the lakes in the final days of the current shipping season.

The season usually closes about Dec. 15. At this time of year, the lakes are especially dangerous, subject to sudden, vicious storms which can snap a freighter in halves.

Training School Bill Runs Into Wall of Oratory

PC's Talk Profusely To Praise the Act

OTTAWA (CP) — General approval of a piece of government legislation does'n't necessarily mean its speedy passage through the Commons.

The opposite is often the case —government supporters, being on good, safe ground, don't want to miss an opportunity to praise the measure.

A case in point is a bill to expand federal aid for building technical training schools and increase training staff as a means of shrinking the pool of unskilled Canadian labor. The government would provide up to 75 per cent of the cost of building additional facilities undertaken by the provinces.

The measure started out in the Commons Dec. 2. It was debated again Tuesday and Wednesday this week and Friday was given second reading, approval in principle, with all parties unanimously in favor.

But did that end it? Not on your life. Clause-by-clause study of the bill began late Friday and will resume Monday before the final passage and dispatch to the Senate.

Before second reading yesterday, one liberal and one CCF member spoke to the debate. Then 10 Progressive Conservatives also had a say.

When the bill came down to clause-by-clause study, however, the discussion was livened up by J. W. Pickersgill (L—Ignaivity—Wellington) who can usually be relied on to yank the lion's tail when things are dull.

"I am profoundly shocked," Mr. Pickersgill said with his longest face when Labor Minister Starr freely admitted he doesn't know how many students can be handled now by provincial technical training schools.

Mr. Starr said the new federal-provincial agreements on the provinces to say how many they can handle and that the FOUNDRY LOSS — Loss of over $100,000 at the Foley Foundry on Front Street resulted early today when an acetylene torch used by safecrackers is believed to have set off blaze. Main section of the century old foundry was completely gutted by the general alarm blaze which brought out every Belleville fireman.

Five Kingston Men Marooned On Island

COLLINS BAY, Ont. (CP)—Five Kingston men, including a party of three duck hunters, were reported marooned Friday night on a wind - swept island in the North Channel at the northeast end of Lake Ontario.

Dr. R. Semple, James Harrington, a lawyer, and Duncan Sinclair, a research veterinarian at Queen's University, left Kingston, five miles east of Collins Bay, Thursday night. They were in a 17-foot aluminum boat with a 30-horsepower outboard motor.

The identity of the two other persons was not immediately available.

Provincial police, who reported a small fire on the island, said high winds and rough water made the return crossing impossible Friday night.

An air-sea rescue team is to fly today by helicopter to the island, one of the Three Brothers Islands, when winds are expected to lessen.

Lumumba's Supporters Delay Threat to Make Heads Roll

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—Aides of Patrice Lumumba today held off carrying out their threat to round up all whites in Stanleyville and behead some of them. The former Premier was still in jail after the deadline they set for freeing him.

One Western official here said "the pressure seems to be off for the moment."

The rebels had threatened to arrest all Europeans "and cut off some of the heads" of Belgian hostages if Lumumba was not set free by 3 p.m. Friday.

United Nations reports from the area said no whites had been killed so far in Stanleyville itself. But 'an unknown number' of arrests was reported at Aketi, a town on the border between Oriental province and Uganda.

The UN commander in Stanleyville, Ethiopian Gen. Mengasha Iyassu, conferred this morning with Gen. Victor Lundula, former commander in chief of the Congolese army under Lumumba, who now runs the fanatically Lumumbist military police unit holding Stanleyville.

About 100 Belgian men, women and children sheltered overnight in the Stanleyville schoolhouse taken over as a refuge by the United Nations.

Some experts here believed the rebels were having second thoughts about carrying out their threat.

Lumumba is being held in a military camp at Thysville, closely guarded by the troops of Congolese Army commander Col. Joseph Mobutu.

Mobutu has issued no comment on the ultimatum, but it is believed most unlikely he would be persuaded to set Lumumba free.

UN forces in Stanleyville were ordered to resist with bullets if necessary to protect the white population.

Consular officials from five Western embassies — the United States, British, French, Greek and Portuguese—flew to Stanleyville under UN protection today.

The consular officials will make arrangements for protection of their citizens and a pos-

Conservatives In Quebec Told To Be Prepared

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec's Progressive Conservative party has been told 'to begin preparations for an election campaign.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker and four of his cabinet ministers from Quebec provincial sounded the call to electoral arms at a party banquet here Friday night, attended by some 1,200 persons.

The banquet was in honor of the four ministers — Transport Minister Balcer, State Secretary Dorion, Defence Production Minister O'Hurley and Mines Minister Comtois.

Mr. Diefenbaker, outlining the government's accomplishments since taking office in 1957, said one mistake had been made.

"We have done ... things," he said, "but failed to advertise. We are going to carry the message across the country.

"We must equalize opportunity in Canada—that's our objective."

Three Killed, Seven Injured Near Mildmay

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Three persons were killed and seven were injured in a two-car collision on Highway 9 near Mildmay, about 32 miles southwest of here early today.

Dead are Ray Hutchison, 21, of Durham; William Hutchison, 54, of Durham, and wife Violet Myrtle, both about 35, of Harriston.

Police said Hutchison was the driver of one car and third driver of the other. Rescue workers took more than three hours to free the bodies from the wreckage.

UN Council Plans Showdown On Congo Issue

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The Security Council set up an emergency session today on the Congo today. A showdown seemed near between the United Nations command and supporters of Patrice Lumumba in Stanleyville who have threatened to behead Belgian hostages.

Silent Washington Keeps Wary Eye On Cuban Trade Talks at Ottawa

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

While Cubans and Canadians opened trade talks in the Chateau Friday, Washington cast a wary eye on the conversations although it voiced official detachment.

Not a warning to Canadians was sounded by anti-Castro exiles living in the United States: Beware of Cuban trade talks! Nor from doing business with the Communist regime.

A right-wing New York newspaper, The Daily Mirror, contended that the total embargo would not be in the interest of Canada but that business with "the Red Castro dictatorship."

A Cuban trade mission began talks in the Canadian capital by dropping in at the office of Trade Minister Nicx, who said after a half-hour discussion he welcomed Cuban plans for $150,000,000 worth of purchases in Canada in 1961—a tenfold increase compared with 1959.

In Washington, the Canadian Embassy was swamped with telephone calls, mostly from American newspaper men seeking

Foley Foundry Is Destroyed, $100,000 Loss

Stone Building Probably Oldest One in City

Loss estimated at well over $100,000 resulted early today when fire gutted a major portion of Foley Foundry on Front Street, destroying expensive machine equipment as well as stock and patterns.

The roof of the main multiple storey section of the old stone building was burned away and floors fell through to the ground level and basement burying machine equipment in a pile of rubble and debris.

The fire was discovered about midnight by police patrol officer Dale Ashbury who immediately turned in the alarm, but the blaze had already gotten too great a start for firemen to keep it from going out of control.

Every fire fighting piece of equipment owned by the Belleville Fire Department was in action on the scene, while a call was sent through to the Trenton department which sent equipment to Belleville to stand by.

At nine o'clock this morning some firemen were still on duty with a couple of pumps still pouring water into the debris.

What is believed to have been an unsuccessful attempt to open a second-storey vault is given as the possible cause of the blaze, which destroyed one of the city's oldest industries.

Safecrackers had tried to pry open the door of the heavy vault with pry bars, one of which was still lodged in the door, when firemen arrived.

The company's acetylene equipment was also used in the attempt. Acetylene tanks on the ground floor of the foundry were wheeled to the bottom of the stairs and the torch was hoisted up the stairs so cutting torches could be used in the vault attempt.

When company employees ar-

JOBLESS ISSUE TO BE DEBATED EARLY IN WEEK

Hydro Questions Will Be Carried Over

TORONTO (CP)—The unemployment issue will be raised in the legislature again next week, but the urgent matter of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission report will be thrashed out until the new year.

Premier Frost said Friday the unemployment resolution on the order paper will be called Monday to enable all members to express their views before adjournment Dec. 16.

He said the answers to several loaded questions posed Friday to Energy Resources Minister Macaulay on the operations of Hydro will likely have to wait until the legislature reconvenes in January.

Mr. Macaulay is also to second vice-chairman of Hydro, has to be away on business.

CCF Leader MacDonald asked if Hydro would continue selling its spare land without calling for public tenders in the face of the growing principle that tenders should always be called when public funds are involved.

He asked the minister to confirm or deny rumors that a Shell Oil refinery will be built at Brantcombe, who purchased land for $248,897 in private negotiations with Hydro, had acted as a spotter for Hydro in the sale of land in the Niagara Peninsula.

Kenneth Bryden (CCF — Toronto Woodbine) demanded to know if Ajax and Clarkson were the camp accommodations at the newest project at Little Long Rapids in Northern Ontario.

He charged Hydro with en-

Counterfeit Saving Bonds Coupons Now in Circulation

TORONTO (CP) — Counterfeit Government of Canada savings bond coupons are being circulated across Canada, police warned Friday.

The RCMP in Sarnia said about $800 in counterfeit coupons was cashed by two men there Thursday, raising the value of counterfeited passed across Canada in the current wave to an estimated $8,000.

The RCMP warned that two men believed to have cashed fake coupons in Sarnia may be making the rounds in Western Ontario. They said at least four coupons were passed in London this week, possibly by the same men. Police said the men may move to Chatham and Windsor.

The coupons were each worth $22.50 and made from the same plate. They have been passed recently in Toronto, London, Ont., and in British Columbia.

Diane Forrest, Coutts, about 40, of Calgary and Toronto was convicted earlier in the week in Vancouver and charged with attempting to deal in forgery after coupons were cashed there. He pleaded not guilty and was released on bail.

HAVE FOUND 22

In Toronto, police assessed the value of counterfeit coupons passed here in excess of $2,000. Twenty-two coupons have been found.

The coupons which turned up in Canada, police said, were made from the same plates as those which appeared here in 1837 and in Montreal in 1954. The coupons reproduced so well that in many cases until they arrived at the bank in Ottawa.

The paper on which the counterfeits are printed is lighter than that of genuine bond coupons.

Madison Walter, Royal Bank President, Dies

MONTREAL (CP) — Madison Melville Walter, chairman and president of the Royal Bank of Canada, died yesterday after a month-long illness. He was 63.

Mr. Walter was admitted to hospital in August after suffering what at first was believed to have been a cerebral hemorrhage. After treatment in the Montreal Neurological Institute, where doctors said there was no evidence of a stroke, he returned home.

His condition deteriorated again suddenly a few days ago and he died at the Neurological Institute.

SAVE ON BANDOLIERS

OTTAWA (CP) — The army figures to save $200,000 in the next fiscal year by recycling. The saving will result from a unique method of enclosing ammunition in plastic bandoliers and packing them in waterproof fiber board boxes, the army said Friday in a news release.

Association Officer Tells Club About Retardation

TRENTON — Mrs. "Bobbie" Reid, vice-president of the Trenton District Association for Retarded Children, and a committee member of the national association, was the guest speaker at Monday evening meeting of the Kiwanis Club.

Mrs. Reid explained that mental retardation was not a disease as popularly supposed, but only an incomplete mental development or brain damage. She said that the condition knew no social, religious and showed no racial discrimination. Mongoloids, which form one-fifth of all retarded persons, have the same physical characteristics, apart from the degree of their skin, no matter what their racial background.

She said parents of a retarded child need special guidance and an abundance of courage. The child must be taught over a prolonged period to perform simple acts which normal children learn early. The parent must also strive to fit the child into family life and into the life of his community.

In 1946, a small group of parents of retarded children from the Toronto area formed the nucleus of the national organization which now boasts 168 local associations across the country. The national organization sponsors day schools for retarded children, opportunity classes in public schools for children who are on the borderline level, but below the average I.Q. of normal children, sheltered workshops for retarded adults and summer camps for children. Research into the cause and treatment of retardation is also the concern of the national group.

Mrs. Reid said that Holland was by far the most advanced country in the care of the retarded of all age groups. There are 180 sheltered workshops in Holland and there are 3,000 retarded adults are gainfully employed. Only 25,000 mentally retarded adults are gainfully employed.

TREMENDOUS STRIDES

Speaking of the method adopted by the Trenton association for solving the problem of educating the retarded children in the area, Mrs. Reid said that although the local association had been founded as late as November, 1959, tremendous strides had been made. In September of that year, a special class was opened in a basement classroom at St. Peter's School for the eight students registered. However, in that same month, the local association was formed, but did not receive its charter until November. A fund raising drive was conducted in November and enough money was raised to enable the group to purchase a bus for the transportation of children to and from school. On January, 1960, John Wauters took over as teacher of the school with Mrs. Z. Campbell as his assistant. Mrs. Campbell also drove the school bus.

At present, she said, there are 14 children in the class. Soon there will be 13. After Christmas holidays, the class will be divided into an all-day and half-day class in different locations. The all-day students will continue to attend the class at North Trenton School, where the classroom was moved last April. The younger, half-day students will be placed in a classroom in another location.

The association hopes, with the help of a government grant and public subscriptions and donations from groups, to build a new school for the retarded children. All of this are during 1961. Mrs. Reid said that the provincial government gives a small grant per child to the local association, but this barely covers the teachers' salaries, bus operations and supplies for the school.

Suitable sites are being considered for this school and estimates have been examined for the erection of a new school.

"We'll need help from everyone on this project," she said. "Unless this is a community sponsored project, it may be 10 years before children have their own school. We should remember that on our way - - - we should not leave anyone behind. It is the rightful heritage of the retarded child to receive an education."

Taxes Being Paid Promptly

TRENTON — A report released by tax collector G. Alan Weaver says that 97 per cent of all collectible taxes had been paid by Nov. 29. This percentage is slightly down from last year's collectible totals.

Tax arrears collections at $53,772 were slightly up from last year's $53,454, but are actually less percentage-wise as the increase collectible in 1960.

Notices regarding 1960 business taxes, which are as yet unpaid, were mailed by the tax department Dec. 7, requesting payment by Dec. 15. Penalties will be imposed for failure to pay the tax promptly.

Prevent Snarls

TRENTON — Mayor James MacDonald has asked the chairmen of council's protection to persons and property committee, Councillor C. V. Graham, to ask the traffic committee to make a special effort to prevent traffic snarls and tie-ups during the holiday season. Numerous complaints have complained about the slow flow of traffic across the town bridge at noon and at the 4.30-5.30 p.m. traffic rush.

Given 12 Years For Participating In $104,000 Theft

MONTREAL (CP) — Ralph Campbell Parks, 38, of Toronto was sentenced Friday to 12 years in penitentiary for participating in a $104,000 theft at the Samuel Rapple Fur Company store on downtown Bleury Street July 12, 1958. Parks was arrested in Toronto and brought back to Montreal police escort.

Store co - owner, Dominique Tamillo testified that Parks came in the store the day before to look the place over under the pretext of seeking a mink coat for his wife.

"I spotted him for a phony," Mr. Tamillo said, "because, he only did he have no wife with him, but he was also chewing on a toothpick and mink coat customers do not chew on toothpicks."

sible mass airlift out of the province.

There was no Belgian in the group because the Congo's diplomatic relations with Belgium were broken by the defunct Lumumba government and have not been restored.

Stanleyville, 775 airline miles northeast of Leopoldville, is ruled by three men—Lumumba's former secretary, Bernard Salumu; Lumumba's brother, Louis, and Antoine Gizenga, former Congo deputy premier.

TOLD TO PROTECT

UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold gave orders for the UN force of 1,800 Ethiopians in Stanleyville to use force if necessary to protect the 1,000 white Europeans there. Eighty per cent of the whites are Belgians.

About 1,000 more whites are scattered through Oriental province. Most of them are Protestant missionaries in remote bush missions. But those outside the capital were believed in no immediate danger since pro-Lumumba police and soldiers control only parts of the interior.

The UN command said its latest reports showed 75 whites—including women and children—quickly sought shelter in a school building in Stanleyville taken over by the UN command as a haven.

But UN reports said pro-Lumumba gendarmes were rounding hostages and at least one was beaten.

Although the beheading threat applied only to Belgians, UN officials said Soumu's record indicated no distinction was likely to be made between Belgians and other whites if he gets around to carrying out the ultimatum.

FOLEY FOUNDRY

rived on the scene acetylene tanks were still turned on and were quickly turned off to avoid a possible explosion.

Only a few of hundreds of foundry equipment were carried to safety before it was impossible to re-enter the building.

Strong winds made the fire fighting difficult as flames raced through the century old structure, before being taken over by the Foley family approximately 35 years ago, the business was known as Wallace Foundry.

When firemen arrived minutes after the alarm was sounded, flames were already pouring out through the window.

Gale winds quickly fanned the blaze completely out of control and at the height of the fire, flaming debris was blown across Front and Pinnacle Streets. Fortunately no other buildings caught fire, but firemen said only the fact that roofs were wet from snow averted a disastrous spread of the blaze.

Approximately 20 employees were working at the foundry department. The Foley Supply Company premises, a separate building extending back from Front Street, was not damaged.

Robt. and Elizabeth Sager, Madoc Twp., Top Boy, Girl In Hastings Junior Farmers

A Madoc township brother and sister, Robert and Elizabeth Sager, were the top boy and girl in junior farmer club work in Hastings for 1960.

Thursday evening at the 10th annual Hastings county 4-H club awards night held at the community hall in Stirling, the two Madoc township teen-agers stepped awards as top club members for the year. Robert Sager was named club member of the year, receiving $15 in cash from Vic Johns and Grey Trust Company, and also the Bank of Commerce silver watch, while his sister, as the outstanding club girl, won the Bank of Commerce silver tray.

HALL FILLED

The Stirling community hall was filled to capacity for the junior farmer club night event which seems each year to grow in size. Prizes and other awards for club work and in judging competitions during the year were presented to the juniors.

Guest speaker for the evening was Glen Warlow, director of publications for the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Ross Moorcroft, president of the Hastings county club leaders' association, was chairman for the event. Top junior of the year, Robert Sager was valedictorian.

115 PARTICIPATE

A report by county agricultural representative Sidney McDonald showed that 315 juniors took part in 4-H agricultural work during the year. Of the 22 clubs, eight showed 100 per cent completion, with 283 of the total county membership completing their projects.

It was noted there had been a very favorable increase in both the numbers of members and in the percentage of completions. This, it was stated, indicated that the juniors were realizing the importance of completing the jobs which they undertake.

Hillcrest H-S Assoc. Holds 'Open House'

The December meeting of the Hillcrest Home and School Association was held on Monday evening in the form of "Open House", which has become an annual event at Hillcrest.

The classrooms and hall were nicely decorated for the Yuletide season with streamers, evergreen boughs, miniature Christmas trees and Santa Claus with his reindeer to add more to the Christmas spirit.

As it was "Open House", there was no business or program for the evening.

Mrs. Dryden, the president mingled among the guests.

The executive members for the evening were, Mesdames, N. Ward; M. Cowon; S. Vos; J. Tracey, M. Dryden; A. McMurter; M. Hughes; Mr. Melnroe; S. Pearson, Marg Smith, M. Orr and J. Sweet.

The pupils work was nicely displayed and colorful. A great deal of praise goes to the teachers who made this event an enjoyable evening.

Forty People Air Views On Foreign Mag Competition

MONTREAL (CP)—More than 40 people from all corners of the publishing spectrum aired their views on foreign magazine competition before the royal commission on publications during its five-day hearing in Montreal.

The hearings ended Friday. The commission now moves on to Toronto for a week.

Almost without exception, the briefs pictured the periodical publishing field as being faced with overwhelming competition from American publications in the battle for advertisers' and readers' dollars.

Delegates from the printing industry and paper-making companies for the most part supported the complaints of magazine editors and publishers and said the vast influx of magazines printed in United States on American-made paper also had adverse effects on their industries.

The commissioners indicated several times they were not contemplating action against such periodicals.

They also indicated to the several witnesses, such as J. J. Wallace, president of Wallace Publishing Company, who suggested a general duty, tax or tariff on all American magazines entering Canada that they did not find favor in this proposal.

The consensus of some presentations was that French magazines played a major role in preserving the culture and language of 5,000,000 French-Canadians surrounded by 150,000,000 English-speaking Canadians and Americans.

The American publications which bore the brunt of attacks by witnesses were those such as Time magazine who published so-called Canadian editions or editors who offered Canadian advertisers a special rate on ads which would only go into magazines headed for Canadian circulation.

It was these periodicals who won most dollars from Canadian advertisers, witnesses said. They were able to offer special rates because their publication costs were absorbed by their American operations.

Furthermore, though they took dollars out of Canada they put none back in since they paid no taxes in Canada and created no employment.

Justice Orders New Hearing In Murder Case

TORONTO (CP) — An new preliminary hearing was ordered Friday in the case of Owen (Mickey) Fenner, 25, charged with murder in the September knife - slaying of Kay Chouinor, 25, near Timmins.

Mr. Justice D. C. Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court ordered the second hearing on the grounds that Magistrate W. B. Gardner had refused to allow Fenner to call witnesses at the Timmins hearing which committed Fenner to trial.

Fenner's lawyer, Hugh Latimer, collapsed near the end of Friday's hearing. The case was continued by lawyer R. C. Thompson of Timmins.

Mr. Justice Wells said it was imperative" under the Criminal Code that an accused person be allowed to summon his own witnesses.

Fire Destroys Oldest House In York County

STOUFFVILLE (CP) — A fire fanned by 35-mile - an - hour winds Friday night destroyed one of the oldest houses in York County.

The house, built of logs and covered with buff-coloured brick siding, was built more than 100 years ago and was owned by Percy Fiewell. Firemen worked for three hours in an attempt to save the building.

Left homeless were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Jackms, and their two children, Alice, 3, and Ernest, 6. Another occupant of the building was Mrs. Alice Krulewyn, a visitor from Holland.

Woolworth Will Build 33 New Stores in Canada

TORONTO (CP) — The U.S.-owned F. W. Woolworth Company Limited will spend an estimated $6,500,000 on 33 additional stores across Canada, Russell D. Campbell, general manager of the Canadian chain announced Friday.

The company already has 247 stores in Canada. Although retail sales have dropped from last year, Mr. Campbell said Woolworth's has faith in the future prosperity of Canada.

This Will Bear Watching

In recent years there have been few Canadian news developments of such possible portent as the announcement that a group of 17 economists, from at least three Canadian universities, have written a letter to Finance Minister Donald Fleming asking the immediate removal of James Coyne as governor of the Bank of Canada.

It is as yet much too early for the layman to attempt to judge the true meaning of this move. It may be that it is nothing more than the signs of a division between two schools of economic thought. On the other hand, it could be a first step in a well-planned strategy aimed at reversing the economic creeds by which Canadian governments, both Liberal and Progressive Conservative, have been guided in past years.

For years it has been accepted by Canadians that the first indication of a government policy which might lead to economic disaster would be the resignation of the governor of Canada's central bank.

Mr. Coyne, while he has been more than normally vocal in criticism of certain phases of Canada's economic climate, has given no indication that he has been considered resigning. There was some speculation, during the early months of the Diefenbaker regime, about the possibility of differences of opinion between Mr. Coyne and Finance Minister Fleming, chiefly over the question of so-called "tight money," but these speculations have died down and it has been generally considered that in Mr. Fleming's budgetary measures there have been some clear indications that he shares Mr. Coyne's views on certain monetary policies.

Now, however, the resignation of Mr. Coyne by a score of Canadian economists is certain to revive speculation as to whether there is a basic disagreement between him and the minister of finance, the two men who share the primary responsibility for keeping the country's economy healthy and its money sound.

Those who like to put two and two together and get six may point to a series of events in a related field. At the annual meeting of the Toronto-Dominion Bank this week, A. C. Ashforth, retiring president, criticized the Federal Government's housing policy. Addressing the D. J. Wallace Conference of Works, answered this criticism, asserting that Mr. Ashforth was guilty of four major misapprehensions." Thursday, then the economists' criticism of Coyne was announced, Mr. Ashforth was quoted as saying Mr. Coyne had done a competent job. From this the argument might go something like this: Mr. Ashforth opposes the Federal Government housing policies; Mr. Ashforth approves Mr. Coyne's monetary policies; therefore the government disapproves of Mr. Coyne's policies.

This, however, is drawing a long bow. Besides the faulty logic of such a method of argument, there is the concrete fact that Mr. Coyne has strongly criticized the increase in foreign ownership of Canada's productive machinery, a point on which he appears to be echoing Prime Minister Diefenbaker. Indeed, on the very same day that the economists criticized Coyne we had the government warning the subsidiaries of U.S. firms to stop dragging their feet in the matter of exports and asserting that Canada must reduce the demand on national earnings from non-resident investment and "resolve the conflict between non-resident and corporate interests and the national interest." On this issue, at least, Coyne and the Prime Minister would appear to be pulling ours in the same boat, nicely in time, although it might perhaps be added that at the time of "tight money" controversy speculation on any differences between Coyne and the government certainly involved the Prime Minister.

For those who enjoy the widest type of conjecture, there remains the possibility that, while Coyne and the Prime Minister may see eye to eye on the issue of foreign ownership of Canadian industries, there may be a split between Coyne and Finance Minister Fleming with added interest being provided by the fact that Diefenbaker and Fleming opposed each other at the Progressive Conservative leadership convention and it is no common knowledge at the time that Fleming was the choice of the big financial interests, with Diefenbaker the choice of the grass roots of the country.

All of which brings us back to where we started, unable to reach any conclusion until we have additional facts, most valuable of which would be authoritative analysis of the general economic philosophy which guides the economists who have criticized Coyne.

How Electricity Is Produced

Part One

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

ARTICLE #7

No one can accurately describe what electricity is.

The most science can say is that it it is given certain conditions, electricity will appear. We know how to create electricity and we know how to build machines which will use electricity. However, no one can really say what electricity actually is.

In the preceding article, we discussed how electricity is produced from falling water from such as gas or oil, but at the present time, it is cheaper to produce electricity from coal in the areas where we produce electricity by burning coal, than it is produce electricity from gas or oil.

THERMAL ELECTRICITY

When we produce electricity from burning coal, it is called thermal electricity, although the electricity itself is exactly the same as that generated from falling water.

The actual plant used to produce thermal electricity is very expensive than the plant used to produce hydro-electric electricity. Also the fuel costs considerably more, for a thermal Generating station burns coal, although it is more expensive to produce hydro-electricity in Ontario than thermal plant than it is from an hydraulic plant. On the other hand, in Southern Ontario, we have very limited water resources, and we cannot build dams and thus, as the steam passes through the fan, the wheel is engaged and electricity is produced.

In some of the following articles, we will discuss the cres- tion of hydro-electric power, but will limit the discussion in this article to the production of electricity from coal.

To a layman, thermal electricity is produced fundamentally in five steps:

1. Coal is burned and this creates heat.

2. Through the heat are fed pipes in which there is circulated water. The heat creates the pipes cool and leave the pipes as steam.

3. The hot water gives off steam. The steam passes through the fan forcing it to turn the fan;

4) The fan is attached to the generator and as the fan turns, it turns the generator;

5. As the generator turns, electricity is produced.

Thus, the essence of thermal electricity is to burn coal, this boils water to produce steam, the steam forces its way through the fan and this in the fan and turns the fan, this, in turn, turns the generator and when the generator turns, electricity is produced.

Most of the thermal generating stations can take place on your radio shows any day of the week. Here are a few still until the water boils; steam will come out of spout. If you hold your hand over the steam, you will burn your hand. This is because the steam contains energy. Instead of holding your hand over the steam, you could use a free moving fan blade over the steam so that the steam could escape around the side but the force its way through the fan, the fan wouldn't turn as the steam forced itself through the blade. In fact was then attached to a little generator, you could create electricity on your own stove.

MAKE-UP OF GENERATOR

We described a generator, in the preceding article, as consisting of two main parts. The first part is called a rotor, although usually lying on its side and made of magnets. The second part consists of a large wheel of metal coils encircling the rotor. When the rotor turns the magnets, spins inside of the case of metal coils, electricity is produced. (Exactly how electricity produced? Science cannot say. The more important what is that electricity is produced.

In the case of hydraulic electricity, the steam, passing through the blades of a fan, forces the fan to turn. This is attached to the rotor of magnets and thus, as the steam passes through the fan, the wheel is engaged and electricity is produced.

Ontario Hydro's 1958 resources were capable of producing 8,190,900 h.p. of electricity and by 1980 this will be increased to produce from coal. By 1980, Ontario Hydro expects to have approximately 9 1-3 million h.p. of capacity and to produce approximately 50 per cent of this power.

Approximately half of this will be produced from a generating station under construction outside of Toronto, Lakeview, which will become into operation in 1961. The first unit was constructed in 1962. It may well be the largest of its kind in the world.

LAKEVIEW THERMAL STATION

There is at the moment a second thermal generating station under construction at Port Hope. Head of the Lakes at Port Arthur and Lambton at Sarnia. Production will generate 190,000 h.p. and will be fuelled by coal, although provision has been made to allow gas-firing equipment to be installed later, if this is to be economical.

These three stations are in addition to the thermal generating station at Windsor, called the J. Clark Keith Generating Station which produces about 320,000 h.p. and was constructed in 1947, and the Richard L. Hearn Generating Station which is in Toronto and which is being enlarged to 1,800,000 h.p.

Historic Hastings

Heroes of Batoche

(Article 141 in the series sponsored by the Hastings County Historical Society.)

By Jessie Edgar

The following account of the Battle of Batoche, the high point in the Saskatchewan Rebellion of 1885, was written by William Thomas Cockburn, who, as a young man, served as color sergeant with the Midland Battalion during the campaign. The letter is made available by Professor Donald Swainson of the Royal Military College, Kingston, who gratefully acknowledges the permission of J. A. Smith of Trenton to make copies of these letters from the originals in his possession.

The letter is dated Saskatoon, 22nd May, 1885:

"I dare say you have heard about our Battle of the 12th May and how I was shot amongst those who are wounded.

"We arrived near Batoche's at about mid-day on the 9th, when operations were commenced by the artillery shelling every house which were occupied by the rebels; they (rebels) soon return on fire, and burnt to the ground.

We then advanced in skirmishing order and the Rebels were well entrenched in a large ravine in front of Batoche's, also far away from a Roman Catholic chapel and convent. After a deal of firing it was found the enemy could not be removed from their position, and our company with the Lindsay company was formed up to charge down the ravine upon them; however the charge was overruled as, I believe, it was considered a too dangerous enterprise to carry out.

"Night drawing on, we retired a short way from them and formed a 'corral' (which is a large square formed by the transport wagons and baggage for the night) and our company, the 10th, were placed on picquet that night, which I assure you was not a very enviable job as the most of us had had little or no rest the night before, and felt tired after the hard fighting during the day; we managed to pull through all right, but it was bitter cold, and we were without our great coats or blankets. However morning came at last and we had a night, and the sun shone out warm and clear and the scene of the 10th May commenced.

"The troops were fell in at an early hour, when the engagement commenced again. We were formed up in much of a similar order of the previous day, our company companies which were on the extreme left which was in line with the river and facing a direct front with the Rebels. We laid here all day long with a continual fire of Rebel bullets round about us, which we could rarely get a good shot at them, because, as soon as they fired from behind cover their pits again, and the woods being so thick we seldom got a chance to see them, and when ever we did, we generally left our mark among them.

"On the 11th similar tactics were carried out, with this exception, our Company remained in camp near the krail protecting the side near the river from any sudden attack, also to answer a fire from a few Rebels who were entrenched on a spur shooting the river, who were sending a few bullets from time to time across the river. We could not shift them from their position, owing

LOOKING BACKWARDS

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

December 10th, 1930

Duplicating is successfully every detail the manner in which it was perpetrated some four years ago, robbers drilled through a 15-inch brick wall and gained entrance into the vault at the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, from where $50.00 in cash and some $50.00 worth of Bell Telephone Scrapes were stolen over the weekend. The $100. were the only valuables in the vault. Fresh footprints in the snow outside the building were followed by police, who later had been gained through a cellar window. Efforts to open a large 1,000 pound safe in which most of the finances of the school is secured, proved futile as the robbers hanging-up the combination dial which was found on the floor.

Township roads and byways in Prince Edward County are still badly plagued with snow, according to residents of the southern county. Following the heavy fall, people living off the travelled paths were forced to go without their mail for at least three days, while officials are doing their best to alleviate the situation.

40 YEARS AGO

December 10th, 1920

The Bell Telephone Company of Montreal will shortly establish a branch in London, Ont., it was learned by Major Harold W. Walker, M.C. will be the manager. He is a son of Mr. J.W. Walker of Belleville.

Four open skating rinks will be established in the town if council in various parts of the city. This is to be commended.

At the annual meeting of the Central Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies held in Belleville yesterday, the following officers were elected: President, Mr. R. J. Wray of Belleville; vice-president, Mr. G. F. Carr of Frankford; Secretary-treasurer, Mr. T. M. Asselstine of Belleville.

Mr. W. Reynolds, merchant of Consecon, caught a runaway horse last evening and placed the animal in his barn. He notified the police, and no doubt the owner will soon be found.

50 YEARS AGO

December 10th, 1910

Mr. James Rabbitts, who will leave Belleville shortly has resigned from the Board of Education.

Belleville market prices: Butter, per lb. 22 to 25 cents per pound; eggs, 36 cents to 40 cents per dozen; chickens, 60 cents to $1.00 per pair; ducks, $1.25 to $1.50 per pair; geese, $1.25 to $1.50 per pair; turkeys, $3 to $3.50.

Mr. George Ashley spent yesterday in Toronto.

Mr. Tom Twomey-fifth year that Mr. Charles H. Sulman, proprietor of the popular Bee-hive Store has catered to Christmas Shoppers.

Mr. E. A. Bidley reported to the police that while driving along Victoria Avenue he found upon the roadway a box containing several pairs of dressed chickens and other fowl.

Instant Mail Is Under Fire

The Chicago Daily News

We've had instant coffee, instant fruit juice and instant mail. Your letter in the future may be chopped up into electronics and sent by wire, then be reassembled in jiffy for receiving end.

The Post Office system of letters by wire has already been tested, it works. It even preserves secrecy, since only the electron tubes at either end will know what is in the letter. The system can be in wide use in another two years, says postmaster General Summerfield.

No doubt the innovation will be a boon to business, but we would guess it has its limitations. In some matter, surely, personal efficiency are not all important.

The electrical gadgets can be expected to view a love letter with the same passive glass as a final warning to pay the rent. While this avoids any danger of lurid sentiments making it to press, it leaves something to be desired. Signing writers who suppressed the urge to answer with a dash of perfume or a glob of lipstic may find the electronic mail a bit pallid.

Instant mail may be right for instant business, but instant romance? What an idea!

Association the following officers were elected: President, Mr. R. J. Wray of Belleville; vice-president, Mr. G. F. Carr of Frankford; Secretary-treasurer, Mr. T. M. Asselstine of Belleville.

To Your Good Health

HOW TO CORRECT THE DAMAGE CAUSED BY STROKES

What can be done to correct the damage from strokes?

It's obvious, I'm sure, that a stroke's root is cerebral. First the damage, whether from thrombosis or hemorrhage, is in the brain, must be given a chance to heal, without any further injury, resulting from the patient moving around or being placed under stress.

After that, however, it becomes important to keep the muscles and joints of the affected legs in good condition, until the brain, either by natural repair or by the gradual process of other brain areas taking over, can start sending "signals" to the muscles to move again.

If, for example, an arm, for lack of "orders" from the brain, is allowed to lie dormant for a considerable time, it develops a contract. The arm is drawn up to a 45 - degree angle and the fingers are drawn into a fist position.

This must be avoided. It is too complicated to explain just how physiotherapy can be used to keep these finger and arms from being drawn up into fists position — but it can be done by, various methods, methods, is using splints to hold the arm and fingers straight until "signals from the brain" can be sent to some orders to move again. Or, from the patient's standpoint, until he "can begin to move the fingers again."

Patience can be "passive" movement of the arm or fingers, with someone else doing it for them physically, because the per'son can't, Or, and this is most important, the patient can be taught that he can move them a little bit. That is the first step in eventually regaining the use of the hand. Schedule it to move, to make all the movement he can. The more he can do, the more he will move.

The sooner some resumption of the ability to move comes, the better the chance of recovery. You've lived from the brain to the fingering, of course, but I do think it will be of great comfort to the patient and his family to know that any early resumption of ability to move any part of it is the best possible sign.

Sometimes the patient makes excellent progress after having such movement as he can. Then, suddenly, he seems to level off. Nothing more happens. He returns. And sometimes it is discouraging. We just have to remember that results may be slow. Maybe it isn't too far off to mention the business of wiggling one's ears. Some can, and others simply can't. But

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

In "Bird Flight" by Gordon Aymar there is a photograph of a bald eagle carrying a rabbit; there have been instances when eagles were seen carrying lambs; and eagles have been reported carrying loads of eight, 10 and even 12 pounds. If all this is really so, the legend of Aeschylus having been killed by a tortoise, which was dropped on his head by a bird might well be true.

Whether or not eagles eat tortoises is a question, but opossums and great blue herons have been found in their nests by the late C. L. Brohley, Canada's best known eagle man. And whether or not an eagle would drop a tortoise if it held one is another question, but certain kinds of birds are clever enough to deliberately drop hard-boiled shellfish in order to open them. It has been stated that there is a species of vulture which makes a practice of dropping turtles. If this is correct, the turtle must be small enough to fit into the bird's beak, because vultures never carry food in their talons as their feet are weak and quite unsuited to this use. Their habit is to swallow food which is to be taken to their nestlings and then regurgitate it. Indeed, bald eagles have been seen making vultures disgorge their catch.

BREAKING SHELLS

However, fairly frequently reports have been made of crows (which ornithologists say are particularly intelligent) ravens, and gulls picking up clams, mussels, shrimps, crab, or lobsters from the seashore and purposely flying over a hard surface such as hard sand, rock, or even a paved road. At the right second they drop their catch — then fly down to feed on the contents exposed by the breaking open of the shell. Herring gulls are said to be the most given to this practice.

A. L. Rand, one time chief ornithologist with the Canadian Government, in his "Stray Feathers" tells some good stories about birds dropping things so parently just for the fun of it. He says ravens do this, and he had been told of a house-warrow seen dropping small stones over the edge of a gravel roof and then watching what became of them.

There is no playfulness about the dropping habit of a mother gannet. For 2-1-2 weeks after her baby leaves the shell (she lays but one egg) she drops predigested fish from a beliget into the nest. How she gauges the exact spot where it must fall and how such a very young bird knows enough to get it and eat it remains among Nature's mysteries

'AT HOME'

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Miller, Main St., Deseronto, will be 'at home' to their friends and relatives on Sunday, December 18th., from 2 to 5 and 7 to 9 p.m. on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversary.

Centre Street W.A. Elects 1961 Officers

The Women's Association of Centre St. Church held its final meeting of this year in the Church auditorium on Wednesday, Dec. 7th. There were 18 members, two children and ten guests present.

Mrs. Longhurst opened the meeting with this thought, "Be Sure That Jesus Shows In Your Christmas".

Mrs. Collins read the Scripture: Isaiah 9: 2-7, Psalms 18, 22. Topic "The Promised Light" was read by Mrs. D. Hodgins. "The people that walked in darkness have seen a great light, they that dwell in the land of the shadow of death, upon them hath the light shined."

Mrs. Longhurst thanked Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Hodgins for their devotion and also thanked all for coming and expressed the hope that each would enjoy herself and come again.

Mrs. Wood, treasurer, gave the financial report, followed by the yearly reports read by Mrs. M. Vanderwater and Mrs. V. Schamerhorn.

Mrs. Longhurst thanked the ladies for re-electing her president, and for their co-operation during 1960 stating she hoped 1961 would be just as successful a year as 1960 had proven to be.

She also thanked Mrs. Hoult for conducting the election.

The ladies were invited to the school room where an exchange of gifts took place. All sat down to the tables laden with delicious food and decorated for the occasion with miniature Christmas trees decorated with red and green balls and each end of the table there were red candles in silver candelabra which blended perfectly for the festive season.

Two of the oldest guests were Mrs. Duvall who is in her 91st year and Mrs. W. Belch who is in her 84th year.

Mrs. Belch asked the blessing. On behalf of the ladies present, the W.A. wished these two grand ladies many more years of happiness, and a Merry Christmas. A social time was enjoyed by all.

Harmony S.C. Sponsors 'Passing Night'

The Harmony Studio Club met at the home of Mrs. Velva Hall, 31 Holloway Street on December 7th.

After the usual reports and announcements, the chairman presented the parents and guests.

The program featured "Passing Night", when pupils passed from one grade to another having successfully completed the work of their grade to the satisfaction of their teacher and were required to play three selections before the club.

Those who passed were:

From grade one to grade two — Debbie Hart, and Vivobella Matthews.

From grade two to grade three — Karen Johannsen, Richard Dowsett, Penny May and Donna Street.

From grade three to grade four — Donna Rennonson.

From grade five to grade six — Jim Noakes.

From grade six to grade seven — Jeanette Horton.

Mrs. Velay spoke briefly on interpreting music.

Marilyn Shantely played "Sources by Henry Purcell and Ella Tarantella by Miss Dowell.

Mrs. Matthews, Loanda, Quinte Secondary School and father of one of the pupils passed expressed appreciation of Mrs. Velay's work and congratulated the successful pupils. He presented each with a passing card in recognition of his or her achievement.

The program closed with a recital number by Wayne Vance who played Polonaise in Ab Op. 53 by Chopin.

Refreshments were served.

NESBEVICH — CAMPBELL

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Nesbevich are shown following their marriage in St. George's Eastern Church, Toronto. The bride is the former Miss Marion Elizabeth Campbell, daughter of Mrs. Mabel Ashley Campbell, Belleville, and the late Mr. Campbell. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Nesbevich, of Toronto.

St. George's Eastern Church, Toronto, was the setting for a pretty wedding, recently solemnized by the Reverend V. Miliailoff, when Marion Elizabeth Campbell, daughter of Mrs. Mabel Ashley Campbell, of Belleville, was united in marriage to Michael Nesbevich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Nesbevich, of Toronto.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Kenneth Campbell, the attractive bride wore a princess bridal gown of white organza in sole with fitted bodice of Alencon lace having long pointed sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists. The gracefully full skirt cascaded into a chapel train. She wore a crown headdress studded with rhinestones and pearls with a fingertip veil, and carried a cascade of white roses centred by a prayer orchid.

Miss Beverly Kett, of Toronto, was maid of honour, while Miss Barbara Bennett, of Belleville; Miss Lorraine Whalen and Mrs. Helen Bodonda, of Toronto, were bridesmaids. All the attendants were short gowns of autumn violet peau de sole, with matching petal hats, and carried cluster bouquets of pink carnations and violet 'mums.

Mr. Ronald McKitrick, of London, Ontario, was groomsman, while Mr. John Campbell, of Belleville, brother of the bride, Mr. Anthony Bazos, Mr. Jack Whaling and Peter Petropoulos, all of Toronto, were ushers.

The reception was held at the Kingsway Club, where the mother of the bride received the guests, wearing a gown of French blue Chantilly lace with lower wide skirt of the same, matching accessories, and corsage of pink roses. Assisting in receiving line was the mother of the bridegroom in a gown of gold peau de sole with matching accessories, and corsage of white roses.

Guests attended from Rochester, N.Y.; Erie, Penn; Oshawa; Ottawa; Windsor; Niagara Falls; Whitfield, Man.; Texas; Detroit; Woodstock; London and Kingston.

For their wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Nesbevich left for Nassau, and the Bahamas.

Rebekahs Host To Odessa Officers, Staff

"Friendship and Fraternity were once again predominant at the I.O.O.F. Hall in Belleville, when Odessa Rebekah Lodge No. 132, Belleville entertained the officers and degree staff of Lady Nelson Rebekah Lodge No. 237, Odessa.

Noble Grand Addy, Noble Grand of Quintena presided. Sis. Mary Plumpton, Deputy President of District No. 2, was present and introduced to the lodge by Sis. Verna Summers, P.N.G. Sis. Oress Adams P.N.G. introduced Sis. Verna Clyde, Noble Grand of Lady Nelson, and Sis. Mildred O'Neil V.-G. of Lady Nelson, was introduced by Sis. Bessie Boldrick P.N.G. All three were escorted through the guard-of-honor, who in their long white evening dresses carrying nosegays of pink and white carnations with green trimmings, made a pretty picture. Each of the distinguished guests received and left with a corsage in the Christian Fellowship.

The degree staff captain of Lady Nelson Lodge, Sis. June Carruthers, put on the degree tems, was also introduced with the assistance of Sis. Ann Warden, Sis. Laura Downey, as conductor; Sis. Bernice Hall.

Initiation was conferred on a class of 12 candidates from Lady Nelson Lodge and much praise is due Sis. Carruthers and her degree team for the efficient and beautiful manner in which they conducted the degree.

During the evening, the gift of crystal cake plate was made to Sis. Irene McMullin, of Lady Nelson, Sis. Clyde for her lodge. The presentation was made by Sis. Irene McMullin, P.N.G. Sis. Verna Summers P.N.G. A gift from the Past Noble Grand's new home was also presented to Sis. Verna Summers P.N.G. by Sis. Lena M. Millan and Sis. Ella Mae Bolton.

Greetings were brought to the members by Sis. Mary Plumpton, Sis. Verna Clyde, Sis. Frances Kellar, N.G. of Thomasburg and Sis. Carruthers, on behalf of Lady Nelson.

Following closing of the lodge, all gathered in the upper hall where a buffet supper was served.

The thanks of all, go to Sis. Maude Craig, and her refreshment committee, for a lovely ending to another evening of Rebekah Oddfellowship.

Toronto Artist Displays Work At McCarthy Theatre

An interesting and versatile display of art by one of the city's former artists, Mr. Charles B. Bone, now of Toronto, is on view at the McCarthy Theatre, and includes one of still life; one of a prairie one floral piece; a dancing scene; an Indian fantasy; circus elephants; the musicians; a Spanish scene; and landscape painting, and the "unfinished".

The latter piece, which shows the figure of Christ in the background, an autumn sky with white scudding cloud, and a tiered-like, sapphire-blue lake, fringed by touches of autumn golds and scarlets, portrays the artist's inate love of nature and color appreciation. A delightful painting, lovely for living room or library in its quiet restraint.

Another painting in the show is one of three dark-skinned musicians, possibly a street band, and a straggly-haired blonde peering with smiling lips and eyes. Nice character studies. The artist's forte is in a picture of mixed flowers, nicely colored, but possibly a happy but that of the "Heavens Racer," held the attention tabley-ing one hour and more. This shows a bay pacer and driver in a sulky, full of life, and most realistic. The horse is a superb animal which is enjoying the race which he knows is a lot of detail in this painting, and intricate brush work.

PORTRAITS

Among the portraits, the artist has caught the personalities, especially in the rather strained expression of the young girl in white sitting in the low portrait. The summery texture of the puffed-sleeved dress is most truthful, the golden hair most natural, and the cluster of orange and blue flowers adds a pleasant contrasting note.

That of the elderly lady is well done, the eyes rather straining-into-the-future' expression, and might be called "Prospect", is refined, earnest thinking personified, while that of another young girl—head and shoulder—dark curly hair, portrays a dreamy-eyed expression. The blue and green of the dress brings up the color of the face.

The "Circus Elephants" a heavy subject with a light touch prettily done, showing their individual attention to the trainer, and while in the viewer, but in sight of the elephants by that direct, out of the corner of their eyes, gaze.

"The Dancers" is also a study in expression. One wonders just what piece of pleasing conversation has been poured into her willing ears, judging by the half shy smile on the young woman's face.

OLD THEME

An old theme in a 'new setting was that of the "Bottles," as seen three very maple; this, was bas color and strength.

The Indian fantasy, "The chief the square, the little papoose and toddlers, a rather stilted piece depicting the chief carrying papoose; usually the squaw is carrying the papoose, and the papa customs differ in different Indian sections. All look hale and hearty, undisturbed by the passing of the day as they go their leisurely way.

The last picture viewed, was that with the sentiment, and might fall under a number of titles, viz: "Between Acts", "Before the Swim" or "After the Swim." It depicted a young 'India' Topic At Pr. Wales H-S Assoc.

Last Tuesday evening, Prince of Wales Home and School Association held its December meeting, with Mr. Orville Mathews, well-known teacher of Quinte Secondary School as guest speaker.

Mr. Matthews spoke on his native country, 'India', and thoroughly explained the caste system and clarified many misconceptions concerning it. In India, one may go a distance of only 35 miles, but would find a change of clothing styles and a dialect. Because of the language problem this makes the establishment of schools difficult. All subjects are taught in English. Their grade 10 is equivalent to Canada's grade 12, but all examinations are set in English and written in English. Mr. Mathews brought along two Indian Saris for examination by Home and School members.

The meeting was closed by president Mrs. Kay Bushel.

Refreshments were served by the parents of Mrs. Nightingale's class.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Since considering a few of the aspects of Home and School Associations in the last column, it seems that everything picked up or stumbled across in the last few days has something else to say concerning the subject in general. Maybe this is just coincidence, or maybe we are more aware and receptive to thoughts on the subject.

Here are some further gleanings which might prove useful:

"One thing that would help a good deal, in the opinion of many, is better preparation for the parent. Some school systems have done an outstanding job of preparing booklets that outline clearly what the school hopes to get from parents and what parents may expect from the school. Solid home-school support is a valuable aid to teachers, a support to parents and an insurance of consistency to children."

Another authority says: "The teacher's specific function is to help the child acquire the skills, knowledge and attitudes the community believes he will need for useful work and good citizenship. But the community contributes to this also. To do their part well, parents need a clear idea of what the school aims to accomplish at each grade level"

Of course, as the child progresses through school, his or her school work is most systems, a new teacher every year. Parents will have a new teacher too, but the teacher, in most systems, may have forty or more new sets of parents.

Then, from one of our own favorite quotable writers, the late Ann Batchelder, we found the following which we must have cut out something at least twenty-five years ago. Ann Batchelder wrote mainly about the ideas, attitudes and thoughts came under her observation as a mother.

She wrote: "No one feels so capable of bringing up children as the one who never had any. That's why the maiden aunts are always so articulate. They have a theory to back them up. The theory is that the person watching the band go by, sees the gold braid much better than do the boys in the uniforms. And the notes of the trombone are heard more clearly from the curb than in the midst of the parade . . . "

"Seriously, though, the reason for most of the poor technique in bringing up children lies in misunderstanding. The grown-ups who understand most are the ones who remember their own childhood. Parents ought to have a little oftener. It would be good for them and good for the children . . "

So, be patient with the children. You don't know with whom you are dealing. You can't see ahead very far. I doubt if Nancy Hank saw much in the long-legged awkward boy, Abe Lincoln, that presaged to her his greatness. It's beyond the probabilities that, when he was a little tyke, John Keats shone with any special lustre. I guess folks thought of all these as just lucky little nuisances, or worse."

"Be patient with the children. And remember that all your methods and experiments go into the discard when Destiny take hold. Destiny has her own methods. She has no children. She brings up the human race."

Maybe you have seen this spoonerism; it was new to us, so we pass it along as a slogan for next year's United Appeal: "Put all your beep in one askit!"

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Scott, Picton, Wedded 50 Years

PICTON — Esteemed residents of Picton, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton B. Scott, 64 Queen St., will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Dec. 14. The family will be together for a celebratory dinner on Saturday, Dec. 10. The suspicious occasion will be celebrated quietly as Mrs. Scott is confined to her home.

Though 78 years of age, Mr. Scott is well and active, helping on the property he has taken over from his son Clare seven years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott recall that on Dec. 14, 1910, there was considerable snow but as it was slushy, guests came in both cars and cutters to the wedding. They drove by horse and buggy to the reception to take the train to spend their honeymoon in Detroit where his sister resided. Married the same day and leaving Picton on the same train were two other couples, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. James Leavitt.

The wedding took place at the home of Fred Handley, the bride's step-father, and Orval Handley now resides there. Rev. Montague Ledgett officiated. The attendants were Jessie Chalmers, still living and the late Clarence Donike.

Alice Donike was flower girl and carried the ring in the centre of a calla lily.

Mrs. Scott was formerly Hilda Curlette, daughter of Handall Curlette and Alice Handley. Her father died when she was four years old and her mother later married Fred Handley. She was born at Woodville, April 24, 1894.

Mr. Scott's parents were Alex and Hannah Scott and was born Aug. 18, 1882 on the homestead at Dozzen's.

Following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Scott lived on the farm at Dozzen's and then in Picton since 1942.

Mrs. Scott recalls that before her marriage she worked at the Alma Rand store. In the millinery department she cut velvet to make ladies' hats.

Twelve girls were engaged in this work, with two others as clerks.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott have been good citizens. They are members of the United Church, Mr. Scott is a member of Bay of Quinte Lodge, I.O.O.F. while Mrs. Scott is a member of Macpelah Rebekah Lodge. Good neighbors in every sense of the word, they have made many friends who extend congratulations and good wishes on this notable anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott have a family of five, Abbie Prechette, Belleville; Carman Scott, Picton; Clare of Burlington; Floyd in Toronto; Fred in Belleville, also ten fourteen grandchildren and four great grandchildren. Mrs. Scott has a sister Mrs. Lulu Denike of Toronto who will be here for the family gathering. Mr. Scott's brother Arthur Scott and sister, Nina Carter, are deceased.

STORIES OF FAMOUS HYMNS

By HORACE B. POWELL

"I BELONG TO THE KING"

I belong to the King,
Im a child of His love,
I shall dwell in His palace so fair;
For He tells of its bliss in yon heaven above,
And His children in splendor shall share.

I belong to the King and He loves me I know,
For His kindness and mercy so free,
Are unceasingly mine, wherso-ever I go,
And my refuge unfailing is He.

Chorus

I belong to the King, I'm a child of His love,
And He never forsaketh His own;
He will call me some day to His palace above,
I shall dwell by His glorified throne.

Ida L. Reed, the author of this long-popular gospel song, found her inspiration to write it in a story which she read one day in a church paper.

According to the published story, a young girl was asked how she managed to maintain her serenity in the face of severe tribulation, and replied: "It's because I belong to the King"—a task which frequently was interrupted by illness and by physical suffering. Her verses appeared regularly in a number of magazines and periodicals.

The young hymnist had many shadows in her own life. When her father died she was left to support an invalid mother and several brothers and sisters on a West Virginia farm. Writing hymns and other poems became more than a pastime for her—it was a necessity. It helped her to forget her own troubles and to find comfort in the thought that she was taking form in her mind and soon being written.

Then, one day as she sat at her organ, the words of this hymn began to flow from her mind and pen.

Finally, running out of breath, Mrs. Inscrutieered sealed herself, with the comment, "Well, you didn't mind my poking around. I'm just very interested in seeing how other folks live."

It was obvious that Mrs. Dow DID mind the barbed comment, but she was gracious enough to make every effort to hide her annoyance.

Personally, I thought Mrs. In-

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Wagner Shaw

AN UNFADONABLE INVASION OF PRIVACY

I stopped at Mrs. Dow's apartment the other afternoon for a little visit. We were chatting together when Mrs. Inexperienced bustled in. After greeting us, her conversation ran like this:

"My, what a cute apartment you have! Mine if I look around? I just love to snoop! My goodness, it is very small though. Only one room. And on the first floor, too. Heavens, I would never sleep a wink if you didn't have need. Mrs. Dow? Where does this door go? Oh, into the linen closet. And this is the bathroom. I see you've just done your laundry. Not much room to hang things above, I'll bet. You are certainly cramped for space all around, but it's a nice little place and I'm sure you won't mind telling me what you pay for it. Original, that seems awfully high!"

possessions of others is not considered good taste. When the comments are derogatory, it is unpardonable. Even if Mrs. Dow's apartment is small, I think it should be pointed out to Mrs. Inexperienced that one's home is one's castle, whether it's a cramped apartment or a tent.

While on the subject of this courteous apartment visitors, it is well for a prospective guest to remember that he should bestow all his arrival by announcing it when the reception desk. An apartment is too small and intimate to be intruded upon unannounced. It's not fair to give warning so that the ironing board can be removed from the middle of the living room floor and the vacuum put away in the closet. There is no reception desk, the gracious guest will telephone DHD and ask the hostess convenient visit. I am sure that all apartment-dwellers would agree with me that such a thoughtful guest will receive their heartfelt thanks!

HOLIDAY HOME HINTS

"If I should go to heaven (and I might, you needn't scoff), Will God awake at seven, then let me sleep a while?"

—Lois Ingram Bliss

With Christmas around the corner, what could be more timely than these hints on how to run a house?

Still, the very fact, this festive season usually centres around the home of parents', grandparents' or newlyweds', home-cutting corners might not be so popular.

A service department in housekeeping research offers famous timely suggestions; there are some laundry tips, since holiday guests usually present sleeping problems.

Should you have complaints about covers that slide off the bed due to nylon sheets, try this. Use nylon sheets for the bottom and muslin or percale for the top sheet. This will lighten your laundry load, as well, for nylons are notable space-savers and a joy for housekeeping. Laundry tests prove that as long as 16 twice-sized fitted nylon sheets can be washed in one load in a home-type washer. Besides, it takes only a matter of minutes to dry them. Do not iron nylons.

Be persuaded to use your pretty pastel towels without misgivings about extra washing duties. If colors run or need no special care, but will give a bedroom a surprising decor lift.

Do not be discouraged concerning "no-iron" finish sheets and pillow-cases. This is claimed not difficult to attain if low temperature water is used and allowed to drip dry Use very little bleach.

However, for wool blankets, as you may be well aware, the washing and spin drying should be entrusted to the washer. Excessive bleaching or powdery department warms, will dissolve them and make them difficult to tend to "fel" good blankets.

USE CLOTHES PIN

Rips and tears maybe kept under control by fastening a sprint-type clothes pin to the tear and set it as a reminder about that "stitch in time" that saves endless mending.

So much for the laundry. Let's go into the kitchen, where you have all along disapproved of searing steak as a means of sealing in the juices. Remember did you know? For the service department has discovered that searing does not seal in the juices.

The secret of a juicy steak, rare or not, it is revealed, is: Turn, turn, turn and turn down. There is a scientific reason for this, which we will come to the same direction as heat. Whenever the heat is applied the flow of juices is reversed and the loss reduced. If a fork is used to turn the steak, use only the prongs in the fat along the edge. The best implement to escape due to prong-jabs in the meat itself. Use of tongs, instead is suggested.

Though the department offers no hints for Christmas decorations throughout the house, ideas are easily developed, adapted from those seen in public places. Such as the Georgian Room in Eaton's in Toronto with all drapes removed from the tall slim windows and a huge red ribbon bow placed at the peak of each from which are hung lovely white bells with sprinkling with red poinsettias interspersed with winking berries of red and green. Eaton's Round Room is graced in the room's centre by a 10-foot white spruce Christmas tree mounted upon a white and gold pedestal with football sized Christmas colored balls nestling around the base of the tree. Multi-colored streamers quickly spike the branches while a huge golden ornament graces the uppermost of the tree. Crowds have encased all showcases by gold tinfoil while beads are all of elegant simplicity, while in downtown store window displays a festive dining room, the table covered with a red chiffon cloth edged with gold tinsel fringe.

All handsome and Christmas, as are these lighter Thursday night in Rockefeller Plaza in which Christmas trees of some lockers raised a shout of delight as 4,000 red, green, blue and white lights came alive on the 65-foot tree, a 2½-ton Norway spruce.

A Lift for Living

God Can Solve Life's Riddles

By Ralph W. Sockman

According to President Henry Van Dusen of Union Theological Seminary there are two desires which give rise to religion. They are the desire for light on the mystery of things and the desire for power over the mastery of difficulties.

First, consider the desire for the meaning of life. Meaningless existence is intolerable. We feel that just as two and two make four, so our days and years are meant to add up to something. But to what meaning do they add?

Think of the things that happen to a man. He is born, grows up to school, gets over the measles, breaks a leg. At 18 he is drafted into the army, spends three years fighting his fellow man. He returns home, is married, raises a family. He sacrifices for his children, works his farm, saves for old age. His children are then caught in another war. He loses a son. He begins to age, his health weakens, he dies and is buried. He is soon no more. What is the meaning of it all?

Or consider the events a man sees on the stage of history. In my boyhood there was a war between Russia and Japan. Europe was the mecca of tourists. Our preachers went to study in the Old World, especially in Germany. Diplomats said smooth things. Nations proceeded to be friendly. Then in 1914 war broke out and we were drawn in. Peace finally came, a just era followed, the booming 1920's boosted Europe which the depressing 1930's destroyed. Then came a Second World War, far more global.

WHAT IS HISTORY?

What is history? The speckle makes me think of something Hamilton Gibbs wrote after World War I. Some of his characters goes down across Europe and likens what he sees to blindfolded camels turning an Egyptian water wheel. In their blindness they imagine themselves travelling great distances, but in reality they are going over the same old mill round. Is history just a vicious circle of recurring wars and calamities? Is it just a treadmill for an idiot, full of sound and fury signifying nothing?

In the Bible God gives answers to such questions. However, the application we little individuals seem to be and however frustrated our living, we are children of a Heavenly Father in whose sight each of us is infinitely precious. In our space age man appears but a tiny speck but God "has made us for Himself" and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea and over the birds of the air and over every living thing that moves upon the earth." And however fleeting our years may seem, "life is more than meat," the spirit is too great for the grave, and love can never lose its own.

In my life worthy of notice by a God who has billions of souls in His hands? Yes, says Christ, "the Heavenly Father who keeps track of the sparrow's fall will not forget you."

The teaching of Scripture gives a pattern for history as well as for the individual. With all its mystery and misery the human race is in the hands of a purposeful and loving God and is headed toward the Kingdom of God wherein the purposes revealed in Christ will be realized. The end of days means something and it means much.

THE SECOND DESIRE

Turn now to the second desire, that of finding power for the mastery of things. Is it power for self-mastery that we need? Alcoholics Anonymous has as its first rule that the victim of the drink habit must admit his inability to solve his problem by his own strength and seek higher help. We may bravely set our wills to conquer our appetites, but when the will and the imagination are in conflict, the imagination always wins, so the psychologists say.

But God's power does more than our will power. He floods our minds with thoughts of "whatsoever things are pure, lovely and true." He helps us surrender evil with good. He fills us with a victory complex, making us feel that He believes in us and therefore we can believe in ourselves.

Or we are asking for power to get along with others in this battle-ridden world? God helps us to see other persons as His children and to have reverence for their personalities. In the home God lifts love from selfish possessiveness to mutual respect. In a godly home we get on each other's hearts rather than on each other's nerves.

In our communities God helps us to keep from putting our own rights before the feelings of others and our feelings before the rights of others.

And in our embittered world God helps us to see other men not as a means to our ends but as ends in themselves. He bids us pray with Bobby Burns for the gift to "gie us, to see our sels as others see us."

QUESTION:

Please send me a recipe for Christmas fruit cake. . . . Mrs. J. M.

ANSWER:

The following recipe calls for meat. If you do not want to include meat in your mincemeat you will find this recipe and substitute 2 cups each apples and raisins (in addition to the listed apples and raisins) juice, 4 lemons, juice and grated rind, 4 cups brown sugar, packed, 4 teaspoons salt, 4 tablespoons cinnamon, 4 teaspoons allspice.

Put all ingredients in large saucepan; cook, stirring 1 hour, stirring frequently Pack in hot, sterilized jars. Seal. Makes sufficient filling for 4 pies.

QUESTION:

. . . One recipe I want is for that unbaked chocolate refrigerator roll which is chilled, sliced, and used as a tea cookie. The fudgy chocolate covering is very smooth, showing no evidence of the addition of crumbs, although they may be present. It is rolled in a paper covered with finely chopped walnuts only wide enough to cover, then rolled again, and sliced. I noted marshmallows placed in the center. . . . Mrs. C. J. P.

ANSWER:

I think the following is the Chocolate Roll you are seeking.

CHOCOLATE ROLL:

Two squares semi-sweet chocolate, 2 tablespoons cocoa, ed chocolate, melt in top of double boiler over hot water. Add 1-2 cups icing sugar, 2 eggs unbeaten, 1 cup chopped walnuts, 1 cup coconut, 1 teaspoon vanilla, cred. Mix in order given and chill. Place on wax paper in medium rolls. Roll in chopped nuts or finely crushed graham crackers. Wrap carefully. Store in refrigerator and slice as needed.

Or would you like to try this recipe for Chocolate Yule Log?

CHOCOLATE YULE LOG:

6 oz. whole-Spanish nuts, 1-2 lb. pitted dates, 8-oz. jar maraschino cherries, drained, 1-2 lb. pkg. vanilla wafers crushed fine, 1 tablespoon finely chopped ginger, 1-2 lb. marshmallows, cut up, 1 teaspoon lemon rind, 1-2 cup undiluted evaporated milk, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon nutmeg, 1-2 teaspoon ginger, 1-2 teaspoon cloves, 3 cups shredded coconut.

In top of double boiler put evaporated milk, marshmallows, lemon rind, salt and spices. Stir occasionally until marshmallows are partially melted. Remove and add sliced dates, nuts and cherries and mix very well. Shape into 2 rolls about 3" wide and roll in the coconut. Wrap and store in the refrigerator until needed and then slice.

Everett H. — Nat is the patient. What do they want from me?

Mrs. M. H. — The doctor says he must see the whole family.

Everett H. — My brother is a nut. He's been in and out of hospital here. Instead of just treating him and letting him come home, they have a different idea. They want to treat the whole family, too, even though Nat is the one who felt apart. Now they're going to have a party, covered with finely chopped walnuts only wide enough to cover, then roll again, and slice. I noted marshmallows placed in the center. . . . Mrs. C. J. P.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Man Admits He Is Oddity at 65 And Claims Everyone Else Is Too

By THOMAS COLLINS

You can have a fine retirement for yourself, and maybe live to see the turn of another century, if you'll sit down tonight and figure out just what kind of oddity you are. . .

All of us are oddities, of course, by the time we reach age 65 or so. You probably are not an exception, and if you think you are you may be the oddest character of all.

A man who made $18,000 a year before he retired, and who is now making $80 a week working in a filling station, this week explained why all this is so. His name is Brown, and he doesn't want to be identified beyond that.

Another oddball, naturally.

"A man coming near retirement," says Mr. Burns, "must understand that he is being brainwashed by all sorts of well-meaning people. His tweed-suit friends who could afford Santa Barbara or Palm Beach are telling him he should come back in the balmy breezes and follow the stock and bond tables. His friends who couldn't adapt are telling him retirement is a raw deal. His company is giving him a paternalistic pitch about how his pension and other income will give him the good life, and suggesting he should take pictures and fish. . ."

FINDS NO FAULT

Mr. Burns finds no fault with this. "I even think it is all right for a man's neighbor who has sold his home after retirement to urge you to sell yours, and for the man who didn't sell to tell you you're stupid to sell yours.

"That's the stuff human nature is made of," he says. What I object to is the idea that a man retiring should accept any of these pat formulas. You cannot standardize retirement. Every man is unique. Every man's retirement, beyond the basic rules that tell you to come in out of the rain and not to play with matches, should be unique too. "

Mr. Burns says that among the men who retired about the same time he did was an accounting executive. "He was an introverted fellow from the day he was born. Spent the 41 years he worked for a boss he probably never once made an aggressive move on the job or fought for a new procedure.

"But two days after he retired he bought a sports car and began rabbiting down the highways. Maybe he was trying to prove something. That's what a brother-in-law said as we were walking around for the funeral. He had learned into the rear of a trailer-truck at what the police said was 65 miles per. . ."

HE DIDN'T KNOW

This man, in Mr. Burns' book, should have devoted his retirement to figuring out the national debt — he didn't know what particular sort of oddball he was.

"Then there was my friend Ralph Mills," says Mr. Burns. "His next-door neighbor retired to Daytona Beach, Fla. So did the neighbor's best friend, whom Ralph and his wife had met a couple of times at parties at the neighbor's house. Ralph and wife sold their home and followed them, despite the fact that neighbor was an oddball who wanted to catch a big deep-sea fish, and neighbor's friend was an oddball who wanted to girl-watch on Daytona's beach.

"And also," says Mr. Burns, "despite the fact that Ralph Mills was an oddball who secretly wanted most of all to go to Oregon, acquire 20 acres of land and try to develop a new kind of apple. . ."

Mr. Burns wanted just what he had when he retired. He liked to talk to people. He liked the people who had been bringing the mail and the mail, taking away the garbage and trash, and the people who had been trying to sell him storm windows and retirement these last 28 years. He liked their pace as interesting as people he had at his company.

I LIKED PEOPLE"

"Also, he says, "I was the kind of oddball who didn't suffer from status. I didn't care who saw me working in coveralls. I was the kind who would give up the chance of a $5,000 a year job, which I could have landed, in order to make the government pay me my pension which I had paid for. So I decided to go to work in a filling station because I liked people."

What does all this add up to? It adds up to the proposition that everybody is wrong — including Mr. Burns — about what you should do when you retire. You are a percolator that perks like no other percolator anywhere. Only you can know what is good for you and what you want. If what you long for is bizarre, it still will make you look like a odd-ball, so be it. Because the rules of status, prestige and what people will think automatically change when you retire. You have no one but little anybody really cares what you do.

But as you set out on this first genuine free choice of your life don't get pulled into the nonsense about organized desires and red cars. Most desires of age 28 that are suppressed at age 65 are suppressed good. Leave them be.

Rate West German Defence Minister Top Bet to Succeed K. Adenauer as Chancellor

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BONN (CP)—Franz Josef Strauss is a big, bull-necked man who may become the most important figure in the North Atlantic alliance.

Diplomats rate the West German defence minister as a good bet to succeed Konrad Adenauer as chancellor.

And they see all sinking each other: What then?

Strauss is already a powerful figure in NATO as well as in his own country. West Germany is a strong member of the alliance but as the price for this support Strauss wants his ideas on West-ern defence to be accepted.

What Western diplomats fear in event of Strauss' elegation to the chancellorship is that if his policies are not accepted by NATO he might take West Ger-many out of the alliance.

DANGEROUS SITUATION

This would leave a rearmed West Germany by itself between East and West, a dangerous situ-ation even if Germany had no nuclear weapons.

It should be added that there is no current indication that West Germany wants to go it alone or play a stiff Communist price for reunification with East Germany. Bonn is beginning to look more and more like a permanent capi-tal despite the Germans' intention that it be only temporary pending a return to Berlin.

Diplomats say that NATO in 1954 took a calculated risk when it accepted Germany into the al-liance and that this risk has not altered. It is unlikely to increase as long as Adenauer remains at the head of the government.

Thus the big question mark is Strauss, who sometimes has acted like a bull in a china shop.

Strauss is a friendly, approach-able man. There is nothing sus-tere about him. But he is also an ambitious human dynamo that he has often disregarded the niceties of democracy.

Recently, an armed forces publicist appeared expressing the opinion that West Germany should have immediately made something denied the Germans under the agreement admitting them to NATO.

There is a strong suspicion among diplomats here that Strauss was at least indirectly responsible for this pamphlet, assertedly issued only for the eyes of senior armed forces of-ficers but which was immediate-ly leaked to the press.

Under the Bonn constitution, the sole commander of the Bun-deswehr (German armed forces) in time of peace is the defence minister and in time of emer-gency the chancellor. This ar-rangement was evolved to prevent the rebirth of a military state like the German general staff within a state. But as The Times of Lon-don remarked recently, no gen-eral could hope for more powerful minister than Strauss.

Strauss is the main target of opposition Socialists and he has often given them plenty of opportunity for criticism. A case in point was his plan to establish German training bases in Spain without any consultation and for the feelings of his NATO allies in the matter. By his tremendous energy and drive, however, Strauss has survived his peri-odic attacks of bloody-mouth cri-sis.

The Germans appear ex-tremely interested in the Cana-dian attitude toward them and often complain that there is still a strong anti-German feeling in Canada.

The Germans were concerned about a series of Canadian news-paper articles on alleged anti-semitism in Germany now. The Canadian Embassy had just smoothed down their ruffled feel-ings when one of these series by a journalism award.

There is no doubt the Ger-mans want Canadian as well as American forces to remain in Germany. Canadian forces are a symbol of North American and not just Canadian support for the defence of Western Europe.

Defence Minister Harkness re-cently visited units of the 4th Ca-nadian Infantry Brigade and RCAF Air Division in Germany. In each place he was met by German newspaper men asking whether there was any intention of withdrawing Canadian military forces.

MORE THAN ONE

Overlaid, a comedy by Robert-son Davies—Canadian author of the play Love and Libel now on Broadway, will be produced on CBC TV, Dec. 14.

GERMAN MINISTER

Franz Josef Strauss, West German defence minister, is con-sidered a possible successor to Konrad Adenauer as chancellor. A powerful figure in NATO, he has created diplomatic fears that he may favor pulling West Germany out of the alliance if NATO hesitates to support his ideas on Western defence. (CP Photo).

Anti-US Feeling In Britain Periodic Thing

By CARL MOLLINS

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain in passing through one of those periodic anti-American and anti-Americanism that hits most U.S. allies from time to time for a while.

The last serious outburst of anti-Americanism in this country followed the abortive British-French-Israeli invasion of Egypt in the fall of 1956.

The current campaign is a minority movement and does not yet appear to have gained enough at least half the population back it in recent days.

Two events provoked the fuss this time. The first was the an-nouncement that a base for Polaris-armed U.S. submarines would be established on the west coast of Scotland. The second was the proposal that the Ford Motor Company would increase its holdings in its British sub-sidiary from a controlling 59 per-cent to 100 per cent of the shares.

Both deals provoked twinges of panic. The Polaris base agree-ment meant that British co-operating with a frighteningly new weapon of mass destruction, while the Ford buy-out pro-duced fears of U.S. economic domination.

But neither deal set a startling precedent. Britons were aware that submarines of U.S. and Brit-ish planes and missiles long had been primed for action in this country.

Whether Britons are fully aware of it or not, many of our best-known businesses here are American.

All this did not temper the protests over the Ford deal. Typ-ical of this subject headlined the London Evening Standard: "Slowly and inexorably the Amer-ican tycoon moves into British industry," warned The Daily Ex-press cautiously.

One London newspaper pub-lished in the same edition a bitter comment on growing American influence over Britain as re-flected in the Polaris base pact and a worried summary about the possibility Britain would lose $200,000,000 a year by the with-drawal of U.S. service depend-ents.

Garden Notes

Green, Gold and Grey for Winter

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

The colored leaves on shrub, and tree have remained unusual-ly long this year, and, in spite of dry weather the chrysanthe-mums have provided a long lasting parade of color too. The time is now when we are left with the grab, brown, blacks and dun colors, which perhaps should be called the colors. The remedy for this is a planned program for planting evergreen, evergrey and evergold plants.

More and more we are finding that the forbidden plants such as rhododendrons, and azaleas have branches of their family that will stand our coldest win-ters and are well adapted to our climate. Even when we are left with the grab, brown, blacks and dun colors, which perhaps should be called the colors. The remedy for this is a planned program for planting evergreen, evergrey and evergold plants.

So much for few of the green plants which keep their color in winter, in the greys there is a plant named Santolina, or lavender cotton.

A lovely silver shade, plant this one in poor soil and cut back hard each spring. Orange berries and fine grey foliage clothe the Sea buckthorn. This can be planted in windy place and will thrive there but it is too big for small garden. Lav-ender, hidcote, and lavendula vera are scented foliage plants into which leaf and bloom for sachet bags to perfume the linen closet and make pleasant acedia in the garden. Artissime, silver mound and A. silver king and Artusiem Sage are other grey plants that keep their foliage when the winter.

The golden privet while it does not keep its foliage all through the winter it does retain it until quite late in the fall. There is a new form a chartreuse privet in the conifers there are several golden leaf and golden foor for Thuyga plicata zibrina.

In the herbs there are many which keep their winter color. Gilded rosemary is one that is especially recommended. This will supply you with foliage material for many arrangements.

Through the winter visit your local nurseryman to see what evergreens and what he rec-ommends to keep color in your winter garden.

Fred Rutherford Elected Mayor Of Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD — In a very heavy vote polled on Mon-day at the annual municipal elections, F. M. Rutherford, mayor of Campbellford for the past two years, was re-elected, defeating Councillor R. J. Locke, a former mayor of Campbell-ford. Mr. Rutherford had a majority of 152 votes.

G. H. Free retained his seat as reeve by a slim margin of 38 votes over William R. Nicholas, a former member of coun-cil.

Councillor Morley Petherick again headed the poll for coun-cil, while a newcomer, Morley Tanner, ran second. Sid Hop-ping, another newcomer, ex-ceptionally well in fourth spot. There are no other changes in council from last year.

In the Public Utilities Com-mission ballot, the two sitting members, H. A. MacArthur and Ross Vandervoort were suc-cessful over the veteran con-tender, R. J. A. McGregor.

Results were as follows:

Mayor, F. M. Rutherford; reeve, G. H. Free. Deputy reeve, A. D. Bennett (by acclo-mation).

Councillors — Morley Pether-ick, Morley Tanner, Forrest Brenda, Sid Hoppins, Hector Macmillan, Jack Torrence, Reg Outinglyke, another contender (name could not be learned).

Public School Trustees (by acclamation) — Cecil Johnson, H. E. Cryderman, William Murray.

Boxing Probe To Quiz World Champion

Name Being Held Secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former world ring champion has been ordered to testify Monday before a United States Senate subcommittee investigating gangland influence in boxing, but his name is being kept secret for the good of his health.

Subcommittee members said Friday they feared advance exposure of the witness might place him in danger.

The subcommittee, headed by Senator Estes Kefauver, hopes to rid boxing of racketeers. Also on the Monday witness list is heavyweight contender Charles (Sonny) Liston.

Liston, rated the No. 1 challenger for Floyd Patterson's crown, is handled under cover by bondsmen and yields a share of his purses to them, the subcommittee was told Friday.

WON'T IDENTIFY

John G. Bonomi a New York lawyer directing the investigation, marked the former champion who fences questioning. He wouldn't say when the fighter resigned nor over which division.

Bonomi said he knows of no threats on the fighter's life, but added: "It is possible that he might be in a dangerous position. It is our policy to protect any witness who may give damaging testimony."

Lieut. Joseph Kuda of the St. Louis police force told Friday he had evidence that imprisoned mobster Frank Carbo was remarked in for 52 per cent of the managers' cut of Liston's fight purses. The balance of that cut, Kuda said, was divided in percent shares among Frank Louis ex-convict, and two others whose names he could not put down.

REFUSES TO ANSWER

Vitale refused to answer questions, pleading the 5th amendment guarantee against possible self - incrimination. Frank Mitchell, publisher of a St. Louis weekly newspaper, used the same grounds for declining to reply when Bonomi asked whether he had acted as a front for Vitale while listed as Liston's manager before 1958.

Joseph (Pepe) Barone of Albany, Pa., is registered as Liston's manager. Barone has been subpoenaed but is hospitalized for what was described as a "little state of mental anxiety."

Liston, 27, has served jail terms for holdups and assaulting a policeman in St. Louis. In the ring, he has lost only one bout and knocked out 31 of his 30 opponents.

James D. Norris, top fight promoter of the 1950s, told the subcommittee that Carbo was helpful in dealings with former middleweight champion Jake Lamotta and Harry Matthews, former middleweight king Carmen Basilio, one-time welterweight champion Tony DeMarco and former welterweight king Willie Pep.

Carbo now is serving a five year sentence for undercover matchmaking and managing.

Home-And-Home Duels Mark NHL

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The National Hockey League's only two remaining full - time goalkeepers — Toronto's Johnny Bower and Chicago Hall of Fame-age—are to face each other twice on the weekend when their teams meet in a two-game home-and-home series.

Toronto is host to Chicago Saturday and travels to meet the Hawks in Chicago Sunday.

Bower and Hall are the only two goalkeepers who have not missed a game this season.

The other four goalies who started the season as regulars—Jacques Plante of Montreal, Denis Terry Sawchuk and New York's Lorne Worsley and Don Simmons of Boston—have been replaced at one time or other.

Simmons retired a few weeks ago and was replaced by rookie goalie Bruce Gamble. Plante suffered a knee injury and has been replaced by Charlie Hodge, while Sawchuck was ordered for a rest by Detroit Coach Sid Abel and was replaced by Hank Bassen.

BENCHED SEVERAL TIMES

Bower has benched several times in the early stages of the season and his post given to U.S. Olympic hero Jack McCartan.

Although Bower's record as a goalie dates back to 1948-49 he has not seen much action in that time.

As a New York farmhand for 15 years, Bower saw little action with the Rovers despite a 1953-54 average of 2.60 goals-against and five shutouts in his only full NHL season.

Traded to Toronto in 1958, he turned in another good season of 2.74, and last season in 6 games with the Leafs had an average of 2.75.

This year, the 36-year - old veteran has the league's best goals against average—2.67 — and appears set for a berth for all star honors.

Hall, the league's best rookie and second all-star in his first season, in many occasions was runner-up to Plante for the Vezina Trophy, twice coming to Toronto in search of timing.

The Vezina Trophy is awarded annually to the goalie or goalies in the race for the league leadership.

A Detroit victory would bring the Red Wings within three points of league leading Canadiens and a loss would give Montreal a seven point lead.

Hockey Hints

By Lloyd Percival

"JOHNSON DOESN'T DRIFT"

Tom Johnson, the aggressive defensive star of the world champion Montreal Canadiens has developed over the past few years many of the qualities needed to play defence the way every coach hopes it will be played. He's a hard and accurate bodychecker and an excellent stickhandler, Johnson, in my book, is particularly effective because his positional play is so good.

Here is a lesson every young defenceman should learn. It is all very well to be a good checker, to be big and agile but unless your positional play is sound, especially when the pressure is on around your goal area, you cannot be effective. For example, if you watch the average defenceman in agonizing hockey you will notice that he is frequently caught flat-footed. Never is chasing the puck in the attacking zone when centre ice. Constantly he alert for any tendency to drift. For more hints send a stamped, self - addressed envelope and the c/o Hockey Hints, Ontario Intelligencer for my booklet, "Doug Harvey, Wizard Of The Blue Line".

Junior Macs, Petes Tie

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Belleville Juniors, playing their first home game under the new McFarland name and colors, battled the Peterborough Canucks to a 3-3 overtime stalemate before 591 fans in an Eastern OHA Junior "B" league fixture here last night

The game, the second overtime fixture between the two evenly-matched clubs in as many meetings, marked the first home game of the season. The clubs are tied with seven points apiece.

The game also was the coaching debut for both Gordie Bell of the Macs, who took over from Eddy Plato, and for Gary Dunning who replaces Dit Clapper as the Peterborough boss man this week.

Macs and Canucks fought to a 1-1 tie on a pair of power play goals in the initial heat last night. Belleville scored the first goal in the second period and Peterborough evened matters in the third frame to make it 2-2 at the end of regulation time. Belleville scored the only ice ten minute overtime period but the Canucks came back to equalizer to earn the split.

Sadinsky Larry Hall, enjoying his best season, goalwise and pointwise, sparked the Belleville Macs with a pair of goals. Rightwinger Moe Hunniford bagged the other Macs goal while "Pug" Kellar and Paul Morrison, the loop's top scorer, had one assist apiece. Bob Gare missed the game with a leg injury.

Gary Watts scored one goal and Gord Smith added two pegs for the Canucks. Gary Dalliday and Bryan Watson had the other goals while Ron Hurd drew an assist.

Both goalies, Bill Moxon and Chuck Goddard, played fine games between the pipes with both coming up with key saves. Peterborough held a slim 37-33 edge in shots on goal.

The clubs also divided 18 minute penalties equally as well as a pair of fighting majors to Ron Hull and Pete Morris in the third period. Both drew nine for Canucks drew a misconduct.

Peterborough's 20-second lead on a goal by Dalliday at 1.46 of the first while Pat Anastasiou was serving a minor penalty and Lord Derby's stud in October. He had spent 25 years sitting offsprings which among them won 150 races and landed more than $2,000,000 in prize money.

Belleville: Moxon, Asselstine, Reid, Mavety, Forsythe, Weston, Smith, McGill, Kellar, B. Hall, Hunter, Zibler, G. Hall, Hallett, Morrison.

Barber Tops Golf Pack

MONTEBELLO, Calif. (AP)—Jerry Barber of Los Angeles set an under-par 61 Friday to break the course record and lead the pack at the halfway mark in the $7,500 Montebello open golf tournament.

His 30-31—61 was two under the record for the 6,470 - yard course. The old record was held by barber and several others.

HORSE DESTROYED

NEWMARKET, England (AP) — Ryperion, one of the great British racehorses and stallions of modern British period, was destroyed Friday at the order of his owner, Lord Derby. The famous 30-year-old chestnut horse's limbs had blind and his eyesight had become so weak he was found down. Lord Derby's stud in October. He had spent 25 years sitting offsprings which among them won 150 races and landed more than $2,000,000 in prize money.

He Goes Ahead to Back Up!

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) An astonished motorist collided on the highway patrol and said: "I almost ran head-on from the other car near here, but it was backing up. I never saw it was."

Minutes later patrolmen learned what he was talking about. Outside a restaurant south of Bakersfield they found a Ford car that had two fronts.

When Mr. and Mrs. Bill Owens and Mr. and Mrs. Will Weddell left the restaurant, the two climbed into the front seat. Or was it the back? The moment got in the wrong.

Owens, owner of the weird vehicle, was cited for driving with improper rear lights, rear lights not red, no notification of alterations and improper registration on display.

There is no law against two-faced cars.

Owens explained he had had the car made at a cost of $1,000 as an advertising gimmick for his used car lot in Arvin. The back looks exactly like the front, but none of the rear controls work.

He cleared the car with the department of motor vehicles this week and can drive it anywhere. But he plans to have it care of those citations in Bakersfield municipal court Dec. 27.

"I'll drive my two-faced car when I go to court," he said today.

RON IN HOSPITAL

OTTAWA (CP)—Word was received here Friday that Ron Lancaster, quarterback with the Grey Cup champion Ottawa Rough Riders, is resting comfortably after having his appendix removed Thursday in a Springfield, Ohio, hospital. Lancaster suffered as attack of appendicitis during the recent Big Four football season.

Lowly Royals

Obtain Don Hogan

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Royals of the Quebec Professional Hockey League announced Friday they have obtained Don Hogan from Quebec to add to the American Hockey League in an exchange that sends Jean Guy Gendron to the Quebec Aces.

Hogan, a rightwinger, spent the last three seasons with Cleveland Barons of the AHL. He will join the Royals here.

Frank Carlin, Royals' general manager, announced the signing for shakeup in the team's lineup will be made. He said he will be talking about possible changes with coach Floyd Curry during the weekend.

Claude Pronovost may be back in the Royals' nets Sunday after missing the club meets Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds, Pronovost cut the tips off two fingers in an accident at his home and has missed the last three games.

If he is unable to play, Claude Cyr will play goal.

Okanagan League

Gets Shot in Arm

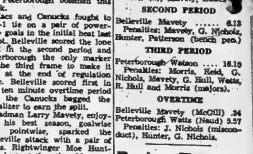
KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Directors of the Okanagan Senior Hockey League appeared to have stickhandled a crisis that likely would have meant its death. A new three-team circuit now is set to start next week.

The big point came Thursday night in Kelowna where 12 players from the defunct Penticton Vs and Kelowna Packers agreed to join forces to form competition for Vernon Canadians and Kamloops Chiefs.

Directors will meet Sunday in Vernon to map out a new schedule, with all teams starting from a scratch. They'll also consider a possible six-game exhibition series with New Westminster Royals of the Pacific Coast Amateur League, a likely league member next season.

Veteran Kelowna winger Jim Middleton was named player-coach of the new squad.

Pros Lead Senior Golf



PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) Professional golfers Dick Metz and Charles Congdon Friday took cognizant of the U.S. senior open tournament at the 36-hole mark. They were tied at 143, with two more rounds coming up.

Metz, who won the national PGA senior title earlier this year followed up with the best senior PGA 139 title in Scotland in July, fired a two-under - par 70—lowest round thus far in the tournament.

Congdon shot a 72 and loomed as a strong favorite.

Willie Goggin, winner of the event the last two years, took a 76-for 151.

After 13 Colorful Years

Versatile Gil McDougald Retires

BY JOE RICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Gil McDougald, veteran New York Yankee infielder and one of the most versatile players in baseball, announced his retirement Friday after 13 years in the game.

McDougald, who will be 34 next may, gave these reasons to The Associated Press:

"Pressure of baseball" and "desire to spend more time with my family."

McDougald, whom Casey Stengel once called "the best second baseman in the best third baseman and the best shortstop in the American League," had been reduced to the status of utility infielder during the last two seasons. He batted .259 in 119 games last season, hitting eight home runs and driving in 34 runs.

He appeared in six world series games in October and batted .278, one percentage point higher than his lifetime average.

In 10 years with the Yankees, McDougald played on eight pennant - winning and five world championship teams.

The friendly, freckle - faced California native joined the Yankees in 1951 and won the American League rookie of the year award.

The onetime indispensable Yankee was made expendable last October when his name was included on the New York list of 15 players made available to the two New American League franchises at $75,000 apiece.

The fact that McDougald was placed on the "frozen list" has no bearing on his decision to retire. He had made up his mind during the World Series against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

BUSINESS HAS GROWN

"I hate to leave baseball, and the Yankees who have treated me wonderfully," said McDougald. "But my business (a building maintenance concern) has grown to a point where I must devote all my time to it.

"Also, like all ballplayers, I've neglected my family all these years. I'm glad baseball career reached the age where it is imperative to have their help in all them moves."

McDougalds have four children, Chris, 12, Gil Jr. 11, Tod 10 and Denise 8.

"It's been a well kept secret that McDougald has been bothered by an arthritis which has made playing in cold weather almost unbearable."

Royals Whomp Petes 8-4, Marlies Win

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Four fast goals in the third period Friday night propelled Guelph Royals to a 8-4 victory over Peterborough Petes and from third to first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Meanwhile, Niagara Falls Flyers slipped to third place behind the idle Toronto St. Michael's, as Toronto Marlboros edged the Flyers 3-2.

Guelph has 21 points, followed by St. Michael's, the former leaders with 20, Niagara Falls 19, Peterborough 15, St. Catharines 13, and sharing the league cellar, Hamilton and Marlboros with 11 each.

At Guelph, the loss was costly to the Petes, who lost two men through injuries on top league scorer Wayne Boddy suffered from possible contusion, and defenceman Kelly Pleger, from a neck injury.

The Petes were ahead 4-4 after the first two periods on singles from Joe Natalie and Terry Ollivier, and goals from Rod Gilbert, Doug Senior netted two for Petes and Claude Larose and Reg Mulholland added the others.

In 14 minutes in the final period, Natalie broke the tie with his second goal of the game.

Paul Andrea scored two more and Ron Plager added a single from Joe Natalie and Terry Ollivier, and Rod Gilbert, Doug Senior netted two for Petes and Claude Larose and Reg Mulholland added the others.

In 14 minutes in the final period, Natalie broke the tie with his second goal of the game.

Paul Andrea scored two more and Ron Plager added a single to give Guelph a 5-4 lead.

At Niagara Falls, the Flyers suffered their second defeat in as many nights in a lower league club.

The Flyers scored the first goal on themselves and set up the second as Bob Murray fired in the goal credited to Sonny Osborne for the lone score of the first period. Wright also made a pass on the stick of George Standing early in the second period and Osborne quickly made it 2-0.

Gus Brassard scored the last Marlie goal with the Flyers shorthanded, making it 3-0.

In the final period Bob Avery scored for Niagara Falls at 1:13 mark, and Nelson Leclair narrowed the margin seven seconds left to play.

During the weekend Hamilton Red Wings are at St. Catharines Saturday, Niagara Falls at Toronto Marlboros and Guelph at Toronto St. Michael's Sunday.

Soccer Club To Strengthen

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Concordia, recently admitted to the International Soccer League, intends to bolster only about six of the players it used in the National Soccer League this year.

Club president Joe Schmeerlin said Friday night that now that the club has entered international competition with the top teams of Europe and Latin America, it will sell or trade some of the players of last season.

Slyomovics said the club intends to keep left back Hector Gagnon, left half Tommy Barrett, inside Hector Dadderio, fullback George Savage and goalers Bobbie Lux and Ed Swych.

Some Concordia players are already on loan to teams in New York City and attempts will be made to deal them off.

The National League had teams from Quebec and Ontario. The International League, organized in New York City, brings in top - calibre teams from South America, England and Europe.

Hull Ties Wolves 2-2

SUDBURY (CP) — Hull - Ottawa Canadiens battled out a 2-2 tie with Sudbury Wolves Friday night to extend their lead in the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

A point-blank shot by Terry Gray at the Habs turned on the heat in the third period coat the Wolves a chance to move alone into fourth place. Goalie Gerry McNamara stopped it but it dropped to the crease and he knocked it into the net in attempting to clear.

Cliff Pennington fired the Canadiens into contention at 11:36 of the final period after Sudbury had taken a 2-0 lead in the first 20 minutes on goals by Don MacGregor and John Sleaver.

Gray McNamara stopped it but it dropped to the crease and he knocked it into the net in attempting to clear.

Cliff Pennington fired the Canadiens into contention at 11:36 of the final period after Sudbury had taken a 2-0 lead in the first 20 minutes on goals by Don MacGregor and John Sleaver.

The Habs now sit about the 15-minute mark of the third period. The two teams play two more players majors and minors and called a total of \11 penalties, seven against Sudbury.

Bert Kennedy and Don Pierson scored two goals apiece for the Blues. Other scorers were Gene Sherepacha, Murchie and Ev Rush.

McGill scorers were Jim O'Kelly, Phil Peters, Bruce Hutchinson and Colin Moseley.

Giants Meet 'Skins'.

Packers Are Favored

NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay Packers were three-point favorites today in defeat San Francisco 49ers, take at least a temporary lead in the western conference and remain in the running for a crack at their Feb. 1 National Football League title since 1944.

The 49ers had the home-field advantage. They had a three-game winning streak and a sizzling spread-offence successful in their last two games.

The Packers have had a half-back named Paul Hornung, who has scored more points more than anyone in NFL history. When the Packers beat the 49ers 41-24 in October at Milwaukee Hornung scored 22 points.

The Packers, 49ers and Baltimore Colts started the weekend tied for the western lead, each with six victories and four losses.

The Colts are at Los Angeles Sunday and are seven-point favorites to make up the half-game deficit. Baltimore is winner of today's Packers-49ers showdown.

Philadelphia Eagles (9-1), are already assured of the eastern crown.

The Eagles are two-point favorites to defeat Pittsburgh Steelers (4-5-1) at Pittsburgh Sunday.

New York Giants are favored 7 in San Francisco.

In the other games Los Angeles meets Oakland at San Francisco today, Detroit at Chicago are Boston at Dallas, Buffalo at Houston and New York at Oakland.

Booster Club To Meet Monday Night

Booster Club, president Jim "Swiper" Matthews announced last night that an important meeting of all Belleville hockey boosters, both the former senior club and the Juniors has been slated for Monday night.

Monday night's meeting will be held at the Recreation Centre, on Pinnacle Street, beginning at eight o'clock and Matthews has asked that as many persons as possible turn out.

Since senior hockey has folded here and former senior sponsor H. J. McFarland has taken over the Junior Club, the two booster clubs have combined to aid this cause. Monday's meeting will likely finalize the amalgamation of the clubs.

U.S. Leads Italy in Davis Cup Play

PERTH (AP) — Barry Mackay, two games away from defeat, pulled big game for Australia today to defeat Italy's Nicola Pietrangeli in their carry-over match and give the United States a 2-0 lead in the interzone Davis Cup tennis finals. The scores were 8-6, 3-6, 6-10, 8-6, 13-11.

Down two sets to one with the fourth set tied at 5-6 when their match was called because of darkness Friday, Mackay lost his service at the start of the day's play and then rallied to square the match.

The big American put on a dazzling exhibition, wrapping up the set in seven minutes. It was only two points in winning the last two games as he broke the Italian's service at Week 8 and 13th game.

The U.S. went one up Friday when Earl Buchholz defeated Orlando Sirola in four sets in the opening match.

The length of today's match forced postponement of the doubles until Sunday.

World Welter Fight

Blues Defeat Redmen 7-4

MONTREAL (CP) — The University of Toronto Varsity Blues defeated McGill Redmen 7-4 Friday night in an intercollegiate hockey game marred by a high-sticking, fist-swinging brawl late in the third period.

The Blues took over sole possession of third place in the standings with the win.

The fight broke out about the 15-minute mark of the third period. The two teams drew five players majors and minors and called a total of \11 penalties, seven against Varsity.

Bert Kennedy and Don Pierson scored two goals apiece for the Blues. Other scorers were Gene Sherepacha, Murchie and Ev Rush.

McGill scorers were Jim O'Kelly, Phil Peters, Bruce Hutchinson and Colin Moseley.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Boom Boom Geoffrion twice ducked behind Toronto goalkeeper Johnny Bower to fish the puck out of the nets the other night at Maple Leaf Gardens. Old-timer fans crowd probably leaned back and indulged in nostalgic memories.

They remembered dashing and gallant Howie Morenz, two-time undisputed National Hockey League fans with his reckless speed and determination; Aurel Joliat, his crafty colorful and brilliant players. Skated with Morenz.

Boom Boom Geoffrion held special significance for the Montreal Canadiens' backer - haired right-winger. His first goal of the night tied the 270 scored by Morenz and Joliat in their memorable careers with Canadiens in the 1930s and 1990s and his second broke their mark.

Probably more important to Boom Boom than that he now would be the No. 1 hockey player in his set-up. He is married to Marlene, daughter of Howie Morenz, who died March 8, 1937, while confined to hospital with a broken leg.

HOWIE WAS GREATEST

"Now, father's behind me," Geoffrion told reporters in the dressing room after Canadiens had whipped the Leafs 6-2.

But the 29-year-old Geoffrion knew a long way to go to reach the fame attained by his late father-in-law.

The name of Howie Morenz is known in homes across Canada although few present-day fans saw him in action. Thirteen years after his death—in 1950—the coffiry's sports editors and sportscasters named him the greatest hockey player of the half century in a poll conducted by The Canadian Press.

Morenz, born in Mitchell, Ont., signed his first pro contract for $1,000 with Canadiens in the 1923-24 season, and almost immediately became a million-dollar box-office attraction. This polished centre became known as the Babe Ruth of Hockey and at various times war-tabbed as the top - calibre teams from South America, England and Europe.

He was the biggest crowd-pleaser in his 14-year big-league career and today is still the more notable when it is considered that the schedules he played called for about half of the present - day 70-game schedule. In fact, the Hart Trophy as the most valuable player to his team in 1928, 1932 and 1933 and in 1931 and 1932 was named to the league's all-star team.

He ended with a 467 point-total in 550 goals and 197 assists.

The five-foot-six-inch Joliat patrolled left wing for Canadiens from 1926 to 1934 and finished with 270 goals and 190 assists for a 460 total. He was another members of the Hockey Hall of Fame shortly after it was set up in 1943.

So, Boom Boom shouldn't figure he's the No. 1 hockey man in his house because his wife can produce wealth lore of ammunition in support of her father.

She can point out, among other things, that it has taken him 10½ seasons with Canadiens—and all in 70-game schedules—to match her dad's scoring output.

GOALEY AHEAD

MIAMI (AP)—Bob Goalby shot his second consecutive four-under-par 67 over the Normandy golf course Friday for a 134 total and a one-stroke lead in the $20,000 Miami Open tournament.

The Crystal River, Fla., pro carded Ebsley Open honors at Fleetwood, Pa. and Wes Ellis Jr. of West Caldwell, N.J., at the halfway mark.

Williams Jr. at 4-6 to add to a first-round 69 and Ellis had rounds of 68 and 67.

Ted Kroll of Fort Lauderdale shot a second 68 Friday to be alone at 136. Jim Turness of Rye, N.Y., Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill., and Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., were deadlocked at 137.

Senior Hockey

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Veteran Joe Zorica scored a hat-trick Friday night to help Windsor Bulldogs defeat Galt Terriers 6-4 and retain a three-point margin at the top of the Ontario Hockey Association's senior series.

Stratford Indians moved into second place by a 4-3 win over the Woodstock Athletics.

Windsor has 22 points in the six-team circuit, while Stratford follows with 19, Woodstock holds third place with 17, Galt remains in the cellar with six points.

At Galt, Zorica was aided by Bob Brown who scored twice and Joe Klukay, who added a single. Galt's scoring came on singles by Lloyd Mercer, George Zuk, Darryl Sly and Bobby Mader.

SCORERS TWELVE GOALS

The third frame saw most of the action, as Windsor scored three goals and Galt two. Galt goalie John Reinhart was pulled with one minute and 43 seconds remaining, but the Terriers failed to score.

At Woodstock, Stratford Indians scored three unanswered goals in the third period to overcome a 3-1 deficit and defeat the senior series.

Carl Hatt scored two goals in the third period to give the A's 3-0 lead and Red Novak made it 3-0 at 6:15 of the second session.

Stratford's four - goal rally began in the second period when former junior B star Dusty Delaney scored. He repeated the feat early in the third frame.

Jack McIlwain tied it up at 4:55 of the third period, and the winner was added by Billy Rikely at 12:47.

Woodstock plays at Strathroy tonight, while Stratford visits Windsor on Sunday.

In the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior series last night Rouyn - Noranda Alcosticks defeated Kapuskasing Gik's 10-3.

Paret Meets Thompson

NEW YORK (AP) — Benny (Kid) Paret, a hustling, energetic little Cuban, defends his first defence of his world welterweight boxing title tonight in a 15-rounder at Madison Square Garden with Argentina's Federico Thompson.

A crowd of about 7,000 is expected for the televised bout.

Paret, 23, and Thompson, 33, met once before, on March 25, in Thompson's home city of Buenos Aires.

"This time I have been here three months and it will be different," Thompson said Friday.

"I feel strong and since my friends were removed," an interpreter said for Paret, who speaks only Spanish and understands little English, "I was stronger than Thompson at the end of our other fight and I am confident I can win."

The five - foot-seven champion has fought only two since winning the crown from Don Jordan in Las Vegas May 29 on a 15 round decision. He knocked out Sugar Hart in six rounds in July and lost a non-title 10-rounder on points to Denny Moyer Aug. 17 in Portland. Moyer was recrowned by his threat trouble.

Paret's record is 34-3 with only nine knockouts. He has never been stopped.

Grid Brass To Discuss Interlock

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian football's first interlocking schedule will be discussed Dec. 11 and 12 when general managers of nine professional clubs meet here, it was announced Friday.

Available dates will be the deciding factor in determining whether or not the Eastern Big Four league's regular schedule will be increased to 16 from 14 games.

Toronto Argonaut managing director Lew Hayman said Friday it is impossible for the Argos to play a home game between Aug. 18 and Labor Day because of the Canadian National Exhibition, unless the team plays on Sunday. Hayman said he doesn't want a Sunday game at that time because many fans are at summer cottages.

Another problem, said Hayman, "is that we have to decide which Eastern teams are playing in the West three times, and which are playing at home three times. Everybody wants Winnipeg and Edmonton to come east."

However, Hayman added, "there is no problem which can't be overcome before the start of next season."

Hamilton Tiger - Cats have not yet decided whether to take advantage of the new Sunday sports law, approved by civic voters in Wednesday's elections. The club's decision is expected to be known before the East-West managers' meeting.

Reds Routed By Barons 7-2

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland Barons scored four goals in the third period—three of them within 36 seconds—and went on to rout Providence Reds 7-2 in an American Hockey League game Friday night.

It was the highest score of the season for the Barons, who are driving to overtake league-leading Springfield. Providence is the last place.

Ed Giacomin, young rookie goalie for the Reds, had a rough night. He was pulled on make 38 saves, Cleveland goalie Gil Mayer made 21 stops.

Giacomin also drew a penalty after being involved in a brief free-for-all in the last period. The youthful goalie had rushed from the net to go after Cleveland's John Ferguson. Giacomin got a bloody nose in the mixup, but after a short delay he went back to his net.

Seven Barons got into the scoring act. The tallies went to Ed Mazur, Moe Mantha, Bill Dineen, Ron Attwell, Bill Sutherland, Ed Mikol and Ron Larkin. Ray Ross and Pete Ranieri were the goal-getters for providence.

Have you ever counted the number of small tubes in your television set? There are usually about 20 but there would be many more if it weren't for the never-ending work of engineers. Through their efforts some tubes have been designed to do the work of two or three, which means that more efficiency can be built into TV sets without increasing the number of tubes.

Needless to say, multi-purpose tubes add further to the complicated nature of television sets and service technicians require long training and experience to diagnose and repair troubles. Star of 'Sunset Strip' Doing Prize Role in Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Brett Maverick walked off the Warner range. So did Cheyenne, Kookie and others from time to time. But Stuart Bailey always stuck to his office at 77 Sunset Strip. This may be a lesson to how to deal with feudalistic studios.

Bailey, known off the TV tube as Efrem Zimbalist Jr., now is doing a prize role in a bigtime movie, By Love Possessed, while his fellow stars still are fighting it out in the courts or in their series.

How did Zimbalist get out of the "prison?"

"Simple," he replied. "I simply gave the studio four years of my life."

During that time, he worked almost continuously and uncomplainingly in the Friday night whodunit. "I didn't see any good in complaining," he reasoned. "Besides, I like Jack Warner."

Zimbalist admitted there were times when he might have got restless. While he was grinding out the TV hours, other studios sought his services in feature films.

"But what did I miss?" he asked. "I missed Butterfield 8, but I'm not sure that would have done me good. Portrait in Black didn't turn out too well. It was the same with most of the other pictures I could have done."

He is obviously pleased with By Love Possessed, as well he should be. The James Gould Cozzens novel has been expensively cast with Zimbalist as the small-town lawyer and co-stars Lana Turner, Jason Robards Jr., George Hamilton, Susan Kohner, Barbara Bel Geddes Thomas Mitchell.

And what happens after Zimbalit finishes the film?

"I go right back to 77 Sunset Strip," he replied. "I don't mind. The show has been good for me."

Astrological Forecast

Sunday, December 11
By CAREOLL RICHTER

General Tendencies: The day-time is all right for thinking out how you can reduce your overhill aims and ambitions to a workable success and for serving and doing for others, for by living your life as a pattern for them to follow that they will want to emulate you example. Then tonight is fine for amusements, recreation, pleasures and romance.

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Lend day Lmc hours doing nice things for loved ones so that you, too, can be helped. Evening is then ideal for going out socially with partners and having a very good time, while discussing important affairs. Be gay.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Be affectionate with those you love this morning, convincing them of your devotion. Later, take the health and beauty treatments you need. P.M. shods should be put in good order and plans made for the week ahead. Be practical.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—This holiday is best spent striving for greater harmony with closest kin and planning how to increase present abundance. Evening is fine for going out socially, having a good time and becoming more popular. Be gay, cheerful.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — now you have the opportunity to confer with a most wise advisor who will help you to solve any problems you may have. Go out tonight with good friends for quiet discussions and for a charming evening of entertainment.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21)—Revert to the fine standards under which you were reared today. Be practical. Be gay. Get together with family or good friends to discuss any joint ventures you may have or want to embark upon. Co-operate and they will prove successful.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) — Here is one Sunday when you can follow your own inclination almost exclusively. See that they are not the selfish plane. P.M. put wheels in motion by contacting the right people socially. Be diplomatic, charming.

Libra, (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23)—Spend some time in A.M. considering ways whereby you upon how to increase your present income and how to be happier person, too. Attend services and get the right answers. P.M. play. Have fun.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 11)—Be sure you contact as many friends as you possibly can and correlate your affairs or joint ventures. P.M. fine for reaching a better understanding with those vital to your personal life, in particular.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)— Think out better ways of operating in the future with those in the business world or in civic life. Resolve to live the Golden Rule. P.M. go out and be with good company for a happy and fun-loving time. Be gay.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) By going to the church of your choice or in which you were reared, you will be wonderfully inspired how to progress later in the future. Think. Tonight is ideal for enjoying the company of kindred people. Converse charmingly.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) —Deep reflection will reveal new ideas and talents that can be most profitable in the future. P.M. get out of that dull doldrums existence and seek the company of interesting and well-informed persons. Grow.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) —Day hours are fine for ironing out any differences socially with associates or others vital to your well-being. Tonight early is best spent getting your coming days scheduled intelligently and in a most practical fashion.

If your child is born today . . . he, or she, will be one of those youngsters who will learn things more or less the hard way and without assistance from others. However, the results will be fine, since there is persistence and thoroughness in the nature as well as the ability to whittle projects down to a practical size. The adult life will then become very successful and your progeny will work best with good associates. Give every encouragement, the best education possible.

APPEAL FOR UNITY

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An appeal to Protestant and Orthodox churches in the United States to break through the walls of denominationalism was issued Thursday by the National Council of Churches. They were urged to labor for "full unity, visible and invisible, of the people of God."

GOING INTO THE COIN-OPERATED LAUNDRY STORE BUSINESS?

You're Wise — But Be Sure of the Distributor's Complete Program and Service!

ASK THESE QUESTIONS:

Does the distributor have balanced laundry equipment of one line selling you matched, marketable, pre-equipment? Does he let you venitory spare parts? Can he plan your store layout? Is he experienced?
What has been the success of his other stores? Does he provide you with store opening assistance, timing promotion materials, and advertising?

ALD is the national organization that has supplied the largest and over 10,000 Licensed Westinghouse
Commercial Laundromats in the United States and Canada. We owe it to yourself to compare our complete program — a product of Westinghouse commercial Laundromat,

TRAINING SCHOOL

provinces want a 50-per-cent increase in qualified.

Mr. Sattr said the new federal plan is based on estimates by the provinces of the number they will need during the next seven years for their share of the additional training.

Requirements up to March,
1967, by provinces were: Newfoundland
$4,000,000; Prince Edward Island $200,000; Nova Scotia
$4,500,000; New Brunswick
$3,000,000; Quebec $3,000,000;
Ontario $13,000,000 Manitoba $6,
000,000; Saskatchewan $3,000,000;
Alberta $15,000,000; and British Columbia $7,000,000.

Mr. Pickeregill said the bill is a step in the right direction but is long way from providing real edial action right now for unemployment.
How could the unemployed afford to go to school anyway? He asked.

Murdo Martin (CCF — Timmins) said the bill appears to be based on need but on the ability of the provinces to pay.
It would be of most help to those who needed help the least.

Mr. Starr said in a reply that the legislation will apply only to publicly - owned and publicly-operated training schools.

Astrological Forecast

BY CARROLL RIGHTER
Monday, December 12

General Tendencies: This is a day when until midafternoon you have every chance to find out exactly where you do stand with all others and when you can certainly make a point to handle whatever requires most touch, fine finish and a truly cooperative attitude. Then through twilight your judgment is yours,
so do nothing of importance.
Get surroundings in better condition.

Aries (March 21 to April 19)
Important you know what your true position is with associates until early afternoon and that you handle properly anything that is concerned with art. P.M.
keep any promises scrupulously
so that you will be somewhat difficult to do so.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)
— Until early afternoon you must get surroundings in better order, as well as clothing repaired or new ones bought where needed, etc. After that, steer clear of overly-charming or dynamic individual who could mean trouble for you.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)
Morning and early afternoon will afford several hours of real happiness, but be sure you are thoroughly in tune and in the height of fashion. Take care after that you are not extravagant and that you do not tire out.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) A.M. should be spent getting everything concerning your health and diet in fine condition. Later, steer clear of altercations with lesser relatives who are apt to be jealous and irritable. Carry through with important work.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) —
Morning and early afternoon
are fine for shopping, visiting, making sales, etc. Plan meetings and put ideas across.
Throughout the day and evening be most kind and polite to everyone and to be careful courtesy on the road, too.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)—
If you pay particular attention to what financiers have to suggest you will find it helpful and insight as to a better method to operate in the future. In PM you should be at your best hobbies are concerned. Improve health, too.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) —
Morning is ideal for getting a head as you, personally, prefer, but in that you have a will. You don't gamble on anything concerning home or family, or you get into trouble.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)—
Be certain you look into whatever is puzzling or does not seem right to you at this time.
Be sure that it is important that you rid yourself of that feeling that you have a secret helpful to others. Grow.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec.
21) — Early booking of your avenues of expression today, you will be able to achieve greater things, as you desire. Be careful tonight to avoid gossipy individuals or those who say that will tire and disturb you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)
You are able now to work at career affairs with real pleasure and efficiency as well as to take care of public affairs most wisely.
Try to create a restful evening, however that you do not act unwisely and ruin what you have built.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)
Many associations and long existing personalities come within in your orbit as this week begins and it is for you to take opportunity for advancement.
Study over information you can. P.M.; stay at home — be wary with strangers.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)
Drop concentration upon what is most difficult to you will find out the hidden truth and desires and just how to attain them.
Take care in P.M. that you do not get emotionally involved.
Jealous and get into trouble. Be calm.

If your child is born today,
he will be the type of youngster who can literally be a pleasure around his or her little finger. So, it is early necessary that you early teach him self-discipline and how unwise it is to ever give ouing best be sure to get a good education. Whatever deals he exhibits talent with precision, the arts, the public is fine as a profession.

playing wood slashers as independent contractors instead of employees so Hydro could escape the laws protecting employees under the Labor Relations Act.

Mr. Arrowsmith said the men preferred working as independent contractors and have a "very satisfactory" relationship with Hydro contracts. He said he would answer the charges when he is asked later.

Ross Wicher (L—Bruce) criticized Hydro's annual report which said "the commissioners are the final authority in establishing wage rates."

He said Hydro should feel more responsibility to the legislature, which represents the taxpayers of Ontario. The government guarantees the huge borrowings Hydro requires for its large expansion program.

"It's high time the legislature showed its nose into the business of Hydro . . . I believe there are many people in this house who agree with me," he said.

Peter Manley (L — Skormont) asked if Hydro would guarantee a fair and equitable price to farmers who will have their homes and property expropriated for a power development project.

In the case of resettlement of homes, he urged Hydro to see that speculators did not get control of the land so they could charge high prices.

John Chaplin (L — Fort William) asked that Hydro build power lines into remote Northern Ontario settlements even though

Mr. TWEEDY

"No kidding pal, if you're ever out here and your speaker goes bad, feel free to join us, will you?"

it might not be an economical proposition.

Mr. Macaulay said he would answer all the questions at the earliest possible time.

Can't Understand Canada's Reluctance to Join U.S. In Stamping Out Communism

By HAROLD MORESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — Some U.S. authorities seem to be puzzled and disappointed by what one official describes as a reluctance by Canada to join with the United States in fighting the growth of communism in Cuba.

This official, who asked that his name not be disclosed, is one of those conversing the embargo the U.S. placed on exports to Cuba six weeks ago. He said reports he received indicate the ban is becoming effective and that Cuban economic life is beginning to suffer from a lack of key American supplies.

The Canadian government has adopted a policy of maintaining normal trade relations with Cuba.

The American official said that what Canada does is her own business but he added his personal view that Canada seems to be more interested "in making a few bucks" than in thwarting the Reds in the Caribbean.

Aim of the American embargo, applicable on all goods except food and medical supplies, is to put the squeeze on the Castro regime by disrupting the Cuban economy in the hope it will create dissatisfaction among the Cuban people.

BREAKDOWNS DUE

"We have one report," said one official, "that more than 100 Cuban buses are laid up because of lack of American replacement parts. Some Cuban refineries are using makeshift wooden parts which will soon break down.

"It is true that Russia is sending shipments of goods into Cuba but these are only arms and ammunition. The oil Russia is sending is badly corrosive. It is all right for automobiles but not good for boiler plates. Russia also ships tractors and tinplate but Cubans are finding the tinplate almost unusable."

The commercial intelligence reports this official receives indicate Cuban inventories of many industrial goods and raw materials are beginning to run down. The American view is that the impact will be felt with the beginning of the sugar grinding season which opens in January and continues about six months.

"Industry then goes into high gear and breakdown in machinery would cause extensive economic damage," the official maintained. His view is that Cuban labor discontent would increase as plants shut down because of lack of equipment.

The U.S. attempts to police its embargo by specifying in sales invoices that foreign buyers of U.S. - manufactured goods must make sure the goods don't end up in Cuba. The official said Canada is co-operating in maintaining this vigilance.

However, the American embargo does not extend to subsidiaries of American firms in Canada or other countries.

U.S. subsidiaries operating in Canada may ship to Cuba without fear of their parent companies being punished at home. In some cases, subsidiaries in Canada produce the same goods as those in the U.S. However, in many cases, key components parts that go into the finished machine or product are produced only in the U.S.

Interviews with American officials seem to indicate an element of self-pity on the part of Americans because of the U.S. stands almost alone in its embargo against Cuba.

One official observed that while the U.S. has banned its own freighters from hauling goods to Cuba, ships of Western allies are seen in Havana harbor, making money out of the Cuban-American dispute.

Your Car

Worn Joints, Bent Shaft Cause Shimmy

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Of the many things which can cause rough riding and various degrees of vibration, wheels and tires are most often responsible. They may be out of balance, air pressure might be too high, tires may be non-concentric or of different types, wheel bearing could be worn or improperly adjusted, or perhaps alignment is badly off.

Sometimes, excessive shaking is due to a maladjusted steering gear axle troubles are also suspect.

What appears to be a case of shudders due to some wheel or brake condition is sometimes traced to the drive line area, for example, excessive vibration due to worn universal joints, or perhaps a bent propeller shaft.

In any event, pinpointing such troubles can be quite difficult and certainly demands a diligent search.

From S. L.: "The electric windshield washers on my car squirt erratically. The nozzles are not bent or clogged and the motor seems to run evenly."

(A) The hose may be kinked or clogged — or pump operation faulty.

From W. R.: "When I switched my car's automatic shift into gear, there is a definite wait or hesitation before the transmission engages. Is this serious?"

(A) Low transmission fluid could be the trouble. Otherwise, a loose or defective transmission band is probably the cause.

G. L. asks: "My car engine misses whenever I speed up or accelerate, but it does not miss at all when the engine is idling. Could this be due to spark plugs? I haven't had mine checked for six moths now."

(A) This condition usually is caused by fouled, wet or improperly gapped plugs.

R. M. writes: "When gas isn't feeding into the engine fast enough, does this mean the fuel pump pressure is too weak?"

(A) A weak fuel pump is only one possibility. Dirt in the tank, line, filter or carburetor is not an uncommon cause. A plugged, leaking or kinked fuel line could be at fault, too.

MADOC

C of C Holds Santa Claus Parade

MADOC — Ideal weather on Saturday afternoon brought a good crowd of children and their parents, from the surrounding district, to Madoc village, for the annual Santa Claus parade, sponsored by the Madoc Chamber of Commerce.

The parade was formed at Pigden's garage on Russel Street and marched through the main thoroughfare with the Madoc High School Band, the Hastings and District Edward Regiment Band and Madoc Municipal Band in attendance.

Some of the chief attractions being the majorettes from Belleville, the high school cadets, Cubs, cheer leaders and Scotts, as well as many floats by the Madoc business men. Santa Claus brought up the final float in the parade.

Following the parade, treats of candy were handed out to about 1200 children and a show was held in the auditorium of Madoc high school.

In the morning Madoc pupils were in attendance and after the parade, the children of the surrounding community were entertained at the show.

gear to guard against such trans-shipments.

Cuba particularly needs spare parts for trucks, ski mobiles and mills.

The U.S. commerce department claims Cuba is broke and that Canadian exports to Cuba would have to be financed by Canadians or through imports from Cuba.

One point U.S. government quarters emphasize, however, is that Washington is aware of Canada's sovereignty. In their comments on the Cuban-Canadian trade talks, all U.S. spokesmen were careful to say that Canada's decisions are her own.

The U.S. state department wouldn't comment officially. However, American diplomats were reported to be mystified by what they described as the lack of Canadian sympathy with U.S. policy.

A U.S. commerce department official said the U.S. business community is watching Canadian activities. Some U.S. industries might be less willing to do business in Canada if Canada encouraged Castro's regime, the official said.

Executive Denies Company Had Any Influence on How Mags Displayed by Dealers

By KENNEDY WELLS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—An executive of the largest magazine distribution company in the Montreal area firmly denied Thursday that his company had any influence on how magazines were displayed by dealers or that it forced any dealers to take some publications as "package deals."

Gerard Benjamin, secretary of Benjamin News Company, came under heavy cross-examination from Gratian O'Leary, chairman of the royal commission on publications, when he submitted a brief to the commission.

"It is true you exert some influence," let us say, on a news vendor on how he displays magazines," Mr. O'Leary asked.

"We do not exert influence, we simply list," Mr. Benjamin said. He said the company felt it was best in its own interest, and that of the vendor, to display the best selling magazines prominently.

Who (the vendor) at liberty to cancel any magazine he doesn't want" he said.

ASKS IF PACKAGE DEAL

"Then did Mr. O'Leary ask if there was such a thing as a "package deal," which forced a vendor to take certain magazines he did not want in order to get other publications he did want.

"There is no such thing," Mr. Benjamin said.

But, Mr. O'Leary said, "package deals" had been described by vendors as "sworn testimony" in Ottawa.

He said later he referred to a case some years ago in Ottawa concerning salacious literature during which it was identified they were forced to take some books on pain of not getting others.

"It is not done here," Mr. Benjamin said. "And I doubt very much if it is done, anywhere."

ASKS RE CONTRACT

Mr. O'Leary then asked if the Benjamin Company's contract with the Curtis Distributing Company in the U.S. included provisions on how magazines were to be displayed.

This was in obvious reference to a brief submitted to the commission in Ottawa by Arnold Eisenbrough, editor of Saturday Night, who said the Curtis Company and select magazines "control the newsstands by dictating to Canadian wholesalers the position of publications on dealers' racks . . ."

Under persistent cross-examination, Mr. Benjamin reiterated he had no such agreement with the Curtis Company.

In a brief packed with statistics, Mr. Benjamin said Canadian consumer magazines had greatly strengthened their position since the end of the war despite American competition and the opposents in the fight for the advertising dollar included Canadian newspapers and other "communications media" as well as American magazines.

CITES EUROPEAN EXAMPLE

He said Austria, Belgium and Switzerland, like Canada, were small countries adjacent to larger countries with the same language but they had never put restrictions on foreign magazines and indeed their own publications had large circulations in the bigger nations nextdoor.

Earlier in the day Mr. O'Leary assured a witness that though commission members "are pro-Canadian, we are not anti-American."

"Whatever we recommend, we will not recommend because we dislike Americans," he told Montreal writer Mrs. Phyllis Lee Peterson.

In her submission Mrs. Peterson said she felt many of the briefs presented to the commission contained loose and general statements of anti-Americanism.

Mrs. Peterson said in her brief that American magazines and American editors were much more receptive to Canadian fiction than were Canadian publications.

A Canadian writer could not exist without the American market she said.

Serving Ontario's Children

Childhood and Happiness belong Together

A child's happiness is determined primarily by the love and affection of his father and mother. There are several thousand children in Ontario who have been deprived of this natural and necessary human relationship. For the most part they are children whose parents have neglected them because they have been unable or unwilling to assume their duties as parents.

These children depend on Children's Aid Societies for help and guidance. Under Ontario's Child Welfare Actsthe 55 Children's Aid Societies in the Province are vested with responsibility for children whose parents fail to meet their obligations. This operation cost $13 million last year.

Skilled workers provide services to strengthen family life and to help some hard-pressed parents cope with their problems. Their goal is to give these children a fresh start within their own homes. Where this is not possible other plans are developed in the best interests of the children—plans which may lead, ultimately, to placing them in permanent adoption homes.

You are reminded to consult the advertisements which appear from time to time in the classified section of this newspaper, describing specific children available for adoption.

French Troops Battle Moslems For Second Day

De Gaulle Cuts Short 6-Day Tour of Algeria

ALGIERS (AP)—French troops and Moslems battled late the second day today in Algiers and the casualty toll rose to 79 dead and hundreds wounded. Eight Moslems were killed this morning.

The Algeria radio carried an urgent appeal for all medical students in the embattled city to report to hospitals to care for the flood of wounded.

Fighting started again this morning when some 2,500 Moslems charged into the streets of Mairon Carre, a suburb on the edges of the city. Some of the armed Moslems in the crowd fired on a barrier of troops barring their way and the troops returned the fire, killing four Moslems.

Meanwhile, it was learned President de Gaulle has decided to cut short his six-day tour in the wake of the bloody rioting.

The French president will end his handshaking search for support of his self-determination policy for Algeria on Tuesday, a day earlier than planned, and will return to Paris.

No official reason was given but the spokesman Sunday in Algiers and Oran bordering on open insurrection may have led to his decision to get back to the seat of government.

An official spokesman had said on Sunday that the 70-year-old chief of state would alter his planned itinerary only if bad weather developed.

De Gaulle may have decided that dealing with the danger of further revolt and fighting between Europeans and Moslems in Algeria required first-hand attention in the capital.

It is also possible he has been persuaded that his continued presence in Algeria might lead itself to even greater disorder.

TRIP RESENTED

Resentment against his trip to gain popularity for his program of home-rule for Algeria provoked right-wing Europeans to riot in Algiers and Oran. The Moslem masses broke their silence to join the fighting.

Restless crowds of Europeans and Moslems began massing

Dynamite Blast Damages Atlanta Negro School

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Reflowed today by a dynamic gross and segregationists were followed today by a dynamic blast that damaged a Negro school.

Dynamite placed on a walk leading to the school auditorium dug a crater six to eight feet across. Police said six or seven sticks of dynamite, apparently thrown from an automobile about 2:30 a.m., caused $5,000 damage to the school auditorium and three or four classrooms.

Windows were shattered in the school and in nearby homes in the predominately Negro neighborhood.

There were no reports of injuries.

Negroes recently stepped up a drive to desegregate eating establishments in Atlanta.

Sands of Negroes staged a mass march on the business section early Sunday following two community prayer meetings. A Negro leader said the aim was to bolster morale in the drive to integrate lunch counters.

36 Persons Killed In Two Crashes In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Thirty-six persons were killed in two plane crashes in Argentina Sunday.

An Argentine air ministry liner with 33 persons exploded and crashed about 80 miles north of Buenos Aires on a flight from Lima, Peru, still aboard were killed. Cause of the crash was undetermined.

Near Concordia, three Americans and an Argentine died when their chartered plane crashed in stormy weather.

The Americans were flying to Asuncion, Paraguay, where they lived.

Four Children Burned to Death On Reserves

MERRITT, B.C. (CP)—Pleas for help has gone out for an Indian family which lost four children in a fire Friday night at the Quilchena Indian reserve, 30 miles north of this Cariboo cattle town.

Roman Catholic, United, Anglican and Pentecostal churches are trying to help the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Tomme, with a car filled with Christmas presents, returned to a blazing home Friday night in which their four small children perished despite rescue efforts by a 70-year-old grandfather, who suffered severe face burns.

The victims were Randy Tomme, 5, Cleo, 4, Janice, 3, Alice 2. A four-month-old child, Nola, 14 is in fair condition in hospital.

FIRE BELOW!! — Smoke rolls out of the basement of the City Hall in this picture of Market Street, on the south side of the City Hall. NEW PARTY NEEDS START FIELDING CANDIDATES -- CCF

CCF Leader Claims Election in Spring

CALGARY (CP) — With the founding convention of the New Party still seven months away, delegates made clear at a weekend seminar here just what kind of performance they want from their left-wing political movement.

Discussion among 85 farmers, CCF leaders and trade unionists was the order at the second of two conferences aimed at airing views on the New Party's policy and structure.

The first seminar was held in Montreal last weekend. Both were sponsored by the national committee for the New Party under the chairmanship of Saskatchewan Premier Woodrow Lloyd.

Key Knowles, executive vice-president of the Canadian Labor Congress.

SETS OUT CONCLUSIONS

The Calgary seminar concluded that:

1. Large corporations, by way of "special privilege," are dictating terms to Canada's "old line" parties — the Progressive Conservatives and Liberals.

2. More capital should be accumulated and spent by Canadians.

The New Party must represent not only CCF and labor groups, but farmers, small businessmen and professional people.

4. Wealth must be redistributed among all levels of Canadian society.

Mrs. Knowles said the lives of Canadians are not being democratically determined but are controlled and dominated by "powerful corporations" by their "economic and financial imbalances."

She challenged what he called the "deadly, damnable profit motive" that, through advertising and stewardship, "decides what things for us."

Mayor's Office on First Floor Of City Hall Damaged by Fire

Fire broke out behind the furnace in the basement of city hall and sent employees scrambling for safety and brought out every available piece of fire fighting equipment in the city and two trucks from Trenton.

No injuries were reported.

City Manager J. R. Reynolds, whose office is on the second floor, turned in the alarm at 11:47 a.m. when Walter Administrative Assistant George Whitmee told him he smelled smoke. Other city hall employees said the floor was warm 10 minutes before the alarm was sounded.

It was the third time in 10 or 12 years that city hall had caught fire. The first time was when pigeons carried lighted cigaret butts into the attic and the second time was late at night when two airmen, on their way out from a movie, spotted dence smoke volueming up the front stairway But on all occasions, firemen arrived before the fire could make much headway.

Today's fire started in the basement behind the city hall furnace. Flames chewed into floor joists and beams in the basement under the mayor's office and first floor offices and smoke quickly filled the 100-year-old building. City hall staff hurriedly left the building carrying vital papers and office equipment. But the outbreak was confined to the southwest corner of the building where the floor of the mayor's office was severely damaged and many windows were broken.

City police cordoned off Front St. and re-routed traffic east on Bridge St. McAnnany and Market streets, were also blocked to traffic as fire trucks needed the room to maneuver and lay hose lines.

The sidewalk in front of city hall quickly became ice covered from water which leaked from the hose and ran out of the mayor's office. An unused door on the west side of the building, leading into the mayor's office, was smashed open by fire axes to assist firemen's efforts to get inside and curb the spread of the flame.

At noon, efforts were being made to open the huge vault in the city hall and rescue its contents.

Dense, choking smoke filled the men's public lavatory on the south side of the building.

Herter Fails to Get Crawford To Assist Squeeze on Cuba

WASHINGTON (CP) — State Secretary Christian Herter has failed to get Canada to co-operate in the U.S. economic squeeze against Cuba but a commercial department spokesman said Sunday attempts to get such co-operation still continue.

"We will keep on working at it," said Bradley Patrick, trade commerce secretary for international affairs, in an interview. He said Herter's failure was disclosed in an exchange of letters with Commerce Minister Frederick Mueller.

Asked whether specific pressures might be brought on the Canadian government or Canadian industry, Fisk emphasized that no such action is contemplated.

"We will respect Canada's sovereignty in every way, but we will keep reminding Canada of our mutual interests in the fight against communism."

The U.S. government has labelled the Fidel Castro regime as pro-communist-controlled and has banned all U.S. exports to Cuba with the exception of food and medicine.

A Cuban delegation now is in Canada trying to get essential replacement parts. And Canadian Trade Minister Gordon Churchill has assured the delegation Canada is eager to boost trade with Cuba.

Laos Right Wing Majority Seeks to Oust Red Regime

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A majority of the Laos parliament Saturday night called for a world pro-Communist government of Quinim Pholsena.

Assembly President Tiao Somasaniwth left Savannakhet, headquarters of the right-wingers, for Luang Prabang to ask King Savang Vatthana to summon a special Assembly session, according to a dispatch from Savannakhet. Right-wing rebel deputies, holding 38 to 38 Assembly seats, stood ready to vote a quick death to the Quinim regime.

Savannakhet Radio earlier claimed the Assembly already had voted to dissolve Quinim's government.

Quinim, minister of information in the old neutralist regime, seized power in Vientiane when government troops fled. He declared defiantly today:

"We will fight to the last bullet if they attack us."

Quinim indicated he would defy the assemblymen and possibly even King Vathama himself if the king comes out against the Vientiane regime.

The Soviet Union rushed arms and supplies by-air to the left-wingers holding the capital.

Ontario and Quebec List 21 Road Deaths

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

As near-zero temperatures gripped the country this weekend, snow-covered roads became deathtraps in Ontario and Quebec.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday showed that 23 of the total of 39 deaths were caused in motor accidents.

While Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia were free from highway fatalities, Ontario and Quebec's combined death toll was 21.

Newfoundland and Alberta reported one road death each. Four teen-agers died with their teacher near Phillipsburg, Que., Saturday when their station wagon veered across a snow-covered road and hit a tree. Six other persons were severely injured.

Ontario had the highest road toll of 12, including a triple fatality when a Kingston bowling team bus and a car collided near Belleville. Three persons, including two in a wedding party, died near Grand Bend.

Five persons died in fire in British Columbia, and Ontario accounted for a sixth. One person died in a plane crash in Quebec.

The survey does not include deaths in industrial accidents, suicides or natural deaths.

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—President - elect Kennedy today picked Dean Rusk, president of Rockefeller Foundation, to be his secretary of state.

Kennedy also announced at a press conference the appointment of Adlai Stevenson as ambassador to the United Nations.

And he named Representative Chester Bowles, Conn., as under-secretary of state.

Rusk's appointment was announced by the president-elect on the patio of his Atlantic shore home.

Rusk, a Democrat who served as an assistant secretary of state in the Truman administration, was at his side. Stevenson and Bowles were not present.

Kennedy offered the UN ambassadorship to Stevenson, the 1952 and 1956 Democratic presidential nominee, last week. But

Kingston Region Trio Were All Car Occupants

Ten Jr. Hockey Players In Westbound Bus Hurt

Three Kingston district men were instantly killed late Saturday afternoon when their car collided head-on with a loaded bus carrying the Kingston Junior B hockey team. The accident occurred on No.2 highway near Marysville, 12 miles east of Belleville.

Killed in the accident which saw the car ground to debris beneath the heavy bus were Gregory Sands, 28 of Seeley's Bay, owner and driver of the ill-fated car; his father Vernon Sands, 58 of Battersea and Vernon L. Moreland, 34, of Seeley's Bay.

The bus was enroute from Kingston to Whitby where the Kingston hockey team was scheduled to play a game. Ten of the 25 passengers on the bus suffered minor injuries and were released after treatment in hospital.

Provincial police said the accident occurred Shortly before 4 o'clock when the car was forced out to pass a half-ton truck and met the bus head-on.

FRAISE BUS DRIVER

Expert driving on the part of the bus driver Fenwick Freeman, of Kingston, was credited with averting an even more serious tragedy. With the impact the car being carried beneath the bus, the driver held it to the highway for a distance of 40 feet, when it skidded off partially into the ditch.

Had the bus gone into the ditch sooner, police said it would have struck a large tree.

Traffic on the highway was tied up for nearly five hours until a crane arrived from Belleville to lift the bus off the wrecked auto. Two of the bodies were removed from the wreckage at the scene but the third could not be freed until the wreckage had been taken to Belleville and pulled apart.

A high tension line directly over the ditched bus hampered efforts to lift the bus from the wrecked car.

Police said that the three Kingston district men were returning from Belleville, where they had driven earlier in the day to pick up their share of tickets for the Kinsmen Carnival during the burning season

The car had been following the hockey team bus and the Christmas trees when it pulled out to pass and crashed into the oncoming bus.

TELEPHONED FOR HELP

Driver of the half-ton truck Howard Allon of Napanee, said he had not realized there was a car behind him when he started to pass. After the accident he stopped his truck and ran back to the scene, then drove to the nearest telephone to call police.

In the meantime, a passing away highway patrol officers arrived on the scene in their cruiser.

Four of the injured hockey players were taken to Kingston General Hospital by Bush's Ambulance. The remainder of the team was picked up by a second bus from Kingston and brought to Belleville where they also received a check-up before proceeding to Kingston.

Police said the tree-laden truck was properly loaded.

Coroner Dr. John Stock attended at the scene. Post mortems are being conducted on the bodies of the three men.

Kenneth Linesman, coach of the Kingston hockey team who suffered a chipped knee, said that his players suffered only minor injuries and is shaking up, noting that most would be in fairly good shape for Monday night's game against Cobourg.

The injured were Bob Howland, cut lip; Peter Warmington, four broken ribs; Dennis O'Donnell, neck injury; Terry McCarthy, shock; Barney Curran, head injury; Bud Aylesworth, bitten tongue; Fenwick Freeman, chest and leg bruises; Fred Harkness, knee injuries; and Brian Cain, cuts.

Five Killed As Car Smashes Into Tree

PHILLIPSBURG, Que. (CP)—Five persons were killed here Saturday when the station wagon they were in went out of control on a snow covered road and smashed into a tree. Killed were a teacher and four teen - aged students.

Six other students were injured, four severely.

All in the station wagon were from St. Jean Baptiste School near this town 50 miles south of Montreal.

The dead were identified as Irene Gonneville, 16; Michel Cote, 15; Yvon Caisse, 13; and Pierre Cyr, 13.

Injured were Paul Cyr, Pierre Perault, Gilles Caron, Serge Aubuchon Real Sicotte and Pierre Dufour. Nadon—End Duchesneau were released from hospital after treatment for minor injuries. The other students were reported in satisfactory condition.

Heavy Snowfall In Maritimes Is Predicted

HALIFAX (CP)—The weather office warned that up to 10 inches of snow and accompanying wind gusts of 65 miles an hour were expected in Nova Scotia today.

Between three and six inches of snow with gusts to 50 miles an hour were predicted for Prince Edward Island and southern New Brunswick. Gale warnings were in effect for most marine areas.

HYDRO POLES TAKING BEATING FROM MOTOR CARS

City hydro poles are taking a beating by out-of-control autos. Over the weekend a hydro pole on South Foster was broken when a car driven by Merrit Wood, 177 Pine Street, went out of control as it was being driven across the CPR tracks, the excessive vehicle crashing into the nearby pole.

And shortly before midnight Friday a pole on West Bridge Street was broken in two places when struck by a car driven by Clarence McPherson jr., 33-1-3 West Moira Street.

RETARDED ADULTS ENJOY YULE PARTY

On Sunday afternoon the Retarded Adult Group of the Belleville Association for Retarded Children enjoyed a Christmas party at the Belleville School for Retarding Children.

The group of twenty-four participated in games, the Grand Old Duke of York, March, and in carol singing.

Mr. Rene Coulombe showed slides taken at former parties and of the Santa Claus parade. Handicrafts of copper work were displayed.

Gifts were exchanged and refreshments were then served at the table decorated in a Yuletide manner.

Mrs. R. Colombe, chairman of the Retarded Adult Group program is in charge of all parties, held the third Sunday of every month.

RADIO ENGINEERS TOUR ALUMINUM PLANT AT KINGSTON

Last Wednesday evening, the monthly meeting of the Bay of Quinte Section of the Institute of Radio Engineers took the members of a field tour of the Aluminum Company of Canada processing plant at Kingston.

The members and guests were shown the various manufacturing operations required to transform the aluminum ingots to sheet and foil as well as the melting down of aluminum, and the pouring of castings. The meeting was well attended, and was very interesting to those present.

ENTHUSIASTS ENJOY OUTDOOR SKATING

With zero temperatures providing clear sheets of ice on ponds, Belleville and district skating enthusiasts over the weekend were able to enjoy their favorite outdoor skating of the year.

Nearly ponds to the north of the city were well populated Saturday afternoon as the youngsters fry turned out by the hundreds with hockey sticks and other paraphernalia.

CHIMNEY FIRE AT THURLOW SCHOOL

The Belleville Fire Department made a quick trip to the 8th Concession of Thurlow township early this Monday morning when the school in that district was reported on fire. Fortunately it was only a chimney fire and was quickly extinguished by the brigade with little damage.

The excitement was also called to 20 Jones Street where a small shed was on fire but it was extinguished with minor damage.

Young Tweed Couple Looking For Yule Tree Lost for Hours

TWEED (Special) — A Sunday afternoon hunt for a Christmas tree almost had disastrous results for a young Tweed couple, Mr. and Mrs. Ian Merrow, lost in the woods in near zero temperatures for over six hours.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Don Merrow were found by a search party at 9.30 Sunday night huddled around a small fire kindled in an attempt to keep warm.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrow had left their apartment in Mrs. Merrow's parents at mid-afternoon on Sunday before going on what they expected would be a brief drive in the country in search of a Yule tree.

When they had not returned at dark the alarm was raised and a search party organized.

The search party, headed by Tweed Police Chief Walter Higgins, members of the Madoc district detachment of the O.P.P., Whitfield of the Department of Lands and Forests, Tweed police and others, found the Merrow car parked along a lonely country road many miles east of Stoco. But they were unable to determine which way of the road the couple had gone into the bush.

Armed with flashlights and stopping frequently to call, the search party penetrated into the bush and just before 10 o'clock received an answering call from the missing couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrow said they had wandered a considerable distance into the swamp before they realized they were completely lost.

Rather than attempt to find their way out in the dark they decided to stay put, lighting the fire to keep warm.

Record Crowd Greets Santa In Splendid Tweed Parade

TWEED — A record crowd greeted Santa on Christmas Day afternoon for his annual visit to Tweed. The jolly old fellow arrived at the railway station from the east at 1.40 p.m., by motor vehicle and was given a real warm reception by the hundreds that were at the station to greet him. Members of the Chamber of Commerce and retail merchants of Tweed were also on hand when he arrived to lead the parade formed up and headed by two riders on horseback and Tweed High School marching band and float, crossed over to Victoria Street and then back to Bridge Street through the main business section, then turned and came back to the Arena, which used car lot where 1,400 bags of candies and fruit were given to the children. The streets were crowded with people from area as far as sixty miles away.

Rev. K. F. Blashford.

Bearers were G. Wade, D. Hall, A. Backus and D. Thompson.

Interment was in St. George's Cemetery.

Mr. Hand was born in Sheffield, England and was a retired civil servant. He had been in failing health for the past three months.

He is survived by his widow, the former Ethel Mary Hand, one daughter, Mrs. R. (Doris) McClain of Trenton.

MRS. GERTRUDE ELIZABETH TUMMON

This was one of the many colorful floats featured ness streets of Trenton and cheered as float after float in the Chamber of Commerce's Santa Claus parade Saturday. Thousands of people lined the downtown busi-

Santa Claus received an enthusiastic welcome when he arrived in Trenton Saturday, just about two weeks before he will come again—this time to leave gifts for the children. Santa was the guest of honor in the Chamber of Commerce's colorful parade through the downtown business section.

Thousands Cheer Santa Who Came to Town Saturday In the "Best Parade Ever"

TRENTON — Thousands of people of all ages lined the route of the Santa Claus Parade from the Community Gardens, along Dundas St., to St. Peter's school here, Saturday morning.

Each of the floats was greeted with "ohs" and "ahs" from the crowd and, of course, as soon as Santa Claus came in sight, cheers and handclaps broke out. Every child was convinced that Santa meant his greeting just for him. Santa must have a good memory if he can remember all the instructions regarding dolls and sleighs shouted at him from the roadside.

The parade started off 30 minutes late because one of the lorries floats got stuck on the town bridge and tied up traffic in all directions. The float finally was freed and word was flashed to the Community Gardens that the way had been cleared.

Douglas Whitley, president of the Chamber of Commerce, directed the parade on a loud-speaker system. Leading off were Trenton's chief of police, F. J. Taylor, and other dignitaries. Miss Della Poste, of Frankford, astride her prancing horse, led the entries.

The parade judges, Fire Chief Gerald Vance of Belleville; Fire Chief Cecil Ellis of Trenton and Group Capt. D. J. Williams, commanding officer of RCAF Station Trenton, were strategically located in a front room of the Gilbert Hotel.

The green monster, entered by Belleville's public works department, was judged the best entry in the parade. Second place went to the realistic chocolate train, entered by the Trenton Lions Club, and third prize went to the Chamber of Commerce float, on which rode the official Snow Queen, Miss Barbara Brownson. Honorable mention went to the Northern Electric rocket float and the Treston Kiwanis Club's "Good Neighbor Lollipop."

Other entries were sponsored by the Rebekah Lodge, the Trenton Sea Cadets, the Victorian Order of Nurses, Bethel Temple, Air Shade Aluminum Co. of Napanee, the Brighton Chamber of Commerce, Branch 110 Trenton Legion, Trenton Public Works employees, Deavitt Furniture, Trenton Memorial Hospital, Happy Harry's Furniture and Appliances.

Majorettes from the Barbara Thrasher Dance Studio and baton twirlers from Colborne, Belleville and Trenton performed in the parade.

Bands from Colborne, RCAF Station Trenton, Cobourg and the Quinte Highland Pipe Band provided marching music.

Santa's helpers gave out candy to the kiddies at St. Peter's playground and the Community Gardens.

Santa later visited patients in Trenton Memorial Hospital and presented each with a bag of candy.

Citizens on all sides were heard to remark that this was "the best parade ever," and all the credit goes to the Chamber of Commerce which sponsored it.

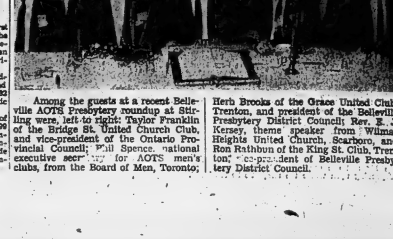
Faraday Given New Contract By Mining Co.

TORONTO (CP) — Nickel Mining and Smelting Corporation Ltd. announces that a new agreement has been reached with Faraday Uranium Mines Ltd. concerning exploration and development of Nickel Mining's nickel-copper property at Gordon Lake in the Kenora-Red Lake Mining division of Northwestern Ontario.

The new agreement—subject to approval by shareholders—amends the agreement between the two companies dated Dec. 7, 1950, and provides that Faraday will be granted an additional year for the carrying out of further underground development before making a decision respect to placing the property in production.

Faraday will advance up to a further $500,000 for additional development, receiving first mortgage bonds of nickel mining to return.

Under the original agreement Faraday up to Sept. 21 had carried out approximately $300,000 worth of underground development, and since then has spent a further $125,000 in anticipation of approval of the new agreement.



Faraday is a uranium producer in Ontario's Bancroft area.

PUC Employees' Children Enjoy Yuletide Party

TRENTON — For the first time in history of Trenton, the children of public works department employees enjoyed an organized Christmas party Friday night in the town sheds.

Santa Claus visited the kiddies and chocolate milk and donuts were enjoyed by the 32 children of the town's 16 public works employees.

Jim Thompson, president of Trenton and District local 799 of the national municipal employees union, said town engineer Walker Murray had made the sheds available to the employees for the party.

Among the guests at a recent Belleville AOTS Presbytery roundup at Stirling were, left to right: Taylor Franklin of the Bridge St. United Church Club, and vice-president of the Ontario Provincial Council; Phil Spence, national executive secretary for AOTS men's clubs, from the Board of Men, Toronto; Herb Brooks of the Grace United Club, Trenton, and president of the Belleville Presbytery District Council; Rev. E. J. Kersey, theme speaker from Wilmar Heights United Church, Scarboro, and Ron Rathbun of the King St. Club, Trenton, co-president of Belleville Presbytery District Council.

Don Williams Heads AOTS Of Presbytery

STIRLING — Some 154 AOTS men converged here recently for the first annual Belleville and Presbytery roundup. The program started at 2.00 p.m. and carried through a hot turkey dinner at 9 p.m.

Theme speaker was—Rev. E. J. Kersey of Wilmar Heights United Church, Scarboro, who gave an address on the role of the AOTS men's club in the church. Singing rocked St. Paul's as Sid Bagnall had the boys bringing it up from their toes.

Progress reports were made by 17 clubs (14 from Belleville presbytery and three from the affiliated Peterborough presbytery).

Quiz sessions were run on projects, membership and attendance, program, boys and youth, and club expansion, wherein the fellows could get the answers to some of their club problems.

The W. A. of St. Paul's United came up with a sumptious presentation banquet for the occasion. Two sergeants-at-arms carverted during dinner, levying fines to the tune of $32.71.

Twelve, out of a possible 17 ministers in attendance, enjoyed themselves tremendously. They were advised by the round - up chairman, Herb Brooks, to "let their hair down", and they did just that, for they were the most frequently fined group of men at the dinner.

The after - dinner speaker was Phil Spence, AOTS national executive secretary.

The nominating committee presented the slate of officers for 1951, and in the ensuing election, the following were elected and installed by Phil Spence:—president, Don Williams, Stirling; vice - president, Les Digby, Belleville; secretary, Clare West, Stirling; treasurer, Stu Robb, Belleville.

CHOP WAY TO FLAMES — In the above picture two members of the Belleville Fire Department are wielding axes, as they seek to get at the fire under the floor of the nanyon office, in the southwest corner of the City Hall, at the noon hour today. An old door, which had been boarded up, was broken down and the firemen then chopped their way through the floor.

Admit Driver To Hospital

TRENTON — One man was admitted to hospital Saturday following a two-car collision at the intersection of Dundas Street and Byron St.

In hospital with a fractured hip, three broken ribs and head cuts is William Fraser, 41, 99 Byron St., driver of one of the cars. His wife was treated for cuts to her left ankle.

LAC L. T. Byers, 22, RCAF Station Trenton, driver of the other car, suffered the loss of several teeth in the mishap.

Mr. Fraser was also hospitalized while damage to Byers' car was estimated at $700.

Police said the accident occurred when one of the vehicles failed to stop at the intersection.

Up The Smiths

Hurrah for John Smith, the Progressive Conservative member of the House of Commons for Lincoln, most recent claimant to fame of a long line with the same proud name.

Mr. Smith introduced a private bill in the House of Commons. He wants the Lord Lyon of Scotland to grant Canada a new flag.

Mr. Smith, as might have been expected, got rapped over the knuckles for that suggestion. For instance H. W. Herridge, the CCF member for Kootenay West, declared that Mr. Smith's bill "smells of colonialism." Other speakers took a similar line and the bill was talked out and went to the end of the order paper.

But Mr. Smith has the right idea. It is all very well for Mr. Herridge to ask questions like: "How in the world are you going to get the Lord Lyon, king of arms in the Scottish court of chivalry, to design a flag that is a page of the warp and woof of the life and spirit of the Canadian people?" That question was easy to ask and as easy to answer—you are not. But what Mr. Herridge and those of like mind do not make is that you are not going to get a Canadian, or any collection of Canadians, to produce a design "that is a gage of the warp and woof of the life and spirit of the Canadian people." Leave this job to Canadians and they will still be fighting over the design on the day the sun sets for the last time. Give the task to somebody who knows something about Canada —or care a hoot about It either—and they might get the job done. Give Parliament and the Canadian people no option but to accept the design—and within a generation it will generally be referred to as "the grand old flag."

That is the real virtue of Mr. Smith's proposal. It probably takes a man with a name like Smith to realise that, with flags as with names, distinction is not restricted to the unusual or the striking.

Of course if you insist on something distinctively Canadian, there is no better bet. How about a swarm of grey dots on a white background, the dots standing for the grey mosquitoes of summer and the white for the snowy fields of winter?

No? You see what we mean; Mr. Smith had the right idea. Let's ask our friend, some with doctor, to tell us what to do.

Voice of The Churches

The U.S. National Council of Churches has 40,000,000 nominal members. It is to be hoped they listen and heed when their leaders speak.

"We must not write off revolutionary situations as lost to the Christian cause," declared a report prepared for the general assembly of the Council, now in session at San Francisco.

That is needed to be said. The remarkable thing is that, after a long silence, it has been said twice within a few weeks—a short time ago we quoted Chester Bowles, one of President-elect John Kennedy's top advisers, in similar vein.

"The Christ itself is the root of creative revolution," says the National Council of Churches report.

"The Bible has been the most powerful revolutionary force in Africa," said Bowles, in an interview.

These are truths—but still not the whole truth.

"We must not," in the words of the National Council of Churches report, "concede the revolutions to Communism." But by the same token the National Council of Churches and Christians generally ought not, like the Communists, to try to appropriate the revolutionary situations now existent in the world for its own exclusive territory. Other men of good will have a vested interest in them, too: Buddhist and Moslem, Jew and Gentile, believer and infidel.

The most important thing, though, is that the U.S. National Council of Churches should recognize, that we are living in revolutionary days, that changes will inevitably be accompanied by violence and that the presence of violence is not automatic indication that the change taking place is evil.

If the tide has been flowing against the free world and favoring the Communist ideology, it has been because we have too frequently assumed that all revolutionaries are Communists—and that all foes of revolutionaries are democrats.

STRENGTH for the DAILY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

LET'S FACE IT .

Modern man does not like the word "sin." Let anything of an anti-social or immoral nature be said and he immediately a score of people, many of them posing as authorities, begin to give some psychological reason for this misbehaviour. The idea of the old devil being in the hearts of all of us does not seem to be much in fashion today. Sin is now attributed to repression, frustration, emotional instability. The devil must be having a good laugh over this whole situation. The report has gone out that he is dead and his activities are attributed to psychological upset. It will take more ingenuity, however, than humanity now possesses to get rid both of the concept and the reality of sin. It is high time that it be said that there has been what we have all sinned and come short of the glory of God. We may not be gross sinners. But sinners we are, we can be sure of that. We are selfish, lacking in self-control, harsh in our judgments, often unkind and sometimes perhaps a bit on the cruel side.

So what do you call that sort of thing? Is this psychological upset, emotional instability, frustration, et cetera, et cetera, et cetera. . . ?

We have to face many unpleasant facts in life. Let us face the most unpleasant of all — the fact of sin.

Nuclear Energy and Fission

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

ARTICLE #2

In earlier articles we discussed nuclear energy in the stars. The Sun, for example, by nuclear energy produces the heat and light by which animal and plant alike live on this Earth.

After 3 billions of years of life on Earth, man, a relative late-comer, has learned to develop nuclear energy. The processes and materials of nuclear energy here on Earth are the same as in the stars. Some conditions and results differ, but speaking generally, man does and will produce nuclear energy on Earth in much the same way as it is produced in the stars.

Nuclear energy means, to man — a way to light his fire, warm his path, cure his diseases, increase his production or destroy his existence.

Which facet of this glittering diamond will he choose? Surprisingly enough a great deal depends upon each one of us.

It is vital to clear the air of ignorance which separates the layman from the scientist in the field of nuclear physics. It is vital, it is urgent!

At the foundation of nuclear energy lies the atom. The atom is the building block for everything that exists. You, your car, your house, the air. Everything is composed of atoms. No one has ever seen an atom but atoms are known to exist. There are over 102 different kinds of atoms and they are built from the same three basic parts. They are:

1. A proton (a particle possessing a positive electric charge).

2. A neutron (a particle with no electric charge).

3. An electron (a particle possessing a negative electric charge).

DIFFERENT COMBINATIONS

An automobile, for example, has thousands of different parts of varying shapes and sizes but an atom has only three parts. And these parts may combine in different numbers. There can be, for example, two protons, two neutrons and two electrons and when this combination exists in an atom, it is an atom of hydrogen. There can be 79 protons, 118 neutrons and 79 electrons and when this combination exists in an atom, it is an atom of gold. There can be 92 protons, 146 neutrons and 92 electrons and when this combination exists in an atom, it is an atom of uranium. But in each case there are but three kinds of parts and all the parts of any one type are exactly the same. (All protons are exactly alike—all neutrons are exactly alike.) All neutrons are the same. All electrons are the same.

The protons and the neutrons are clustered together in the centre of the atom, and together are called the "nucleus" of the atom.

The electrons circle at tangent angles around the nucleus in different orbits.

The Atom is usually electrically neutral and hence will have the same number of electrons as it has protons but the number of neutrons will vary from atom to atom though it will never be less than the number of protons (except in the case of a hydrogen atom which has no neutrons.)

TINY SOLAR SYSTEM

Perhaps we can picture an atom as a tiny Solar System with a sun in the centre made up of protons and neutrons, and circling around the outside at varying distances are a number of planets called electrons.

Man has learned to split the atom. He has called this feat "fission". When he splits a tiny atom into pieces, the pieces by gathering them together as much as the whole atom did before is given off. The difference in weight has been given off as energy. Some of the energy is in the form of heat and some of the energy is in the form of radiation. There is no basic difference between heat radiation and light radiation — they are both "light" — the only difference between them is their wave length. They are both a form of energy).

The uranium atom has 1 proton, 143 neutrons and 92 electrons and is the easiest atom to split. Like chopping a piece of wood apart with an axe.

RADIOACTIVE PARTICLES

When you chop a log into two with an axe, a number of things happen:

1. The log is cleaved into two big pieces;

2. A number of chips of wood fly out into the air;

3. A number of small particles of wood are dropped to the ground, but smaller than the chips, and

4. The axe blade gets hot.

Very much the same thing happens when a uranium 235 atom is fissioned. An axe is not used to chop the uranium pieces in half, something else is used which we will discuss later, but let us pretend that it is an axe, a tiny sharp axe.

1. The uranium atom is chopped into two pieces. The pieces can be equal in size or one can be big and one can be small, depending upon where the axe hit the log. There are approximately 200 possible combinations of the two pieces and it depends entirely on how the atom is split, but there will be in almost all cases, two big pieces left over. Each one of these big pieces is called a fission fragment and it is most always radioactive, that is to say, it is emitting a kind of penetrating radiation which has the capacity to do great injury, if not controlled. For example, let us say that when a single atom is fissioned, the two new pieces will prove to be radioactive Strontium and radioactive Xenon (see inset). (There could be many other combinations however).

COULD CAUSE LEUKAEMIA

Now, if a man were to swallow those two parts, the Xenon would go to the bowels of his body, but the radioactive Strontium would go to his bones and thus irradiating his bone marrow, where his blood is manufactured. The Strontium would destroy the capacity of the bone in his body to manufacture healthy blood corpuscles and our man would die of leukaemia.

2. When an atom is chopped in two, chips fly out. So, when a Uranium 235 atom is chopped in two, chips fly out. The chips are the two or three neutrons which are released from the nucleus of the atom as soon as the atom is fissioned. These neutrons fly out at great speeds in different directions and they are called fission neutrons. Uranium 235 atoms which are lying close by. These neutrons are absorbed by the atoms which causes the fissioning. This absorption causes them to hit each other and a chain reaction is commenced and continued.

Similar to an axe used in chopping a piece of wood, fine pieces of silicon to the crystalline structure of an atom of Uranium 235 is chopped, there are also slivers of neutrons. Uranium is composed of electrons which are repelled by the highly unstable fission fragments immediately after cleavage, and they fly forth at the rate of 10,000 miles per hour. 670,000,000 miles an hour.

GAMMA RADIATION

Gamma radiation is given off. Gamma radiation, as I have explained, is a form of penetrating light which has an extremely high frequency and a very high frequency emission. Gamma radiation cannot be seen, but it can be measured very easily and will dissassemble or destroy cells and anything else which it strikes. Gamma radiation travels at the speed of light, 186,000 miles an hour. Gamma radiation is said to be the cause of evolution.

4. The axe blade heats the pieces of the atom so banging and whanging about, running into other radioactive atoms. This is something like someone getting on the front of a locomotive and just banging away with a sledge hammer. Temperatures are raised, and so is the temperature.

HEAT HEAT

In the whole process, there is much heat and confusion. If one atom after another is split, and one is made to fission in a chain, rather than a single atom, the process can be controlled and will produce useful heat. This will depend upon how many atoms are split per second (step 2) to fly out to become split and to chop other atoms apart.

The chain reaction Barrel Heat. The first atom fissions. That atom then releases two or three neutrons which in turn strike the nucleus of two or three other atoms. Each of these in turn fissions, releasing two or three more neutrons which in turn will fission three more atoms — and so forth, as is seen from the diagram.

The process is very rapid but there are so many atoms which will fission in a given quantity of uranium that the chain reaction can, under proper conditions, continue for a considerable period of months sometimes producing heat which in turn, may be used to boil water and produce steam. Electricity can be produced.

If a chain reaction can be commenced and continued under control, the heat of the uranium fission is used. (Just as the fire from burning coal boils water, the boiling water given off steam, the steam passes through pipes called a "turbine," thereby turning the turbine blades — the turbine is attached to a generator which spins and produces electricity.

Thus, by fissioning uranium atoms, electricity can be generated.

This is something of fission—what is fusion?

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

December 12th, 1941

Chance sky-gazers were given a first hand demonstration of the power of head winds and their resultant action upon aircraft when Lone Trenton RCAF training plane was seen directly above Belleville streets on Tuesday afternoon, apparently hanging motionless in the sky.

Flying at between one and two thousand feet above the city the plane for several minutes remained in the one position, apparently not making one foot of forward progress. Stiff headwinds undoubtedly accounting for the phenomenon as after struggling insistently to make forward progress, the pilot suddenly turned his ship in the opposite direction and sailed away before the wind.

Members of the city service clubs who have 'adopted' two members of the Royal Canadian Air Force base at Trenton for Sunday evening entertainment, have a new plan in meeting with unqualified success. Each young airman, in fact the majority of them, are experiencing their first taste of home life since they left colleges, schools, businesses and other places of civilian life for the less lucrative profession of the Air Force.

At a special meeting of the Kinsmen of Colombus held last Sunday a letter, which had been received from Lemon and Addington County was read, and in which was enclosed a cheque for $300 as a donation to the K. of C. Canadian Army Hut. Fred State Deputy Phil Phelan who is secretary of the K. of C. Army Hut, stated that the quota for Belleville for this Fund had been set at $5,000.

The four directors of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce who will retire this year are Lt.-Col. L. W. Marsh, Lt.-Col. D. Ponton, Messrs. W. B. Deacon and W. H. McCreery. The following will remain in office another year: Messrs. Jamieson Bros., J. G. Moffatt, Mackenzie Robertson, H. W. Ackerman and O. H. Scott. The nominees will be held next week.

Prof. Alfred Gandier, M.A., LL.D., D.D., Principal of Knox College, who preached anniversary sermons in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Sunday, is a Hastings County old boy, having been born in Rawdon Township on November 30th, 1861, son of Joseph and Helen (Eastwood) Gandier.

TO OUR FUTURE

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G Molner, M.D.

AS A NATION, WE NEED TO EXERCISE MORE

The automobile is a wonderful contrivance and I am in favor of using it.

The same thing can be said of legs.

Some little while ago a registered nurse wrote to me:

"Your article, 'Too Much Sitting Is a Health Hazard, is one I feel should receive widespread recognition. There is no doubt that Americans as a whole are far too little exercise. The two-car family is methodically softening its spine by riding comfortably on well-inflated rubber tires.

"As a nurse in industry I note with alarm the number of increasing back complaints. I suggest another contributing factor is the automobile seat that is nearly flush with the floor.

"The parent-chauffeur business is bad for both child and parent. The child is robbed of necessary physical exercise as well as the opportunity of dragging his head on the way home from school while he looks interestedly at the passing bugs, buildings, trees, and just things along the way. — U. R.

I have been pleasantly surprised that so many readers agree that this subject is a matter worthy of writing letters about and I thank them for writing, including something about.

We don't get the exercise we used to get. We don't get the exercise that people in a good many other countries get. Maybe it's going to exact a price. Indeed, in my mind there is no doubt but that it already is doing so. Citing the remarks of the late Dudley White, I think there is a distinct effect of lack of exercise on heart disease. Obesity, there are also figures showing that regular, moderate exercise has the effect of lowering the cholesterol in the blood.

In view of this, doesn't it seem pretty silly to sit around fretting over cholesterol, obesity and not spending any of that worry-energy in walking, bowling, dancing, or doing anything else that means exercise?

Whether low or set is have any effect on back troubles, as "D. R. suggests I simply do not know. What may be right for one is not there's no question at all that a back that is kept strong and flexible has been having a huge increase in the trouble among industrial employes.

I'm inclined to think that, what is even if D. R. is right about this, we may be looking by too simple an answer by dashing about changing the air.

Better, I suggest that we think about the matter of not sitting on those, or any kind of seats, quite so much. Maybe that we all do a little more walking — starting, by all means with the bowling alleys.

As to sitting — did I hear anybody mention TV?

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any way to remove a tattoo imprinted by an amateur artist?

I don't know just what you mean by "imprinted by an amateur artist," because tattoos are usually done by amateurs. They are removal by skin grafting, or by skin abrasion — by a plastic surgeon or dermatologist, or by covering it by a heavier tattoo!

Dog Food Ads Raise Storm

Wall Street Journal

Though they may not be aware of it, the nation's 26 million dogs are the focus of a squabble that's now roaring at a multi-million-dollar industry.

The industry involved is the dog food business. Critics, including government regulatory officials, charge some ads for dog foods — which depend heavily on suggestions of meat flavors and make use of appetizing colors, are deceptive. Aimed at doting dog lovers, the ads allegedly frequently feature claims that are questionable. In other cases, say the critics, the ads base their appeal on qualities — such as color — that don't mean the slightest difference to the thoroughbreds and humble mutts who eat the products. Dog food producers, while conceding they may have gone a bit too far in ads at times, plead innocent of wrongdoing.

Though all this may sound like a vapid despatch, the dog food industry isn't an insignificant one. Retail sales amount to $2.5 billion annually, and the industry spends about $24 million a year on advertising.

Strictly Personal

Famous People Are Not Always Great

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Not long ago, I received a weekly letter from a friend, Alfred Freed, captain of the U. S. Davis Cup team, in reference to a statement I had made about manners on the tennis court and in life in general. I quoted:

"I am going to see that all of my players who are privileged to read this article of yours," he wrote. "It could do them a lot of good. I have often been very much ashamed of the way leading players, world rated, and certainly there is no excuse for their behavior."

There may be no excuse, but there certainly is an explanation. And that is the vanishing dimension of "greatness" on the modern scene.

If a poll were taken to name the "greatest" living Americans, most of the public would name the most "famous." And these would be the movie stars, athletes, comedians and perhaps a few political figures who have to give weight to the fragile list.

As recently as our grandfather's time, such a list would be headed by scientists, educators, literary men, social philanthropists and innovators of one kind or another.

But today, driven by the remorseless demon of organized publicity, the cult of sex and national culture is dominated by the entertainer, the sportscaster or another. They have rushed in to fill the void created by our indifference to intellectual and humanistic pursuits.

Hence, movie athletic figures loom large in the ranks of the famous, and are scarcely to be blamed for taking themselves so seriously, often for behaving so imperiously. Because they are mainly unaware of the roots of civilization, and of the past contributions that have made our present life so much richer than it they are indeed Titans among the pygmies, and deserving — special treatment.

Arrogant and offensive manners on and off the playing field spring from a combination of two things: the athletes and themselves. It is we, however, who have given them the false ideas, by inflating these pygmies to the stature of national "greats." It is we who are no one to compare themselves with, why should they not play at superiority?

Canadian PLACE NAMES

RAINY

The lake and river bearing this name are on the international border in northwestern Ontario. The river takes its name from the lake, which the Indians called Tekamamaouon, and the French Lac la Pluie, meaning "it is raining all the time."

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

KEEP ASPIRING

It is much easier to look up than down — because it is more natural.

Yet what a large number of people I have gotten into the habit of looking down. For looking down is the habit of looking down.

Success is a great deal of a field — to feel it and form a part of its flow, we must get into it.

Keep aspiring!

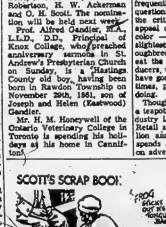
A large part of the fascination of the stars comes from the fact that we have to look up in order to see them. Then, too, they are a long way off.

The longer you have to wait for that which you most desire, the more prized it will be by the person you get it.

The note of aspiration running through a life would be music of ours, is what gives to those their divinity.

We speak of our souls. But what are our souls?

They are not yet that something about us all which, the instant we see it, we recognize as all else that is worth while.



We can not live a life without the knowledges that we have a soul.

What day would be worth the living without something within us or apart from us that makes us aspire to something far above our weaknesses and frailty?

Keep aspiring!

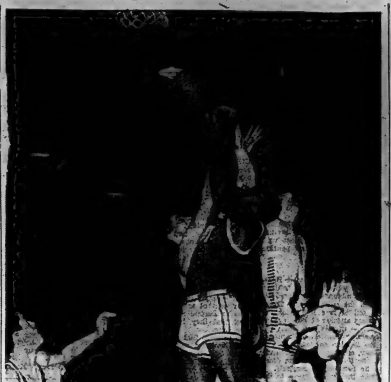
THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK

You seldom see a baggy policeman in this country. Whether in the big cities or the small municipalities, the Canadian constable is almost invariably a trim, sturdy and well-proportioned figure.

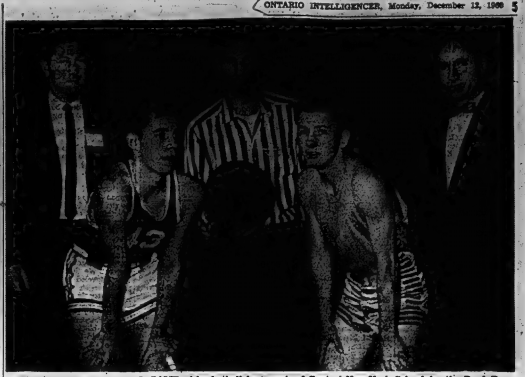
It is not so in the United States. The state police and those you encounter on the highways are generally as trim and tidy as a Canadian policeman. But in cities both large and small, the constabulary has a scruffy look. Their uniforms are ill-fitting, untidy and wrinkled. Their caps, tilted on the backs of their heads, are like trunk drivers' caps. In such outfits, anybody would look shoddy and slouch they very much.

To be dressed in formal and correct uniform, a man can hardly fail to be not merely self-conscious, but conscious of his duty and his place. And this makes for good manners. In United States communities, it is not unusual to encounter very ill-mannered police. It is as if you had addressed, or been addressed by, some loafer on a street corner, instead of some man on duty at the corner.



The question now naturally arises: how do we get such good police in Canada on the salaries we pay them?

Fire Marshal Warns of Yule Fire Hazards



Fire Marshal M. S. Hurst has issued advice to all Ontario householders about Christmas season fire hazards. "In actual tests, it was observed that the average Christmas tree took only 18 seconds to burn furiously to charred wood," Mr. Hurst said. "This is only one of the additional fire hazards we bring into our homes during the festive season." He named the others as paper decorations, gift wrapping, candles and the greater load placed upon electrical circuits through the use of decorative lights and displays.

The Fire Marshal emphasized the importance of buying only a green, fresh tree and keeping it in a cool place until the time came to set it up. Make a fresh, diagonal cut in the tree trunk and stand it firmly in water. Plain water is satisfactory in the container in which the trunk of the tree rests but it is most important to keep this filled during the tree's stay in the house. All tree light cords should be thoroughly inspected for frays and short circuits before they are put on the Christmas tree.

Winter months in Ontario show a marked increase of fires due to the extensive use of heating equipment and extra load demands introduced by the holiday season. "It should be the aim of everyone to ensure a happy, fire-safe Christmas," the Fire Marshal said, "and this can be done by observing a few simple precautions."

ACTION ON THE COURT — Above may be seen an action shot during a scoring attempt in the basketball game between the Ontario School for the Deaf and the Central New York School for the Deaf last Saturday. The visitors won by a score of 42-34. The first such game of its kind, an invitation has been extended to the OSD to hold a return match as the guests of the Rome, N.Y., school sometime in the near future.

FIRST INTERNATIONAL GAME of basketball between two schools for the deaf was held Saturday morning at the Ontario School for the Deaf gymnasium. Shown at the opening jump are (left to right): John Comstock, assistant superintendent and senior varsity coach of Central New York School for the Deaf, Rome, N.Y.; Philip Stephens, captain of the visiting team; Hyalie Bryant, referee and member of the OSD staff; Jimmy Learmonth, captain of the OSD team, and D. E. Kennedy, assistant superintendent of OSD.

By CHRIS LEGGAT
2nd. BELLEVILLE BOY SCOUT AUXILIARY

The Christmas meeting of 2nd Belleville Boy Scout Auxiliary was held on December 5th in the parish hall of Christ Church with 19 members answering the roll call.

Mrs. Howard Rainbird, presiding, expressed appreciation at such a good turnout. She regretfully announced the absence of Akela Kemp through illness.

The various reports were heard. Among these was one from Mrs. William Yates, convener of the Coffee Break, for which she stated it proved to be a most successful undertaking. She tendered a vote of thanks to all who, in any way, assisted.

Mrs. Rainbird gave December 19th as the date for the combination Christmas party for the Cubs and Scouts, Family Night and the Queen Scout ceremony, honoring Glenn Rainbird. Members were asked for contributions of two dozen cookies.

The business meeting adjourned and Group Captain Mrs. Ray Dafoe and her group were in charge of the program. A game of scrambled names of Christmas objects was enjoyed by all. Christmas carols were sung while candy was bagged for the Cub box being sent to the children in the school at Constance Lake Indian reserve.

Centering the lunch table was a unique Christmas tree fashioned from aluminum foil created by Mrs. R. Dafoe. In a draw this was won by Mrs. G. Pringle.

The plates of Christmas cookies added a gay note to the already festive atmosphere.

Prompt Action By UN Prevents Anti-White Move

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)—Strong anti - white sentiment gripped supporters of ousted premier Patrice Lumumba in Stanleyville today but prompt United Nations action appears to have averted trouble for the time being.

The UN fled a strong protest to Stanleyville capital of Oriental province, with Antoine Gtenga, The Congo's deputy premier under Lumumba, after several whites were arrested in the Oriental province town of Bunia.

So far the pro-Lumumba regime in Stanleyville has not carried out its threat of last week to arrest and behead whites in Oriental province unless Lumumba is released from imprisonment by Congolese Army strongman Col. Joseph Mobutu.

No arrests of whites have been reported from Stanleyville thanks to the immediate offer of protection by the United Nations, which rushed Ethiopian Gen. Mengasha Yigazu to Stanleyville to take charge of operations.

OSD Cage Team Entertains Deaf Squad From N.Y.

Saturday saw another "first" in the history of the Ontario School for the Deaf when a basketball game was played between OSD and a visiting team from the Central New York School for the Deaf at Rome, N.Y. To the best of local authorities' memory the event marked the first time that there has ever been an international basketball game between two teams whose players are deaf. The ten students and three staff members from New York arrived at the OSD on Friday and were immediately introduced to Stanleyville's population of Oriental origin.

Mr. Charles H. Woodforde, of West Bridge St., has left Belleville for a trip to England and the continent. He will return late in May.

Mrs. Mary Conley, mother of Mr. Ross Weese, Point Anne, passed away in Kingston, on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Joyce entertained a large group of friends at a pre-Christmas party, in the club room of the Quinte Hotel, last Friday evening.

Albert College Guild Elects 1960-1 Officers

On December 8, a large group gathered at the Manor for the Christmas meeting of the Albert College Guild. Mrs. Hickey, the president, welcomed the guests and opened the meeting with the hymn, "The King of Love my Shepherd is".

The program was arranged by Mrs. Davidson, and Mrs. Middleton conducted the devotional service, introducing her theme with a prayer which asked how the little town of Bethlehem could turn the Baby Jesus away, and showing how we, too, without any thought of being mean, crowd him out.

Mrs. T. Davidson introduced the speaker Rev. D. G. McFarlane, who spoke on "What is Christmas" quoted Luke II:15 "And it came to pass as the angels were gone away from them into heaven the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem and see this thing which is come to pass which the Lord hath made known unto us".

"For the shepherds, it was a searching time, seeking for one sent from heaven. It was also a rejoicing time, and a time to tell what they had seen and heard.

"For the wise men, it was a searching time. They were searching to present gifts; for Herod, it was a searching time; he was searching with bitterness and fear, hoping to destroy. That is true in many places today. For some it is not a bol: time; it is crowded out with the clang of cash registers and shopping scenes. For some it is a time of selfishness —just a feast day.

"For some it is a family day, but not a religious day; for some it is a lonely day because they look for the wrong things.

"The central note of Christmas is seeking, finding, giving, rejoicing, telling—telling that God gave His only begotten Son as the Saviour of the world. Christmas should be a high experience, but Christmas should be never be over.

"May Christmas mean 'Christ with us'"

The thanks of the Guild to all contributing to the program was expressed by Mrs. Hyde, and Mrs. Hickey thanked all who had helped throughout the year.

HINCHEY — HOLGATE

A lovely candlelight wedding was solemnized in Christ Church, Belleville, on Saturday, November 26, at 7.00 p.m. by the Reverend Arthur Page, rector of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill, assisted by Archdeacon J. Paul Sheffield, rector of Christ Church, before a colorful background of white chrysanthemums and pastel-tinted gladioli interspersed with ferns, when Judith Marie Holgate, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. G. B. Holgate, of Belleville, and the late Mr. George B. Holgate, became the bride of Dr. Edward John Hinchey, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Hinchey. White satin bows marked the guest pews.

Mr. John Croydon, Whitby, choral soloist, provided the wedding music, and accompanied the choir of eight boys in their rendition of "O Perfect Love" before the ceremony, and during the signing of the register, "O Love Divine; All Love Excelling".

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Robert Holgate of Halifax, N.S., the bride was radiantly lovely in her imported bridal gown of frosted white silk brocade, fashioned on empire lines with molded bodice having a round neckline etched with seed pearls and crystals. The long-sheath-like sleeves ended in lily-points over the wrists; while the full-length bouffant skirt was accented by a matching single rose motif at the waistline back. A three-tiered fingertip veil, encrusted with seed pearls held her finger-tip veil of illusion tulle, and she carried a white Bible crested with red roses and white stephanotis, with a rosebud-knotted white satin streamers. A pearl brooch worn by her paternal grandmother, Mrs. B. A. Holgate at her marriage completed her costume.

Miss Marjorie Kettleson, of Kingston, as maid of honor, wore a gown of green shot-silk taffeta featuring a fitted bodice with round neckline and short sleeves; matching headdress in lower green dotted with iridescent sequins. She carried a nosegay of white mums centred by carnations matching her gown, the whole surrounded by fluted frill.

The two bridesmaids, Miss Cordelia Cummins, of Belleville and Miss Lorna Hinchey, sister of the bridegroom, were both in red — short taffeta models in identical lines to that of the maid of honor. They wore matching bow-type headdresses with iridescent sequins, and carried similar nosegays.

Woman Builds Own Backyard Bomb Shelter

VICTORVILLE, Calif. (AP)—When, there's not enough money to have a pro-bot built for you, says Mrs. Signe Engstrom, do it yourself.

The labor, she finds, helps her arthritis.

So with the help of her daughter-in-law and two grandchildren she's building her own backyard bomb shelter.

A veteran of '45, she remembers the boom of First World War cannon from Germany, across the sea from her home in Denmark.

"I think it's about time everybody started building a bomb shelter," she said. "The more we have, the less likely we are to be attacked."

Her day she said her family started digging. Constructional plans: "We just went ahead."

They shoveled the dirt into a child's wagon and dumped it farther out in the big yard. As the hole deepened they hoisted the dirt in a bucket.

Mrs. Engstrom built the first concrete-block wall herself. Her daughter-in-law, Wilsetta, 23 — wife of Mrs. Engstrom's son Hans, who's in the air force in Alaska — helped her before.

They and grandson Edward, 13, and granddaughter Donna, 12, took turns mixing the cement mortar by hand in a wheelbarrow.

The room will be 11 by 14½ feet and about seven feet high. Four-by-six-inch beams have been laid to support a eight - reinforced concrete roof.

Mrs. Engstrom, who also enjoys cooking and baking cakes and pastries, works as a practical nurse to help family finances. She figures the bomb shelter, including ventilation pipes, will cost about $500.

And if nervousness-ded for its grim purpose, it will serve, meanwhile, as a fruit cellar and as a game room for the grandchildren.

Mrs. K. S. Thompson gave the topic for everybody guess enough and everybody shared enough, everyone would have enough."

The president extended appreciative thanks for the fine co-operation she had received during 1960.

The hostess and her assistants served lunch and a social half hour was enjoyed.

'Princess Blissfully Happy' Says One of Oldest Friends

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (CP) — When Princess Margaret goes to Brussels next week for King Baudouin's wedding, Europeans will see a greatly changed young woman.

Formerly sad and reflective after her broken romance with Peter Townsend, she now is being called Merry Margaret.

Seven months of marriage to Antony Armstrong-Jones have brought about the change.

"She's blissfully happy," says one of her oldest friends. "She's terribly in love and you could hardly find a more suitable husband for her."

A gay, informal, and often breezy young man, Tony has unquestionably filled a great void left by the once peaceful princess.

HAS MEMORIES

With him, she will visit Brussels—a city that is not without romantic memories for Margaret.

When the princess and Townsend fell in love in London—he was then an aide at Buckingham Palace — certain authorities not very subtly interfered Townsend left the Belgian capital.

Later, after much heart-searching, she finally turned him down and he returned to Brussels.

This time, almost to the moment she met Armstrong-Jones, the princess embroiled and even at times became bored with life.

But that's all over now.

SHOWS BIG CHANGE

Now Margaret in public and private appears to become a gay girl, laughing uproariously at jokes and making plenty of her own. She is more appealing to the public than any time in her life. She also goes in for a lot of private parties.

Once a touchy and almost difficult person, she is relaxed and laughing.

On one feature of her married life, however, she is firm. She will not quit Britain where her husband's titleless status causes him to be separated from the privileges that are normally given a royal husband.

Friends say she's still plugging away at her career to get him the title she thinks he deserves.

HAD A TALK

Intimates with close court ties say that just before Margaret's marriage, Prince Philip had a heart-to-heart talk with Armstrong-Jones, his future brother-in-law.

The Queen at that time was considering making Tony a viscount. Philip is reported to have felt out Armstrong-Jones on the subject of a title, but he is said to have replied:

"No, that's terribly kind of everyone, but no. Not now."

Philip, around the royal circles, says that didn't particularly please Margaret. She sulked for a bit. But that's over. Now she is reported to have got herself a job.

But he'll get no pay.

The Daily Mail said today that Armstrong-Jones has been appointed a member of the governing body of the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art.

Study Plant Life in New Artificial Lake

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — Isobel Bailey, attractive Canadian biologist, regards rubber boots and ankle-length raincapes as something of an occupational necessity.

Mrs. Bailey, teaming up with fellow-biologist Don Ferguson, is studying plant life on the shores of the newly-created Lake St. Lawrence, attempting to discover how long it takes flooded plant life to recover and regenerate and what plants need to be replanted. She spends most of her time wading along the edge of the lake.

Mrs. Bailey noted that about 60 per cent of the plants were native to Europe and was surprised that they had survived for so long.

She believes that one day her present working conditions will be a great duck-hunting area, but plant life, at present, is her field. It's her job to find how.

The study is being sponsored by the Ontario-St. Lawrence Development Commission and the Fish and Wildlife Division of the Department of Lands and Forests.

Both Mrs. Bailey and Mr. Ferguson are graduates of Ottawa's Carleton University, where Mrs. Bailey now lectures during the winter months. The summers are spent doing work in biology from special grants and most of her previous work was confined to Quebec's Gatineau area.

FAREDALE BAPTIST M.F.

The Ladies' Missionary Fellowship of Faredale Baptist Church met recently at the home of Mrs. Snyder with 15 ladies present.

The meeting was opened with the singing of some favorite Christmas carols and prayer by Mrs. Allen.

Following the business part, Mrs. Foster gave a reading entitled, "It was Had Not Come".

The M.F. was pleased to have three ladies from Picton as guests who sang "Bye and Bye."

Mrs. Blake presided over the prayer time.

Mrs. Donald took over the devotional period and read Luke 1: 46-55, telling that it was important to prepare the heart for Christmas in the hustle and bustle of Christmas shopping. One should not be shopping for poise, serenity and love, to shut the sounds of the world out, to be alone with God and so able to listen to the Shepherds. The Christian church is losing its power by not keeping in touch with God.

"The devil keeps our lips from testifying for Christ, the Master of the world is squeezing Christ out of Christmas. We should strive to get alone with God and as another Christmas approaches, give our life anew to Him."

The Picton trio sang, "Heaven

Jubilee Aux. Holds Yuletide Program

On Tuesday evening the Jubilee Auxiliary held its Christmas meeting with the Explorer group, as guests.

Following the hot supper, business reports were read. Mrs. Bonesso, on behalf of the nominating committee, read the list of officers for 1961.

Miss Helen Sulman was in charge of the program which she introduced with a Christmas poem. A solo, "Come to the Stable," by Miss Helen Cook was much enjoyed. The Christmas Story found in Luke 2, was read by Mrs. O'Neil.

Miss Jessie Tulle, formerly of Albert College, the guest speaker of the evening, related the story of the thief who went in search of the King, followed the star, and saw the baby in the manger, the Kings offering their gifts to the baby, but did not really receive the Christ until he, too, like Christ, was nailed to a cross.

Cannifton W.A. Elects New Officers

The regular meeting of Cannifton W.A. was held in the new Sunday School rooms. As this was the election of officers, the regular monthly dinner was withdrawn and a potluck dinner was held.

A happy feature of this meal was a surprise birthday cake made by Miss Beth Boyd and presented to the janitor, Mr. McLeod. Though taken by surprise, Mr. McLeod thanked Beth and then blew out the lighted candles while all sang "Happy Birthday."

At two o'clock the president, Mrs. A. Boyd, opened the meeting, all singing "Silent Night," followed by prayer.

The reports were given. The president mentioned how all the organizations in the church had shared in buying the paint for the renovation of the lower church parlors. This was unique, also the first time all had been asked to donate.

The Young Peoples' H.C. and the Scouts did the work. She also mentioned the new oil furnace that had been installed in the church by the W.A., as being fully paid for and thanked all who had worked long hours to see this project through. She also mentioned the W.A. share had been paid towards the renovation work at the parsonage. It had been a busy and prosperous year.

After some discussion it was decided that the W.A. make a donation to the Victor Mission for women and a donation to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund.

Mrs. W. Brenton and Mrs. D. Brenton were appointed convenors for the Christmas basket and gifts to the sick and shutins.

Mrs. Boyd thanked the members for their co-operation during the past year and wished all a Merry Christmas.

Mrs. Douglas Brenton thanked Mrs. Boyd for her untiring efforts during the past year on behalf of the members and conducted the election of officers for 1961 and are as follows:

OFFICERS FOR 1961

President, Mrs. A. Boyd; first vice-president, Mrs. D. Brenton; second vice-president, Mrs. A. Holgate; secretary, Mrs. F. Furmidge; pianist, Mrs. H. Empson; card secretary, Mrs. F. Grown-up Talent

By ALMA MASON

Sometimes the talent we possess may seem paltry and inadequate. Sometimes we look with envy at the well-cut, shining implements which help to fashion the talents of our friends and neighbors.

Let us think of the story of two sculptors who wished to carve a masterpiece. One spent many searching days to find a bit of wood to work with. He died at last without finding it. The other took the first available block. With a simple knife he carved an acceptable face that was the marvel and wonder of all who saw it.

If you have a golden loaf of bread and love doing it, bake it well — make of it a perfect confection and share it. Your neighbor will not be able to do it just the same. If you sew a fine seam and delight in it, make it finer and finer. Some day it may turn the wheels of a humming factory. If you possess a "green thumb", one that will coax rare flowers to lovely maturity, plant more and more blooms for the world to see. If radiant smiles and cheery words are yours, spread them abroad more lavishly. Start a never-ending chain of smiles and cheer. For outward but true expression of love for human kind is one o fthe greater talents bestowed on man.

Talent only thrives on love of work; joy in achievement and a sound and wholesome philosophy directed towards life progress.

We often ponder the story of two workmen who were engaged in building a cathedral. One man asked by a passer by what he was doing. He replied suddenly, "Can't you see I am laying bricks!" The other, when asked, turned his glowing face reverently heavenward and said, "I am building a cathedral."

Let us build cathedrals. If we believe in the special talent we possess, no matter how small and insignificant it may seem to us, it will thrive and grow, often beyond all reckoning.

Recently a bumb's soul passed to her reward. Hundreds of her fellow towns people gathered to pay their last respects to her. Inquiry revealed a priceless talent which had been cupped in her hands. She did not have money or influence, but she had

SHANNONVILLE W.A.

The monthly meeting of the W.A. of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Malcolm Little, which was nicely decorated for the Christmas meeting which was held in the evening, with 31 ladies in attendance. Mrs. K. R. Vivian, president welcomed everyone, especially the visitors.

Mrs. M. Little, group leader, gave the call to worship, the theme being "A great light". Mrs. G. Damon Hinchey read the Scripture lesson from Isaiah, also a passage from the 19th Psalm. Mrs. Leadbour read "The Inside of Christmas".

Mrs. Little thanked the group for their help, Mrs. Vivian also thanked the group and the hostess for opening her home for the meeting and took charge of the business. A card of thanks was read from Mrs. Litchfield for the card she received when she was ill. Mrs. Kenneth Juby expressed thanks for the card sent them in their bereavement and Mrs. Russell Hinchey, thanked all, for cards sent to her husband when he was ill.

Mrs. Asa Cook, treasurer, reported a successful day, catering at Scott's Livestock Barn, on November 29th.

The usual donations were voted for the Sunday School and the Missionary and Maintenance Fund, 25c each. A card was signed by the members to be sent with a gift from the W.A. to Mrs. Earle Vivian, a member who has left to reside in Picton.

Mrs. Robertson gave a reading, "Hazel's Girls", and a Christmas poem, by Helen Anderson. Mrs. Asa Cook read a poem entitled "Christmas Giving".

The meeting closed by singing "Silent Night".

Mrs. Cook on behalf of the W.A. expressed best wishes to Mrs. William McMechan and Mrs. K. R. Vivian presented her with a lovely Bible and a Christmas gift, which she gracefully expressed her thanks.

Mrs. Damon Hinchey read an address to Mrs. Russel Wescott and Mrs. Percival Scrafton presented her with a set of jewelry. A lovely lunch with matching earrings. Mrs. Wescott thanked the W.A. for the gift.

An enjoyable evening of Christmas gifts was made by the members. Mrs. Charles Wood and Mrs. Malcolm Little were in charge of the exchange.

A committee of members of the group served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Christmas Party On A Shoestring

By Mary Moore

Who says they cannot have a Christmas party because they cannot afford it? Not I!

I'm here today to show you how you can have that party — on a shoestring budget.

This is designed for twelve people. You set your dining room table up as a buffet table. If you do not have a dining room, set up your table, stretching out as long as your additional tables allow. Centre it with a huge bowl of the biggest, shiniest red apples you can buy and polish them to please a General inspecting troops. Flank the bowl of apples with red candles decorated at base with sprigs of pine and cones.

The menu is:

Chili Con Carne (see below)
Sliced Buns
Red and Green Slaw (see below)
Garlic French Bread
Cottage Cheese around Cranberry Mould (see tomorrow)
Coffee Rringles (see tomorrow)
Mulled Cider (see tomorrow)
Coffee (optional)

CHILI CON CARNE (For 12):

Wash and soak 1 1-2 pounds dried kidney beans in 7 1-2 cups cold water overnight. In the same water (adding more if necessary) simmer covered until tender. Meanwhile sauté gently in 4 tablespoons butter or margarine or cooking oil, 1 large Spanish onion peeled and chopped, 2 green peppers (optional), then add 2 1-4 pounds hamburg meat, breaking it up as you add it so the meat does not sear in lumps. When light brown add one 28-oz. can tomatoes, about 3 teaspoons chili powder, 2 teaspoons salt and 1-4 teaspoon each garlic powder and black pepper. Simmer gently for about 15 minutes before serving time add the cooked kidney beans in any small amount of water still in the bottom of the pot. Taste to see if this has enough chili powder to please your crowd. If you want it "hot" add a shake of cayenne pepper.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

MONDAY

Chilled Grapefruit Juice; Mixed Grill: Calves' Liver, Calves' Kidney and Sausage; Scalloped Potatoes; Buttered Broccoli; Coconnut Layer Cake; Coffee.

RED AND GREEN COLE SLAW (For 12):

Shred as finely as string one medium-large head Savoy cabbage and 1-3 medium head hard red cabbage. Sprinkle with garlic salt and moisten with rough French dressing or mayonnaise to make it pleasantly moist and zippy.

Tomorrow I will give you the recipes for the remaining items served by members of St. Andrew's W.A.

WHERE THERE'S A Wish
THERE'S A Way
and the B of M way is sometimes the best way to say "Merry Christmas"

1. STUDENTS' AND BABIES' PASSBOOKS make a delightful extra for some youngsters on your list. Your gift is presented in a special passbook and enclosed in a Christmas cover guaranteed to make young eyes pop with glee.

2. MONEY ORDERS purchased for Christmas-giving come in gaily-decorated envelopes or folders that clearly spell out your Yuletide wish. Ideal for those "hard-to-buy-for" people on your out-of-town gift list.

3. SPECIAL CHRISTMAS CHEQUES are available in two colourful holiday designs — one like personal and one for business housegiving. They are "gift-wrapped" in a bright cover that glows with the spirit of the season.

Sometimes money is the only logical gift for three or four of the more "difficult" names on your gift list... but to some it is cold cash and Christmas-giving just don't seem to go together. Well, the B of M has the way to take the chill off cold cash and make your gift of money a warm, personal one, fully in keeping with the spirit of the season.

Look over the B of M's three ways to make your gift of money arrive to the tune of "Jinglebells".

WORKING WITH CANADIANS, YOUNG AND OLD ALIKE, SINCE 1817

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, three editors and a women's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers.

Andrew J. — A strange child in our home is too big a responsibility.

Flora J. — It's a chance to show a child what a home means.

Andrew J.: When my wife gave our name in as offering to care for a homeless child on a temporary basis, I pictured a newborn infant or a small baby. I wouldn't mind that.

But now the social worker tells us the big need is homes for older children. She brought a 9-year-old girl to meet us, and says she's preparing the child for a stay in our home.

This child will be a problem. She hung her head and wouldn't even look at us. I remember years ago my mother took in a foster child who gave her some terrible trouble. The caseworker said he did it to be sent away again. But my mother struck it out and in the end the boy behaved.

But I don't think Flora could stand that kind of acting up. She'd be all right with a happy, cheerful child. But a mean, sulky youngster is too big a job. I want her to say no.

Flora J.: My heart went out to poor little Bertha and I think I can bring a smile to that sad, frightened face.

From what the agency told me, her father is an alcoholic and she has never been able to come near him without his pushing her away or raising his hand to her.

Bertha's mother shows no warmth toward the child either; the social worker says. Although she doesn't abuse the child and tries to protect Bertha from her father, she doesn't pay much attention to her and treats her rather coldly.

All that child needs, I'll bet, is a chance to live with two grown people who treat her with kindness. Right now she probably thinks grownups are people who push children around and make them miserable.

Bertha will be a challenge to us. And Andy regrets that we'll have the help of the caseworker. She'll explain things as we go along. So far, she's the only adult Bertha trusts.

The Council: Once Mr. J. gave his consent to offering his home as a shelter for a foster child, he also gave tacit agreement to sharing in the solution of a problem. No matter what the age of the child, if his home life is disturbed, if he's been neglected, abandoned or maltreated so as to require "boarding out", he needs more than just physical care. He needs his emotional wounds bound up, too.

Of all the saintly services offered by man to man, conscientious foster care probably ranks among the highest. While there's a modest cash return for physical care, no assessment can be made of the value of a hug, a lullaby, a look at the stars! Mrs. J. seems eager to pay Bertha with the priceless extras that say, "I like you. You're a good person."

Naturally it's hard. Rejection has certainly warped Bertha's attitudes. Mr. J. cites the example of the boy his mother tried to help. Here was a youngster who was sure nobody loved him, and so acted as unlovable as possible to bring the expected response. Evidently the social worker saw through his misbehavior and recognized it as a "test." When nobody blew up, when he found that he was still welcome, he quieted down and began to cooperate.

That's about what will happen with Bertha. She's angry about her parents, and the caseworker expects her to transfer her anger to the foster parents at first. She'll prepare the J.'s for an "acid test" by Bertha of their friendship and also for constructive ways of showing Bertha just how far she can go. At heart a child yearns to have some limits imposed. And at first Bertha will be filled with disbelief that, despite her shenanigans, she is wanted in this home.

The caseworker also visits Bertha on a regular and predictable basis, giving the child's life some order and predictability for the first time.

So the J.'s have an opportunity to reach out to a cowering and confused child, atrociously mishandled, and kindle a spark of hope and enthusiasm within her. Above all, they may be the first to define two words for Bertha which she might otherwise only know from the dictionary, parents and home.

Librarian Gives Report For November

The following is the November report of the circulating library: circulation Main Library, adult 10,333; juvenile 4,187; East Hill, adult 654; juvenile 2,430; Prince of Wales, juvenile 1,030; Queen Mary School, juvenile 1,546; school boxes, no reports.

Books loaned to boys and girls, 9,152; adult circulation, 10,987; total books loaned, 20,170; periodicals and pamphlets loaned, 83.

The November total in 1959 was slightly higher than this. This could be due to the fact that the library was closed the last of October in 1959 and the circulation for November was slightly higher than usual.

Films and records: records loaned, 10; films borrowed, 82; attendance (film showings), 761.

Films popular were, "Exploring Your Growth"; "The Living Stone"; "Warp and Weft"; "South Pacific Island Children"; "Quetico"; "Community Responsibility", "Skyrack" and "Mission Ship".

NEW FILMS ADDED

Four new films have been added to the film library "The First Christmas"; "Little Lost Lamb"; "Mike Mulligan and his Steamshovel," and the "Story About Ping".

OTHER ACTIVITIES

"Young Canada's Book Week was held in the middle of November. We featured a display of new children's books in the auditorium. The radio station made frequent "spot" announcements and new children's titles were featured in the local paper.

"School classes have continued to come to the library. We have now completed Queen Victoria School, Sir Winston Churchill, Prince of Wales and Queen Mary Schools.

"November 19th the Library Club of the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School came to the library for a visit. These prospective librarians were shown the various tasks there are in a library and the many 'tools' used by librarians."

BOARD MEETS

The meeting of the Board members and Librarians of the Napanee, Picton and Belleville libraries was held in the Belleville Library auditorium November 7th to discuss the formation of a county library. Mr. William Roedde, Director of Provincial Library Service for Ontario presided. The province has greatly increased grants to encourage the formation of county libraries." The ideal set-up for a rural library is to follow the natural regions rather than the county boundaries but because of the grants (at the present time) the latter must be the area served. Mr. Roedde indicated that each county should organize on its own and consider amalgamation at a later date. The Belleville Library would become a part of the county system but could co-operate with it, according to Mr. Roedde. Some examples of co-operation cited were—joint book processing, joint bookmobile.

This was an interesting meeting and there was a great deal of discussion. It was the Napanee Public Library Board members who called the meeting. It is possible that they plan to organize the first county library in Eastern Ontario in the County of Lennox and Addington.

Miss Mary McDougall was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Mr. D. T. Marmora, Separate School Board appointee, who has left Belleville.

MODERN MANNERS

THE OFFICE CHRISTMAS PARTY

At this time last year I wrote about the "good old office Christmas party." The letters poured in. It was interesting to note that those who agreed with my stand far outnumbered those who heaped criticism upon my head.

Because the next two weeks will work together, day in and day out, usually find it hard to mingle in a social way with their co-workers. Particularly the Boss. In an endeavor to "loosen things up a bit," he usually serves liquid refreshments. Too often this leads to a dire ending. A few are bound to get out of line. Even Mr. Boss, inevitably, receives numbers will hang like a cloud over the office for weeks to come.

You say, "But office parties aren't all like this!" I agree with you. But let's face it honestly.

bring this deplorable custom out for its yearly airing, I have been asked by many readers to repeat my sentiments.

To my way of thinking (gained from actual experience), these celebrations do more harm than good. To begin with, those who Aren't most of them?

There are two other stand-out objections that come to mind. One is the giving of gifts, particularly if the office force is a large one. Unless someone has a bright idea ahead of time — such as having each member draw a slip from a hat, the slip containing the name of one person to whom a gift should be given — confusion will reign. Some will receive gifts — some won't. The safest way to handle this is to lay down the "No-gifts" edict.

My second complaint. If there is an office celebration, you are obliged to attend. This is particularly bad if the party is held on Christmas eve, when there are so many last-minute things to do, and so many other parties that you would much rather attend. Short of dire illness, or being from town, you can't refuse. Actually, it's an order from the Boss, isn't it?

Just a few suggestions if a party is held and you MUST go. Watch it! Be friendly and join in, but guard against overdoing it. No more of cyper-cocktails, liquid refreshments. No flirting with a member of the opposite sex. Say your goodbyes as soon as it is politely possible. You'll be glad that you did.

Of course the holiday season should not go unobserved in any office. But somehow, all things considered, wouldn't it seem better if Mr. Boss presented even a small bonus to each employee — a gift, or maybe an afternoon off? No chance of cyper-cocktails here, and I honestly believe the majority would appreciate it much more. What do You think?

Strokes of Scarlet Seen In Many Canadian Magazines

By DAVE STOCKAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Testimony is being presented in strokes of scarlet before Canada's royal commission on publications.

Red ink on the ledgers of Canadian magazines is mingled, it is charged, with a bleeding away of the Canadian identity through American competition that cannot be controlled without government intervention.

American publishers and some Canadians are replying that Canada's problems are anything but unique in a low-returns industry built on quicktrend foundations; that present pressures come from the growth of television as an advertising outlet, and from the giant strides taken by the weekend magazines in Canada with their national distribution.

NOT AN INDICATION

Royal commissions are turned loose to root out answers, and for this very reason the questions asked by their members cannot be taken as beacons lighting the way to conclusions to come.

But in comments originated in one city, underlined in another, repeated in a third, commission chairman M. Gratian O'Leary and fellow commissioners George Johnston and Claude P. Beaubien have spelled out in unmistakable terms a number of guides to their thinking.

Canadian groups and individuals have been told bluntly that the commission has no use for war parties out to lift American scalps for nationalistic pleasure.

GET WARNING

Americans arguing freedom of the press have been given sharp warning that the commission does not accept harpings on this point as a satisfactory answer to charges that they are threatening the existence of Canadian periodicals through unfair advantage.

In the forefront of submissions to the commission, and in the commission's thinking aloud, has been the idea that no action should be recommended that would in any way cripple exchange of ideas through the periodical press.

Canadian publishers basic quarrel is with American publishers who solicit advertising in Canada and run it in Canadian editions of their publications—raking in the revenues without the expense of originating the editorial matter that is the backbone of a magazine's sales appeal.

Gives Reasons For Teaching Safe Driving

TORONTO (CP) — Last year 831 persons were killed in motor accidents in Ontario — the population of an average country village.

Last year 28,000 persons were injured in traffic accidents—almost every resident of a city the size of Woodstock.

Last year property damage from motor vehicle accidents amounted to $35,000,000.

These cold, hard statistics should spell out the reasons why Ontario is trying to "get them young and teach them young," Transport Minister Rowntree said Friday night on a province-wide radio network.

Speaking on the provincial affairs program, Mr. Rowntree said the new experiment of teaching safe driving in secondary schools will "bring along a whole new generation of drivers, well-trained and safety conscious to the highest degree."

Ontario has more than 2,000,000 registered vehicles and 2,300,000 licensed drivers, Mr. Rowntree said.

Cross-Canada Survey

Christmas Tree Exporters Feeling Competition Pinch From Growers in States

By PETER REBAK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Christmas tree exporters in some Canadian provinces are feeling the pinch of competition from growers in the United States.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows that production in Quebec and New Brunswick is down 15 to 20 per cent while British Columbia output is off about 10 per cent.

The other major exporting provinces, Ontario, Nova Scotia and Manitoba, are cutting and selling about the same number of trees as last year.

Alberta, Saskatchewan, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland export few, if any, trees.

The United States takes more than 90 per cent of Canada's Christmas tree exports, with the rest going to the West Indies, Panama, Puerto Rico and Venezuela.

A trend in recent years to plantations rather than cutting trees from forests has created new standards for trees. The plantations have existed in the United States and although these are regarded as long-range operations, too, some Canadian exporters are already feeling the effects.

B.C.'s Douglas fir, once a favorite in Texas, California and Kansas, is rapidly losing ground to nursery - grown, carefully-pruned Scotch pine from Ontario and Michigan.

B.C. annually exports about $1,000,000 worth of trees. But, says W. E. Robertson, a leading producer in Kamloops, "unless something is done, the market will be practically a thing of the past within 10 years."

Some B.C. producers have launched their own Christmas tree farms to produce Scotch pine. J. Herbert Ltd., of Chilliwack, in the business since 1880, now has plantations near Courtenay on Vancouver Island and in the Kootenays of western B.C.

In Ontario, which exports about 3,500,000 trees to the U.S., Richard Woods, marketing chairman of the Yule Tree Farmers Association, says there is a shortage of premium-grade trees. "However, there are more lower - grade trees around because demand for them isn't as high."

Manitoba is running about the same level as last year when 200,000 trees were shipped to the U.S. and sold for $750,000 to $900,000. The bulk of Manitoba's exports go to the Minneapolis-St. Paul area where they retail for $2.50 to $3. They bring $1.25 to $1.50 on the domestic market.

Forestry officials in Quebec say that besides a 15-to-20-per-cent drop in sales from last year, 1,250,000 trees exported last year, prices are down. Trees measuring 4½ to 5½ feet compared with $2.50 to $3 in November.

New Brunswick, which sends 90 per cent of its output to the U.S., is running into competition from plantations in the northeastern states. This season's crop is estimated at 1,000,000 trees compared with 1,450,000 compared with 1,500,000 and 8730,000 last year.

Balsam fir remains the principal type shipped, with increasing demand for white spruce. Some trees go to Bermuda, others retail for as much as $8 each.

Bruce Zaltzman, a graduate student at the University of New Brunswick, says future market prospects for high - grade trees remain excellent.

Nova Scotia farmers, who used to curse the balsam with its brittle wood and quick - rotting needles, can match last year's export level of 2,500,000 trees for about $2,000,000. Because it's impossible to continue harvesting trees each year while maintaining tree quality, they do not foresee repetition of the 1957 record of 4,000,000.

Newfoundland has not exported any trees since 1957 when 1,000 were shipped to the U.S. But efforts are being made to revive the trade. Imports from other provinces and cutting from Crown lands in the area of the local demand in P.E.I., Saskatchewan and Alberta.

New Orleans, Most Tolerant Of All Southern Cities, Sees Tension Rising in Small Ways

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tension is rising in small, subtle ways in New Orleans, which has long prided itself on being the most cosmopolitan, most tolerant, most graceful city in the southern United States.

It is far from a battleground now, despite the image suggested to the world by women hecklers throwing eggs and obscenities near the two schools. White and blacks do not stand ready to leap at each other's throats. The streets are safe.

But people are becoming apprehensive.

The volume of passengers on the buses integrated peacefully three years ago) is reported to have fallen off. The tourist traffic is down. Fewer residents appear to be coming downtown to shop or dine.

Many people apparently fear that an incident between a child of a white and colored man might blow up into a major disruption.

You hear many reports. One says that some service companies are keeping their Negro deliverymen inside and sending white out instead. Downtown, a Negro parking lot attendant complains that tips from his white patrons have fallen off and the bitter comments are increasing.

But behind the surface tranquility—the Paris of the South has lost much of its gaiety.

People ask anxiously about the latest score. How many white children entered the William Frantz School today? Is the boycott weakening? When do you think they'll try to integrate the schools in our neighborhood? An overwhelming majority of white New Orleans opposes integration.

SHOW SOME SHAME

The mood of the city appears compounded of many things—apprehension, anger, frustration, some soul-searching and shame.

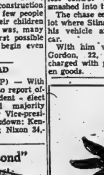
"The niggers are going too far," says a bitter cab driver of the fact that four Negro children, aged six, have been allowed into the two schools.

"It's too quiet," says a detective looking over a quiet street. "I'm afraid there could be real trouble."

"I'm all for segregation but I'm ashamed of those screaming women at the two schools," a well-mannered lawyer says privately.

City officials, businessmen, civic leaders are worried about the city's reputation and the effects on business. Many of them have explored the news coverage for over - emphasizing the taboos of a free and tolerant society.

Few people and no major organizations have publicly deplored the behavior of the rock-throwing, abusive women or the fact that they have threatened a white child of the group and a Negro woman bringing children to school.



The two schools are in the biggest, poorest ward in the city. The ward is integrated peacefully reserved for Negroes. In Ward 9 is found many Negroes colored and white people live close to each other.

But the big difference here is that many white workers feel increasing economic competition from the Negroes on the docks, in the plants, in construction jobs. And in Ward 9, few people can afford to send their children to private schools. It was mainly people think, the worst possible area of the city to begin even token integration.

Govt. Seizes Paton's Passport In South Africa

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Alan Paton predicted that the Commonwealth will disintegrate if South Africa is allowed to remain a member after it becomes a republic next May 31.

Paton, whose passport was seized last Monday when he returned from receiving the Freedom Award in the United States, makes the statement in the Johannesburg Sunday Times.

The paper prints the text of a talk the author had intended to broadcast in reply to an attack on him over the South African Broadcasting Corporation facilities. It accused him of disloyalty.

Paton, author of Cry the Beloved Country, was refused permission to reply to the attack on the radio.

He says that the Commonwealth as a "non - racial forum" will disintegrate if South Africa is not "contain a member which practices racial apartheid."

He does "not want to see the Commonwealth fall apart" because "it is a force for order and peace in a broken world."

Paton is leaving for the South African government. My loyalty is to my country and its people, he continued. "I am sure the people will never be free until the government is utterly destroyed."

Magistrate Says All-Inclusive Question Asked

TIMMINS (CP)—Magistrate W. S. Gardner, who presided at the preliminary hearing of murder suspect Feener (Mickey) Feener, 23, said Sunday that "in effect" he had asked Feener if he wished to call witnesses.

The magistrate said that when he asked Feener whether he wished to say anything, he was asking an all-inclusive question. He did not ask Feener specifically if there were any witnesses he wished to call.

Feener, charged with the Sept. 5 knife-slaying of Kay Chounoir, 28, Saturday was granted a new preliminary hearing by the Ontario Supreme Court on the ground that Magistrate Gardner had refused to allow Feener to call witnesses.

Magistrate ordered the hearing committed Feener to trial. The new hearing was ordered by Mr. Justice D. C. Wells, who said Feener would remain in custody.

Escapee Will Face Four Charges in Court

OTTAWA (CP) — An escapee from the Burwash industrial farm near Sudbury will appear in Ottawa police court today on four charges of breaking and entering, criminal negligence in the operation of a motor vehicle and escaping custody.

William Arthur Stinson, 21, of Ottawa, was arrested by police early Sunday after a 90-mile-an-hour chase through city streets.

Stinson escaped from Burwash in late September.

Seven police cars joined in the chase. One RCMP constable was not injured when he lost control of his car and smashed into two private cars.

The chase ended on a parking lot where Stinson lost control of his vehicle and hit a parked car.

With him was his brother, Gordon, 22, who has been charged with possession of stolen goods.

"Cinderella" Grain Crop Harvested in Past Year Under Near Ideal Conditions

WINNIPEG (CP) — Western farmers harvested a "Cinderella" grain crop under almost ideal conditions in 1960 but they'll need some good spring rains for a repeat performance in 1961.

A grain company official here gave the "Cinderella" tag to this year's crop, estimated at 470,000,000 bushels of wheat and close to 700,000,000 bushels of other grains.

"It exceeded everybody's expectations," said the official. "It was a crop grown on subsoil moisture."

Heavy rains fell in the fall of 1959 over large areas, hindering harvests or hailing them and leaving grain in the fields. However, this moisture was still in the ground when it came time to plant the 1960 crops.

In some areas the ground was wet but farmers had trouble getting on the land to plant. Then a prolonged heat wave came close to burning it out. It was the moisture reserve from 1959 that saved them until summer rains finally came.

DRIEST IN YEARS

The year 1960 was the driest in years. The research department of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association, in its annual publication, the Prairie Grain Annual, says: "Outside of 1958, when the index was approximately the same, there have been only three years in the past 25 when a fair moisture over Western Canada as a whole was lower than reported for 1960."

The general moisture situation on the Prairies was rated as 87 per cent of normal compared with 122 per cent in the autumn of 1959.

"Moisture is very critical at the present time," said a grain company official, "and we could have some effect on farmers' purchases in the spring. Farm prices are definitely economizing on capital outlays for machinery and personal needs."

However, he added, some good spring rains would put grain over the whole picture.

Good crops or bad, marketing still remains a major problem.

As the Manitoba government Crown Grain Commission says: "The major problem remains the orderly marketing of major grains together with the restricted sales involved under the quota system of marketing."

DURUM IN DEMAND

Quotas — under which farmers may deliver a certain number of bushels of grain to their nearest elevator for each crop they seek —vary according to grades and districts. Since the start of the 1960-61 crop year, Aug. 1, farmers have been stuck with high-grade No. 2 and 3 northern grain because the Canadian Wheat Board, government marketing agency, has been juggling quotas to fill overseas demand for such grains as durum wheat, used in making such foods as macaroni.

This has made it hard to get durum wheat surplus of several years standing but that hasn't made the farmers with high-grade hard wheat any happier. However, durum quotas are expected to be worked out before the end of the crop year on July 31.

What about overseas sales? W. C. McNamara, chief commissioner of the wheat board, said Oct. 31 that there is no high-level Canadian trade commissioners in Ottawa but Canada is aiming at 40 per cent of the international commercial market for wheat and flour.

"We can claim this position because the grain producers of Western Canada are specialists in the production of top-quality milling wheat and we have the facilities and the marketing organization to sell our products the world over."

Mr. McNamara recalled that in the year ended last July 31, exports of wheat and wheat flour were valued, at $474,000,000. Indicating confidence that such sales would continue, he said: "It is the considered opinion of this board that the policy under which we are operating is producing results, particularly the commercial markets around the world."

A sidelight on the Western farm picture in 1960 was chemical control of wild oats, described as a breakthrough in the attack on one of the most pestiferous weeds to affect Western grain crops.

Another high point was the interest that developed in a new strain of wheat—Pembina. This was distributed to selected farmers a year ago by federal officials in the hope that it would help to save all the good qualities of the rust-resistant Selkirk strain but with better milling and baking qualities.

Second Language May Be Taught In Few Years

TORONTO (CP)—Canada may be discussing during the next few years a major break-through in teaching its children a second language, R. H. MacKinnon, director of research for the Toronto board of education said Saturday.

He told the second annual meeting of the Ontario Educational Research Council that compulsory Grade 7 French experiments during 1959-60 had indicated the necessity of a continuous, integrated program at every stage.

Although more than 20,000 Ontario pupils in Grade 7 classes are studying French this year there is "growing evidence which indicates all could learn a second language—However, research must keep with any scheme learning conditions are similar for two languages the learning of a second language could be accomplished.

Raymond Duplessis, head of the French department in Oakville schools, said elementary school children studying French under the Tanguay method start expressing themselves after only eight months instruction.

"And it's sudden," he said, "they start expressing themselves in French. Of course there are those who start in September or October. But the whole group seems to explode about April."

The Tanguay method is a system which recognizes the ear must be trained to a new language before speech is attempted.

Telethon Toy Drive Ended Early Sunday

SUDBURY (CP) — The seventh annual Barbershop Singers' telethon toy drive ended at 3:15 a.m. Sunday in Sudbury radio stations CKSO and CHNO and a Blind River radio station (CJNR). More than 149 entertainers and prominent figures participated.

Two Councillors Lose Bids For Re-election

TORONTO (CP)—Two councillors said by Toronto Star columnist Pierre Berton to have business interests that could conflict with their public positions lost re - election bids Saturday in nearby Vaughan Township.

Defeated were Councillors E. W. Anstey, running for reeve, and Bruno M. Ralph who sought to retain his seat on the four-man council. Each ran last in the balloting.

Only incumbent councillor returned was Jesse Bryson, elected as deputy reeve. Mr. Bryson said last Thursday his nine year-old daughter Ruth received a phone call threatening her life if her father did not withdraw from the race.

Albert Rutherford was elected reeve, defeating Mr. Anstey and Victor Ryder, the 1960 deputy reeve. Other councillors are George Keffer, Mrs. Ruth McConkey and F. Maurice Lindatt.

Mr. Berton, a resident of the township, in his column last Saturday wrote that Mr. Ralph had done considerable legal work during his term of office for two land development companies in Vaughan, and that Mr. Anstey had entered into a close business association with a key figure in several land development companies there.

At a ratepayers' meeting that night, Mr. Ralph said he had received no advice whatever on any of his legal clients and Mr. Anstey said he had never been involved with any company having any dealings with the township.

Belleville Firm to Present Brief on Publishing Industry

TORONTO (CP)—The royal commission investigating the health of the Canadian publishing industry moves into the publishing centre of the country today.

The commission, under Mr. Grattan O'Leary, president of the Ottawa Journal, faces a heavy schedule during its five-day sittings here.

More than 50 briefs are expected to be heard. If the pattern set in earlier sittings across the country is followed, many of the submissions will be followed by lengthy interrogation by Mr. O'Leary and his commissioners.

On the packed agenda for the week are statements by university groups, periodical publishers, freelance writers, manufacturers, librarians, culture organizations and newspapers.

Most of those submitting briefs are from Toronto. Others will travel here from Fergus, Kitchener, Belleville and Ottawa.

The commission comes from a week of public hearings in Montreal, which, closed with Mr. O'Leary delivering a ringing lecture on the history and freedom of the press.

The only way to combat this is to with newspapers and magazines".

"It is a ratepayers' meeting that night, Mr. Ralph said he had received no advice whatever on any of his legal clients and Mr. Anstey said he had never been involved with any company having any dealings with the township.

stricted without infringing the freedom of the press.

"I find that an astounding statement", the commissioner said.

Freedom of the press does not underwrite the prosperity of a newspaper or magazine, he said.

It was "only the right of Grattan O'Leary to bring out a pamphlet".

Among organizations and persons scheduled to appear at the Toronto hearings are: Periodical Distributors of Canada, Belleville, Dominion Electrohome Industries, Limited, Kitchener.

One experience when over in Kalota this fall really had me puzzled.

You know that odd custom on the island? Men always tell the truth. A woman, however, never makes two consecutive true or untrue statements. If one is true her next is a lie, and vice versa. And the same goes for all the kids too.

Meeting a Kalotap couple with their child, I asked the kid: "Are you a boy?"

The reply was in Kalotani But the parents both spoke our language. "Kibi said: 'I am a boy'," declared one of them. "Kibi is a girl. She lied," the other told me.

Well! What could I make of all that?

Indians Win Over Aces, Bisons Lose

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The figure 12 holds a special meaning for Harry Pidhirny and Springfield Indians.

The Indians lead the American Hockey League by 12 points and Pidhirny, for the 12th consecutive season, has reached the 20-goal mark. The 32-year-old centre scored twice Sunday night to lead the Indians to a 7-4 victory over Quebec Aces.

In other games, Hershey Bears moved into a third-place tie with Buffalo by defeating the Bisons 6-, and Rochester Americans beat the last - place Providence Reds 5-2.

The Indians had an easy time Saturday as they overpowered the Americans 8-2. The second-place Cleveland Barons edged the Bisons 4-3 in overtime, while the Bears beat the Reds 4-1.

Pidhirny, a fire-foot-lieves native of Toronto, has 220 regular-season goals in an AHL career that dates back to 1948.

ALAN LIGHTNER SWICE

Jim Anderson also scored twice for the Indians Sunday night. Bruce Cline, Kent Douglas and Bob Kabel got singles. Quebec scorers were Jean Marie Cossette, Jackie Leclair, Camille Bedard and Norm Corcoran.

Jack McIntyre scored two goals for the Bears against the Bisons. Larry Zeidel and Bob Duff added the others. Dick Gamble scored goaltender Jim Millar's shutout bid with a goal at 18:10 of the third period.

Spurs Edge Preston 1-0, Wolves Win

LONDON (CP) — Tottenham Hotspur earned a hard-fought victory over Preston North End Saturday to keep its eight-point lead over its nearest rivals in the F a r a d a y Soccer League's first division.

The Spurs have 28 points from 21 games, Wolverhampton Wanderers and Everton, who both now read games Saturday, are tied for second place with 20 points apiece.

Going into the second half of the campaign, the Spurs will be shooting at the 50-year-old season records—Arsenal's 66 points and Aston Villa's 128 goals. The Spurs now have 24 goals.

Wolverhampton won a 4-3 road victory over Manchester City.

Sheffield Wednesday defeated Blackburn Rovers 3-1 to give Sheffield 28 points, but two behind Everton and Wolverhampton.

Arsenal posted a 5-1 victory over Bolton Wanderers, Fulham tied 4-4 with Manchester United and scored three times in the last nine minutes to draw 5-5 with West Ham.

WINNING STRING BROKEN

Aston Villa's undefeated string of nine games was snapped by Nottingham Forest, which won by a 2-0 score.

Second division leader Sheffield United suffered its third loss in a row, going down 2-0 at Derby. Liverpool remained on identical-dwelling Swansea Town 4-0 Sheffield United now has 21 points to Liverpool's 20 but Liverpool has played two fewer games.

Bury strengthened its lead in the third division with a 4-1 win over Newport. With 33 points, Bury leads by three points over Grimsby Town, which tied Southend 1-1.

Crystal Palace, 2-0 winner at York, heads the fourth division by three points over Peterborough, 2-1 losers at Barrow.

The top scottish division clash in the Scottish first division ended with a 2-1 win for Rangers over Hibernian at Edinburgh. Aberdeen did Rangers a good turn by beating Kilmarnock 2-1. Rangers with 24 points from 16 games, lead Kilmarnock by three points.

Montreal Canadiens' Bernie Geoffrion, who scored two goals to help the Canadiens to a 6-4 victory over Detroit Red Wings.

Toronto goalie Bobby Hull, who scored two goals as Toronto defeated Black Hawks 5-2 Saturday.

Montreal Canadiens' Charlie Hodge, who stopped 32 shots, and came to within 13 seconds of registering a shutout as Canadiens beat Detroit 3-1 Sunday.

Don McKenney of Boston who scored the tying goal as Boston and New York tied 2-2 Sunday.

Toronto's Frank Mahovlich, who scored four goals and assisted on another to lead Maple Leafs to a 8-4 victory over Chicago Sunday.

Minor Hockey

The usual five games were played in the Trenton section of BMHA Saturday morning, and also as usual, the games were all close, hard - fought affairs.

Rangers shaded the Maple Leafs by a 3-2 score. Brimelow bagged the winning goal after Rick Haynes had scored the other two Rangers markers. Peter Bishop and John Holmes fired the Leafs goals while Gary Lowe drew one assist.

Canadiens and Black Hawks fought to the morning's lone tie, 3-3 deadlock. Darryl Metz provided both Canadian markers while Bruce LaRue and Ron Hawke scored for the Hawks. Hawk assists went to Hal Wishart and Greg Wells.

Barons captured a 4-1 decision over Quints. Jim McCreary scored one goal and helped out another. Tim Doran, Ron Brooks and Clifford Scott also scored with Williams and G. Cameron drawing assists. Wayne Mullin was the lone Quints marksman.

Ron Hannah's two goals sparked the Bruins to a 6-2 win over the Red Wings. Ross McDonald and Frank Noble had the other goals and Wayne McTaggart earned one assist.

Browns piled up the biggest score of the morning to down the Maes 8-0. Paul Goodfellow scored twice, Joe Lumsdon, Doug Thompson, Ted Herrington and Ted Beresford one each. Herrington also picked up a pair of assists while Lumsdon, Paul Philip Denyes, S. Fellister and Lumsdon.

Macs, Quints, Black Hawks, Bruins and Maple Leafs challenge wins in Section B Juvenile division of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association on Saturday morning.

The Macs downed the Browns 4-1. G. Blakely, R. Townsend and B. Bowerman had goals while Pilcher, R. Lawson and T. Wesend drew assists. J. Sinclair scored the losers lone goal with J. Skinner assisting.

The Barons dropped the Quints 5-3 on goals by Paul Fludell scored twice for Quints with P. Hawkins, Gerry Hawke, Bill Hawkins and Bob Hawke getting one. B. Derry potted the Quints other goal with Hawkins helping on one.

Black Hawks two goals paced the Black Hawks to a 2-1 victory over the Leafs. Jeff Smith added the third Hawk goal while S. Knudsen, D. Halsey and Bill Wilson drew assists. B. Pearson was the lone Leafs marksman.

Bruins ran roughshod over the Rangers 7-1 on goals by Peter Foley registering the shutout. Fy Ritchie and D. Hutchinson each had hat tricks and two assists to pace the Bruin attack. Rangers lone goal was by Dougherty, L. Stewart, B. Hallam and L. Wilson, Jr. Assists. Rayford had two assists and Hallam one.

Maple Leafs took a 5-1 win over the Rangers with S Keary getting the hat trick. Leafs bagged three goals and assisted another. M. Wood had a goal and assist, J. Muldoon a goal, R. Law and G. Lucas an assist apiece. Bennett and Stewart for Rangers with help from D. McMullin.

Rams Wallop Colts 10-3, Browns Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Baltimore Colts were handed a 10-3 defeat Sunday by Los Angeles Rams, a near - knockout blow to their slim hopes of winning the Football League title blues. At the same time Houston Oilers clinched the American Football League's eastern division crown and will meet the Western Champs in a championship playoff.

Quarterback Van Brocklin's victory Saturday over San Francisco left the Rams in sole possession of first place in the Western division. A Packer victory next Sunday over Los Angeles would give Green Bay the championship in a three-way tie with Baltimore and Philadelphia Eagles — Eastern Conference champs — in a playoff at Philadelphia Dec. 26.

Houston defeated Buffalo Bills 31-28 to run up the Eastern division crown. The Oilers will play Los Angeles' 42-35 winner over Denver Saturday, in the western race, for the championship in Houston Dec. 18.

Detroit Lions downed Dallas Cowboys 23-14 and earned a second-place tie with Baltimore and San Francisco in the NFL western conference.

In other NFL games, Philadelphia was knocked off by Pittsburgh 27-21, New York Giants beat Washington Redskins 17-6 and Cleveland Browns blasted Chicago Bears 45-0.

Dallas Texans thumped Boston Patriots 34-0, and New York Titans edged Oakland Raiders 31-26 in the AFL.

Jason Robarts Jr. Hailed As Finest New Actor

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jason Robards Jr., who got his seasoning in television, has been hailed as the theatre's finest new actor. What is he like?

He has been compared to Humphrey Bogart. Actually, he looks more like Bogart's pal, John Huston — lean, lowering, long-faced with rather hard and burning eyes. He talks frankly, although he was, of course, guarded about his reported plans to marry Lauren Bacall, Bogart's widow. Her name has been mentioned in Mrs. Robards's divorce action in New York.

But Robard did reflect on his early Hollywood days. He isn't a native, but he was born on the way.

"My father and mother were touring in a play across the country," and it arrived in Chicago," he said. "They came to Hollywood and settled here. My father was starring in pictures then, and the living was good. Later, things started to go downhill and the living wasn't so good."

BAD LITTLE INTEREST

Robards admitted that the roller - coaster - nature of his father's career may be the reason why he showed little interest in acting as a boy.

Landing in Manhattan after the war, Robards decided to try acting after all. He did a mess of soap operas and got into TV. He has appeared on 400 shows, the latest being the highly lauded The Iceman Cometh.

Robards Jr. finally made it back to Hollywood, but that doesn't mean he'll stay.

"New York is the place for me," he said. "The theatre is what I like; you can't beat what you get from audiences."

Graphic and Heart-Tearing Account of Refugees Given

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Television didn't offer much competition to Christmas gift lists during the weekend. With one notable exception it held little of special interest.

The notable exception was Saturday night's CBS Reports program called Rescue and narrated by Eric Sevareid. It was a graphic and often heart-tearing account of some of the men, women and children who for years have been "rotting"—Sevareid's word — in refugee camps throughout the world.

Many of these 19,000,000 subjects in squalor are increasingly day-by-day hunger. But it was not their plight that was most incredible crowded quarters that was most shocking. It was the blank look on the faces of these suffering rootless ones, the look of spiritless without hope.

FOLLOWS FAMILY

Although the program showed displaced persons' camps in Africa and Europe, it followed one Armenian family—the Khanzeres —from a DP camp to a new life and happy ending in Winnipeg.

The Khanzeres, Ukrainians, were relocated in Winnipeg last spring after six years in an Austrian camp. TV cameras followed the family of six on their journey from the camp to a home provided for them in Winnipeg.

The father is a tubercular patient, one of several hundred selected by CBS Reports and the Refugee Year, He was placed in a hospital for treatment.

The Khanzeres story, ended with the family's 13 - year - old daughter meeting new young friends that coming in Canada "the Canadian DP camp was a happy wonder for us."

In the camp, she said, 'they were always hungry. But in Canada, "we have everything to eat."

Kenmors Receive Trophy, Jackets

"TO THE VICTORS . . .!"—Belleville Kenmors, Ontario junior baseball champions received the OBA trophy at their banquet Saturday night. Pictured from left to right: executive members and sponsors, Jack Carson, who presented it. Ted Mowers, Vic Morris, Ken Soden and George MacDonald. Bottom row, team captain, Jackie Elliott Jr., who received the trophy, and OBA first vice-president Harold Ballard.

Junior Champions Honored

The Belleville Kenmors, this city's first junior baseball champions, were honored here Saturday night.

Winners of the OBA all-Ontario Junior "A" major championship, the club was feted at a buffet banquet and party, spiced with presentations of trophies and awards.

They were formally presented with the Ontario Baseball Association Trophy by OBA first vice-president Jack Carson and handsome crested jackets by the city and their sponsors.

They heard several congratulatory tributes and rounded out the enjoyable evening with dancing in the auditorium of the Oddfellows Hall.

The Kenmors brought the fifth Ontario baseball championship to their city. Other championship teams were three senior clubs, the 1919 Grand Trunks, the 1926 Nationals, and the 1934 Belleville Bataa. The 1951 Belleville juvenile team accounted for the other.

Upwards of 100, players, officials, parents and guests attended the banquet. Mayor A. McLean Haig, present with Mrs. Haig represented the city. Representatives of other city athletic organizations were in attendance.

Members of the Belleville Umpires Association headed by President Al. Kelleher did a magnificent job "behind the plate".

OBA vice-president Carson following presentation of the trophy to sponsor Ken Soden and Vic Morris pointed out the Kenmors had won Belleville's first junior baseball crown.

"I am just as proud of this feat as you are" he told the Kenmors "and next year when I hope to be the OBA president I hope to have the pleasure of presenting it to you again."

"The Hamilton club, 1949 winners," Mr. Carson said, "had let their achievement go to their heads. They expected to play a bunch of farmers down here. Don't let this happen to you".

Mayor Haig presented the jackets to the players, later passing around a baseball autographed by the New York Yankees for the boys' inspection.

He said he had long been an admirer of Messrs. Soden and Morris and knew that under the training and sponsorship of these men the Kenmors had learned how to play the game.

Winning the championship "has been important to you and important to Belleville" the mayor said.

He had come to the conclusion although that baseball is a sport that demands technique, stamina, physical condition and endurance.

"It was a fine thing to see these young amateurs, a rare thing in these days, bring home the championship. We have had other championships, but we attained these at a great expense. It is gratifying to see that you operated on such a modest budget."

He paid tribute to the versatility of the Kenmors noting the majority were "fine young boys, key players". He had noted, he said, that recently a Canadian senator had deplored the fact "Canadians were soft." It is a pity not more young Canadians are not interested in sport".

He quoted a Duke of Wellington statement that "England won its wars on the playing fields of Eton" adding that the future of Canada could well be decided on the baseball diamonds and hockey arenas."

He congratulated the team on behalf of the city and council, saying "Belleville is proud of you."

Manager Ken Soden, speaking of the future of baseball here, said he did not know anything definite as yet, but hoped to see a lakeshore league in action next year.

He said he also hoped to conclude arrangements with city and other officials whereby the Fair Grounds diamond could be used for their night and Sunday games could be played.

"Senator" Berry Rollins was in his usual humorous form shooting verbal arrows. He said jokingly he was glad the city could help as he understood its present financial condition would not permit much expense. He paid fine tributes to Messrs. Soden and Morris adding his congratulations to the club.

George Blanchard was master of ceremonies and in a brief address outlined the history of the team and its achievements during its seven years of operation.

Seek Club For Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — A Hamilton group has suggested that the transfer of Montreal to Syracuse in the International League is not successful, the league should consider the possibility of placing a team in Hamilton.

Art Mullen, former president of Hamilton Cardinals of the Provincial League, and George Goodrow, vice-president of the Hamilton Cardinals of the Inter - County Senior Baseball League, have approached IL president Tom Richardson.

Pointing out last week's affirmative vote for Sunday sports in the city, Goodrow also noted that Hamilton "is close to Buffalo, Toronto and Rochester, all members of the International League."

Goodrow said Civic Stadium would seem to be "the most logical choice" for a playing site.

WON BOTH RACES

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Boris Stenin, Russia's 1949 world speed skating champion, Sunday won both the 500- and 3,000 - metre races in Norway's first International meet of the season. Stenin won the 500 metres in 43.4 seconds and the 3,000 in four minutes 59.2 seconds.

Decisions Thompson

Paret Retains Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba retained his title Saturday night by hammering out a unanimous 15-round decision over cut and blood-smeared Federico Thompson at Madison Square Garden.

Judges Joe Eppy and Leo Birnbaum had Paret ahead nine rounds to six. Referee Art Mercante had Paret the winner, seven to six with two rounds even.

Paret, 167, kept on top of his taller, 162½ pound opponent all the way with a slashing, two-fisted attack to body and head.

Blood flowed freely from a jagged, vertical half-inch cut on the left side of Thompson's face in the third round. Thompson had to swallow much blood and that hampered his breathing and slowed him.

From that round on, both fighters were covered with blood.

BATTERED IN SEVENTH

But Thompson, 32, who had fought Paret, 23, to a 12-round draw last March, rallied in the seventh and eighth rounds to make it "close up to that point.

Then Paret, a muscular, buzzsaw puncher, stepped up his pace again and virtually swept the ninth through the 12th rounds to take the fight. He moved in close on his tiring foe and battered his bleeding face and sore body.

There were no knockdowns in the battle that had a crowd of 6,000 cheering throughout. Both fighters were shaken twice each in a fiery second round.

After the battle, Harry Markson, general manager of Garden Boxing, said he planned to match Paret in a March title defence against the winner of next week's Garden fight between unbeaten Luis Rodriguez of Cuba and contender Ernie Griffith of New York. Rodriguez is the No. 1 contender.

The jubilant Paret said that sounded fine.

This was Paret's first defence of the crown he won from Don Jordan on a decision at Las Vegas May 21. He was a 6-to-5 favorite. The former sugar cane cutter now has a 33-7-3 record. Thompson's three - year - unbeaten streak was snapped at 32. His record is 109-8-6.

Commercial Hockey League Results

Williams Brothers climbed back on the victory wagon in Commercial hockey league action last night with a 5-3 decision over Booth TV's in a wild, penalty-riddled affair.

In the other half of the twin bill, Joyce Real Estate and Jones' Motors fought to a 3-3 deadlock.

Referees Tim Williams and Hank Ford had their hands full in the Williams-Booth battle, handing out no less than 20 penalties in all, with just about everybody getting into the act.

The clubs fought on even terms in the first half of the game, tied 2-2, but Williams scored the only three goals of the second half. The win hoisted Williams into second place, one point ahead of Booth's.

Scoring for the winners were Gordie Green, Don St. Denis, Bob Brooks, Earl Cousins and Dennis Kerrulish. Bert Faulkner had two assists as did Wayne Wallie, while George Jacklin had one.

Chuck Rowbotham and Doug Hull fired the Booth goals with assists going to "Shaker" Baker, Larry Lougheed, Gary Rowbotham and Gord Irwin.

The other game was quiet in comparison with only half a dozen penalties being called.

Bill Newberry, Jim Sheridan and Hylee Bryant triggered the Joyce goals, Pat Gilmour drew two assists, Huck Reeves and Bill Vesterfelt one each.

Pug Kellar, Bob Boyle and Doug Dafoe bagged the Jones' markers with Pete Weston collecting the only assist.

Following is the standing, including all games played to date.

Red Wings Hand Teeps Two Defeats

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Red Wings climbed out of the cellar of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series this week with two decisions against defending Memorial Cup champions St. Catharines Teepees.

The Red Wings, who managed only two wins in their first 12 games, defeated Teepees 6-3 Saturday in St. Catharines after their 8-2 victory Friday night at Hamilton.

Guelph Royals maintained a two-point lead at the top of the series by shading top Toronto St. Michael's Majors 4-0, and Niagara Falls Flyers moved into second place with a 3-0 win over the last-place Toronto Marlboros with Bill at Maple Leaf Gardens Sunday.

Ralston's double win enabled the Wings to climb into a two-way tie with Teepees for fifth spot. Red Wings tonight will try to make it three in a row when they meet Peterborough Petes in Hamilton.

Saturday's game was marred by a free-for-all after the final whistle which resulted in a brain injury to St. Catharines forward Dave Earley, 20. He was taken to Hamilton hospital for emergency brain surgery. His condition was not believed serious.

Hull Ups Win Streak Over Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Canadiens' farm-club director Sam Pollock should be wreathed in smiles today when he goes over Eastern Professional Hockey League reports.

He'll get the expected good news from Hull - Ottawa Canadiens. The EPHL leaders waltzed to a 9-0 win over Kingston Frontenacs before 3,954 fans at the Hull arena Sunday. Canadiens thus extended their unbeaten home record to 15 games and now have good thoughts time home and away games without a defeat. Both are league records.

Unexpected glad tidings for Habs fans are the reports from Montreal Royals, the other Montreal farm team. Plagued with a rash of injuries that left them without three top - ranking defencemen in the minus regular netminder Charlie Hodge, Royals managed to hold Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds to a 1-1 draw.

In a third league game, Kitchener-Waterloo Beavers lost their sixth straight home game. They dropped a 7-3 decision to Sudbury Wolves.

WON THIRD STRAIGHT

The only game played Saturday saw Kingston trounce Thunderbirds 10-3, giving Frontenacs their third straight win, the longer winning streak they've mustered all season.

Mahovlich Scores Five Over Weekend

Leafs Whip Hawks Twice

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Big Frank Mahovlich would have a good reason for wishing Thursday Maple Leaws could play all their National Hockey League games on weekends.

The hulking 22-year - old left-winger has had phenomenal success among enemy ice's this season on Saturdays and Sundays.

He scored five goals during the past weekend as the Leafs routed the faltering Chicago Black Hawks twice, 5-2 at home Saturday and 6-1 at Chicago Sunday. Four of them came in Sunday's game.

The goals raised Mahovlich's total for the season to 26—two in the league—in 29 games. All but one of the goals have come during weekend games.

Montreal Canadiens also had a big weekend, defeating Detroit Red Wings twice to stretch a consecutive game-winning streak to eight. They came from behind to beat Wings 6-4 at home Saturday and then overpowered the Detroiters 5-1 away Sunday.

RANGERS WIN AND TIE

New York Rangers and Boston Bruins also played back-to-back home games. Rangers whipped 3-0 at Boston Saturday and tied 2-2 on home ice Sunday.

The results upped first - place Canadiens' lead to five points over second-place Toronto. Montreal has 46 points to Toronto's 33.

Detroit fell to third with 27 points. Chicago, winless in its last seven games, remained fourth with 21 points. Rangers are fifth with 21 and Boston has 20.

Bert Olmstead, George Armstrong, Eddie Shack and Dave Keon each scored once besides Mahovlich's single goal Saturday.

Olmstead fired the Leafs' other two goals Sunday while Bobby Hull scored all three weekend goals for the Hawks.

The Leafs dominated Saturday's game, peppering Chicago goalie Glenn Hall with 46 shots. Sunday the Hawks had an edge in play but Hall thwarted 31 veteran Johnny Bower who stopped 48 of 49 shots fired at him.

Canadiens came from behind four times before winning against the Red Wings Saturday. Dickie Moore got the 200th goal of his NHL career, becoming the 32nd player in league history to do so. the goal, his 24th this season, came late in the third period on a pass from Marcel Bonin.

Bernie Geoffrion had two of Montreal's other goals while singles went to Jean Beliveau, Claude Provost and Bonin.

Norm Ullman, Parker MacDonald, Marc Reaves, and Howe scored for the Red Wings. The Canadiens' boss was a 5-3 lead Sunday and goalie Charlie Hodge, subbing for injured Jacques Plante, held the Wings scoreless until the last minute of play.

Howe spoiled Hodge's shutout bid, scoring with only 13 seconds remaining in the game.

Doubie Marshall, Doug Harvey, Geoffrion, Beliveau and Richard scored for Canadiens.

Lorne (Gump) Worsley's shutout over the Bruins Saturday was his first in two seasons. He made 21 saves to get it.

Earl Ingarfield, Red Sullivan and Ted Hampson got the New York goals.

Boston's Johnny Bucyk and Don McKenney scored two goals in the final six minutes to tie 2-2 with Rangers Sunday.

Defenceman Harry Howell and Johnny Wilson had sent the Rangers into a 2-0 lead in the first period.

Dean Prentice, New York's high scoring left winger, suffered a dislocated bone in his left wrist in the first period and is expected to be out of action for about three weeks.

The Rangers are already without Edwards Camille Henry and Brian Cullen, also out with injuries.

N.H.L. Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto's big Frank Mahovlich made a spectacular entry into the select circle of National Hockey League scoring leaders Saturday night by scoring four goals to lead Maple Leafs to a 5-2 victory over Chicago Black Hawks.

It was the second time this year that Mahovlich scored four markers in a game. He now has 26 goals—the league's best—and nine assists for 35 points and fourth place among the leaders.

Montreal Canadiens' Jean Beliveau scored three goals and assisted on another over the weekend, still leads the league in 20 goals and 25 assists for 45 points.

Congdon Wins U.S. Golf

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Charles Congdon, 31, a professional from Concord, N.H., shot his second straight 69 Sunday and easily won the fourth annual U.S. Professional Golf Association tournament.

Congdon's three-under-par performance gave him a 72-hole score of 281.

Dick Metz of White Plains, N.Y., finished second with 282.

Congdon fired an 286 over the Desmaret of Houston, Tex., Eldon Briggs of Detroit and Joe Conrad of Des Moines, Iowa.

The lucky field of nearly 400 pros and amateurs more than 50 years of age competed over Bermuda Dunes, El Dorado and La Quinta country clubs.

Senior Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Small, speedy winger Bob Brown scored the first four goals of the game and led Windsor Bulldogs to a 5-2 win over Stratford Indians Sunday, increasing Windsor's lead in the Briggs of Detroit and Joe Conrad of Des Moines, Iowa. senior series to five points.

In other action, Woodstock Athletics Saturday night defeated Stratford Rockets 7-5 on two overtime goals by Bill Dineen, rejected by the Rockets early in the season.

In Windsor, Brown's scoring streak gave hi ma total of 11 goals in the last four games. Jack Costello added Windsor's fifth. Stratford scoring came from Jack McIlwain and Bill Flick.

Windsor goalie Ross Child and his counterpart Ron Salter both blocked 23 shots. The fast, hard-checking contest saw only two minor penalties, one to each side.

The win keeps Stratford in second place tied with Woodstock for 19 points, five behind Windsor.

Impressed by Russians

'Trail Must Strengthen'-Maroons

CHATHAM (CP) — Chatham Maroons figure Trail Smoke Eaters will have to improve 50 per cent to stand a chance of winning the world hockey tournament in Switzerland next March.

That's the impression picked up by the Allan Cup champions on a 21-day tour of Russia and Sweden which ended with their arrival home late Saturday.

"Maroons defeated the Smokies in straight games for the cup in Trail last spring. They chose the recent trip rather than the world tournament.

Maroons business manager on the tour, Dr. C. D. Keeley, said the Smoke Eaters "won't stand a chance of winning unless they improve a great deal."

"In fact," he said, "from the team I saw when we beat them in Trail, they have only two players who are in a class with the players we watched in Russia — defenceman Harry Smith and Pincke McIntyre."

Maroons themselves won only two of their nine games abroad, tying two others.

Dr. Keeley said he was impressed with the marked improvement in the play of the Russians over their play while on tour of Canada last year.

"Where they used to have had 20 good senior-calibre players two years ago they now have 40 or 50.

The thing that impressed us most was their excellent passing, speed and puck control. They relied a great deal on their speed and superior conditioning.

"They had a little more desire than we . . . this came of course from the fact that as individuals it was a tremendous desire to be on the national team.

"Every Russian team we played had at least four players from the national team. There were a couple of their younger players who I felt were professional-calibre better than Alexandrov, whom most Canadians feel is the best he Russians have sent over here."

"We played well but it was the speed and puck control of the Russians that made us look inept at times. . .

"We lacked the scoring potential of the team we had last year that won the Allan Cup. The loss of Ted Hart hurt, too, and forced us to revert to three lines instead of the four we used in the first game when we beat them 5-3. (Hart's father died at South Porcupine and the player flew home.)

"In regard to Trail again, I would hate to feel that any community would stand in their way of picking up help. They're going to need a great deal of it if they hope to win.

At Trail, Smoke Eaters spokesmen said they weren't shuddering at the prospect of meeting tough competition.

Playing coach Bobby Kromm said Sunday night he doesn't think Maroons went to Russia with the same team spirit as the club that beat Trail for the cup.

"I figure Chatham chose the trip to Russia because it wouldn't be such a financial drain on the people of Chatham," he said.

"We will definitely be stronger than the team they played last year. We have all the players that were in that final and we hope to pick up five experienced men to bolster the team.

"I feel we will have a team which will be a strong representative for Canada."

Kromm said he would be willing to have Trail go against the Maroons if financial arrangements can be worked out.

"If Chatham feels it could afford a trip out this way to meet us, we would welcome the chance to play them. However, our trip is going to cost us a lot of money and we can't afford to be making any side trips for exhibition games."

Smoke Eaters have lost only twice in 17 Western Interprovincial League games this season. Both defeats came last week after 15 victories.

Whips United States 3-2

Italy Pulls Big Davis Cup Upset

PERTH (AP)—Italy's veteran combination of Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola pulled one of the biggest upsets in Davis Cup history today by eliminating the United States with victories in the final two singles matches of their interzone series.

The Italians grabbed the best-of-five event 3-2 and now go against the defending champion Australians in the challenge round at Sydney, Dec. 28 to 30. It was the first time in 34 years that the Americans failed to make the final.

Pietrangeli defeated 20 - year-old Earl Buchholz of St. Louis 6-1, 6-2, 6-8, 2-6, 6-4 and the towering Sirola whipped Americ'ss Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4.

For Pietrangeli and Sirola it capped 10 years of top play and gave Italy the right to challenge for the international trophy for the first time in Davis Cup annals.

CAME FROM BEHIND

Down 2-0 after Buchholz beat Sirola and MacKay took a heartbreaker from Pietrangeli in the opening singles, the Italians came back to win the doubles Sunday after a tense five - set struggle with the U.S. schoolboy combination of Buchholz and Chuck McKinley.

Even then they were not given much chance of beating the Italian - inspired U.S. team. But Pietrangeli squared the series by whipping Buchholz in a thrilling three-setter. Till the Americans were fawored, even though MacKay had lost to Sirola the last time they met in the 1959 French championships.

Sirola, however, was far from awed at the American's big game. He aloud MacKay off until he pulled out the deuced first set, whipped through the second with two breaks of the American's service and then wrapped it up in the third set.

Sirola so tall he can stand in the centre court and lean over to make a shot in almost any corner, returned MacKay's shots with deadly accuracy. He gave MacKay little chance on his service.

The 6-7 Sirola and the 6-4 MacKay engaged in a battle of services through the first eight games of their opening set. MacKay had a good chance to break through in the second which went to 13 games. Each time the towering Sirola cut loose with a service which was almost unreturnable. And that is the way they continued until Sirola wrapped things up in the 16th game.

U.S. hopes grew dark when Sirola broke MacKay in the third game of the second set and went into a 3-1 lead by holding his own. He started returning the service and a perfect lob in the wind gave the Italian a second break through and the second set.

COULDN'T STAND IT

Big services boomed in the third set and there was no chance for either to break service through the first 10 games. At this point, Sirola had not dropped his service in 17 games. MacKay couldn't stand the pace and one break of service gave Sirola the set, match and series.

MacKay double faulted at match point. Then pandemonium broke loose as the Italian Kings Park courts. The Italians lifted Sirola to their shoulders and carried him to the dressing room.

Pietrangeli broke into tears. So did MacKay.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

In this corner's opinion the hockey understatement of the year has been made by playing coach Ted Peters of the Chatham Maroons who said, prior to their overseas tour, "We're going to teach the Russians and Swedes Canadian hockey."

The record of the Maroons sojourn in Moscow and Sweden, won two, lost five, tied two, supplies some sort of an answer to the Chatham coach.

Apparently Powers' knowledge of Russian and other European play and tactics was derived from film clips and television shows.

His remark, made in a moment of exuberance before a fan-fair covered by Canadian fans, wasn't accepted as any world-shaking statement by anybody who has seen European squads in action or are at all acquainted with the enthusiastic way Russian and other continental squads have taken up hockey.

Russian, Czechoslovakian, Swedish and other European clubs were taught Canadian hockey years ago. And they have proved clever students. Chatham discovered this yesterday in a statement attributed to Power in a magazine after the Maroons had been beaten two or three times, said: "The Russians skate well and they can carry the puck . . . I think the day is coming when we'll have to send over our professionals instead of our so-called amateurs."

That statement is far from being original. It has been made not a few times by those who apparently refuse to admit the tremendous improvement in the game made by European clubs and expect nothing but lop-sided scores such as occurred when Canadian clubs first introduced hockey in Europe.

These people, however, are in the greater minority. Fair-minded hockey people in the country realize that the Russians, Czechs, Swedes, et al, are rapidly approaching the "pupil-better-than-teacher stage."

Add to this the fact that senior hockey, the type usually called upon, with certain embellishments, to represent the nation in Olympics and world tournaments is suffering from what is feared to be a fatal disease, it is reasonable to assume that before too long Canada will be among the also-rans in world competition.

In fact, that could happen this year. Those who evaluate the strength of a club by that dubious method, statistics, will recall this Maroon club, without benefit of whatever reinforcements they acquired for the Russian-Swedish tour, defeated Trail Smoke-Eaters in four straight games in Allan Cup combat. And the Smoke Eaters will represent Canada in world tournament hockey in Switzerland come next March.

Also add to this the fact that in the land of the yodel and Alps the Smoke-Eaters will meet the Russian national team, a selection of all-stars of the clubs which defeated the Maroons five times, and tied them once.

The Russians are nobody's feels hockey-wise. The McFarlands discovered this in Prague in 1959. The invitation to a Canadian club to play in Moscow probably had a two-fold meaning. First, to give the Russians an idea of the strength of Canada's top amateur club. Second, to select the best of a half-dozen Soviet Union clubs to represent the USSR in Switzerland.

And if the Russians run true to form, the national club has already been selected and in some remote spot undergoing rigid training and coaching as a unit. We do not believe the Russian team which will meet the United States in the near fixture is the national club. The Russians have yet to send it abroad on pre-tournament tours.

After all, why shouldn't countries with similar climates, and with much more emphasis on national sports than Canada, develop a high degree of efficiency in hockey? Europe has produced splendid athletes in many phases of sport. There is no reason why it should not develop hockey players comparable to Canada's best.

If there is any reason for Canadians to panic, it is the situation at home. The only fingers of under-the-table professionalism has poked to death our best "amateur" clubs.

The sporic pages of the past few weeks have carried with almost sickening consistency, the news that another senior club has folded. "The future of the league is in doubt. The other day two western teams combined, after withdrawing, to make up a three-club circuit. The OHA has wielded its senior "B" clubs with the remnants of former senior "A" teams in an effort to save face.

Unless the club gets some topflight help, we do not believe the Trail Smoke-Eaters are good enough to bring home the world title. Their record does not show the strength of last year's Kitchener Dutchmen, who bowed out before an inspired American team.

And unless something is done about the situation at home, Canadians need not worry about European club beating our national representatives in the next few years. Like the Irishman said, after seeing his first giraffe, "It's a dam lie. There ain't no such thing."

TORONTO WON TROPHY

MONTREAL (CP) — Toronto Varsity Blues defeated McGill Redmen 6-3 Saturday in an intercollegiate water polo game here. The victory, coupled with an 8-4 win for Toronto on the previous weekend, gave the Blues an overall score of 14-7. Blues were awarded the Hrabovn Trophy, marking the first time in five years a McGill team has lost the two-game tournament.

— BUNNING SIGNED

DETROIT (AP) — Lanky Jim Bunning, a hard - luck pitcher last season, Saturday signed his 1961 contract with Detroit Tigers.

He was the first Tiger to sign. Bunning had an 11-14 record last season although his 2.72 earned run average was second lowest among American League - hurlers. He led the league in strikeouts for the second straight year with 201. Bunning also turned in three shutouts. Terms were not announced. But Bunning was believed to have earned a slight raise above his estimated earnings of $25,000 last season.

First Heir For Manville In 11 Marriages

CHAPPAQUA, N.Y. (AP)—Asbestos heir Tommy Manville, 58, announced Sunday that he and his 11th wife, former Zsa Zsa Gabor Eva Erdica, 21, are expecting a baby in early June. It will be his first child.

"I'm thrilled to death," Manville exclaimed when he smiled and recheked with the doctors, and there's no doubt about it—I'm definitely going to be a papa, and at my age!"

He said the baby will automatically get $1,000,000 at birth. Manville and Miss Erdica, a blue - eyed divorcee from Germany with a two-year-old daughter, were married last June. 11. They met while she was working as a waitress in nearby White Plains.

He said he and his wife might spend some time in Europe before the baby arrives but the "confinement will be born on American soil."

CASKET SURVIVES CRASH

LISBON (AP)—A plane carrying Brazil's unknown soldier of World War II home from Italy exploded and burned on landing here Sunday but the casket survived. All 32 persons aboard survived. The plane set fire to three carrying home the remains of 462 Brazilian soldiers who fell in Italy during the war. Officials said the 150 - pound casket survived the burned plane with ease.

GETS FIVE YEARS

TOKYO (Reuters)—A 30-year-old youth was convicted of attempted murder and sentenced to five years' imprisonment for stabbing Socialist party adviser Jotaro Kawakami June 12. The youth, Shinsaburo Toma, was wounded in the shoulder in the grounds of the Diet (parliament) while the Socialist was receiving petitions protesting the ratification of the revised United States-Japan security treaty.

FRENCH TROOPS

again today on the streets of Algiers. Explosions, presumably from concussion grenades thrown by police, were heard in the Belcourt workers' area.

Ambulances ranged through the city, taking wounded from isolated clashes to hospitals. Public transportation was paralyzed and the great seaport district was silent as a general strike called by right-wing extremists rolled into its third day. Most shops were closed.

De Gaulle spent Sunday night at Boufarik, far from the sporadic gun battles and street fights between European settlers and Moslems in Algiers and Oran Sunday.

Fifteen parachutes in battle dress fired on rampaging Moslems in Algiers. It was the bloodiest clash since the nationalist rebellion broke out six years ago.

HEAVY DEATH TOLL

Before nightfall, 81 persons lay dead in the streets of the capital and Moslems, Europeans and one French police officer. Four persons were killed in Oran. Behind the scenes efforts were underway during hatred between European settlers and Moslems may create an underground organization — the European Nightlife Front for a French Algeria (FAF), more militant rebels' National Liberation Front (FLN).

The FLN burst into the open with an apparently well-organized plan. Thousands of Moslems—men, women and children—poured into the city's downtown area. FLN flags and banners demanding an "Algerian Algeria."

And into the streets poured thousands of Europeans, determined to maintain their strict control of Algeria.

De Gaulle's officials took emergency steps to crack the rioting before it became a general uprising.

ARMY READY TO ACT

Gen. Jean Crepin, French Army commander in Algeria, said his troops will maintain public order without exception.

Jean Morin, Moslem demagogue, slapped a curfew on Algiers which killed publication of the city's three morning newspapers and established censorship on outgoing news dispatches.

Morin pleaded "with Algeria's Moslems and Europeans alike to spare Algeria from civil war and anarchy."

In Paris, French police, bracing to prevent any spread of violence to France, seized three Moslem leaders and 10 extreme-right offensive stories about the trouble in Algeria.

The fighting in Algiers, where the Europeans and Moslems are about equal in number, developed in two low income quarters where both the Europeans and Moslems live — and around the Casbah.

About 2,000 Moslems, veiled women among them, marched the streets, many with their homes, setting them afire, and looting stores.

Deadly confusion swept the streets. At least one European's throat was cut.

NEW PARTY NEEDS

nomics professor at the University of British Columbia, said some form of new party should be established by any New Party movement. Many of Canada's capital should be accumulated by Canadians in "one way or another."

Dr. Jamieson suggested, however, that unless most moderate wage gaps tends to widen, profits and number of co-operatives, Waldemar Cordeiro, Sarnia Art-ist said co-operatives, providing "another country of investment" are the "essence of democracy."

Donald C. MacDonald, leader of the Ontario CCF party, was elected at a Saturday discussion as "it's a question of 'if' not 'how'" suggestion of moderation — wage demands of "exorbitant" unless governments were empowered to regulate corporation profits.

J. H. Brockelbank, Saskatchewan minister of mineral resources, told the conference the New Party can not survive unless it has a broad base of support in the farmer income and continuing wide increases among the labor force.

SEE NO DIFFERENCE

Mr. Knowles and Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan said there is no difference in the goals of the CCF and new party.

"We have never accepted the position that there is a fundamental difference between farmers and labor," Mr. Douglas told a press conference. "Neither has been getting his fair share of the Canadian income."

He said 850 persons of a public rally Saturday night that 50 per cent of Canadian people are living on 25 per cent of the national income.

Mr. Argue said delegates at the closing session Sunday that they should be prepared to fight New Party candidates immediately in cases of a federal general election next spring. He said Prime Minister Diefenbaker "is not at all sincere election "if he thinks he can win in the spring."

Blooming Quebec Community Linked to Civilization by Rail

GAGNON, Que. (CP)—Locked by forest, river and mountain, and unlabelled just two years ago, blooming Gagnon, Quebec community Saturday was linked to civilization by a new railroad.

Lands and Forests Minister Bona Arsenault sailed the last spike into a frosty tie Saturday to open the 128-mile railway line.

He promised vigorous government promotion for an iron mining and iron-smelting industry. Gagnon settlers await inauguration of the St. Lawrence Seaway to Montreal in 1959.

Gagnon will be producing 20,000 cubic daily of iron ore concentrate by next spring. Graded at 30-per-cent iron ore when taken from the ground, it will be refined in huge concentrators to 70 per cent before being shipped to United States and European smelters.

Mr. Arsenault said there are 23 northern Quebec sites with "at least as much potential as Gagnon," which contains an estimated 300,000,000 tons of iron ore.

Later, in an interview, he outlined plans for development of Quebec's resources.

The Liberal government would set up a natural resources department in several months with the objective of ending "economic segregation" in Quebec.

Foreign companies would be required to hire Quebec labor and develop resources with the benefit of the province as well as shareholders in mind.

He indicated that Sorel, 40 miles northeast of Montreal, might be the site of a steelmill. If so, the St. Lawrence River would be kept free of ice to

Canada Will Continue to Trade With Cuba

FREDERICTON (CP)—Canada reserves to herself the right to trade with any country in the world, including Cuba, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said in conference here Saturday.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government will make no effort to block trade agreements that may be made by the Cuban trade delegation now in Ottawa, although he personally would help to achieve her destined greatness. And he did not expect Canada's attitude would endanger relations with the U.S.

But he added that the "current imbalance of trade" could not go on forever. There was a "necessity to need" for increased export to the United States.

"The U.S. should realize that an increase in purchase of Canadian goods is necessary," he said.

SEAWAY IS ESSENTIAL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Federal Maritime Board has reaffirmed a finding that the ship subsidy program is essential to the and the Caribbean via the St. Lawrence Seaway is essential. The board did so despite the fact that it earlier permitted Grace Line Inc., the only American company operating on the route, to discontinue its service. A board spokesman said the ruling means Grace Line must reapply to use the route, it will be eligible for a federal operating subsidy.

"YIKES!"

The new line, named La Compagnie de Chemin de Fer Cartier, runs parallel to the Iron Ore Company of Canada railway between Seept-Iles and Knob Lake iron ore development and 50 feet deep at low tide.

Mr. Arsenault said Quebec-largely through its own facilities, will become specialists of finishing development. Forging their own development. Forging their development while French-speaking Canadians remained "hewers of wood and drawers of water."

Quebec's tendency to produce an elite of priests, lawyers and doctors while leaving industry to others had resulted in this.

The government would provide student grants to prepare Quebec natives to take over the land of development.

BIG TIMBER CUT

The premier announced that 2,000,000 to 4,000,000 cords of marketable timber would be cleared from the area to be flooded by the Manicouagan power dam. This would be one of the "greatest lumber salvage jobs in history" and would mean $150,000,000 to Quebec.

The new railway was built by Quebec Cartier Mining Company, whose $300,000,000 Gagnon development was financed by the biggest United States Steel Corporation.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Tuesday, December 13

General tendencies: Until noon all kinds of arguments or delays are apt to be in effect and it is necessary that you do make sure to avoid resentment or arguing with anyone else. Then through the night you are under fine aspects for gaining a better rapport with whomever you contact. Amusements, entertainment, recreation all fine.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be careful not to be too forceful with associates or continue to irritate those who do not agree with you in A.M. The remainder of the day and night are excellent for reaching greater accord with those you want in your aura in the future.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Important in A. M. that you labor most efficiently and carefully so that you do not have accidents or loss. The rest of day and night are fine for constructive accomplishment and engendering beauty in your surroundings.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Steer clear of heavy expenses in A.M. or having arguments with a loved one. Later is ideal for accomplishing a great deal in creative lines and increasing success and becoming more popular. Know true happiness. Be alive.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 23) — If you control your temper, situations at home can be ameliorated appreciably, before lunchtime. Later all foundational affairs are relatively certain of meeting with a splendid success. P. M. stay at home—make it easy.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — If you are not most careful, any letters you may write, trips you take, etc. in A. M. may lead to trouble. P. M. excellent for visiting with relatives or having lots of fun socially with good and trusted friends. Be gay, smiling.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Have you contacted the man in business with whom you have a commitment? Prepare yourself thoroughly, then get in touch with him after lunch. P. M. new ideas are yours that will bring in a far greater income. Put them in motion.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Those annoying disturbances in A. M. will terminate by luncheon time. Later, be with higher-ups and get their ideas that will help you to have greater success. P.M. have lots of fun socially.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — During A. M. you may feel that there are frustrating conditions present, but this is only so that you can concentrate on those matters that can meet with success in P. M. P. M. have fun at dramatic, sport, social entertainments.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Don't be disturbed in A. M. over the disappointment which a comrade occasions or some unkind word aimed your way. Later, go out and accomplish what you started out to do in A. M. P. M. fine for any social pleasures or functions.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You may be quite disappointed in A. M. over the fact that one you trusted to be loyal to you or to be of assistance, is just not there. Later, get out into the active world and make more substantial contacts. Grow.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — The early part of the day should be spent clearing up all unfinished tasks so that the letter can be utilized in looking into best avenues of expression or income. See that you use more up-to-date methods in daily operations in the future.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Be sure you do not gamble with any important financial or personal affairs in A. M. The remainder of the day, however, an expert gives you the right ideas for expanding or becoming more successful in the future.

If your child is born today ... or she, will soon feel the need of many young friends around, but it is up to you to early teach her what best get along with them and how to be more co-operative. This will then pave the way for successful dealing with fellow man in adult years and determine the degree of success in chosen profession that will follow. Also, teach to be loyal. Fine chart for the artist, the perfectionist in any field of endeavor.

City, Provincial Police Quell Riot At Bordeaux Jail

Two Prisoners Said To Be Hurt Seriously

Have to Change Message After Escapee Leaves

PIEDMONT, Calif. (AP)—"Have your escapee George Collins,30, in jail here. Come get him." Police Chief Wilson Phillips wired police officials at Chino, Calif., Thursday.

But Monday morning the chief discovered that Collins had:

Fashioned a pick from a jail bed spring, unlocked his cell door, unlocked the cell next door without waking the two sleeping in it, picked the lock pick in a captain's office, and walked out.

"Don't come for Collins," the chief wired Chino. "He's gone."

MONTREAL (CP)—A heavily-armed force of more than 125 city and provincial police quelled a riot early today at Bordeaux jail in north-end Montreal, the second disturbance at the jail in the last six months.

Two prisoners, identified as Roland Jacques Poirier, 28, and his brother Maurice, 30, were taken to hospital with head and hand injuries believed to have been caused by flying glass.

A spokesman at the hospital confirming the injuries, said both men t'seem in very, serious condition but declined to elaborate.

The riot started about 10:30 p.m. Monday when 180 prisoners in one of the jails six wings broke out of their cells. Police were then marshalled in force.

The jail houses about 1,500 men serving two-year terms or less, plus men declared criminally insane or awaiting trial.

POLICE ALERT

Police Under-chief Jean Dodier, called in for the robbery, and Paul Roberge and Guy Lefebre, awaiting trial. They were still at large early today.

OFFICIALS SILENT

Precise details on the Bordeaux riot were unavailable shortly after it ended. Reporters who telephoned the home of Lt.-Col. Maurice Duplessis, Quebec premier, were told: "Call the jail." Officials at the jail could not be reached throughout the night.

A provincial police spokesman said: "I cant tell you anything about it. I don't know anything." City police said it was a provincial matter.

Last June a riot started in a prison farm camp at Laval. Seven guns and three prisoners were wounded by guards in a getaway attempt. There was a small flare-up a few days later.

There were also two disturbances at the big, grey-walled jail, which opened in 1912, marked by dissatisfaction over food.

Laotian Monarch Orders Pro-Red Regime to Quit

VIENTIANE (AP) — King Savang Vatthana today stepped into the civil war involving his jungle kingdom of Laos and ordered Quinim Pholsena to dissolve his infant pro-Communist regime, Havanasiri Radio reported.

Quinim, who charged that Western troops are waiting to storm their capital, backed up his defences with arms flown in by the Soviet Union.

Vientiane in effect was under military control of pro-Communist Prathet Lao and left-wing paratroop Capt. Kong Le.

The king ordered government powers turned over to anti-Communist regent Prince Boun Oum and Gen. Phoumi Nosavan in Savannakhet, the broadcast said. Boun Oum was named premier and Phoumi minister of defence.

But the announcement was expected to have little immediate effect on Quinim's regime in the country's administrative capital.

Quinim, who integrated his forces with those of the Pathet Lao Monday, indicated he will ignore any decisions taken by the king "under duress".

Quinim's government and his military leader, Kaysone, the rebel forces backed by four Western powers are about to storm Vientiane.

They appealed to the Western diplomatic corps and the United Nations commissioner here to prevent bloodshed.

They also threatened to turn their guns on foreign troops who, they claimed, have joined Phoumi's forces outside Vientiane.

No independent evidence is available here that Phoumi's forces are assisted by any foreign forces or that they are about to attack.

Russian arms—including howitzers and mortars — flown in from Hanoi are being rushed to the city's perimeter. Trucks set up mortars at the airport, post office, power station and other strategic points.

In Washington, the United States, France and Britain called a top-level meeting on what is regarded there as Soviet military intervention in Laos.

In Red China, newspapers called for immediate world action to halt what they called "United States intervention and aggression" in Laos.

COMMONS BEGINS DEBATE RAISING VETS' PENSIONS

Some Bills Given Final Approval

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons trudged productively on the legislative treadmill Monday, giving final approval to a third "knit-and-purl" unemployment measure, first reading to a fourth and beginning debate on the raising of pensions for disabled veterans.

Next on the Senate after third and final reading was a bill expanding federal aid for construction of vocational schools and training of personnel.

Introduced was a bill to set up a 25 - man productivity council to study the impact of new devices, labor, industry and civil service technical matters. Its aim would be assisting the expansion of Canadian output per man in a world grown increasingly competitive.

Veterans Affairs Minister Churchill began debate on the resolution preceding a bill which would raise pensions for disabled veterans and bring about certain administrative changes.

Details of the proposals, sketched in the throne speech that opened Parliament Nov. 17, will have to await introduction of the actual legislation. The throne speech said increases will be "substantial".

Mr. Churchill said there now are 826,000 Canadian survivors of the Second World War, of which 100,000 are pensioners. Surviving widows with children number 26,000 veterans), 49,000 of them pensioners.

Longshoremen's Union Planning To Block 'Bootleg' Trade With Cuba

NEW YORK (CP) — Labor reporter Victor Riesel says in a column in today's New York Mirror that the International Longshoremen's Association plans to boycott Canadian docks from which "tons of war and dollars worth of vital equipment" are shipped to Cuba.

Teddy Gleason, U.S. organizer for the association, has been instructed to tell officials in Halifax, Toronto, Trois-Rivieres, Que., Saint John, N.B. and Halifax.

The latter two shipping centres are the key areas. They are the "open" winter ports. If these are locked by a longshoremen's strike very little will move from Canada "to Havana."

Riesel says there is a precedent for the move.

"Some years ago the ILA our trade by refusing to unload uracically ruined the Russian Leningrad skins in New York harbor."

Riesel says Gleason is kept informed of what goods are reaching Cuba by anti-Castro longshoremen who spy in and out of shipments to Cuba of all but food and medical supplies was started, Riesel states, "the Canadians have picked up about a third of our former trade."

Worst Blizzard in 13 Years Takes More Than 130 Lives

NEW YORK (AP)—Record low temperatures and blizzard conditions paralyzed New York City and the northeastern U.S. today as they fought to dig out from the worst blizzard in 13 years.

The storm Monday took more than 130 lives, crippled transportation and brought much business activity in a halt. But the prospect was that many of these same effects would be felt throughout the day.

The temperature fell to eight degrees in New York City today, and in some surrounding areas it fell to near zero. It was the coldest Dec. 13 ever recorded by the weather bureau.

A steady north wind whipped at the snow—up to 20½ inches at it—that blanketed the east from Virginia to Nova Scotia, and piled drifts of flying snow form drift after drift. In New York the wind whistled at 32 miles an hour.

The drifts, which reached 10 feet in New Jersey, formed r-ain behind snow fences hurling their way along main roads. Side streets became playgrounds for children, with no bothersome traffic.

In the New York area, many suburban schools remained closed today, railroads operated with a substantial delays, and buses crawled along on curtailed schedules. Airports struggled to clear runways and scrub them against the ever-drifting snow, and drastically cut the number of flights planned.

With scores already dead of heart attacks suffered while shoveling snow or pushing cars, a spokesman for the American Heart Association issued this warning:

Take it easy.

The "extreme cold preserved every bit of the record snowfall accumulation for a pre-winter storm. Only the blizzards of 1888

Federal Govt. to Collect Income Tax From Hutterites

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has decided to collect income tax from the Hutterite colonies of Western Canada, it appeared Monday.

The decision announced Monday by Revenue Minister Nowlan ends 11 years of tax exemption for the pacifist sects farm colonies, which in 1949 were freed from income tax on the grounds that they were religious charitable organizations.

Mr. Nowlan said a government study has revealed that the Hutterite farms are operated as businesses to produce profits. Therefore, he said, the colonies are "prosperous" and should pay tax.

Individual members of the colonies will be exempt as in the past tax—as they always have been However, few of them actually pay tax, since their income is usually are too low because of the communal nature of the big farms.

Pressure from western MPs, particularly Alberta m'e m bers and all of them Conservatives, prompted the government study that led to the decision.

Complaints against the Hutterite exemption were lodged during last spring's budget debate by Jack H. Horner (PC—Acadia), Deane R. Gundlock (PC—Lethbridge), Arra Reid (PC—Medicine Swift Current) and others.

Their main grievances were that other western farmers were being asked through income taxation to underwrite the Hutterites, which were their biggest competitors. Some 200,000 acres of farmland is held by Alberta's 55 colonies. There are 19 colonies in Saskatchewan.

Founded in Switzerland in 1536 the pacifist sect moved to Russia in 1700. After Czar Alexander refused them exemption from army service in 1870, the Hutterites travelled to the United States in 1875, most of them settling in Montana. The first permanent colony in Canada was set up in 1917.

Farming ability, corporation strength of the colonies and the high birth rate have led to rapid expansion in Alberta. Until last year, provincial legislation expected a distance of 40 miles between Hutterite colonies. Now the Alberta cabinet rules on land acquisitions.

U.S. and Canada Will Meet To Work on Treaty Project

UNEMPLOYMENT DEBATE ENDS IN STALEMATE

All Three Parties Outsmarted Selves

TORONTO (CP)—The unemployment debate ended in a stalemate Monday in the Ontario legislature when all three parties attempted to gain a political advantage and outsmarted themselves.

The debate originated with a resolution moved by Richard Sutton (PC—Toronto York-Scarborough) who urged that government and industry work together to increase production and export trade.

The Liberals and CCF moved amendments to the resolution and the legislature spent two long days and nights debating the package.

Monday night, about 90 minutes past the normal curfew time of 10.30 p.m., the CCF amendment came to a vote. With only four CCF members present, Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver stood with them so there could be a recorded vote.

"You'd lose your amendment now," Premier Frost shouted.

The CCF amendment called for short and long-term projects to combat unemployment. It was defeated 50-17.

The Liberal amendment should have called for the resignation of Allan Grossman, minister without portfolio, because he wrote a sub-amendment which, in effect, killed the most of the Liberal amendment.

The sub - amendment praised the Conservative government's measures to assist agriculture and industrial research, to implement job-creating programs and to develop Ontario's human resources.

"Don't trying embarrass us," Mr. Wintermeyer shouted angrily.

Aged Chinese Explains How Scheme Worked

TORONTO (CP)—A 74-year-old Chinese, Lum Poy, of Toronto, testified in court that for many elderly expatriate Chinese returned to their homeland he made money by selling fictitious "paper" sons.

Lum Poy testified at the preliminary hearing of travel agent Mrs. Mary Lee Chan charged with making false affidavits and conspiring to facilitate the illegal entry of Chinese into Canada.

Explaining the entry of alleged sons into Canada, Chinese Lum Poy said: "I was in mainland China and I had to return to my third trip. At that time, most of the overseas Chinese were returning to China and I was asked if I could find three sons instead of one."

The case is continuing.

Admits Throwing Acid Over Man Who Seduced Wife 20 Years Ago

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — For 20 years Walter Swedburg was tormented by the knowledge that his wife had been seduced before they were married.

He could stand it no longer. He headed out on a 1,300-mile trip from Regina to this southern Ontario city, knocked on the door of a house and confronted Alfred Stacey, 61, the man who answered, a man Swedburg had never seen before.

"He had put a brand on the woman's face," Swedburg told a court Monday.

The assault gave Swedburg a sense of relief "to know that I had given a little blow for my wife's honor."

The 48 - year - old Regina man has never pleaded guilty to causing bodily harm by throwing acid at Harold Harris, 50, owner of a dry-cleaning plant here. He was remanded to Jan. 10 for sentence and released on $2,000 bail.

Harris, who is married, was attacked by a stranger Oct. 27 last year. He was in hospital 18 days and still bears face scars suffered in the attack. He appeared in court but did not testify.

Swedburg said that when he married in 1940 he thought his wife was a pure country girl, although after the wedding he said, the wife told him in a fit of remorse that she had been intimate with Harris in York-Sask., eight years previously. Swedburg said his wife told him she was lured on by promises that the man was free.

He said the confession "made me feel I was nothing — just a thing."

Swedburg said it took a great deal of moral courage to stay with a woman "after knowing that thrown in my face." He said he came to her home but things changed. Respect returned and respect grew his house. The Swedburgs have four children.

Detective James Cayder of the St. Catharines police force identified that after the attack Harris had been mailed a skull and crossbones from Saskatchewan.

Detective Cayder said Harris was under such strain that he barricaded himself in his house and was issued a permit to carry a gun. Swedburg denied sending the skull and crossbones. He was traced to Regina after police checked Harris' former acquaintances dating back to 1932.

UN Congo Force Pared As Guinea, Morocco Quit

Both Countries Charge UN Fails in Its Mission

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The future of the United Nations Congo command hung in the balance today as two more countries served notice they are quitting the UN peace force.

Guinea and Morocco were the latest to announce that they are pulling their troops out, the former Belgian colony. This brought to four the nations withdrawing from the Congo operation and cut its manpower by at least one third.

The United Nations has nearly 15,000 men in the Congo, down less than 17,000 are actual troop contingents.

The move by Morocco, whose 3,100 soldiers constitute the biggest single unit in The Congo, and Guinea which has 740 men in the field, brings the withdrawals to more than 1,500. The United Arab Republic announced earlier that it was pulling out its 600-man contingent, leaving 1,150.

IS SERIOUS BLOW

The pullout was seen as a serious blow to the UN command, the greatest effort ever by the Soviet and African bloc alliance during the period of tension in the Security Council.

Both Guinea and Morocco complied their announcements with charges that Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's Congo operation had not given protection to Patrice Lumumba, deposed Congo premier arrested by the forces of army Col. Joseph Mobutu.

Both nations accused the UN of failing to carry out the mission entrusted to it in the chaotic African country.

Ceylon is making last-minute efforts to win East-West support for a compromise Congo peace plan before the council attempts to debate on the problem tonight.

An appeal by Ceylon's Sir Claude Corea, acting as chairman after Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin, council president for December, failed to end the debate Monday night.

Corea said he is putting the final touches to a resolution which would call for the creation of a Hammarskjold additional power to restore order in The Congo.

The resolution, also supported by Tunisia, would call for the disarming of illegal armies, withdrawal of all Belgian, Russian and all imprisoned Congo political leaders and a new session of the Congo parliament.

ABANDON SALVAGE WORK

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) Salvage workers have abandoned their efforts to save the 1,000-foot freighter Francisco Morazan, aground on the rocky bottom of Lake Michigan since Sept. 29. Officials of the John Roen Steamship Company of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., the firm engaged for the salvage operation, said the vessel is a total loss. The Morazan ran aground in a snowstorm. Only a reduced crew of 13 had remained aboard for six days.

Female Lion Cub Stolen From Mother

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—While Jesse James was opening a can of peaches for his supper, an Indian and two white men stole a lion cub from his trading post.

James, the operator of the Stage Coach Trading Post, told police that the trio entered the building about eight, saying they were looking for Christmas trees.

James went ahead with his supper, then left the house and the two white men left. James discovered someone had reached into the lion cage and lifted out a female cub, right under the nose of her mother and four other cubs.

Pete Lucas, owner of the animals, has offered $500 reward for the cub's return.

Liberal Member Against Trade With Cubans

TORONTO (CP)—Northern Ontario would be the first to experience reprisals if the United States retaliated against Canada's trade with Cuba, Albert Wren L. Lah-Keenora told the Ontario legislature Monday.

He said the people of Northern and Nornwestern Ontario will be disturbed by the weekend announcement of Secretary of State Christian Herter that Canada would trade where it liked.

He said Ontario should take an interest in trade matters because this province would suffer in the event of economic reprisals.

"Northern Ontario is particularly sensitive where base metals, nickle, zinc and paper are sold almost entirely in the United States," he said.

"If it becomes necessary that the U.S. apply any economic reprisals Northern Ontario will feel the first catastrophic impact.

Speaking in a debate on unemployment, Mr. Wren said of the prime minister of Canada "another great lowest in Sudbury, the Lakehead, Aiikokan, Prescott, Kenora and Red Lake, then let his government continue to boast that he will take Mister Khrushchev's toughest enemies of our friends."

He said the price to pay for a few million dollars in trade with Cuba "is doing it we lose a friend," Mr. Wren said.

White Cane Club Members Guests Of Kiwanis Aux.

On Monday evening at the Kiwanis Centre the members of the White Cane Club were the guests of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Kiwanis Club at a very Christmas party.

President Mildred Rushlow of the White Cane club opened the meeting and everyone joined in singing the club song, "The more we are together" with Ted Rowe at the piano. The roll call showed a large attendance with several present from Trenton. A humorous reading by Miss Millie MacDonald was greatly enjoyed.

Mrs. A. P. Bowles sang two fine soprano solos, "The Infant Jesus" and "I Wonder as I Wander" accompanied at the piano by Mr. Clifford Templer. Mrs. H. Rollins played the piano for the singing of Christmas carols in which everyone joined.

A game was played with a dish of peas, the winning team being awarded candy canes. A word game to make words out of Merry Christmas was won by Miss Mildred Rushlow

Santa Claus with the jingle of bells and distributed gifts to each member present. The Kiwanis ladies presented each member with a box of chocolates as well. A table was decorated with lighted Christmas tree and all the interesting articles were arranged under it.

Sandwiches, cakes, ice cream and tea were served by the ladies of the Auxiliary. Mrs. Waite expressed the gratitude of the club to these ladies and wished everyone a Merry Christmas.

Operated Still In Open Ravine Just off Road

Charged with operating a still, two North Hastings men pleaded guilty when arraigned in court at Madoc yesterday.

Ernest Jackson, 46, of Bancroft-Burn was sentenced to five months in the county jail by Magistrate R. C. Jackson, while William Stewart, 38, of Millbridge, was fined $500 and costs and in default will serve three months in jail.

Investigation into the still operation was conducted by Royal Canadian Mounted Police officers from Belleville, assisted by O.P.P. officers Dwight Sears of Madoc.

Police said the two men were caught in the act of operating the still on December 2nd. The still was set up in the open in a ravine about 100 yards west of No. 62 highway north of Bancroft.

The two still operators were using a brass mash. About 100 ounces of alcohol were seized by police.

Vertical Integration Will Kill Individual Initiative Rotary Club Members Told

Vertical integration will kill individual initiative and create a monster out of the farming system. So spoke T. S. "Tom" Kelly, Tweed area farmer, to local Rotarians at their weekly dinner meeting yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Quinte.

Vertical integration, created by various parties agreeing to consolidate their plans and production within a particular industry to create a controlled industry which will literally block out competition by the individual or smaller group, has spread throughout the farming industry following its initiation by the cannine firms, advised the former teacher.

In its most efficient form vertical integration allows for the complete control of the processing, production and marketing of a product from the seed to the consumer. Mr. Kelly suggested that this method of operation which involves contract farming and specialization by the farmer is a necessary evil promulgated by the increased costs of producing the "ave commodities.

"We must have more prosperous big farmers and cuts out the marginal farmers which will result in a labor force element in urban life which it will be hard to provide for," said the speaker. Government figures indicate that the entire country's food requirements will be supplied by an increasingly smaller number of farmers and predict a drop in the farm population from 600,000 to 300,000 persons in the next few years.

This is not to be wondered at, suggested the speaker, when a modern dairy requires an investment of $12,500 to realize an annual net income of $1,000, but needs an investment of less than four times that amount, $48,000, to realize a net income of less than twice the first amount, or $1,800.

"It is a pitiful condition that we must accept," concluded Mr. Kelly, unless the Canadian government makes an all out effort to retain the small farm. Basing such support Canadians would have to learn to live with vertical integration with its attendant evils of producing an unprovided-for surplus population in urban life, of killing individual initiative in farming, and of creating a modern feudal system.

Mr. Kelly was speaking on the occasion of the visit of 18 YWCA Public Affairs Committees as guests of Rotary. This is a traditional occasion for the 4-H members, whose work is supported by the local Rotarians. Mrs. Ruth Hall was in charge of the Rotary 4-H work in Belleville, assisted by the Sunshine 4-H'ers to Rotary.

Also in attendance were Sid MacDonald, Ted Patterson from the district agricultural representative's office at Stirling.

President Bill Hurst conducted the meeting which was also highlighted with carol - singing led by Alderman Jack Deacon and Mrs. Deacon at the observances of Rotarians Court Miller and Rogers Riedel.

Reasons Given for Death Of National Canadian Mag

TORONTO (CP)—The death of a national Canadian magazine was "traced for the royal commission on publications today by Lloyd M. Hodgkinson, president of the Magazine Publishers' Association of Canada.

Mr. Hodgkinson said he believed competition is "a very healthy thing for any type of business, but certainly it is a helpful thing for magazines as it has made them improve tremendously over the years."

"However, there is a limit to the number of magazines that any business can stand and I think that is the case of the problem confronting some magazines."

When the overflow circulation of U.S. magazines and the subsidized device U.S. magazine selling advertising to Canadian companies is added to domestic competition, he believes this makes the competition for magazines "entirely overwhelming and to a large extent unfair."

Mr. Hodgkinson said he was a director of Canadian Home Journal and, when that magazine was sold and moved to the Chatelaine magazine in 1958, he became associated with Chatelaine and rose to be publisher.

"It is my honest opinion that Canadian Home Journal proved uneconomic as a publishing property for the following reasons:

"1. The overflow circulation of U.S. women's magazines in large numbers into Canada provided many advertisers with women magazine coverage in the country which they preferred to supplement in the Canada with other forms of advertising.

"2. The circulation costs for Canadian Home Journal were made higher because of the use of overflow U.S. media into the Canadian circulation of a similar character to Canadian Home Journal.

"3. The competition for the Canadian advertising dollar from new media services such as TV, Weekend magazine and the Canadian edition of Reader's Digest made it more difficult for Canadian Home Journal to get an adequate share to cover all of its publishing costs."

He said Canada hasn't enough Canadian magazines to combat "this friendly bombardment of U.S. magazines" which is "smothering us."

The Magazine Publishers' Association of Canada comprises Canadian Homes, Chatelaine, Health, Liberty, Maclean's magazine, Saturday Night, Western Homes and Living, La Revue Moderne, Perspectives and Chatelaine - La Revue Moderne.

Believed Drowned

RENFREW (CP)—A 48-year-old farmer is believed to have drowned while crossing the Bonnechere River by boat Monday.

Police said today the boat owned by Thomas Hoey of Camel Chute, 30 miles southwest of Renfrew, was found Tuesday, once about 25 feet from shore. Hoey's car was also found on the shore.

lation to our role in preserving our authority to discharge our (federal) obligations under the treaty."

B.C. residents would be the sufferers if B.C. goes it alone on the treaty, he said, pointing out that the federal offer was the most generous ever made by any province for hydro development.

INCLUDES DAMS

The Canadian phase of the Columbia development includes about $458,000,000, including three storage dams providing control of river levels beneficial both to local but generated in the U.S. through the control dams.

The Columbia River rises in southeastern B.C., flows north and then cuts back to cross into the U.S. finally feeding into the Pacific in Oregon.

and 1947, which occurred during the official winter season, produced greater snowfall.

The storm caused disasters and trouble along the coast.

Off the Atlantic coast, a 42-foot fishing boat sank in high seas off Cape Cod.

About 50 miles south of there, a freighter went aground with 11 persons aboard. Two were dead in immediate danger, however.

Off Nantucket, Mass., a coast guard vessel was stove in while its crew was rescuing six men from a grounded fishing boat. Six aboard swam ashore safely.

Icy air from Canada spread storms and cold as far as the Rockies into New England and southward into the gulf.

The coldest weather appeared to have struck the northern Great Lakes region and northern Ohio valley. It was 15 below in Houghton, Mich. Detroit recorded four below, a record low for the date.

Company-Owned Homes at Deloro Offered for Sale

DELORO — Coincident with the closing down of its operations in this area the Deloro Mining and Smelting Company has been offering for sale the company-owned homes in the village. To date some 25 of 50 buildings have already been sold to employees, former employees and residents of this community, who have had priority in acquiring this property.

The remaining properties have now been offered by the general public. Company officials predict that the property will continue as a community for retired people.

All but one of a number of single unit dwellings have been sold at a price of $1,000. Remaining for sale are a number of two-family dwellings and a couple of executive residences. These will be selling in the $1,600 to $2,500 range, it is said, by the end of January, 1961, an official stated this morning. Demolitions of personnel will be commenced at the end of the current year.

HARRY W. WRIGHT

MADOC — Mrs. Walter Whytock received word during the week that her brother, Harry W. Wright, had passed away in the hospital at Vancouver on Nov. 30. Mr. Wright had been in failing health for some time before coming to Vancouver. After graduating from Madoc High School in North Battleford, later moving to Vancouver.

He is survived by his son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Wright of Madoc and sister, Mrs. Whytock, two days in Madoc. He is survived by his wife and two daughters Mrs. Margaret Stafford of Rapuskasing, Ont., and Miss Elizabeth Wright of Edmonton.

Funeral services took place from the funeral home chapel at Nunn and Thompson chapel in Vancouver. Rev. J. C. Cronin officiated. Cremation followed.

JACKSON (JACK) A. McCULLOUGH

(Tweedale-Northbrook)

Jackson (Jack) Arthur McCullough, a native of Belleville and district, assistant vice-president and general manager of the Haritt pharmaceutical company in Montreal, died Sunday in hospital at Bracebridge, it was learned today.

About a week ago he suffered a heart attack while at his summer home near Bracebridge. He was 56.

The funeral service was held today at Toronto with interment taking place in York Cemetery.

A close friend of Mr. McCullough said that he was born, and educated in Belleville and later graduated from the faculty of pharmacy at the University of Toronto. He left Belleville more than 30 years ago. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. McCullough. His father was well known many years ago when he was a piano tuner in this city.

Survivors include his widow, the former Gladys E. Shoebotham; a sister and a brother, Mrs. Robert S. Hamilton and Harry J. McCullough of Port Arthur.

School Trustee Is Acclaimed At Frankford

FRANKFORD (Special) —Carl Lohnes, manager of the Canadian Canners factory here, received acclamation Monday when he was the only person nominated for the fourth seat on the village's public school board.

On Nov. 28, qualifying day for nominees prior to the scheduled Dec. 5 municipal election, Harry Wickson, Boyd Williamson and Gerald Scott received acclamation to the board but applicant Wilson Rankin failed to qualify. Therefore, clerk-treasurer W. G. Harvey ordered another nomination meeting to be held yesterday for the purpose of naming candidates to compete Dec. 19 for the fourth seat on the board.

this emergency legislation, far more than should be taken under the circumstances," he said.

He complained that eight government supporters had dealt—and often favorably—with the resolution on the productivity council while the opposition had spoken.

"If you have emergency legislation, bring it on," Mr. Chevrier said. "It will be of assistance to those who are in dire straits and who will be unemployed during the Christmas season."

IS THIRD OF ITS TYPE

The vocational training bill sent onto the Senate was the third of an anti-unemployment picture this session, which opened Nov. 17. Four measures were amendments to the National Housing Act—easing credit—and loans to small business.

Labor Minister Starr indicated that the federal system of construction and training grants, based on provincial needs would help boost vocational training facilities by 50 per cent and would deeply into a hard core of young unemployed needing trades to get and hold jobs.

The bill was given third reading by a vote of 121 to 0. The Liberals emphasized that they regarded the measure a step forward but—like the rest of the employment legislation so far—inadequate in coping immediately for those now unemployed.

Mr. Starr said the productivity council would expand employment opportunities and improve living standards. It was effective it must limit its work to the field of productivity—rate of output per man—because "we do not want an advisory body dealing with broader policies in the economic field."

WILL MATCH MONIES

The government will shell out $150,000 for each of the first three years of the council's existence and match any private contributions. The labor and industry member will be the executive director.

The council is also to be set up in the United Kingdom after the Second World War. Its formation was forecast by Prime Minister Diefenbaker after a conference with management here last October.

Paul Martineau, parliamentary secretary to the prime minister, took some time to reply to suggestions that the council is along the lines of one proposed by the Liberal last May—and opposed then by the Progressive Conservative government.

The Liberal-supported national advisory board, he said, would have recommendatory power to the government while, more properly, Diefenbaker's council is proposed now would assist the government in executive its policy of increasing productivity.

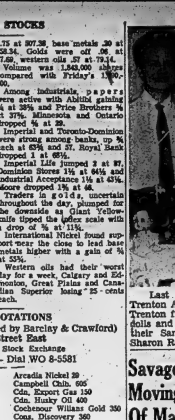
Review of Canada's Financial Structure Urged by Bank Head

MONTREAL — Thorough review-examination of the financial structure of the nation including the functions and responsibilities of the central bank was suggested as a necessary measure by N. J. McKinnon, chairman and president of The Canadian Bank of Commerce, in his address to shareholders at the bank's 94th annual meeting today.

Mr. McKinnon pointed to growing problems in Canada's international payments and to a relative lessening of the influence of monetary policy internally because of the growth of financial organizations of various kinds operating outside the field of influence of the Bank of Canada. A painstaking and unhurried survey of the entire financial structure of the nation is needed, he said.



The premium on Canada's dollar, Mr. McKinnon said, bonused imports, hampered exports and helped to create unemployment. He drew attention to the views of experienced foreign exchange traders who believe that skilled intervention by the exchange fund in the international exchange market might help to depress the price of the Canadian dollar without detriment to domestic monetary policy. He added that the advisers to the exchange fund apparently hold different views and that they, of course, have access to greater information. A much more important factor, he stated, is the level of Canada's borrowings in foreign currencies. There is little doubt that, if our borrowings abroad diminish materially, a trend towards a discount on our dollar instead of a premium would soon emerge. But there appears to have been little if any positive effort by the Bank of Canada to influence the level of interest rates which usually determine whether borrowings take place domestically or abroad.

Canadian borrowing abroad last year at $430 million was the largest single item in the inflow of capital into Canada.

To illustrate the operation of the law of diminishing returns in taxation, Mr. McKinnon recalled the occasion in 1931 when an increase in the excise tax on cigarettes brought on the verge of diminishing the revenue from that source and in 1932, he said, the minister cancelled the increase. He suggested that a fresh study of the incidence of taxation on incomes and estates may be desirable, not to create privilege for any group, but to assure that it provides the maximum possible incentive at all levels of endeavor.

Firemen will donate the toys to the Salvation Army Corps for distribution to the town's needy children.

Savage Storm Moving Out Of Maritimes

HALIFAX (CP) — A savage storm moved out of the Maritime provinces today, leaving the area under between six and 12 inches of snow.

At least three fatalities were recorded during the wintry blast. Another four persons dropped dead from apparent heart seizures.

The storm blew in from the Atlantic Monday with winds up to 70 miles an hour. Air and sea travel was halted and highway traffic was hampered.

The Maritimes, caught off guard after a hot summer and fine fall, reeled under the impact. Several homes were set ablaze by overheated stoves.

The storm was expected to move north and cross Newfoundland today. A few snowflurries and colder weather were forecast for the Maritimes.

Trans-Canada Air Lines cancelled all operations east of Montreal when the storm closed in Maritime airports.

Four ships delayed departure from Halifax and at least two arrivals anchored in mid-stream before docking.

The CPR's 4,000-ton ferry Princess Helene, which runs between Saint John, N.B., and Digby, N.S., was hove-to 1¼ miles from Digby with some 180 passengers aboard. CPR officials said she would stay there until winds abated.

Hospital Bill Is Adopted

QUEBEC (CP) — The government's bill on hospital insurance was adopted by a 44-27 vote in the legislative assembly Monday, a special-sitting day.

The Union Nationale Opposition voted against the way the bill was drawn up, after voting unanimously with the government last week in favor of the principle of the bill, which in effect amounted to saying only that Quebec should have hospital insurance.

The bill goes now to the legislative council, the provincial upper house, for approval.

The bill in effect authorizes the provincial government to sign an agreement with the federal government for Quebec's participation in the national hospital insurance plan. It is the only province that has not yet done so.

Government Official Ends Duty on Education Board

TRENTON — The last official meeting of the 1960 Board of Education was held last night with all members present and members elect, Mrs. Labrecque, Griffiths, J. C. Dobby, Rev. Ronald Reid and Gerald Farrar, present as observers.

This was the last meeting at which F. J. Aziz, Frank Filion and Robert Barlow will officiate, having been defeated in the November 28 election. None of these members stood for re-election Dec. 5.

W. R. Stewart, assistant supervisor of education for the province, who has attended each meeting of the board since last spring when he was appointed by the minister of education following the lifting of the "pink listing" of the high school by the secondary school teachers' federation, told the members that his tour of duty had been completed. He said that he had enjoyed his relationship with the board and that from all he had heard, the new principal W. J. Houston, had had great success in his half-year administration at the high school. He referred to the newly-printed rules and regulations for board members which were compiled by the separate school appointee to the board, Dr. T. A. McNally, and his committee. He said that the board should adhere to these rules in every respect and change the rule, rather than constantly deviate from it.

T. S. Ketcheson, chairman of the 1959 board, told Mr. Stewart that the board had been a fine opportunity to learn how school boards should be run by having him attend the meetings.

At the outset of the meeting, V.P. Carswell, supervisor of Trenton public schools and secretary of the board, read several items of correspondence.

James Jarvis, principal of Prince Charles Public School, said in a letter that the parents of children attending the school were concerned because no sidewalks were provided for the children south of the railway tracks on Dufferin St.

NEED SIDEWALK

At a point in the road in front of the Morton-Parker Company children are forced to walk on the road because of a hedge in front of the company's property. Members of the home and school club at this school are also concerned about the situation.

On the same subject, O. W. Larry, town clerk, said in letter to the board secretary that the Morton-Parker Company was agreeable to having the town construct a sidewalk at the back of the hedge. This will be done in the spring.

The secretary of the Marmora Street Public School has asked in a letter that smoking be allowed in the back of the school during social functions and that containers of sand be provided for the ashtrays. Fred Tripp, chairman of maintenance, will attend to this matter.

S. B. Coon, architect for the new addition to the high school, wrote asking that the contract for installing the plumbing and heating system in the new part of the building might be considered as a separate contract and that the work could be done in the spring so that the present heating of the school would not be disrupted during the school year. The separate contract would not come under the general contract for the Fidelity Company of Oshawa, but would be handled by a local sub-contractor.

"We haven't signed a contract with Fidelity yet," said Frank Filion, "I can't understand why work has been started. Will the wall has to be knocked down to install the boiler? Who will put it back again?"

"It's a poor way for Fidelity to operate," said the chairman. It was decided that a meeting between board members, Mr. Coon, representatives of the Fidelity Construction Company and Quinte Plumbing and Heating of Trenton would be called to discuss the matter.

A. G. Hamilton, secretary of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, in a letter asked the board's co-operation in a province-wide plan to recruit incompetent teachers. He said that more than 20 cases of incompetency had been dealt with last year.

C. A. McMullen, superintendent of Trenton public schools, reported in a letter about his recent visit to Prince Charles Public School. He said that the board had the services of the school, the teaching staff and its principal. He said that the students were enthusiastic and energetic. Mr. McMullen said "that there was some evidence that the grade 7 students had not been too well prepared to enter the bigger grade. The caretaker of the school was also commended for his work.

Mr. Carswell read a report from a structural engineer who had examined the new Prince Charles School after the recent explosion in the boiler room. The engineer said that damage had been confined to the boiler room area. Walls and ceilings had been cracked but the over-all damage was not serious. Fred Tripp said two safety valves would be put on the propane gas igniting system, that is used in fire the oil furnace in the school. He recommended that next year's board consider the merits of heating the school by gas.

Sarnia Staggers Under 25 Inches Of White Mantle

SARNIA, (CP) — Sarnia and neighboring Port Huron, Mich., staggered today under a winter blast as a storm swept in from Lake Huron, and dropped between 15 and 25 inches of snow. Drifts up to five feet were reported in places.

The storm started early Monday and at 5 a.m. today the snow still was falling heavily but the strong winds had diminished.

No deaths or injuries were reported but the storm virtually isolated the area.

Highway 7 was barely open to traffic today. Farther south, Highway 40 and some county roads were blocked.

City emergency crews worked all night to clear the streets but were frustrated as strong winds whipped them with snow again.

Provincial police sent out extra highway patrols.

Hydro and telephone services were disrupted by the storm. But there were reports of some homes without heat.

The weatherman said the freak storm was caused by the north wind picking up moisture from the comparatively warm lake waters and blowing it in over the land.

W. J. Houston, principal of Trenton High School, reported that attendance at the school was excellent. He said the school paper, "The Spotlight," would be published in March, and asked the co-operation of board members in helping the advertising committee to sell local merchants. The board itself established a precedent by buying a full page of advertising in the year book.

F. J. Aziz asked that the architect at Prince Charles School be reminded that plans had been made for a plaque bearing the names of the 1960 board members to be placed in a prominent position in the school. The architects will be advised of this matter within the next three months.

The Tatham Construction Company has filed a claim for $2,848.60 against the board for extra expenses incurred during construction of the school. The company claims the work was necessary because the board was unable to supply weather for building operations.

When they signed the contract they guaranteed the work would be ready by March 31, said Robert Barlow. "They knew then that winter work would be involved."

"Frankly, I think they're bluffing," said F. J. Aziz.

"I think we should engage a solicitor and get his opinion," said Paul Filion. "If he thinks it's feasible, we could go ahead and fight it."

"It cost us $1,000 to prove we were right in the case against Northumberland," said V. P. Carswell.

"Well, we got $7,000 out of it," replied Mr. Ketcheson.

The meeting decided that a Toronto lawyer should be asked for a legal opinion, on the feasibility of fighting the action. The company is represented by a Picton legal firm.

C of C Warns Against Fraud Artists

The Business and Consumer Protective Bureau of Belleville Chamber of Commerce has issued a bulletin to its members to be on guard against fraud during the holiday season.

To curtail cheque fraud artists operating during the rush hours of the Christmas season, merchants would be wise to note these ten basic rules:

1—Don't let anyone hurry you. It's your money being paid out.

2—Don't cash a cheque for a stranger without positive identification. Auto licences are easily forged.

3—Don't cash cheques signed with a rubber stamp, written in pencil or showing any signs of alteration.

4—Beware of out-of-town cheques.

5—Be extra careful when cashing cheques while banks are closed.

6—Don't cash cheques for juveniles. They are not legally responsible and often are used as "runners" for cheque crook gangs.

7—Don't cash bank counter cheques. They are designed for use only in the banks issuing them.

8—Don't accept pre-endorsed cheques.

9—Don't cash cheques for amounts considerably more than the amount of purchase.

10—Make sure all cheques are the cheques of existing persons or concerns and that the cheque is drawn on an existing bank.

Just the Facts, Please

We were surprised by a couple of newspaper headlines which graced, or rather disgraced, the front pages of two Canadian daily newspapers. One headline ran "Cuban Govt Seizes Canadian Bank" and the other "Castro Grabs Canadian Bank".

We were surprised at these headlines because they did not reflect one iota of truth about the event concerned, nor could they be described as being even remotely close to giving a proper description of the action which took place.

Canadian banks were exempted when other foreign banks in Cuba were nationalized.

The Royal Bank, which is one of the banks concerned, announced that it had sold its assets in Cuba to the government and took particular care to stress that all arrangements were completed on a "wholly amicable basis." This hardly sounds as though the Cuban government "seized" or that the Cuban premier "grabbed" the bank. It was, in fact, sold to the Cubans apparently at the initiative of the bank.

The fact that two newspapers saw fit to the the sensational and wholly inaccurate headlines which they did disturbs us. Too many people today set their whole headline readers. From a quick glance at the headlines of the daily newspapers they manage to create and mold their personal opinions and guide their personal actions regarding a number of important issues; issues which are deserving of much closer attention.

This attitude or condition is not the fault of the newspapers, it is the fault of the individual. The newspapers, however, should certainly be aware of this matter and of the fact that it is their responsibility to see to it that this group of inadequately informed individuals is not incited through misleading headlines.

We have come to expect a certain brand of sensational journalism from some newspapers who have convinced themselves that this is the only manner in which they can increase their circulation. The above headlines had appeared on the front page of one of these publications we would not have been surprised. Unfortunately these headlines were noticed on publications which have no direct competition in their immediate area and should be able to refrain from such tactics.

There is no excuse for anything but first-rate, accurate reporting of the events of the world. This is a bulwark of a democratic people and it is only the adherence to such responsibility action that earns the Fourth Estated that freedom which it enjoys.

Quick Remedy Needed

In the speech from the throne, at the opening of the current session of Parliament, Nov. 17, it was indicated that the Federal Government would propose "long-term Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. loans covering two-thirds of the cost of projects to correct community water pollution problems, with the government writing off 25 per cent of any such loan spent on work done before April, 1963."

The proposal was just one of several which were obviously aimed at stimulating the national economy and relieving unemployment.

Here in Belleville the proposal may have precisely the opposite effect, for the immediate future at least.

The Belleville City Council, having received approval from the Ontario Municipal Board for construction of an initial phase of a sewage disposal plant, was ready to sign an agreement with the Ontario Water Resources Commission until this Federal plan was broached.

Quite naturally, this changed the picture. Council is acting wisely in withholding action until details of the plan are announced. But the result is that the opposite of that sought by the Federal Government in its proposal. The situation demands a remedy. Full details of the Federal plan cannot be provided until the plan is an actuality, that is until the House of Commons has approved it. Might it not be possible, though, for Federal officials to give at least only Belleville but all municipalities similarly interested a guarantee that they will not be permitted to suffer in any way by proceeding promptly with projects of this nature?

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

FROM THE HUMAN STANDPOINT

A superficial reading of the Bible sometimes leads us to overlook the fact that Jesus always preferred to designate himself as the Son of Man. He seemed to enjoy His human status although of course, He was deeply aware of the divine nature of His life.

What sort of a man was Jesus? We can be sure He was strong of body. Men who follow His trade almost always are. His sufferings on the cross indicate His physical stamina. Also He was keen of mind. He loved people. He was a sought-after dinner guest, and He appears never to have turned down a dinner invitation. He had a way of picking out the most needy and unfortunate person in a crowd.

Children loved Him, for we read that they quite overwhelmed Him on one occasion much to the scandal of the disciples. But this man had played with them. They had been on His knee many times before. Jesus loved the homes of His friends. He had a pathetic longing for the love of the simple, low man.

Jesus had a quality of courage we may accurately term as perfect. He knew whither His words and actions were leading. They were leading to death. Yet He went on speaking the truth, living it, walking into the very arms of death.

Entirely apart from his divine nature, this Jesus was a wonderful Man. Time is dated from His birth. Others have influenced history. He has transformed it.

His name shall be called Wonderful, . . ." was the prophecy concerning Him.

Nuclear Energy from Fusion

By HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

ARTICLE 4

In earlier articles, we have discussed the creation of nuclear energy by FISSION. In this article we shall discuss the nuclear energy from FUSION.

What is the difference between fission and fusion?

Fission is to split an atom. When it is said that we "fission" an atom, what is meant is that we have chopped the uranium atom into two pieces. When the uranium atom is chopped into two pieces, heat and energy are given off and this is called the nuclear energy of fission.

Fusion is something quite different from fission. In fusion two nuclei are joined to form one nucleus, but instead, two atoms are fused together to form one heavier atom. In the process of the fusion of two atoms, heat and energy are given off and thus we say that nuclear energy is created during the fusion of two atoms.

Fission often involves a substance called uranium although several other substances can also be fissioned such as thorium and two man-made substances called plutonium. These substances are composed of what are called heavy atoms (that is to say, the nucleus of a uranium atom has a large number of protons and neutrons — the two basic parts of which all atoms are made up — which is "heavy".)

Fusion, on the other hand, takes place amongst atoms which are described as "light" atoms. Hydrogen is the deuterium. These atoms are said to be light because they have a very few of which they are composed.

Fission will not take place with light atoms, whereas fusion will and fusion will not take place with heavy atoms, whereas fission will.

IMPORTANCE OF FUSION

Fusion is important because of the limited supply of energy from uranium in the earth.

The energy resources on the earth generally fall into three categories:

1. Fossil fuels, such as coal, oil and oil.

2. There are very limited reserves of this kind of energy resources on the earth and, ultimately, they will be used up by man long before his earth becomes uninhabitable due to the death of the Sun (when the Sun dies, which some scientists say will be in about 5,000 years, all life on earth will also die). Man, at his present rate of consumption, will go through all his resources of fossil fuels long before the time this earth is to perish. For example, coal reserves will be in the next 45 to 50 years an amount equal to about 1/2 of the energy the world has used in the last 2,000 years.

2. The second resource category of energy resources are the fissionable mineral ores such as uranium, which can be fissioned.

When the heavy uranium atom is fissioned, heat and energy are released. This heat can be converted into electricity and other forms of power by simply fissioning the uranium atoms under controlled conditions. However, even a rich fissionable mineral as uranium will be eventually used up. Ultimately, as along before life on the earth will perish, man will have gone through in all his schools, his reserves of uranium and other heavy atom minerals. And, being so, if man had no other way of creating energy on earth, human civilization of man would perish from the earth if man were not able to find industries to create his manufactured goods, to light his path or to warm his home.

3. Fortunately, there is a thing called water which is a wonderful source of energy on this earth. Water is made of heavy atom minerals such as oxygen and water is water. There is water everywhere on earth. It covers up of two types of atoms. Hydrogen is a light atom and the way water is called H2O. (This way water is atoms of hydrogen joined together with one atom of oxygen to form water).

FISSION AND FUSION

If we can separate the oxygen from the hydrogen we will no longer have water, but we can use the hydrogen thus obtained to cause fusion.

To fusion we induce two hydrogen atoms (called deuterium) to come together in a tremendous embrace. In the process, there is much heat and energy given off.

Fusion is the flying apart in angry wheels and fusion is kissing in passion.

As I not unexpected, fusion produces a great deal of heat. This produces an entirely new atom called either "tritium" or "tritium". In the process the two parents — the two atoms that of hydrogen — disappear and there is created one atom of tritium or an atom of helium-spare. The new atom weighs less than the total weight of the two parent hydrogen atoms.

The difference between the weights is given off in the process as heat and energy.

In order to induce two atoms of hydrogen to fuse together into a new atom of helium or tritium, the atoms of hydrogen must be heated to tremendous temperatures. At 5 million degrees a few atoms of hydrogen will fuse but the fusion will not be self-sustaining and of no use for more than a millionth of a second unless the temperatures are in the neighborhood of even one hundred million degrees.

The main problem with which science is now struggling, apart from determining of exactly what happens during fusion, is to find a means of keeping hydrogen gas in a container which will not melt away if the temperature is increased to 100 million degrees

MAGNETIC BOTTLE

The experiment which have been carried on in the world have already, from a layman's point of view, been exciting gas into a magnetic bottle. The bottle is known as a bottle at all, in the ordinary sense, because it is not made of metal, but it is a container, the walls of which are magnetic fields produced by powerful magnets. These magnetic sides of the container are such that the gas atoms is tries to pass through them.

The great problem to date is that although science has been able to create fusion, it has only been able to create temperatures in the neighborhood of five million degrees for a fraction of a second which is not long enough so that the fusion has been sustained. Before long, however, the magnetic bottle starts to leak and changes its shape like a wiggling eel.

Ultimately, science will overcome these difficulties and in time, from all water, including sea water, we will obtain the hydrogen we need to provide us with all the energy he needs. Ultimately, the Sun dies, the burn water. Water is cheap and it's abundant.

One of the great advantages of fusion over fission is that when fusion takes place there are a number of radioactive by-products created such as radioactive strontium which can lead to leukaemia and death, wherever, with fusion, there is only one radioactive by-product, that is radioactive tritium which has a half life of 12.5 years after which emits a beta particle which is a gas more harmless. Beta particles from tritium can be shielded against very easily. Not nearly the menace of the radioactive by-products of fission.

MAN'S ADVANCE

Thus, the advantages of fusion over fission are many for there is much more fuel available, such as uranium or other heavy atom ores, and fusion will be cheaper as a fuel than heavy atom minerals; the amount of radioactive by-products created in fusion is therefore infinitely greater than in fission; only one and energy obtained from fusion; there are few dangerous by-products of fusion as energy with fission, and lastly, fusion is clean, for the energy is put together in one piece, otherwise, in fission, energy is lined (It has a critical mass) — thus handling it creates problems not present with fusion.

Indeed, the fabulous energy developments of man on this earth for the future will be supplied to a very great extent by fusion.

The last large source of energy which we will discuss in this dollar energy, or the energy one can obtain by trifling and utilizing the energy which is given off by the Sun.

To be continued.

Englishman On Etonians

Oshawa Journal

Scots, Irish and Americans may make fun of the Etonian, but the man who can find most amusement in the Etonian mind is an Englishman is another Englishman. Mr. Malcolm Bradbury, Englishman, has given us commentary on the English character in a book called Phogey.

The analysis of the Eton man is too good to keep. As the moment on the English public school system, the Etonian epitomizes for the Duke of Wellington's boast that the battle of Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eton."

Writes Mr. Bradbury:

"When you meet an Etonian in the street, walking in one direction, he walking in the other, you will step if he cares to recognize you) and chat, and he will take you by the arm and you will walk on chatting, back in the direction in which he was going."

For example, Prime Minister Macmillan is an Etonian.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

December 12, 1930

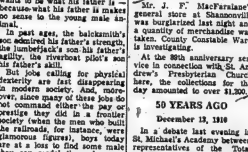
Thousands of excited children and grown-ups lined the main thoroughfares of the city on Wednesday afternoon as the long-looked-for Second Annual Santa Claus Parade possessed by the merchants of the city wound its colorful way along the streets to the shrill acclamation of tiny tots, children and oldsters suddenly become young again.

Heading the parade as it swung into Front Street was the augmented Belleville Public School Band. Tall figures of bluecoated period soldiers followed and the YMCA float cheerfully decorated and alive with youngsters. Red, white and blue fairies presented a float of "Fairyland Express", a float which contained pretty public school children correctly garbed in fairy costume.

And naturally the centre of attraction was old St. Nick himself, and the robust, jovial old gentleman who brought up the rear of the seasonal cavalcade was appropriately costumed and rode in an illuminated float smacked of Yuletide Sig attracting riderer that galloped along in pathways of scintillating snow surrounded by the greens of Christmas trees and diamond-like trimmings, rode in front of the sleighing, bowing Santa himself; his robust figure capsized in the traditional white and scarlet of the story-book Noel.

The band received the seasonal greeting of Loyal Orange Lodge No. 251 of Hallowey, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Clayton Wright, W.M.; Eric Denyes, D.M.; Clarence Juby, recording secretary; Lorne Brought, financial secretary; S. Juby, treasurer; Rose, chaplain; A. Juby, D. of C.; lecturers, H. Kelly and B. McMullen; inside Tyler, Charles Kelly; outside Tyler, J. Lowery; committee, H. Carter, S. Rose, S. Townsend, T. Carter and R. Reid.

Mr. J. F. MacFarlaine's general store at Shannonville was burglarized on Sunday and a quantity of merchandise was taken. County Constable Ward is investigating.



At the 30th anniversary service of congregation, with St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here, the congregation the day amounted to over $1,300.

50 YEARS AGO

December 13, 1910

In a debate last evening in St. Michael's Academy between representatives of the Total Abstinence Society of Peterborough and representatives of the same society of this city, the Peterborough debaters were acknowledged to be the winners by Mr. E. J. Butler, barrister, who acted as judge. His decision was "Received that college education for a young man does not pay." The Peterborough speakers were: Messrs. Hall, Hamilton and Stewart; J. Doris and they took the affirmative and Messrs. Ward, Clive side was upheld by Messrs. John Lally and Edward Malyea and Miss Ethel Herbert. The best oratory was awarded to Mr. Edward Malyea. The Peterborough team won by only one point. Father Meehan was present and gave a short address.

Mr. Richard Bell, formerly editor of the Daily Ontario, has left for Toronto and may locate there. The good wishes of many friends go with him.

The largest river in British Columbia was named to honor Simon Fraser, the man who explored the great waterway from its source to its mouth. He was superintendent of the then New Caledonia district of B.C. for the North West Co. The officers of the N. W. Co. named the river in his honor in 1808.

Strictly Personal
Aimlessness Often Breeds Delinquency

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Hardly any young boy today wants to be what his father is — because what his father is makes no sense to the young male animal.

In past ages, the blacksmith's son followed his father's strength, the lumberjack's son his father's agility, the riverboat pilot's son his father's skill.

But jobs calling for physical dexterity are fast disappearing in modern society. And, moreover, since most of these jobs do not command either the pay or prestige they did in a frontier society, they do not attract the bolder boys. Nor is an aviator or a telephone lineman any great source of gratification from thoughts of imitating him in later life, but these are relatively few.

The high school work seems dull and unexciting, they boy finds, and the building of concept of creative labor — the tree chopped, the road built, the river navigated, the house rounded up. The unceasing popularity of Westerns (among fathers and sons alike) testifies to the deep instinctual longing for unmitigated today.

The so-called delinquency problem is more than a matter of mere idle posture of the boy, for delinquency is widespread at all levels, it comes. I firmly believe, from a sense of aimlessness, of being lost. The physical traits — co-ordination, courage, dexterity — have no premium in modern society, and that the ultimate choice is between dullness and crime.

It is a false choice, because many boys today offer interest and excitement and variety in their own kind. But we have failed to help the boy make a crucial transition from animal energy to human effort.

To Your Good Health
By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

HARDENING OF ARTERIES PART OF AGING PROCESS

"Dear Dr. Molner: About a year ago I had a physical examination: Blood pressure low, but that's a help, not a hindrance to me. Complained too high and hardening of the arteries started. I was told to reduce 25 pounds, down to 150. I feel fairly good although I suffer from dizzy spells that I think are due to the low blood pressure. From time to time I wonder about the hardening of the arteries. As this progresses, what signs of trouble should I look for? I am 57 years old. — Mrs. C. W. A."

Madam, I don't know as I feel like dredging up things for you to worry about.

For a woman of 57, you sound as though you were probably about average, which is not to consider worrying. Blood pressure low, but cholesterol high arteries hardening some, but no unfavorable results. I'm sure your weight obviously too high, but I assume that you followed orders and got rid of some of the excess baggage.

There's no way of predicting when, or even whether, hardening arteries are going to cause any trouble. Some people are more susceptible than others.

For remember this, hardening of the arteries is something that comes to all of us sooner or later just as our skin texture changes and our hair gets grayer and we need glasses to read the fine print in the telephone book. Therefore, we decide to go home at a sensible hour instead of staying up a party until dawn.

You are wise to reduce your weight — and keep it down. If your arteries are harder than they used to be, you'll not want to put needless strain on them by being overweight. But don't spend your time worrying about disaster to overtake you. I hate to be a little pessimistic, but arteries never will bother you!

At the age of 15 or at 51, we grow one day older every 24 hours. No more; no less. So instead of hunting for what's the way of life is, let's just decide to make life as good as we can at any age. That's the sensible attitude.

Let's not rail against the fact that arteries harden. Let's just keep our weight normal and get reasonable exercise and have periodic physical examination and when we've done the best we can to stay healthy, let's for Pete's sake quit worrying and looking for trouble.

To add two other quick points: Light-headedness may very well be due to low blood pressure. This frequently improves with weight reduction. And as for cholesterol levels (something we don't wholly understand anyway) they can in most instances be reduced by weight reduction or by other measures, mainly diet. Your doctor can figure out the best plan for you.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have had a bad cold in the head for years, which doesn't bother me except for the sneezing. Is there some cure for this?"

I hate to give sneezy tears the red — heat treatment by technical term for itching; hence sneezing. Sorry.

R. K.: One of those "right in the middle" cases, if left burning all night in the bedroom may solve the whole problem — or worsen it little boy. Why not try it?

"Dear Doctor" is possible even if you eat a lot. In fact, it's possible to decide to make sure you are getting necessary nourishment, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Rockefeller Plaza, copy of my pamphlet, "Vitamins, The Spice of Health." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin to cover handling and postage.

TODAY'S TALK

BY GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WHISPERING LEAVES

Autumn keeps reminding each one of us as to the brevity of life itself. It keeps whispering, "Hurry, hurry, hurry!" We need not hurry and worry, however.

I love to walk through the fallen leaves, with their colorful jackets, all whispering to me in memory of days gone by and over do they tumble, as they offer themselves as a sacrifice in the winds to the mold, preparing for the spring.

Like the leaves, we bury our thoughts and experiences as the natural sequences of life. We honor the Earth as a great artist would paint it as a living picture.

Leaves do not die. They continue to feed the soil with the earth they fertilize what in time becomes new life in some new form, to challenge even the immortality of the soul of man.

Matthew Arnold spoke about Morley Roberts wrote about W. H. Hudson, and Hudson's unusual life come alive, before it was a meaningful life and it had the whispering leaves. W. H. Hudson will always be loved because of his affection for every living thing — and that love is understood the character of each as a living, separate work of art as he, himself, created something living right before him and the world. What a life!

He encounters no suggestion of snobbery if he is seen speaking terms with millionaires and men of influence. To him, happily, they are all human beings. He is always for the sawmill. They are all human beings. He is always for the sawmill. They are all what is called equal. The opinion of the newspaperman is to report — not to edit.

And after looking at them now for half a century come next Michaelmas, I am more impression that they are all in finance and politics.

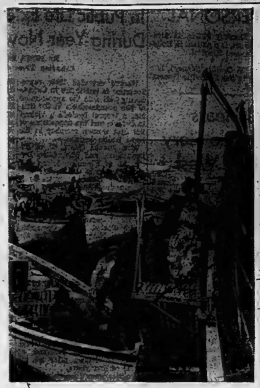
Good Cheer Sails on "Christmas Seal"

Children everywhere love a story, but none more than these youngsters from Bonavista Bay, Newfoundland, who gather to greet the Captain of the TB hospital ship Christmas Seal on her annual tour of the island. Skipper Peter Troake wins over his youthful audience with tales of Santa Claus and the North Pole. He skilfully manages to get across his message that Santa's notebook has the name of every good little boy and girl who remembers to eat the right foods, get plenty of rest, and shows up on the Christmas Seal for checkup and vaccination.

National Film Board of Canada Photos by Chris Lund.



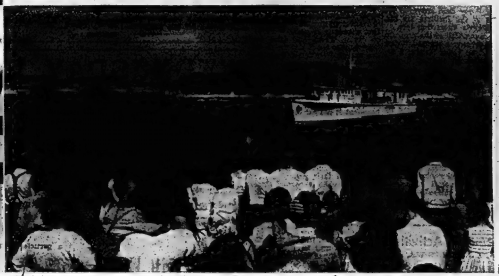
Trim Little Ship on Big Medical Mission

Twilltogate skipper, Capt. Peter Troake, has no flowing beard, no reindeer, no red plush suit, but to thousands of adoring youngsters scattered throughout Newfoundland's 1,800 outports, he is more real than Father Christmas and his visits are heralded with every bit as much fanfare and excitement.

During the 10 years he has commanded the Canadian Tuberculosis Association's floating X-ray clinic, the Christmas Seal, Capt. Troake has built up a popularity rating that would be the envy of politicians anywhere. Posing happily as "one of Santa's helpers" he has won the confidence and affection of the island's children by his merry good humour and his fascinating ability to tell a tall tale.

Behind the twinkling eyes and the hearty laughter, Capt. Troake is a dedicated man with a quietly earnest purpose: to bring the health and medical facilities of his 148-ton floating laboratory to every remote fishing village dotted along the island's rugged coastline. Despite the fact that one of Canada's great medical achievements of the past century has been the reduction in deaths from tuberculosis, Capt. Troake is not a man to rest easy while a single person has need of the health facilities of his trim little white-hulled craft. His visits are awaited with a joyous expectation generally associated only with a festive occasion.

When the good ship Christmas Seal noses her way into one of the countless coves and harbours that make up the island's 6000-mile coastline, she drops anchor to the sound of music blaring forth merrily from her twin loudspeakers, and the lilting tenor of her jovial captain. When not guiding his ship, Capt. Troake can generally be found ashore urging young and old to go aboard for an examination. Thanks to the dedication of men like Peter Troake, and the skilled medical and nursing team that sails with him, Newfoundland has been able to reduce dramatically the number of deaths claimed by tuberculosis in recent years. Capt. Troake has it all figured out: that if the day ever comes when the dread killer has been wiped out entirely, he'd like to travel around the island giving out presents to the countless friends he has made over the years. In the meantime he and his shipmates continue to bring them the greatest gift of all: good health and longer life.



In remote settlements, where there is no dock, villagers row out to the Christmas Seal in dories. A holiday air prevails as the fisherfolk use the occasion to swap stories, catch up on news of their neighbours.

A whopping fish story from old-timer Roland Hann sends skipper Troake into peals of laughter. Hann, who came aboard for X-rays and diabetic tests, presented the popular captain with a fresh codfish.

Isobel Stokes and Ann Humphries of Cape Freels relax on deck as they peruse some of the good health literature distributed by medical teams who sail with the Christmas Seal.

All hands turn out to greet the Newfoundland Tuberculosis Association's trim craft Christmas Seal when she calls. No village is too small, no outport too remote for the intrepid crew who sail the sleek little ship local folk call the floating X-ray clinic. "We'll stop for one man" proclaims skipper Troake. This kind of dedication by everyone in the field has paid off: last year deaths from tuberculosis were at the lowest point ever.

City Hall Staff Back on Job, No Estimate of Fire Damage

Members of the city hall staff were back on the job today following yesterday's fire which damaged the first floor mayor's office and downstairs committee room and caused smoke damage throughout a major portion of the building.

No accurate estimate as to the total damage had been made this morning, according to City Manager J. R. Reynolds.

However, the downstairs mayor's office and the committee room will have to have a new floor and both offices will have to be re-decorated.

In other offices there will have to be a lot of cleaning done to get rid of the smoke smell but the extent of redecoration necessary had not yet been determined.

Ironically a city council fire committee meeting was scheduled for yesterday afternoon. One of the items on the agenda was the purchase of a new fire truck for the city fire department.

The fire committee meeting went on as scheduled — but in the main council chambers. Following the meeting it was reported the committee will recommend to council the purchase of the asked for equipment.

STARTED FROM FURNACE

It has been fairly well established that the fire, discovered shortly before the noon hour, started from the furnace smoke stack and caught into joists below the ground level floors.

Several of the heavy joists were completely burned through and others were badly charred for up to 25 feet of their length.

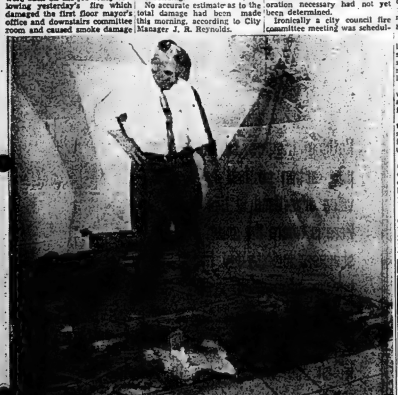
In fact so great a start had the blaze gained that firemen said they were extremely lucky in being able to bring the fire under control.

Yesterday city hall offices were closed for the remainder of the day following the fire, to allow dense smoke to clear out of the building.

PHONE WIRES BURNED

Telephone communications at city hall were cut off as result of the blaze and since the fire, telephone repairmen have been busy repairing the system. The main telephone cable leading into city hall was burned by the fire cutting off line's to the switchboard.

Today, lines leading to the city hall had been restored temporarily, but communication within the building was still interrupted.



Cleaning up operations in the city hall basement continued today. Public washrooms in the city hall basement have been closed.

Although situated almost directly over the furnace room, the Opportunity Shop, retailing used clothing as a Hospital Auxiliary fund-raising project, escaped fire and water loss.

There was some smoke damage but today the clothes are being aired and it is thought most of the clothes will be usable. Some of the clothes sold at the Opportunity Shop are donated outright, while others are sold on a consignment basis, owners receiving half the proceeds. The Opportunity Shop is operated by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary.

FIRE DAMAGE — City Planning Engineer Charles Mott points to damaged floor in the downstairs committee room at city hall resulting from yesterday's fire. Entire floor of mayor's office and adjoining committee room will have to be replaced.

2 Gas Furnaces For Sheet Metal Work Proposed

CAMPBELLFORD — The regular meeting of the North-East Northumberland District High School Board was held this week in the Campbellford district high school. All members were present with the exception of Mr. Vincent Farrell.

G. W. Rutherford reported that the installation of propane gas in the industrial arts room had been investigated. Two furnaces would be required for instruction in sheet metal work.

William McComb said that great interest had been shown by parents with regard to the open night held recently at the school. Parents of the students appreciated this opportunity to meet the teachers and the board agreed that it would be a custom well worth carrying on each year.

Mr. R. K. Thompson was present at this meeting at the invitation of the finance committee, which had asked him to present an estimate of requirements for the physical education department.

Mr. Thompson has a well planned physical education program, including noon-hour activities for students who remain at the school during the noon recess.

The property committee was requested to investigate the condition of the vacuum cleaner used in the school and was empowered to take the necessary action to repair or replace this equipment.

The need for a full-time secretary for the school was reviewed, but no immediate action was taken.

A letter from county council advised that Mr. Lawrence Mounsey of Warkworth would be the appointee to this board for the year 1961.

The inaugural meeting of this board will be held on Friday, January 6, 1961.

The accounts presented at this meeting were approved for payment, and the meeting adjourned.

W.I. Hears Yuletide Story Of the West

RYLSTONE — Mrs. Donald Stewart was hostess to the Rylstone Women's Institute on the afternoon of December 8th, when they held the Christmas meeting in the Sunday School room of Zion Church, at Petherick's corners.

There were 16 ladies and two children in attendance.

It was a "Do It Yourself" program with everyone expected to participate. Mrs. Donald Kerr, president, was in charge of the business for the month.

Mrs. Clara Mildman was convener for the program, which was as follows: a reading — "A recipe for a Merry Christmas," by Mrs. Percy Reid; recitation, "Little Miss Muffett," by little Brenda Watson, and Christmas carols led by Mrs. Ellis Jones at the piano.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Ernest Irwin introduced the guest speaker, the Rev. Gordon Whitehorne, who delighted all with his Christmas story from a western mining town, and his personal Christmas message.

Mrs. Percy Reid conveyed the thanks of the Institute for Mr. Whitehorne's interesting talk.

The remainder of the program was as follows: a reading, "After Dishes," by Violet Wright; a demonstration on making a wool octopus pin cushion, by Mrs. Carl Reid, and a reading, "Christmas Day," by Mrs. Jim Gray.

Current events were read by Mrs. Ernest Irwin, and a "life-saver" game was conducted by Mrs. Clara Mildman.

Nemos were distributed and drawn for the Christmas gift exchange, and the gifts were distributed. A small gift was also presented to Mr. Whitehorne in appreciation of his message.

Dainty refreshments of sandwiches, pickles and Christmas cookies, were enjoyed. Assisting the hostess was the refreshment committee, Mrs. Percy Reid and Mrs. Jim Gray.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S W.A.

MARMORA — The December meeting of St. Andrew's United Church Women's Association took the form of a Christmas party and pot-luck supper, Dec. 6th, and was held in the upper room which was decorated in Christmas designs.

The tables were lovely with colored candles and Christmas centre pieces, supper was served by candlelight.

Following the supper was the devotional period. Mrs. Albert campion gave a reading on Christmas observances in 58 different countries. Mrs. Stanley Kerr read the Christmas story from Luke. Mesdames Robb Sanderson and Edwin Wise sang "Silent Night", as a duet. Mrs. Sidney Demorest gave a reading on India (in native costume), while Mrs. McLeod played softly "Star of the East".

Depicting the gifts of the wise men little Miss Betty Demorest passed around candy.

Mrs. James Heath sang, "O Holy Night".

The business meeting followed. A nominating committee was named to bring in a slate of officers in January. A motion was passed to pay the outstanding bills on the new kitchen $1195, also drapes for the ladies parlor at a cost of $175. A motion was also carried to donate $50 to the church board, in December.

Due to illness the full report of the year's work was not given.

A motion was carried to cater to an oyster supper in January, after which the meeting closed.

Representation by Women In Public Life Extended During Year Now Closing

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Women extended their representation in public life in Canada during 1960 with the appointment of two grandmothers to the Senate, a federal byelection victory in Ontario and the appearance of the first woman member in the Nova Scotia legislature.

Mrs. Joanna Quart, 62, of Sillery, Que., and Mrs. Olive Irvine, 64, of Winnipeg, joined five other women in the Senate. Mrs. Quart is president of the Women's Progressive Conservative Association of Canada and Mrs. Irvine is a former school teacher.

Judy LaMarsh, 33 - year - old lawyer, became the 11th woman to be elected to the Commons. She won Niagara Falls for the Liberals and joined—three Progressive Conservative women MPs—Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough, Jean Casselman and Margaret Aitken.

Gladys Porter, 65, mayor of the Annapolis Valley town of Kentville, broke the male monopoly in the Nova Scotia legislature when she won Kings North for the Progressive Conservatives.

CHARLOTTE BACK

And at the municipal level, Charlotte Whitton returned as mayor of Ottawa after an absence of four years.

Politics wasn't the only field in which the ladies made their mark. Mary Louise Lynch, Saint John, N.B., lawyer, became the first of her sex to serve on the National Parole Board. Bernadette Gaudet was certified as Montreal's first female notary.

The continuing campaign for equal rights with men got a boost in Halifax when women got their first chance in 20 years to serve on juries. There had been no legal barrier but it was the practice to omit their names from the jury lists. Alderman Abbie Lane spearheaded the drive for the change.

Women were prominent in the affairs of immigration, and not simply because the federal department is headed by a woman minister.

The most celebrated immigrant was an internationally - famous beauty, Elsa Lollobrigida, who chose Toronto as her home in order to establish citizenship for her stateless husband, Dr. Milko Skofic, and their son.

The 2,000,000th immigrant since the end of the Second World War was a young lady, 20-year-old Annette Toft of Denmark, who arrived in December and went to live in Calgary.

Two other women fought to remain in Canada. Irenl Rebrik, 22-year-old lecturer in Russian at the University of British Columbia, appealed to the Supreme Court of Canada against a deportation order. In Ottawa, Mrs. Louis Yuet Sun, 28, of Hong Kong, fought to stay in Canada with her son, born here while visiting her father.

Canadians had reason to be proud of the sports accomplishments of two young women. Anne Heggtveit of Ottawa established herself as the world's best woman skier when she won a gold medal at the Winter Olympics in Squaw Valley, Calif.

Toronto figure skater Barbara Wagner of Toronto teamed up with Bob Paul to win Canada's only other Olympic gold medal, capturing the pairs championship. They later turned professional.

Less - welcome publicity came to Joan Johnson Ablzotti, 27-year-old Toronto model, who was dubbed "Shady Lady" by Toronto newspapers after she posed as a professional divorce co-respondent on a CBC TV show. Later she said her story was a hoax.

The Canadian Girl Guides marked their golden jubilee in 1960 and the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire celebrated its 60th birthday. And in Montreal, Rev. Mother St. Agnes Isidore de Paradeo, 91-year-old Carmelite nun, completed 70 years of contemplative life in the cloister of Carmel d'Hochelaga.

Eskimo stewardess Ann Padlo got a CBC executive on a flight from Frobisher Bay and a few months later was in Montreal learning to be a program producer for a lat-evening radio broadcast in the Eskimo language.

Singer Joan Stuart, 32, of Toronto, became engaged to entertainer Sammy Davis Jr., in January despite objections from her parents. But the engagement was called off in April and the Negro singer later married actress Mai Britt.

Mrs. Kennedy Buys Gowns

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy announced Monday she has chosen a gown designed by Oleg Cassini to wear to the Jan. 19 gala in Washington following inauguration as president of her husband, John F. Kennedy.

Cassini, a New York designer who visited Mrs. Kennedy in a Washington hospital shortly after the birth of her son, also will receive an order from the president-elect's wife for three additional gowns for her winter social activities.

O.E.S. Chapt. Holds Fine Card Party

WELLINGTON — A nice crowd attended the Lakeside Chapter 81 O.E.S. euchre and bridge party last Wednesday evening. There were 13 tables of euchre and three tables of bridge in play.

The Worthy Matron of Lakeside, Mrs. Alice Watt, presented the following with prizes: euchre, ladies' high, Mrs. Olive Chandler; ladies' low, Mrs. Dan Campbell; men's high, Mr. John Watt and men's low, Mr. Clayton Cruickshank. Bridge prizes went to: ladies' high, Mrs. Ken Lane; ladies' low, Mrs. Del Huff; men's high, Delbert Boyle; and men's low, Dr. R. A. Thompson.

The door prize was presented to Mrs. Ross Benway.

A lovely lunch followed, served by the committee in charge of the party.

Club Activities

U.C. COUPLES' CLUB

WELLINGTON — On Friday evening the United Church Couples' club enjoyed a family get-together in the Centennial parlor.

About 60 were present and all sat down to a delicious turkey pot-luck supper.

The highlight of the evening for the children was when Santa Claus arrived and presented each child with a nice gift from the beautiful Christmas tree. One little girl who had chicken pox was not forgotten as Santa took her gift to her personally. The "Couples", as is their custom at this annual meeting, brought along donations of canned goods, new and used toys and good used clothing to be given to the needy in the community.

A pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

BECOMES REAL THING

NYEBURG, Mass. (AP)—A boy scout troop turned a rescue practice into the real thing Sunday. One of the scouts, out on a lost person search drill, saw 12-year-old Thomas Barbrick break through the thin ice of a pond. Scoutmaster George Murray, 23, ran to his car for a rope, crawled 130 feet onto the ice, and threw one end of the line to the boy and hauled him to safety.

GIRL GUIDE, BROWNIE NEWS

FRANKFORD — The first Frankford Girl Guide Company entertained their mothers at a "Mother and Daughter" banquet last Monday evening in the Legion Hall.

Yellow 'mums and green pines decorated the tables. Grace was said by Donna Chase. Cheryl Chard proposed the toast to the Queen and Patsy Hamilton proposed the toast to the mothers.

Mrs. M. Macbain, of Batawa, District Commissioner for Girl Guides, was present at the head table and introduced by Judy Lawrence, who also introduced Mr. and Mrs. R. Lawrence and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Stickle. Each of the girls then presented her mother to those present.

Following a delicious chicken dinner, served by the Patrol Leaders and other members of the patrol provided entertainment.

Piano solo by Leisha Judd, of the Swallow Patrol; reading "The Night After Christmas", by Brenda Westlake of the Bluebird Patrol; reading by Irene Bates, of the Oriole Patrol; reading "Tale of the Three Good Deeds"; and a reading — "Candlelglow" by Linda Forbes, of the Robin Patrol, completed the program.

Mrs. K. Lawrence, Captain, and Mrs. E. Stickle, Lieutenant, spoke briefly and expressed cooperation and thanks to the girls and their mothers.

Mrs. Macbain spoke to the Girl Guides on the theme "Love singing, "O Canada".

Six calendars, donated to the Quinte Area Camp by the Guides as a good turn in place of exchanging Christmas cards.

Shirley Nicholson, Betty and Jennifer Lawrence are enrolled as New Guides in the Company.

A Christmas Carol sing-song led by the Guides closed an enjoyable party.

BROWNIES

FRANKFORD—The 1st Frankford Brownie Pack held its enrolment ceremony and Christmas party, in Frankford Community Hall, on Wednesday evening.

Brown Owl, Marjorie Miller, and Tawny Owls, Carmen Gilmour and Carole Abbott, conducted the ceremony of enrolling 7 new Brownies. They are as follows: Betty McMillan, Eva Forsyth, Debbie Lawson, Vera Plevak, Janice Lockwood, and Mary Scobie. Those attending "Golden Eagle Bell Polka," that the Brownies learned at a previous meeting.

The girls, assembled around the Christmas tree and sang Christmas carols, after which Christmas gifts were exchanged.

The Brownies served their mothers refreshments, in the lower auditorium.

The local association passed out bags of candy, to the Brownies, at the close of the evening.

Women's Institute

UNIONDALE W.I.

The December meeting of Uniondale Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. R. Fleming, 4th concession of Sidney, with 28 members and four visitors present.

The president, Mrs. R. Sine, reminded the members of the 50th anniversary on April 20 at Wallbridge Orange Hall, being followed by a banquet, which will need a great deal of preparation.

This meeting being the Christmas meeting several carols, "Silent Night," "Joy to the World" and "Deck the Hall" were sung, the song leader being Mrs. M. Grills, assisted by Mrs. B. Burkitt.

Mrs. A. Sine favored with harp solo of Christmas carols, which were enjoyed by all.

A series of Christmas readings were given by Mrs. G. Pollard; "The Christmas Spirit", Mrs. M. Mallory; "Love Letters," Mrs. J. Morris; "Christmas Eve," Mrs. R. Dafoe; and "The True Spirit of Christmas," Mrs. G. Harrington. A prayer on growing older was given by Mrs. Bert Bush.

A contest on missing words in titles and verses of Christmas songs was conducted by Mrs. G. Harrington and won by Mrs. R. Burkitt.

An exchange of knick-knack gifts closed the program for the December meeting.

The Mary Stewart Collect was repeated in unison and lunch was served by the December hostesses, after which a social time was enjoyed.

The January meeting at Mrs G. Burkitt's and Mrs. R. Burkitt's will have a visit of the district president.

QUESTION BOX

Question: I have a brand new problem, My daughter, a freshman in college, has been invited to a week-end at another college by a young man that she knows quite well. She will attend a football game and a dance the following night. His mother will accompany her and they will share a motel room together. My question is: Should my daughter pay her own share of the motel room, or let the young man's mother pay for it? — MRS. H.T. Baltimore, Md.

Answer: Your daughter should assume her share of the expense. This would include meals, drinks, charges or any meals in a restaurant when the young man is not there to pay for it. By all means she should be sure to pay her share of the motel accommodations.

Question: I am a student at Parkland High School and in my class is having a debate. Our topic is: Do schools have the right to tell us what clothes should or should not be worn to school? I would appreciate your views on this issue. — Miss A. Parkland High School

Answer: Actually you young people should have input in what is worn to school. Sloppy slacks and sweaters, and a general disregard for appearance generally should be avoided by the boys. A sports shirt or sweater worn with a sports jacket and tie-less shirt collar, is perfectly acceptable for school wear. If the male student is in doubt concerning what is not realized this, I see no reason why he can't walk down the aisle and give her away, he won't attend the wedding. My daughter is getting married and will be the one to give away the bride and I will be unknown to members of his family; Also, when does anyone have permission to tell people to go to such-and-such store where the girl has indicated what she wants, and where they are in case she doesn't get duplicates? On top of this, we have been told that gifts of money would be accepted as a wedding gift. I became most confused at this point. In all, is my belief that relatives never open showers, as that people wish to give or buy for such an event. Please help me, — Mrs. S. T. Chicago, Ill.

Answer: You are absolutely right on one point, I have said it . . . and over again. Relatives should not give showers for one of their own. The idea, that a bride-to-be gives certain stores a list of gifts she would like to receive, has come into favor during recent years. It really makes sense because it does away with duplicate gifts and electric toasters and three silver bowls! When you purchase your gift, check with the store to discover what her selections have been, and then get whatever suits your budget. I think only relatives should give gifts of money to the bridal couple. Hinting that anyone may do so is not in very good taste.

Question: When you mail Christmas cards to a family that you know very well and that includes a son eighteen and a daughter seventeen (and he is a very good buddy), should you send a card just to Jim, or to the whole family? If to the family, do you address it "Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Children" or "Miss T. R. Smith and Son, N.Y."

Answer: If you send a card to the whole family, it should be addressed "Mr. and Mrs. John Doe." Then, on the card itself, write "Best wishes to you all." Do not use the word "and Family" on the envelope, it's up to you whether or not you wish to include a separate card to the young man.

Question: I am 15 years old and I like a boy who is 18. He likes me, too. I would like to go steady with him. He is very studious and reliable. My parents think I am too young. What do you think? — Miss P. W., Gibsland, La.

Answer: I agree with your parents. You are too young. Try not have this young man to come to your house for a family supper once in a while! In this way you will get to know him better. As for outside "dates" with him, wait a year or two!

Question: I enjoy your column very much. Could you please help me? My husband's daughter is getting married soon. She has lived with her mother, who hasn't remarried. Here are my questions: How should the invitations be written? Does the father have to pay all of the costs of the wedding? May I, the second wife, be invited to the reception? Does her father give her away? Thank you. — Mrs. J. O., Dublin, Ireland

Answer: The invitations should be engraved and written, and they should be sent out by the bride's mother. I would be invited with her. The father should certainly pay most of the wedding expenses, and he, of course, should give her away. If the situation is not strained between you and his first wife, by all means attend the ceremony and the reception. Just to be safe, talk this over with your husband, his daughter and ask her wishes in the matter. After all, it is her wedding and it is up to her to make any decisions she wishes.

Christmas Party On A Shoestring

By Mary Moore

The menu I suggested yesterday for an economical Christmas party for 12 people included: Chili con Carne, Red and Green Slaw, Sliced Dills, Garlic Bread, Cottage Cheese with Ground Cranberry Mould, Coffee Ice Cream and Cream Slaw. Today I will give the remaining 3 recipes and a few economical Christmas spreads.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Chili con Carne (see Monday. Reduce recipe to half quantity for 6); Cole Slaw with Pineapple Dressing; Buttered Rye Bread; Cherry Cottage Pudding; Tea.

COTTAGE CHEESE AROUND CRANBERRY MOULD:

To make the Cranberry Mould, boil together for 5 minutes 2 cups each water and sugar. Add 4 cups cranberries and boil gently, without stirring, for 15 minutes or until cranberries are clear. Pour into oiled fancy mould and chill. At serving time turn out on large round chop plate or platter, neatly surrounded with border of 2 pounds cottage cheese.

COFFEE KRINGLES:

(To serve 12).

One-quarter cup scalded milk, 1-4 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1-4 cup shortening, 1-2 cup lukewarm water, tablespoon sugar, 1 package granular yeast, 1 egg well beaten. Measure into mixing bowl lukewarm water, stir in 1 teaspoon sugar and sprinkle with yeast. Let stand 10 minutes. Then stir well. Meanwhile scald milk; then cool to lukewarm. In another bowl mix together 1-4 cup sugar, salt and flour. Cut in shortening in finely. Stir lukewarm milk into yeast mixture. Add sugar mixture, egg and flour mixture. Stir until well blended — about 3 minutes. Scrape dough from sides of bowl; brush top of dough and sides of bowl with melted shortening. Cover. Let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk — about 1 1-2 to 2 hours. Turn dough out on lightly floured board. Divide in half. On floured board roll each half into a 12 x 10" rectangle. Place one rectangle on large greased baking sheet or 13 x 9" pan. Spread evenly with mixture of 1 1-3 cups chopped stewed prunes, 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-4 cup sugar. Cover with other rectangle of dough. Press edges to seal. Brush lightly with melted butter or margarine. Cover. Let rise in warm place until doubled in bulk — about 1 1-2 to 2 hours. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 25 to 30 minutes. When cool, frost with plain icing. To serve cut into 3" squares or diamonds.

SMULLED CIDER:

(To serve 12).

About 15 minutes before serving, simmer 6 cups apple cider (15 cups) fresh apple cider, 2 teaspoons whole allspice, 6 sticks cinnamon and 6 whole cloves. Before serving add 1-2 cup lemon juice (optional) and serve very hot. Strain if desired but whole spices add to its character.

New Canadians Entertained By I.O.D.E.

Last Monday the St. Julien Chapter IODE, had many of the new Canadians, who had helped with the International Fair, as guests at a regular monthly meeting.

Following a brief business session, during which the guests witnessed the ceremony of induction of a new member, Mrs. Reynolds the regent, Mrs. M. Patterson, welcomed the new Canadians and had a roll call of the countries represented.

Ladies were present whose homes of origin were in Czechoslavakia, Germany, Estonia, Holland, Italy, Lithuania, Poland and Yugoslavia. Mrs. Patterson explained to them what the IODE is and what it does, and then introduced to them the executive of the St. Julien Chapter.

FILM SHOWN

For the entertainment of the guests a beautiful film "Travels Canada Summer" was shown. It is the story of the building of the trans-Canada highway from the coast of Newfoundland across the Dominion to Victoria, B.C. Realistic scenic scenery the film showed many of the occupations, industries and people typical of each province.

Mr. G. Hume kindly showed the filme he had taken of the International Fair, — the opening ceremonies, the display of foods on the bake table, the booth of each country, and the ladies and girls in their colorful national costumes.

While lunch was being prepared, Mrs. Parrott taught everyone "The song of the Volga Boatman", a copy of which is given to each new Canadian at the Citizenship Courts. She also handed out gaily — wrapped prizes which were won at the Mrs. Letus from Estonia; Mrs. Campbell, Mrs. Jardine from Poland; Mrs. Grynkiewicz from Poland; Mrs. Ormerod, Mrs. Quickert from Germany, and Mrs. Booma from Holland.

The guests formed into two circles facing each other and were served lunch by the ladies of the IODE. As the guests left the hall, they viewed colored transparencies of Confederation Fair, which had been taken by Mrs. Zalesnik, Quickert, Reynolds mounted. on a large cardboard. Also some lovely baby sets knitted and sewn by the IODE members for overseas parcels.

MADE TO ORDER

Mrs. B. H.—School is making Greta lazy. She spends only half an hour on homework and gets good marks.

Greta H. — School is boring. I'm not learning anything.

Mrs. B. H.: My daughter is 13 and an upper sophomore in high school, I can't understand how she can get away with so little study and still get passing marks so easily. I know she's bright, but it takes more than brightness to learn anything for example. Once in a while you must open a book and read for an hour or so.

When I was in high school, the assignments took me three hours a day at least. And then you didn't even earn credit for participating in a project. But Greta looks up a few words in the back of her French book, calls up her friend for the geometry answers, and calls it a day as far as school is concerned.

There are precious days in her life and it seems to me she's wasting them. Because school makes no demands on her she's getting more and more lazy when it comes to work.

Greta H.: My mother is wrong about me being lazy about work. She knows I work hard when it's for something that interest me. I like a party at our house. I polish the furniture, clean and wash canapes by the dozen. So Mother knows I'm not one to slip up the pace and intensity of instruction. Recently, scout camping and after-school and weekend opportunities for "recruitment" for Greta, such as special events at the museums, libraries and Y's.

With the aid of her mother and teachers, Greta must find incentive. But for her and our other young people, our national emphasis will change, as Frederick M. Scherer warns in "Michigan Alumnus," from the bald eagle to the gold brick.

Canada's Top Weather Man Taking Leave of Absence To Join World Organization

GENEVA (CP)—When Keith McLeod, Canada's top weather man, joined the World Meteorological Organization in October he "stopped being a Canadian and became an international civil servant."

McLeod, 51, has taken two years leave of absence from his job as superintendent of the transport department's public weather service to work as an executive assistant to the secretary-general of WMO. He is chief of administrative services in the world body.

He describes his job as primarily one of coordinating the work of the various divisions of WMO and supervising the preparation of reports to the United Nations and its specialized agencies.

But his double-barrelled position also makes him responsible for many other matters including the WMO budget, staff and all administrative aspects of the organization which has more than 100 member nations.

"This is one of the reasons why I took the job — to broaden my administrative background," McLeod says. Another reason was to "get in the swim" of international meteorological work which had expanded immensely in recent years.

UNFAMILIAR LANGUAGE

"The trouble is that many meteorologists working in their own countries simply don't know the alphabet of international meteorology. A whole new nomenclature is being built up and unless you are working in it, you can't keep up with all the new developments."

He describes the WMO as a "sort of multi-armed secretary" that provides the "lubrication to keep national and regional communications working smoothly."

Much of the organization's work is done behind the scenes. At national, regional and international conferences, the WMO provides expert assistance in drafting reports and resolutions, tabulating results and generally keeping the wheels turning.

The WMO also provides a vital coordinating link between the work of the various national meteorological services.

McLeod says the world's weather forecasters still face a massive task. Forecasting is divided into three distinct sections —long-, middle- and short-range forecasting.

IMPROVEMENT SLOW

"The improvement in short-range forecasting has been painfully slow, while in the middle range it is reasonably good. As for long-range predictions, they are just tantalizing."

McLeod, a native of Beaver, Man., who joined the Canadian service in 1939 and has been superintendent at its Toronto headquarters since 1955, took a $2,000 salary cut to join the WMO.

He brought his wife and four children with him to Switzerland and, like other foreigners arriving in the booming city, was appalled at the difficulty of finding suitable accommodation. The McLeods are soon to move into a lakeside villa with about half the space and a higher rent than their Toronto home.

But McLeod finds the job of international civil servant fresh and stimulating. And the prospect of re-entering the Canadian service after two years does not daunt him.

"I can still wear my maple leaf badge—under my lapel," he says.

Queen Raises Rent of 25 Tenant Farmers

LONDON, England (AP) — The Queen raised the rents of 25 of her Scottish tenant farmers Monday. The rents for the farms have been increased to £3,318 a year from £1,914. The farmers are paying up without a squeak.

The new rents were fixed by agreement with the tenants, announced the commissioners for the Crown states, who administer the 96,000 acres the Queen owns in Scotland.

They said the Queen spent £29,639 on repairs and improvements to her properties last year. The rent increases apparently are to help recover some of these costs.

2nd Thurlow

2ND THURLOW — Over 60 friends, neighbors and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. John Craig, gathered at the Neighbors' Aid Hall, on Saturday evening and in honor of their son Eugene and his bride, who were recently married.

Eugene and June were asked to seats of honor and an appropriate address signed on behalf of the community, by Messrs. Orval Stratton, Arnold Mitchell and Harry Thomson, and read by Mrs. Thomson.

Mrs. Gerald Stratton presented them with a lovely platform rocker and an electric floor lamp. The young couple both voiced appreciative thanks.

Eight tables of euchre were enjoyed with prizes won as follows, ladies — 1st, Mrs. Archie Greatrix; 2nd, Mrs. Elmer Vivian; consolation, Mrs. Fred Mitchell.

Men — 1st, Messrs. Stewart Ray; 2nd, Donald Mitchell; consolation, William Lazarin.

Refreshments were served and a social time spent.

Later on dancing was enjoyed.

Mountain View

MOUNTAIN VIEW — Mr. and Mrs. W. Hamilton and family, of Belleville and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Herrington, of Stirling were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Hamilton and family, recently. The party was a birthday celebration in honor of the small daughter of the family (Linda Alice) it being her second birthday.

Mr. M. V. Potter, of Bridgenorth, Nova Scotia is spending several weeks with his daughter, Mrs. Seymour Hamilton and family, before leaving to spend the remainder of the winter, with his son and family, in British Columbia.

HOLD SHOWER

On Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barber were tendered a miscellaneous shower, in honor of their recent marriage. They received many lovely and useful gifts. They also received a white leather Bible from the Mountain View Sunday School, of which the bridegroom is superintendent and also an occasional choir from Huff's Island community.

A social time was enjoyed by everyone at the conclusion of the shower.

ARREST ADJUTANT

FRANKFURT (Reuters)—Robert Mulka, former adjutant to the Nazi commandant of Auschwitz concentration camp, has been arrested in connection with mass murders in the camp, the prosecutor said Sunday. Charges will be brought against Mulka later.

It's Interesting Shopping About For Canine Pal

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Shopping for dogs makes for interesting shopping.

The Christmas gift sections of Britain's pet shops are full of possibilities — ranging from the latest in high-style dog clothes to canine tranquillizers.

Raincoats come in all sorts of colors—soft pastels are all the rage this year—and are made of the best quality plastic. Tartans, naturally, are available for scottie dogs. Matching caps give the pet that "cozy, snug appearance."

Or how about little plastic boots? Ideal for the dog that won't stop its feet.

For the dog-owner who really likes them are crocodile-leather leashes with mink-lined handles.

Individual dog beds are, of course, incredibles and expensive and wouldn't excite anybody's fancy.

But imitation bones would be fun. They are shaped like the real thing and are guaranteed not to chip on the carpet. Or maybe your dog would like having miniature dog boots hung from his neck. They cost only 15 shillings.

"A more practical vein, what could be nicer than a special Christmas dinner for old Rover. Tins of Fare direct from the importers," is the blaring advertisement of one firm. "A 7-oz meat has been passed fit for human consumption and does not therefore need to be cooked or dyed green before sale."

It would obviously be wasted on a color-blind dog.

Then there are those wonderfully comprehensive medicines that cure practically everything in one good-tasting swallow.

One pill, for example, cures ringworm, strengthens your fear of poison, loss of weight, poor digestion, loss of hair and parasites.

Even more remarkable is the concoction that gives the old dog "excellent physiological results through the latter stages of pregnancy and at the same time also eases the owner's anxiety."

X-Rays Probe Trees to Find The Secrets of Insect Life

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

X-rays of trees now detective work on clouds and speculation about the beginnings of life are on the week's science menu:

X-rays are peeking into trees to uncover secrets of insect life.

Instead of chiselling away sections of bark to study habits of tree insects Prof. Ronald W. Stark, University of California entomologist, snaps pictures with an ordinary X-ray machine. He thus studies the life circle and population changes without disturbing the insects.

LIGHT HOUSEKEEPING

Landing on another planet the spacemen will build themselves space houses and even furniture out of lightweight plastic foam.

They will squirt or mould the foam into desired shapes, and it hardens quickly to any housekeeping under way. The plastic foam appears promising, Alway way, according to studies by the U.S. Air Research and Development Command said. Such foam might also be used to make weather and communications satellite balloons more rigid.

THE START OF THINGS

Did life just drop in upon earth some 500,000,000 years ago?

Perhaps suggests Elwin Norbeck, State University of Iowa physicist. At least he said, such a theory could fit with some of the problems of accounting for life on earth.

Life generally is presumed to have started with a single cell, with all types of animals later evolving from that. But scientists cannot find evidence go remains of animals dating back more than some 500,000,000 years ago. But that time, the main biological divisions of animals existed, Norbeck says.

So, he suggests, perhaps all the types of animals started living on earth at the same time—and came here aboard part of a smashed-up planet which once had circled between Mars and Jupiter. Eggs and larvae of such animals—if not the adults themselves — could have been dumped into earth's oceans to start developing here.

MURDER AMONG FISH

Agricultural pesticides and industrial wastes caused 70 per cent of 135 incidents in which fish were killed along American streams and lakes, the U.S. public health service reports. From 100 to 182,000 fish were killed, the estimates, in each incident with an average of 4,100.

Two Drivers Face Charges Of Manslaughter

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—Two racing drivers were charged with manslaughter Monday after 17 persons were killed and 40 injured in the last lap of the Argentine Grand Prix for production cars which ended Sunday.

The drivers, Carlo Naivone and Plinio Rosette, were uninjured in two accidents which occurred within about 350 yards of each other, some 25 miles from the finish of the six-lap, 4,617.3 kilometer (2,833-mile) race.

Seven persons were killed on the spot and more than 30 taken to hospital when Naivone's car plowed into the crowd.

Minutes later Rosette's car hit a motorcycle and hurled into the crowd, killing three on the spot and injuring 13.

Seven of the injured died in hospital.

Rooftop Artist Won't Step Back To Admire Work

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Hans Drude is one artist who never steps back to admire his work. If he did, he'd break his neck.

He usually has to go across the street or up to the next block to get any kind of prospective on his efforts. Even then, fog or drizzle can hamper his vision.

Drude is a Times Square sign-board artist, a rooftop Rembrandt who works in oils—by the bucketful.

His creative milieu takes him into a garish nightmare world that would trouble the sleep of Salvador Dali. Eyeballs five feet in diameter. Ear lobes two feet tall. Horses the size of whales, and whales the size of skating rinks.

As chief portrait artist for Artkraft Strauss, one of the leading U.S. outdoor advertising firms, Drude is responsible for most of the block-long signs in the New York theatre district. His specialties, as they are called in the trade, decorate the building fronts of all of Broadway's first run movie houses and have a variety of products from plays and movies to whisky and strained baby tissues.

On a windy day, Drude frequently finds himself three to four feet away from his work, swaying to and fro on a scaffold five to 10 floors above the street. Pigeons give him more trouble than passersby, but sometimes the police can be more troublesome than either.

Drude had no sooner finished putting the final four-inch wide brush strokes on The Naked Maja, whose unclothed charms stretched languorously along Broadway from 45th to 46th Streets, than a howl went up from the outraged custodians of public morals.

"Get up there and put some clothes on that dame," a policeman ordered as Drude showed up for work next morning. It took him the better part of the day to fashion a flimsy covering for the reclining nymph, all six floors of her.

That particular signboard was a huge reproduction of the famous Goya painting to advertise his movie biography, Drude didn't feel too badly about what happened. "I understand," he said, "the same thing happened to Goya. His model was a famous duchess. Her husband got shocked when he saw the painting and insisted some clothes be put on her."

Drude, who learned his art in Hamburg, Germany, and has been in the U.S. four years, can't understand the American attitude toward bare billboard beauties. "Back home you see more outside a theatre than you see inside."

Projection, of course, is everything in signboard art. One square inch of the working model equals anywhere from three to four square feet of signboard, a scale of as much as 48 to one. Drude is usually given a three-by-four-inch picture of the star or product to be advertised, and then takes it from there.

STILL FOR DEMOCRATS

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Republican dream of building a two-party system in the southern United States suffered a setback in the 1960 election, as politicized Press study of congressional returns showed today. The survey indicated that, despite the fact that Vice-President Nixon polled 47.7 per cent of the two-party vote in 11 southern states, Republican congressional candidates attracted only 21.8 per cent.

Grafted Flaps Show Heart Is Capable of Regenerating

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Medical comments this week touch on regenerated hearts, dreams, and a warning about rebound tumbling.

REGROWTH OF HEARTS

The heart has some ability to regenerate new tissue, says a Soviet physiologist, Prof. Nikolai Sinitsyn.

Experimenting with dogs, he removed small pieces of the heart wall and replaced the missing bits with flaps of borrowed skin or muscle, or synthetic materials. The flaps provided a scaffold for growth of new connective tissue to make the heart wall strong again, he reports. The method might be useful for strengthening areas of the heart damaged by heart attacks or tumors.

DANGEROUS BOUNCE

Rebound tumbling — devices which can turn you into a gymnastic jumping-jack — can be much fun, but dangerous unless their use is wisely controlled, a medical team warns in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The physicians tell of five young men who suffered severe nerve injury, with three paralyzed and one fatally hurt. In four cases, they were hurt while trying backward somersaults. The physicians urge that no one try dangerous manoeuvres until he's well trained.

DREAM AWHILE

Dreams occur during about 20 per cent of all our time asleep, even if people don't remember dreaming. And it's all to the good that we do dream, says the publication, Therapeutic Notes. Volunteers prevented from dreaming became anxious and found it difficult to concentrate. They were awakened whenever movements of their eyes during sleep indicated they were about to begin dreaming.

TROPICAL LIFE

If you're thinking of volunteering for an assignment in Africa, don't worry that life in the tropics will make you age prematurely.

For there's no reason to believe the tropics speed up aging, says a consultant in the current Medical Digest, and in fact "one cannot fail to be impressed by the comparatively young appearance of many of those who have lived long periods in the tropics."

COULD BE SAFE

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — An explosion on the sun caused by Discoverer XVII satellite to encounter unexpectedly heavy radiation that the satellite could have calmed a man through space safely, U.S. Air Force scientists say. They released reports on studies of biological specimens carried on the satellite's 1,000,000-mile flight Nov. 12-14.

Joless Start From Windsor To See P.M.

WINDSOR (CP) — Approximately 100 persons joined in a cavalcade of unemployed which left Windsor for Ottawa in 30 automobiles Monday. They have an appointment to see Prime Minister Diefenbaker and four members of the cabinet Tuesday.

The Windsor group also will see leaders of the Liberal and CCF parties, while in the capital.

On their way back to Windsor, they plan to stop at Toronto and Hamilton for meetings with unemployed in those cities.

They left in all cities of carp, some old, some not so old. Funds for the trip were supplied partly by the special funds of local unions, partly by individual subscription.

Chairman of the Windsor unemployed committee is Mance Mathias, a recently defeated candidate for council. He is employed at present.

Hospital for Sick Children Embarks on Costly Building Program for Needed Room

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Six years ago Canadians offered their prayers and money for Izzy Crotty, a young Newfoundland boy who had been left injured in a ditch after being hit by a car.

Donors gave $10,000 to enable Izzy to be flown here and receive the special care that could be provided at the Hospital for Sick Children.

Their efforts were rewarded and Izzy returned to his home in St. John's.

Prayers and donations have been the backbone of the hospital since it was founded in 1875.

This year a three-stage $7,361,-865 building program was announced that will bring the bed capacity to 780 for children. A new wing will also include an area devoted to research and the people of Ontario are being asked to help the hospital overcome its 1960 research deficit of approximately $243,000.

Although the Ontario hospital service plan covers a large part of the in-patient expenses, expanding research and out-patient facilities must be paid. The 1961 research budget will be increased by $82,000 to $850,550.

Charles L. Gundy, chairman of the board of trustees, said: "We believe the Hospital for Sick Children is an unusual institution located in one city, yet serving an entire province. Children from every corner of Ontario enter our doors."

Since the new hospital on University Avenue opened in February, 1951, 200,000 children have been admitted. Thousands of others have attended clinics, have been treated as out-patients or have had emergency treatment.

The first hospital, a 10-room house, was founded by Mrs. Samuel McMaster, founder of Moulton College in Girls in Toronto and wife of the founder of McMaster University.

The minutes of meetings reveal that the women who volunteered to help often knelt in prayer. Donations totalling $2,379 met the expenses of the first year's operation.

In 1876 the hospital was moved to larger quarters where the city allowed the women to draw water at no cost from a nearby hydrant.

The daily record for Oct. 19, 1878, noted that the hospital was cold and more stove pipe furnaces were required. "After prayerful consideration have decided to order furnace," the entry said, "trusting God for means wherewith to pay."

Shortly after, a local plumber installed a furnace without charge.

The hospital was moved to larger quarters in 1878 and again in 1892. In 1923 it moved to College Street where it remained until 1951. The site was chosen in Queen Victoria's jubilee year and the hospital named the Victoria Hospital for Sick Children. But the name didn't stick.

The newest hospital was named the Hospital for Sick Children but even at that, most people still refer to it as "the Sick Kids".

Navigation On Great Lakes Nearing an End

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Lake shipping on the Great Lakes was near an end today, with heavy ice and zero cold hampering the few freighters still in operation.

United States coast guard headquarters at Cleveland Monday heard the first calls of the winter for assistance because of ice conditions. Curtis sailed ships blocked by ice.

The 1960 navigation season in this port could end by Thursday provided weather conditions allow the four remaining ships in Lake Superior to pass downdown through the Soo locks.

The Sir Thomas Shaughnessy was expected today from Fort William. The John C. Hay, the Fort Henry and the Hagarty are expected Wednesday or Thursday, depending on weather conditions. Their sailings will close navigation at the Lakehead.

Ice formed in the lower St. Marys River Monday as a result of ill — below — zero temperatures. The ice, from four to five inches thick, stretched from Winter Point to Pipe Island.

HELPED THROUGH ICE

One of the ships calling for help was the Standard Oil tanker William P. Cowan, a 426-footer which was aided by the coast guard cutter Acacia through three-inch ice in the Saginaw Bay channel into Lake Huron.

The cutter Naugatuck helped the 246-foot steamer Mancox and the steamer Sullivan Bros. out of ice about six inches thick in Lake Munuscong near the entrance to Lake Huron.

The coast guard said it ordered its Mackinaw Mackinaw to be ready to help the Hagarty and any other ships still in Lake Superior.

The Shaughnessy is taking grain to Owen Sound, the Fort Henry is going to Detroit with newsprint. The Hagarty will go to winter storage at Collingwood.

At Port Arthur, Capt. R. W. Forbes of the federal transport department said the icebreaker Alexander Henry would Monday picking up lightkeepers from the Thunderbay, Angus and Welcome Islands, after having picked up lightkeepers from other posts.

Russell Member Wants to Tell Eastview Story

TORONTO (CP) — Gordon Lavergne (PC—Russell), defeated mayor of the Ottawa suburb of Eastview, said Monday he wants to "speak from the heart" to the Ontario legislature about the recent financial scandal in his town.

Mr. Lavergne, a leading figure in a provincial municipal audit of the towns affairs, was prepared to speak in the throne speech debate, but the debate was not called.

The department of municipal affairs reported the disappearance of unknown amounts of town funds, illegal taxation and slipshod auditing. In its report, it noted that Mr. Lavergne had been a director of a company engaged in Eastview land speculation.

Mr. Lavergne returned to Eastview after the opening of the legislature Nov. 22. He came back Monday to answer opposition demands that he resign his seat.

When the legislature resumed a debate on unemployment, Mr. Lavergne left the chamber. It is expected he will speak in the throne speech debate later this week.

He was defeated as mayor in the Eastview elections Dec. 5, as was the rest of the council. He holds office until the end of the month.

Japanese Spy in Hawaii Breaks 19-Year Silence, Tells of Pearl Harbor Work

By C. YATES McDANIEL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Japanese Navy's lone spy in Hawaii at the time of Pearl Harbor says his work had "little to do with mysterious methods of communication, lush lady spies or single bullet coups."

Instead it was based solidly on scholarly research, meticulous observation and painstaking attention to details.

Breaking a silence of 19 years, retired Ensign Takeo Yoshikawa tells his story dispassionately in the current issue of the U.S. Naval Institute Proceedings.

Yoshikawa had spent more than four years intensively studying the U.S. Navy, particularly the fleet and the bases in the Pacific. Then, at the age of 25, he was sent to Hawaii in 1941 as a spy, posing under the cover name of Vice-Consul Morimura.

He was in Honolulu on that fateful Dec. 7. As a consular officer he eventually was repatriated to Japan without his spy status having been discovered.

He wrote that he found his job easy in respect to things and happenings he was able to see for himself. He found it "disappointingly difficult" in that he had no spies help him from the large Japanese community in Hawaii.

The Japanese spy used no unusual methods of communication, relying chiefly on the regular diplomatic codes and message channels employed by his consulate there.

WORKED ALONE

He hired no assistants of any nationality and at no time did he coordinate intelligence operations with German and Italian officials in the islands.

He found out about the movements, the numbers and the preparations of U.S. battleship forces simply by walking to the end of Pearl City peninsula that juts into Pearl Harbor. There he used his eyes.

He found out about flights and dispositions of aircraft on army and navy bases by hiring a small commercial plane, flying low at times to take pictures.

On the very day before the Pearl Harbor attack, Yoshikawa sent a significant message that was relayed promptly to the Japanese task forces. He had previously reported that the U.S. military authorities were planning to put us a balloon barrage around Pearl Harbor. On Dec. 6 the Japanese agent reported no balloons in sight.

The absence of a balloon barrage meant that the Japanese could employ low-flying torpedo bombers.

Yoshikawa said he did not know in advance the exact date of the big attack on Pearl Harbor. He awoke early on the morning of Sunday, Dec. 7, to hear the sound of explosions from the direction of the big base. He still did not know it was the real thing until he tuned in on a regular news broadcast from Tokyo. The radio-cast carried only routine news, except that twice within the broadcast one phrase was repeated.

"East wind, rain" was the phrase, Yoshikawa knew that war had started with the United States.

Canada Will Not Encourage "Bootlegging" of American Goods to Cuba Says P.M.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Monday the Canadian government has no intention of "encouraging the bootlegging" of American goods to Cuba.

At the same time he said Canada expects "other nations"—presumably a reference to the United States—to respect Canada's views on relations with Cuba, just as Canada respects their views.

He reiterated, in a statement to the Commons, that the government has no objection to the export of Canadian-made goods to Cuba, though "in view of the troubled situation" in the Caribbean area export of arms and ammunition in that region is prohibited.

A Cuban trade mission now is in Canada seeking to arrange purchase of goods denied to Cuba by the U.S. export embargo.

EXPORT CIRCUMVENTION

There have been reports from Washington, that the embargo is being circumvented in some localities through back-door shipments of U.S. goods via Canada.

It was not immediately clear here whether Canadian authorities were taking steps to prevent such activities. Export permits are required for all goods produced in another country and brought into Canada for re-export.

However, a trade department official refused to say whether applications for permits covering U.S.-produced goods destined for Cuba are being rejected.

He did say that in answering queries of Canadian businessmen the department has been emphasizing that re-export of U.S. goods probably would get their American export embargo into trouble in the U.S.

Mr. Diefenbaker said it is Canada's wish, "consistent with our relations with other countries," to maintain normal relations with Cuba.

"It is, of course, not our purpose to exploit the situation arising from the United States embargo as we have no intention of encouraging what in effect would amount to the bootlegging of goods of United States origin.

"This situation is fully understood by the Cuban authorities. We respect the views of other nations in their relations with Cuba, just as we expect that they will respect our views in our relations.

"It would add that it is our hope that insofar as mutually beneficial economic relations are maintained or developed, conditions in Cuba may be eased and the general relations of Western countries with Cuba may be promoted."

TRIAL WATCH

"The government will of course keep a careful watch on the situation and will follow policies which we consider most likely to be constructive."

Opposition Leader Pearson, speaking after Mr. Diefenbaker, said there are some 228 items on the list of goods for export, but export permits are required and it should not be difficult for the government to set up a control system to regulate exports of a strategic nature.

At Washington, U.S. authorities welcomed Mr. Diefenbaker's pledge.

There reactions said they are pleased by the statement.

Dwight Fisk, U.S. assistant commerce secretary for international affairs, Sunday disclosed that Commerce Secretary Hodges and Treasury Secretary Anderson are getting Canadians to co-operate in the embargo program.

Fisk said his most urgent concern was that Canada should not be used as a back door for contrabanding—shipment of embargoed goods through Canada. Fisk's statement seemed to cover this point.

Former Police Chief Elected London's Mayor

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Frank Gordon Stronach, who loses his job as London Township police chief when the city annexes part of the township Jan. 1, Monday gained a new job as mayor of the city.

In the closest mayoralty race in the city's history, voters gave him a 174-vote victory over J. Allan Johnston, mayor since 1957.

Mr. Stronach polled 30,103, Mr. Johnston 29,929.

Mr. Johnston refused to concede, however, and announced he will ask a recount.

A total of 59,032 of the 96,453 eligible voters braved nine-degree temperatures to record a 61.2 per cent poll. In the last election only 39 per cent of the electorate voted.

Voters also elected a four-man board of control—the city's first 42 years—61-aldermen, seven board of education trustees and seven separate school board representatives.

Seven candidates were accused by Public Utilities Commission and Hospital Trust seats.

Mr. Stronach, 52, a veteran of 27 years service in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, was making his first entry in civic affairs. Known in the RCMP as "Honest Gordon" Daily, separated police officer campaigned under the slogan "Stronach for strength."

He hammered throughout the campaign his police campaign on a claim that city hall has been overspending.

Mr. Johnson was first elected mayor in 1952, and was returned by acclamation in 1956, when he was also elected Liberal member of the legislature for London.

He was defeated in the 1943 provincial election, in the 1950 municipal election, but came back as mayor in 1957.

Eastern Ontario Institute Of Technology School Will Be Built in Ottawa - - Robarts

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister Robarts Monday announced plans to build a $2,000,000 Eastern Ontario Institute of Technology at Ottawa and predicted an enrolment of 1,000 students within the next five years.

Speaking in a debate on unemployment, Mr. Robarts told the legislature the school would have to be completed before March 31, 1963 to be eligible for federal grants amounting to 75 per cent of capital costs.

The new Institute will replace an Ottawa Training School which has operated in rented quarters for the last four years. There are institutes of technology also in Windsor, Hamilton and Toronto. Total enrolment in the four institutes is 2,000 students.

He said the department plans similar institutes at Sarnia and Kirkland Lake as soon as accommodation can be found. It is hoped the school can be in operation by the next fall.

Accommodation is being expanded at Toronto and Windsor institutes, he said, as government policy of training persons for a place in the changing technological world, Mr. Robarts said.

A $6,000,000 expansion program at Ryerson Institute of Technology, Toronto, during the next five years was the result of the handling of 4,000 students a year in industry for the city.

in addition to night courses.

He said a new institute may be built at Windsor after 1963 if the federal program is extended.

By way of retraining the unemployed, Mr. Robarts said specific vocational and technical training courses now are in operation in Windsor, Cornwall, St. Catharines, Brantford and Elliot Lake. Special committees are investigating the possibility of establishing similar courses at Alliokan and Deloro in the north.

Under a federal plan, the government will pay 50 to 75 per cent of the cost of these courses until March 31, 1964. The courses run up to 12 months.

Peter Manley (L—Stormont) said Cornwall is "the city of idle men" and should be considered as depressed as the uranium centre of Elliot Lake.

He suggested the legislature discuss the Cornwall situation as it did Elliott Lake last session in a full-scale debate.

He said Cornwall now had 3,800 unemployed, an increase of about 800 since October.

"What can be more degrading than a man having to apply for welfare for his family?" Mr. Manley asked.

He asked that the government assist local groups in finding new industry for the city.

New U.S. State Secretary Took Scholar's Way to Peak

WASHINGTON (AP) — Few men have followed a scholar's way to such peaks of service as Dean Rusk, who was named by President-elect Kennedy Monday as the next U.S. secretary of state.

From his origin in Cherokee County, Georgia, Rusk's life has taken him on smooth progress through a Rhodes Scholarship, academic life, wartime service in the army and state department, secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs.

He took his present position, the presidency of the Rockefeller Foundation, when he left government service nine years ago.

Now, at 52, he moves back to the state department as the head man, and into the Democratic administration as the top cabinet officer.

Rusk first entered the state department immediately after the Second World War.

SAW MUCH SERVICE

He left it for a year to serve as an assistant to Secretary of War Robert Patterson. Then he was appointed director of the office of United Nations affairs back in the state department.

In mid-1950 President Harry Truman promoted him to assistant secretary of state.

In the swift-moving events of the following years, which saw the eruption of the Korean War, he became known as the architect of U.S. far-eastern policy.

Rusk is a big man physically. He tops six feet and weights in the neighborhood of 200 pounds. Friends and people are his speech.

He was reared in Atlanta and educated in its public schools and at Davidson College in North Carolina, where he won Phi Beta Kappa honors and a B.A. degree.

The Rhodes Scholarship followed and he took another in Oxford. He studied further at the University of California.

In 1934 Rusk became an associate professor at Mills College, Oak land, Calif. He stayed there for seven years, also studying at the University of California at Berkeley.

As the unmistakable signs of war grew, Rusk joined the army infantry reserve as a captain on Dec. 7, 1940.

He saw campaigns in the Burma theatre and service on the war department's general staff operations division. Rusk finished the war as colonel and colonel. He was awarded a Legion of Merit citation with oak leaf cluster.

DEVELOPED POLICY

His rapid rise it ilh state department in the years after war brought him to a role as chief policy planner for Acheson's political policy during the Korean police action.

He stood squarely behind Truman in the president's quarrel with Gen. Douglas MacArthur that ended in MacArthur's ouster in April 1951. Rusk succeeded Far East. Rusk argued that expansion of the Soviet Empire must be thwarted by MacArthur would "lead to disaster."

Rusk was married in 1937 to the former Virginia Foiste. They have three children.

Rescued Miner Clings to Life, Little Hope

TORONTO (CP) — Miner Alan Rose, injured three weeks ago in a Timmins gold mine accident, still clung to life today despite the small hope for his survival expressed by doctors.

Rose, 26, was in a coma since the accident and was not expected to last through the weekend, but the robust Englishman might hold on for an hour or four.

Doctors said that he seemed more alert Monday but noted that he still was unconscious and had not wormed he was still in extremely critical condition.

Dr. Gratian O'Leary said Monday doctors took desperate steps to save the miner's life by using an artificial kidney for the first time since he was flown here with internal injuries and crushed feet.

Doctors removed the artificial kidney at 8 p.m. His wife, Shirley, was at his bedside.

Last Friday Rose, who came to Canada from Hertfordshire, had his right foot amputated. Before that he was bleeding internally and underwent an operation for removal of a stomach ulcer.

2 Advertising Associations Ordered to Give Information Or Face Action Under Act

TORONTO (CP)—Two advertising associations who offered "not for publication" information to the royal commission on publications have been ordered to appear Dec. 21 without strings or face legal action.

Gratian O'Leary, head of the three-man commission inquiring into the Canadian periodical business, issued the order Monday to the Association of Canadian Advertising Agencies, and the Canadian Association of Advertising Agencies.

Warren Reynolds of the agency group, and Gordon Love, president of the advertisers' body, said the two groups made a copy of newsprints to determine if they contained information that might be taken to remedy them."

Mr. Yeates said Sir was prepared to release the report, but not for publication. Mr. O'Leary said the commission would not accept information on that basis, and if it was not produced the advertising men would face action under the Inquiries Act.

HAVE THE BEANS

"We have the means to get this evidence," he said, "and are invested with certain powers."

The afternoon session was one of five submitted during the first day of the commission's hearings in Toronto. Witnesses were freelance, writer Ralph Allen, former editor of Maclean's Magazine; Arthurs-Franklin Publications limited; Canadian Consultations Audit Board Incorporated and Canada Track and Traffic Magazine.

Mr. Yeates said members polled "indicated a considerable disparity of viewpoint." George Johnston of Toronto, who sits on the commission with Claude Beaubien of Montreal and Mr. O'Leary asked for a breakdown of the views.

The advertisers joint brief opposed a tax on advertising and suggested it without tax on explore possibilities of making it economically more desirable for publications accepting Canadian advertising to be published in Canada.

The two are scheduled to appear again Friday.

John Rose, president of Canada Track and Traffic, said his magazine welcomed competition and wanted no artificial restrictions. He said, however, there should be a control on U.S. publishers giving bargains to Canadian advertisers.

Mr. Arthurs - Franklin brief suggested Canadian publications be placed on a more even-level with U.S. publications, but did not offer a means to this end.

The brief also said a strong Canadian business press was necessary for Canada' economic well-being.

The hearing continue today.

Barefooted Boy Tells Neighbors House Burned

DORION, Ont. (CP) — A barefooted 10 - year - old boy early Monday walked through th snow to 15-below cold reaching his baby sister to tell neighbors his family's home had burned.

Kenneth Irving was in Nipigon Hospital suffering from severe frostbite to the feet. The seven-month-old baby was unharmed.

His mother, Mrs. Kenneth Irving, and her six children, escaped in night clothes as fire swept through their two-storey frame boufe.

Kenneth, the oldest child, was told by his mother to take his sister and run to neighbor's a quarter-mile away. Mr. Irving had left for work 22 minutes before the fire started.

The boy walked through the snow wearing only his long underwear.

The family was housed by the neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Renaud, and later by the nearby Dorion Ish hatchery.

No defective chimney was blamed for the fire.

Dorion is 30 miles east of the Lakehead.

Witness Opposes Subsidy But Says There's Precedent

TORONTO (CP)—The possibility of a large United States newspaper moving into Canada and undercutting Canadian dailies was raised Monday before the royal commission on publications.

Ralph Allen, former editor of Maclean's Magazine and now a free-lance writer, was the first witness when the commission moved its hearings here from Ottawa.

Mr. Allen said that when he worked with the Toronto Globe and Mail "10 or 15 years ago" that publication was "tinkering with the idea of separating the news-suits. The wire-gaps were Basil John, N.B. to Montreal, Toronto to Winnipeg and Calgary to Vancouver. The grant was discontinued in 1954. Since then the Canadian Press, owned by a number of newspaper members, has accepted no grant or subsidy from any source.

against censorship of any kind and that while he opposed government subsidy on principle, there was precedent for it.

"The question of protection for Canada's periodical press from competition from abroad affects the whole field of communications."

He said that in the past "it was found necessary to subsidize railways."

"We had to create the CBC so there might be a place in Canada for a Canadian voice in the field of electronic communication."

Mr. Allen said at one time The Canadian Press accepted "a cash subsidy of $50,000 a year, and a similar subsidy appeared to them that could not be denied in that form."

The Canadian Press was formed in 1917 when four regional news associations united with the aid of a $50,000 annual government subsidy—a grant to cover cost of leased wires over government lines for separating the news-suits. The wire-gaps were Basil John, N.B. to Montreal, Toronto to Winnipeg and Calgary to Vancouver. The grant was discontinued in 1954. Since then The Canadian Press, owned as an association by newspaper members, has accepted no grant or subsidy from any source.

Merle Dickerson, Wife Defeated For Council Seats

NORTH BAY (CP) — Merle Dickerson, who decided to retire from politics after 20 years in North Bay's mayor and run with Mrs. Dickerson as "husband-wife" ticket for alderman, found himself—and his wife—out of civic politics Monday.

The mayor fell 150 votes short of 1003 place in a bid for a seat on the 10-member council in Monday's municipal election. His wife Vera placed 17th in the 24-candidate race.

Cecil H. Hewitt, a veteran alderman and deputy mayor this year, was the top vote-getter in the race over Archie McLean by a 1,000-vote margin. Hewitt, city's new deputy mayor is William Richardson, who placed eighth in the aldermanic contest.

Voters again turned down a two-year term for council. The proposal was defeated in 1946 and 1958, but council inaugurates the system by a narrow margin. This time the margin of defeat was even smaller.

By more than 800 votes the electorate gave an approval. Sports. It turned down Sunday movies by a 500-vote margin.

Thank Brigadier For Harmony

SOEST (Reuters) — Brigadier Donald C. Cameron of Alexandria, Ont., Monday night became the first non-elected person in the 1,000-year history of this North German city to address a local council meeting.

The tribute came after three years in the discovery command ed Canada's NATO troops in the area—the 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade Group.

At a special ceremony in the Soest town hall, built 200 years before Columbus discovered America, the city council formally conferred honorary status Cameron for the harmony between Germans and Canadians during his command.

At the same time, the Soest County Council representing 20 villages and more than 120,000 persons in the area also gave its thanks.

Cameron leaves next week for Britain to attend a course at the Imperial Defence College.

Fear More Riots as Moslems Prepare to Bury Their Dead

ALGIERS (AP) — Moslems in this riot-torn city began burying their dead today in fear of more riots of new emotional outbursts after the funeral of 90 persons killed in which 90 persons died and hundreds were injured.

Troops were familiar with Arab emotionalism were tense and ready. Riot police ringed the Moslem quarter and the Casbah.

To the east, French President de Gaulle prepared to wind up a visit to Algeria that set off riots in Algiers. Moslems in villages generally opposed to his policy of self-determination for the country—8,000,000 Moslems.

He cut his trip short by one day, flying to rumor-ridden Algiers to return to Paris tonight. There were reports that he would make a radio address but no confirmation could be obtained.

Of the 90 dead here and in Oran, 81 were Moslems and officials feared their funerals might touch off new violence. More bodies may be found in the Casbah and unidentified suburbs, where 25,000 French troops with tanks and armored cars maintained an alert.

A government spokesman said many of the Moslem dead were not killed by rifle fire from troops.

He said at least 18 were stabbed to death and seven died of slashed throats. Investigation did show 39 died of bullet wounds.

This supports the French contention that many of the Moslems were fighting among themselves, he said. Some of the dead were probably French.

Buses were running this morning; stores opened and all was calm. In Oran, Algeria's second largest city where six bazooms were killed, calm also prevailed.

Most of the killings occurred in Algiers, nerve centre of fanatical Moslem nationalism and of defiance of de Gaulle's determination to open agitation to keep Algeria French.

Grim-faced European crowds roaming streets paralyzed by a general strike spoke of continued resistance and trouble "if not now, then later."

Authorities believe the strike will end when de Gaulle leaves for Paris.

During his five-day trip he was jeered by Europeans and acclaimed by Moslems who shouted, "Algerian Algeria," a slogan which de Gaulle himself coined.

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Eva Gabor walked off Jack Paar's NBC-television show in a huff Monday night after a heated squabble with comedian George Jessel over who was interrupting who in the chit chat. But Miss Gabor apparently buried the hatchet; she returned to the group before the show went off the air—without reference to the feud.

Bitter Weeds of Racial Hate Sprout Around de Gaulle

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The bitter weeds of racial hate are those sprouted around Gen. de Gaulle's peace mission in Algeria.

A journey conceived in high hope and altruism has become a path with deep foreboding—now seems certain to leave a legacy of fierce and resolute opposition to settlers as "unhappy people, victims of the hate that has sown the seeds of civil war in all civilizations—Moslem and European—that has grown up under the rule of the French conquest of Algeria 130 years ago.

ARMY IS THE KEY

What happens now depends largely on the attitude of the French army. Specifically, a group of young officers who pocketed heads of the tough Algerian guerrilla army called to regard Moslems as deadly enemies.

The big danger is that they may come out openly on the side of the European settlers against the Moslems, who are vociferously defying de Gaulle's efforts to give Algeria a 10,000,000-Moslem voice in their own affairs.

De Gaulle gambled that his visit would pave the way for a reconciliation between the two communities. Tragically, it seems certain to produce the opposite effect.

Heartened by de Gaulle's presence, many Moslem leaders have discarded their careful neutrality to back the rebel army sympathizers with de Gaulle. From that, it has been a short step to proclaiming their solidarity with the National Liberation Front, the rebel force that has been fighting the French for six years.

That show of defiance caused much of the bloodshed. It is bound to convince many Arabs that moderation no longer serves

Woodcock Hunting in Dry Weather

For 25 years or more I have been hearing about the woodcock shooting in the vicinity of Calais, Maine, and St. Stephen, New Brunswick. There, the boys told me, is the woodcock capital of the world. Not uncommon, they said, with a reasonable good day to fly 75 or 100 birds a day.

Being uncommonly addicted to woodcock hunting, alway have yearned to visit those crowded covers, come October of each year. Trouble is, that is the time of year when we are laboriously over the devious job of putting together the winter tales for the coming year. Things never seemed to arrange themselves so that I could get away.

This year it was different. I struggled with astronomical data, work sheets and main-sail during July and August. After all, no matter how familiar the place, there are still 365 days in the year and soil nar times must be figured for best activity periods for each of those days.

In late August we drove to Loon Bay Lodge near St. Stephen to do some fishing and see things over. A briefcase was crammed full of needed data and equipment and many weary hours at camp were spent in burning the midnight oil. Daytimes we went fishing and looked at woodcock covers.

The hunting season in New Brunswick, Canada, opens on October 1st. We arrived on the 3rd and found our son and his wife waiting for us. After the usual amenities, always incidental to a family get-together, I inquired about the woodcock shooting. George Webber, owner and operator of Loon Bay Lodge spoke up. "Have woodcock? Sure we have had for the past 22 years. Shooting has been excellent."

I had noticed on the way in to camp that the roads had been dry and exceedingly dusty. "George," I said, "have you had any rain since I was here last August?"

"Very little," he replied. "Not nearly enough. Wells are getting dry that have not done so in the memory of the oldest inhabitant hereabouts."

This were my worst fears justified. Without rain the covers on the hillsides and the "tops" were bone-dry. The only place in which a woodcock, who lives mostly on earthworms, could find any worms in the thick alder covers of the valley bottoms. If you have never hunted woodcock in one of these tangled alder jungles, you have a surprise in store for you.

The first afternoon at camp I attempted to follow or, more accurately, keep up with Tom Wildman and his excellent dog, Mike, in one of those alder jungles. Frank is a medium-size fellow, thin and wiry. He slid through those covers without evident effort, keeping up with his dog. After ten minutes of that nonsense I found myself that I am nearly 70 and retired to the open fields. What, then, to do about it?

We solved the problem quite readily. New Brunswick, that part of it at least, is almost solid alder. Thus, you can pick and choose when it comes to woodcock covers. We, my son, Dick and I, hunted various alder covers, with open fields on each side. Dick would take one cover and all the other while our two guides, Alden and Jerry, positioned as "bird dogs" inside the cover. The birds would flush ahead of these two men and Dick and I would have reasonably open shooting.

An added bonus to this shooting was the fact that just about every alder cover he'd ever seen of ruffed grouse. When one of the boys yelled "Partridge!" or "Mark right!", the emerging bird was just as apt to be a grouse as a woodcock. Flushing birds, not having had time to gather momentum, are reasonably easy to hit; scared birds, well under way and doing their utmost to reach safe cover, are entirely something else again. The result was that we had some of the fanciest wing-shooting imaginable.

You may think from the above that this method was a bit rough on Andy and Jerry. Don't you believe it — they loved it. Both are young, strong country boys and alder bottoms bothered them not at all. I think they had every bit as much fun as we did.

On the way to and from shooting we would cast longing eyes at the up'and covers — abandoned fields on the hillsides, sprinkled with second growth of poplar and birch, ideal places for woodcock under normal conditions. With enough rain to keep those hillsides moist, such places would be alive with woodcock. Next year, maybe, a kind Providence may have the good grace to send some rain. Then, the good Lord willing, we can hunt woodcock and grouse as they should be hunted.

A glance at the map in your atlas will show you why eastern New Brunswick and the coastal area of Maine hold woodcock in quantity. These birds, as you no doubt know, are migratory. They fly south in the fall to winter, mostly, in the Mississippi Delta area. Come spring, they fly north to nest in the familiar covers of Canada and the north eastern United States.

The birds prefer not to fly over water. Thus, the curve of the eastern seaboard concentrates the flights just as though they were "funneled through a funnel." So it is easier that in normal seasons a gunner can fly a hundred bird a day.

Well — it took me a long time to visit New Brunswick in woodcock season. Rest assured that so much time won't elapse until the next visit. The law of averages will see to that. Even under adequate rain will fall on those thirty hills. And when does it is equally certain that both the woodcock and I will be duly grateful.

Pennington Tops E.P.L.

OTTAWA (CP)—Cliff Pennington of Hull - Ottawa Canadiens outstepped the rest of the pack to increase his lead in the Eastern Professional Hockey League individual scoring race by four points last week.

League statistics released today show the high-flying centre scored two goals and five assists to put him 11 points ahead of his nearest rival. He has 47 points on 18 goals and 29 assists.

Runner-up Tom McCarthy of Sudbury Wolves has 36 points and leads the goals with 20.

Buddy Boone of Kingston Frontenacs is another behind with 31 points while Fred Hilts of Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds and Ed Hoekstra of Kitchener - Waterloo Beavers are tied in fourth place with 30.

Bobby Rousseau of Habs made the biggest jump of the week, rising from 10th at 25 points to fifth with 28. He is tied with teammate Terry Gray and Sam Bettio of Sudbury.

Goalie Eddie Johnston of Canadiens registered two shutouts in five starts to bring his total to six for the season. His goals-against average fell to 2.28 from 2.69 a week ago.

Sudbury leads in penalties with 438 minutes. Bob Wilson of the Soo holds individual penalty honors with 78 minutes.

Plan Joint Activities

Booster Clubs Merge

The McFarland senior and junior Booster Clubs got together at the Recreation Centre last night and pledged their full support for the present season to the senior Mars of the OHA Junior "B" division.

Under the chairmanship of senior club president Jim "Baby" Matthews, and with the support of several of the key Junior Boosters, the 12 "regulars" who showed up for the meeting worked out plans for the season's activities.

The two clubs officially joined forces, although separate membership will still be sold, with a senior membership costing $1 and a junior card, for those under 21 years of age, costing only 50c.

The senior club expects to have approximately 75 members this year when all membership cards are turned in while it is hoped to obtain 400 members for the junior club itself. The senior members last night asked by Matthews if they wanted to disband, now that senior hockey was a thing of the past, voted a strong "no." They pledged their backing to the Juniors with the hope for better things next year.

It was announced that the senior club had $2,800 at the present time but that the junior club had $37 and were in debt to the tune of $65. The seniors will make up the balance of this debt to be paid for their minor counterparts.

A number of projects received approval last night, while several others came into the planning stage.

The Booster Club will sponsor a "three-star selection" at each of the Junior home games, starting with Wednesday night's game against Whitby. The first Belleville star will receive a $2 gift certificate and the remaining two a silver dollar each. Two draws will also be held each game, one for two tickets to the next game, and the other for a merchandise prize.

A Booster Clubs' broom-ball game was scheduled for January 2, prior to the junior game between the Mars and Kingston. The junior teams, the senior ladies under Jean Gander, and the junior girls under Sheila Canning, will play at eight o'clock. They will be named the "Chicks" and the "Hens." Both coaches are looking for players at the present time.

Another project planned is for a Booster bus trip to Kingston when the Mars play there on Wednesday, December 28. Tickets for this trip, including a game ticket, will be $3 and arrangements can be made through Jean Gander, Len Mason, Jim Matthews or several others.

President Matthews noted that he planned to contact the McFarland team management with a request to lower prices for the junior games. The club felt that lower prices were necessary if the younger fans were to be attracted to these games.

It was announced that the club made a profit of $95 from the draw held earlier this year for two season tickets to the senior games. A cash prize was given instead of the tickets.

Plans were also discussed for a draw for a weekend in Chicago when Toronto Maple Leafs play there in March. It is also hoped to organize a sleigh-riding party and dance sometime after Christmas.

Gale Kerwin Draws With Eddie Jordan

NEW YORK (AP)—Gale Kerwin of Ottawa and Eddie Jordan of Brooklyn battled to a 10-round draw Monday night in the feature bout at St. Nicholas Arena. Kerwin weighed 146¾ pounds, Jordan 146½.

Referee Jimmy Devlin scored the bout in Jordan's favor seven rounds to three, Judge Frank Forbes voted in favor of Kerwin by the same margin. Judge Bill Forst's card had it five rounds each and five points for both fighters.

About 800 spectators braved a March snowfall and 16-degree temperature to witness the bout.

Jordan piled up an early lead with a stiff left jab which fooled the range almost every time.

Kerwin switched his attack to the body in the seventh round and appeared to be taking charge. A flurry of combinations by Jordan sent Kerwin back to taking cuts and shaking his head. Most of them missed the mark.

In the last round Kerwin tried it was Jordan's combinations that was Jordan's combinations that had Kerwin in trouble near the end.

American Davis Cuppers

Deny Wrecking Charges

SYDNEY (AP) — Members of the United States Davis Cup team today angrily denied reports they smashed up the Perth dressing room in a fit of rage after losing the interzone finals to the Italians.

The team arrived in Sydney shortly before noon today, screaming headlines in the Sydney Sun saying "Cast-Leave Squad — U.S. team smashes dressing room."

"That's absolutely ridiculous... there is not a word of truth in it," said David Freed, United States captain.

Ernie Christiansen, writing in the Sun, said after losing 5-2 to the Italians Monday, the Americans "shattered partitions, broke windows, smashed bottles, splashing beer around the walls and littering the floor with broken glass."

"This is such a wild story without any foundation of truth that it leaves us all flabbergasted," Freed added.

"It is true that an asbestos partition was damaged when a couple of the boys were scuffling — but this was before the series was decided. I called this to the attention of Mr. Ken Miller, vice president, and told him we were not any damaged.

"But there was no demonstration after we lost."

Reporters who visited the dressing room after the Italians had clinched the challenge round berth saw no indication of any blowup on the part of the Americans.

Texas Flash Sought by Grid Scouts

DENVER CITY, Tex. (AP) In this bustling town on the west Texas plains there's a snowman dressed in football uniform and carrying the number 77.

Everybody who sees the snowman knows it represents 17-year-old Bert Gravitt, who has been rolling over Texas gridirons in a touchdown avalanche.

Gravitt, a 180-pounder, led Denver City High School into the state finals this season, undefeated and untied in 14 games. College scouts are camping on the Gravitt doorstep and the University of Oklahoma is said to have the inside track.

Bert has scored 321 points. He has carried the ball for 2,397 yards and passed for 436 and eight touchdowns. His team has scored 663 points.

CHAMP WINS

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) Mike Holt, South Africa's light heavyweight champion, outpointed South Africa's heavyweight champion, Gawie de Klerk, in a 10-round non-title fight Monday night.

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank Mahovlich must be wondering what he has to do to break the stranglehold Montreal Canadiens' big three have on the point-scoring leadership of the National Hockey League.

Two weeks ago the big left winger of Toronto Maple Leafs was in a tie for first place. Then, in one week he scored five goals and one assist and moved into a sixth-place tie.

Last week he whammed in five more goals—four of them in one game—and added two assists.

He's in fourth place today, but still 10 points behind the leader, eight behind second place and seven behind the third.

Meanwhile, the Montreal powerhouse was still churning out points last week. Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion scored five goals and two assists, Jean Beliveau had a pair of goals and six assists and Dickie Moore counted two goals and four assists.

Geoffrion held on to the leadership and now has 45 points on 20 goals and 25 assists. Beliveau took second place with 43 points on 14 goals and 29 assists.

Moore, the leader two weeks ago and second last week, slipped back to third with 38 goals and 16 assists for 42 points.

Mahovlich's goal - scoring splurge ran his total to 36 in the Leafs' 29 games so far this season, highest in the league.

Says Palermo Relayed $180,000 Bribes

Sonny Liston Called Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators call Frank (Blinky) Palermo and Sonny Liston, top contender for the world heavyweight championship, for quizzing today in hearings into mob ster influence on U.S. boxing.

Palermo, a Philadelphia racketeer figure, is named in a massive testimony by former lightweight champion Jim Williams Monday that Palermo had relayed bribe offers totalling more than $180,000 to throw fights. Palermo was his manager at the time.

The Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee, conducting the inquiry, has heard testimony that gangland figures grab a lion'y share of Liston's earnings. The subcommittee indicated in advance that its members want to find out whether Liston knows anything about this.

Liston's manager, Joseph P. (Pep) Barone of Allentown, Pa., is reported too ill in hospital to testify. The investigators have heard St. Louis police testimony that 32 per cent of Liston's ring earnings go to New York gangster Frankie Carbo, 12 per cent to St. Louis hoodlum John J. Vitale and 12 per cent to Palermo.

GOT A PAROLE

Liston launched his ring career after receiving a parole from prison, where he was serving a term for armed robbery.

Williams, 29 pounds heavier than when he ruled the 135-pound division from 1945 to 1951, testified Palermo revealed that someone—he did not identify the other party—had offered big money to throw fights with Jimmy Carter, Kid Gavilan, Freddie Dawson and Juste Fontaine.

Palermo, he said, recommended against accepting the bribes but left it up to Williams.

Williams said he rejected each one, but conceded that he wished he had taken $100,000 for his noncollusive scrap with Gavilan in 1949 and $50,000 for his last bout as champ, against Carter in 1951.

Gavilan beat him anyway, Williams recalled, and Carter dethroned him. He whipped Dawson and Fontaine.

COULD FEEL BETTER

Subcommittee chairman Estes Kefauver regretted that on looking back, Williams could feel better because he resisted temptation.

"I do not, senator," Williams persisted. "I do not."

Since then, Williams ruefully recalled, a lot of friends he had not wanted to disappoint had run out on him.

Now a $46-a-week warehouse worker, Williams estimated that in the ring, "give or take a few thousand, I made a million dollars."

The 37-year-old former champ, whose identity had been concealed before he testified, said he never saw a penny of $63,000 in purses for two title matches in 1948. Palermo spent it before he could get his hands on it, Williams said.

In bitter words, Bernie Glickman of Chicago, who managed former welterweight champion Virgil Akins, testified that his rise to prominence followed the start of a long association with Carbo.

He denied, however, that he ever was controlled by Carbo, as alleged by a previous witness, Truman Gibson, former president of the International Boxing Club controlled by multi-millionaire James D. Norris of Chicago.

Glickman said he had attempted to use Carbo's influence because he believed Carbo "had a pipeline" to Norris. He said that more than 40 of his boxers were featured by Norris promoted fights, but that looking back now he is sure he "took the wrong way."

Lowly Royals Tackle Hull

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Floyd Curry of the last - place Montreal Royals looked over the statistical records Monday and shuddered.

Curry is trying to bolster his team for tonight's meeting with Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, riding a nine-game unbeaten streak and holding a 14-point lead at the top of the Eastern Professional Hockey League standings.

The lumbering Canadiens have won 21 games and tied two of the 27 played. The Royals have won six, lost 17 and tied five.

In their nine - game unbeaten streak the Canadiens have scored 42 goals to the opposition's 13. They have the league's leading scorer in Cliff Pennington and the low-average goalie in Eddie Johnston.

"We're the lowest scoring team and we're up against the highest-scoring team," moaned Curry. "It makes you wonder how we ever score anything at all, the way we slump. In our last five games we have scored five goals.

The Royals have called up defenceman Peter Lambo from St. Jerome of the Metropolitan Junior League for a five-game try, and centre Gilles St. Onge, junior star with Lachine Maroons, will be used against Hull-Ottawa.

Left winger Gilles Francoeur, now with the Royals, is expected will join the Royals for Wednesday's game in Kitchener. He will be on a five-game trial.

Wings Clobber Petes 11-3

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Red Wings moved into a tie for fourth place with Peterborough Petes Monday night by trimming Petes 11-3 in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game before 1,820 spectators.

The triumph was the fourth in a row and stretched their unbeaten string to five games, the longest for the local club in three years.

The winners jumped into a 4-0 first-period lead and widened the margin to 8-2 going into the third.

Lowell MacDonald, and Larry Jeffrey scored two each for Hamilton. Singles came from Bob Dillabough, Lyle Porter, Neil Fourth, Wayne Rivers, Paul Henderson, Jim Dahmer and Keith Burling.

Doug Senior, Reg Mulholland and Loren O'Donnell netted Peterborough's markers.

Peterborough coach Scotty Bowman alternated Jerry Randall and George Homes as goaltenders. The former was charged with six goals.

There were eight of the 14 minor penalties.

Western Hockey

VICTORIA (CP)—Calgary and Seattle forwards continue to dominate the Western Hockey League's individual scoring race with Stampeders' Lou Jankowski and Ron Leopold holding the top slot apiece.

After 27 games Jankowski has 23 goals and is within a game of tying a league record by scoring at least one goal in nine consecutive games. Leopold has plus 17 assists give him 40 points, two ahead of Leopold, who has 23 goals and 17 assists.

Calgary's veteran Lurien Deluse returned last week after a lengthy layoff and his 3-0 shutout over Vancouver Canucks Saturday night gave him the goaltending lead with a 2.25 average a game in eight games.

Selected From a Dozen

Bill Rigney, Named L.A. Manager

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bill Rigney Monday was named field manager of the new Los Angeles Angels of the American League and his first remarks were:

"I'm ready for work, and they tell me there's nothing to do around here."

Rigney's humorous crack followed the formal announcement of a one-year contract by General Manager Fred Haney at a press conference. Haney said the management, including President Bob Reynolds and Board Chairman Gene Autry, had considered 10 or 12 possibilities.

"We are delighted to get a man of Rigney's experience and enthusiasm," Haney declared.

FIRED WHILE SECOND

Rigney was dismissed by owner Horace Stoneham of San Francisco Giants last June. The club was in second place and eventually wound up fifth.

Rigney's major league managing career, after a long tour of duty as an active player, began with the then New York Giants in 1956. In his term with the Giants they placed sixth twice and third twice.

Rigney and Haney were rivals in the National League when Haney was piloting Milwaukee Braves.

Rigney, 41 and grey, said he is familiar with the American League personnel, particularly some of the players who are eligible to be picked by Los Angeles and the Minneapolis-St. Paul clubs.

Haney said he had explored the possibility of Casey Stengel joining the club. He said it would like to have him in a consulting capacity—and actually Casey has spent several hours with team brass going over the player draft list—but it is up to Stengel to make any decision on his plans.

"What Happen!"

Italians Played Better

SYDNEY (AP) — "What happened?"

That was the question asked by stunned United States Davis Cup players today in reviewing their 4-1 loss to Italy and failure to get into the challenge round for the fourth in 34 years.

"I think it's just fate, nothing but fate," said Barry MacKay of Dayton, Ohio, the Americans' top ace who was beaten in straight sets by Orlando Sirola in the fifth and deciding match Monday.

"We were in the best possible condition, we played our hearts out and it was not good enough. A shot here or there might have turned the tide but the Italians played better tennis that we did on the final day and that's all there is to it."

David Freed, captain of the U.S. team, said he did not know where mistakes, if any, were made.

The U.S. squad was criticized in Australia for temperamental outbursts on the court.

Although it was a team of tempestuous, impulsive young men, there was no dissension on the squad. No clashes of personalities or jealousies were evident.

The defeat cost the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association about $60,000. This is the amount which would have been realized from the challenge round at Sydney starting Dec. 26.

The windfall goes into the Italian coffers and it may presage a new European influence in international tennis.

Hockey Hints

By Lloyd Percival

"PUTTING THE BODY IN IT"

Though it is a fundamental of modern hockey, good bodychecking is rarely seen in age-limit hockey. The probable reason is that though it appears to be simple enough play it actually demands excellent skill, timing and co-ordination The technique is difficult to teach and hard to explain. Bill Gadsby of New York Rangers is probably as good a demonstrator of this skill as anyone in the NHL.

Watching Gadsby, or any other good bodychecker, you will see that the secret of a good bodychecker is to first force the puckcarrier into making a flaw and then, when he has committed himself, to step in or slide across and make the contact. Most young players are too inclined to lunge at the puckcarrier and so, often find themselves on their knees in a very embarrassing position as the puckcarrier shifts by.

There are two types of bodychack — the stand up check and the sliding check. In the first you force the puckcarrier to make his move and then take a step or two and make contact with your shoulder. In the second you wait for the puckcarrier to move to either side and then move him with either a driving stride, making contact with your hips and buttocks. This is a good check to use when you have been skating backwards in front of the puckcarrier. The driving stride is made from the side foot. Maroons Say

Gesture Misinterpreted

CHATHAM (CP)—Ted Power, playing-coach of Chatham Maroons, said Monday a suggestion his team meet Trail Smoke Eaters who go to the world hockey tournament next year has been misinterpreted.

Power, who returned home Saturday with the Maroons after a disappointing tour of Russia and Sweden, said he suggested the game because he felt it would acquaint the Smoke Eaters with what they might expect in the tournament in Switzerland next March.

Power said he did not want the suggestion to be taken as a "personal grudge but rather as a helpful venture."

The Maroons, of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Series, defeated the Smoke Eaters four straight games for the

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"You can take it from me—and the statistics," said Jack Carson, "that baseball in Ontario is definitely on the upsurge."

"And one of the main reasons for it" added the popular first, vice-president of the Ontario Baseball Association, "is the outstanding work done by those fine fellows in the minor categories."

JACK CARSON

Since senior baseball in this city has been doing a Rip Van Winkle for the past seven years, the opportunity to chat with the red-head in a baseball atmosphere has been rare, to say the least.

We were table guests at the fine testimonial Thursfri luncheon given the Kenmore, 1960 OBA junior "A" ter champions, in the Odd Fellows hall Saturday night.

When the banquet bugle blew "cookhouse" we decided to watch the first frontal attack on well-laden tables by the smartly turned-out young champions, who like the gentlemen they are, saw to it that their attractive young ladies did not lack for food.

However, everything comes to him who waits and it wasn't too long before we were dipping into the potato salad, cold turkey and a dozen and one other delicacies provided by mine hosts Ken Soden, Vic Merria, Murray Hunter and others, including their lovely ladies.

One of the finer traits of Messrs. Soden and Merria and the champions themselves, is a spirit of foregiveness and the willingness to let bygones be bygones.

For at a special table at the top echelon of the Belleville Umpires' Association, headed by president Al Kelleher. Chief Secktor Shed Ethier was there too, so was quiet spoken Herb Poitner and others, including their good ladies.

Someone sitting close to the table told me afterwards that at a given signal Al would call "time." Then then they would go into a table huddle to see who would get up and retrieve second helpings. Al added to his presidential dignity by puffing on a huge cigar which in no sense of smell could be mistaken for Chanel No. 5.

After presenting the OBA junior "A" major trophy to Belleville champions for the first time in history, Mr. Carson picked up his story thread.

Due to his executive position (Jack will become president of the OBA next year) he has kept a tight finger on the baseball pulse of the province.

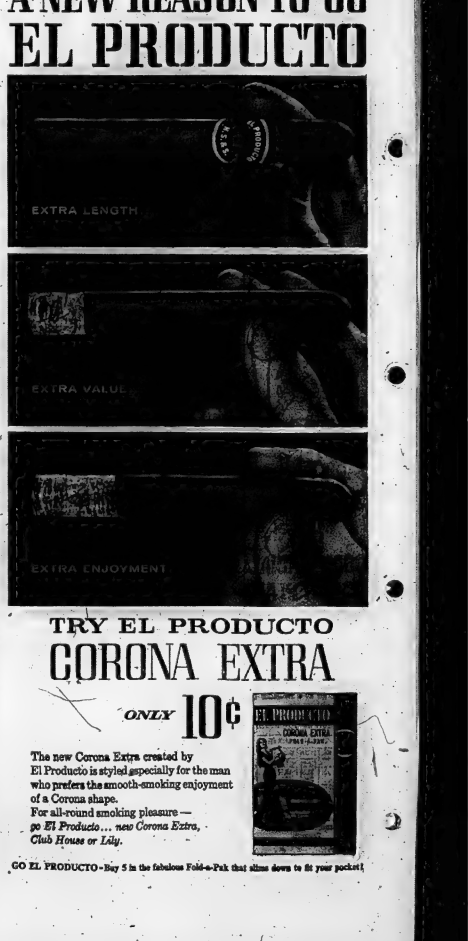
"The Kenmore themselves," he said, "are indicative of the uptrend in baseball. Here is a club that has played together for the past few years, knocked at championship doors on several occasions, and this year was rewarded with the Junior "A" crown.

"This is almost a general situation," he said. "The fine minor clubs organized six of seven years ago are now moving into their own, and better yet, more minor clubs are taking their place.

"For instance," Jack said, reaching in his pocket for a sheet of paper, "in 1948 there were 23 junior teams operating in Ontario. In 1959 there were 51 and last year 85.

"The peewee picture is even better," he said. "In 1958 we had 72 clubs, 190 in 1959 and last year 137. The juvenile clubs have doubled since 1958. In that year there were 43 teams, in 1959, 72, and last year 101."

Intermediate clubs are increasing more slowly. There were 35 in 1958, 37 last year and 49 in 1960. The senior picture is not so good. There were only four clubs in action last year as against nine in 1958.



"But to offset this we have a number of junior clubs who will be eligible to play intermediate or perhaps senior next year," Jack said. "Tentative plans are underway to form a Central Ontario League in this district and I shall go all out to help in any way I can.

"Yes, sir," said the amiable Mr. Carson, "I definitely think baseball is coming back and within a year or so Belleville fans should be able to watch some fine games in this area.

"We have a fine young club here in the Kenmore. Peterborough and Oshawa have fine teams, too, and one of the best intermediate clubs in this part of Ontario plays under the Port Hope colors. There are other potential circles and I see no reason why 1961 should not see a revival of super brackets baseball hereabouts."

SETS RECORD—John Lewis, 17, hoists 300 pounds to set new weightlifting mark for juniors.

Sets Weightlift Record

A record-breaking performance by a 17-year-old Belleville youth highlighted the Eastern Ontario Weightlifting Championships held in Vimy Barracks, Kingston, Saturday.

John Lewis of the Belleville Apollo Barbell Club shattered all existing marks with a total lif of 790 pounds.

This included 250 pounds press — 240 pounds snatch and 300 pounds clean-and-jerk to two-length overhead.

Club officials claim Lewis is the fourth 17-year-old in Canada and the United States to clean and jerk 300 pounds.

At his present rate of improvement, they say it is possible for Lewis to be picked to represent Canada in the British Empire Games slated for Melbourne, Australia in 1962.

Lewis performance topped a field of twenty entries from four clubs of the district. These included Belleville YMCA, Apollo Barbell of Belleville, Kingston and Ottawa.

Ottawa won the 123-pound class with Kingston winning the 132 and 148 pound class. Belleville Y won the 165-pound and 198-pound classes with Lewis sweeping the 181-pound class for the Apollo-Barbell club.

Lewis finished far in front of the field in the totals. His nearest competitor was G. Vickers and R. Smith of the Belleville Y with 670 while in third place was A. Slater of Ottawa-with a total of 620 pounds.

Sweeney Tops A.L. Scramble

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Sweeney of the pace-setting Springfield Indians has replaced Buffalo's Larry Wilson as the top scorer in the American Hockey League, the latest figures showed today.

Sweeney collected four points in last week's action, giving him 41 for the campaign. Wilson had only two points and dropped into second place with 42 points.

Art Stratton of Springfield is third with 38 points followed by Phil Maloney, the Buffalo captain, with 37. Harry Pidhirny of Springfield has the most goals, 20. It is the 12th consecutive season that Pidhirny has reached the 20 mark in the AHL.

Marcel Paille continues leading the goaltenders. The Springfield star has yielded an average of only 2.53 goals a game. Howie Young of Hershey Bears is the loop's bad man having served 144 minutes in the penalty box.

Soap Operas, Games Sessions Do Not Appeal to Writer

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — There's no nothing like a blizzard, closed roads and abandoned railroad schedules to remind those of us who are usually away from our television sets during the daytime what really goes on during the workaday hours.

The networks are awash with things like Dough Re Mi, Concentration. The Price is Right. There's a jolly master of ceremonies to make feeble little jokes (each greeted with roars of laughter) and to ask each contestant where they're from and how many children they have. Fascinating.

Monday, in my stormbound section of New York, these apparently endless game sessions were interrupted every 15 minutes or so with storm bulletins, what diluted.

At the stroke of noon, however, the games ended and dramas began. It's hard for a blizzard-stranded watcher to understand all that's going on in TV soap operas, but it's certain that every last sudsy family is in a terrible mess, and often more than one.

On Search for tomorrow there's a pretty girl who for some reason doesn't want to face pain and rejection, and there's talk of taking Patty, whoever she is, to a psychiatrist. Then, on Guiding Light, a mother-in-law is trying to bust up the marriage of Michael and Robin. But on As the World Turns, things are looking up—a girl just passed the drinks of her illness and everybody is collapsing from joy at can turn to "off."

Minor Hockey

It was minor hockey night at Memorial Arena again last evening with half a dozen squirt games and three midget tilts being played in all.

Canadiens (whipped the Red Wings 16-1 in one midget game. Two-goal scoring for the Canadiens were Gerry Gill, Bib Ethier, Dave Hannah and Carl Boonerville while Dick Leonard and Russ Poste had the others. Boonerville also drew four assists. Scoring for Reds were Fred Carver, Denard and B. Langlaiser one goal each. Rod Ridley scored for Red Wings with Bill Lange helping.

Maple Leafs took a 5-3 win over the Rangers. Jim McGuire had two goals and an assist and Jack Thompson two goals. John Underbrink also had a Leaf goal. Don Gardner scored twice for Rangers and Harold Babcock, Bill Woodcock and Art Lucas gained assists.

Bill Allin's three goals paced the Black Hawks to an 8-2 win over the Bruins. Allin also had one assist. Gene York claimed two goals and an assist, Jim Mairs, Wayne Woods and Ron Faulkner a goal apiece. Woods, Ryder Hedges and Savage Paul Sharpe and Art Taylor one each. Jack Boyle was the triggerman on both Bruin markers with Wayne Brenton and Bruno DeGenova drawing an assist each.

Turning to the squirt division, the Canadiens downed the Leafs one 3-1 with Bob Mulvihill scoring all three Canadien goals. S. Sharpe replied for the Parrots.

Browns defeated the Maes 7-4 with Stankusaks putting three goals. Singlesins went to Theabold, Rosati, Helmes and Parnell. T. Smith had two Mae goals, C. Haynes and S. Moore one apiece.

Stan Muldoon and Y. Pelletier each scored three goals to spark Maple Leafs to a 7-1 win over the Royals. Jack Short had the other Leaf goal and Jim Laughlin scored for Royals.

Red Wings registered a 5-3 win over Bruins with T. White's three goals marking the winners. R. Locke and D. Stewart had one each. G. Sero bagged a pair for Bruins and P. Romain one.

Black Hawks shaded the Frontenacs 1-0 in the tightest game of the night. J. Weymark was there with the Hawks' deciding goal.

Rangers and Flyers fought to a 5-5 deadlock. J. Blatchford and B. Hyatt had two goals apiece for Rangers and T. Meagher got the other. R. Lambert and D. Hanna were double scorers for Flyers while D. McCormack got the other goal.

Bay of Quinte Basketball

Crawford Metals piled up the highest score of the season in a Bay of Quinte basketball league tilt last night, smothering the last-place Belleville Lighters under a 143-47 score.

In the other half of a double-header, Picton Prospects edged the Belleville Teachers 78-74 in a four-quarter affair.

Meanwhile in Trenton Kingston Bordeau Heaters downed Trenton Wilsons 107-71 in an exhibition game.

The league-leading Crawfords crew took a 65-14 half-time lead in their top-sided win over the Lightfoots. The winners were in complete command all the way, led by Ted Batchelor and Bert Faulkner with 33 points apiece. Phil Bennett added 18, Gus Rogers 17 and Gerald 14.

Don Smith topped the Lightfoots with 18 points while Tommy Farnsworth hit for 10.

In Picton's four-point victory, Laundry led the winners with 19 points while Bryant collected 18. Max Wooley starred for the Teachers with 33 points and Jack Perry had 18.

CRAWFORD METALS (143): Bennett 18, T. Batchelor 33, Faulkner 32, Abiarde 6, Rogers 17, Walmsley 10, Geneja 14, F. Dreson 2.

BELL LIGHTFOOTS (47): Newsome 4, Saller 1, Farnsworth 10, Marner 2, Smith 16, Reynolds 5, Savage 6.

British Soccer Considers

'Slow-Freeze Strike'

LONDON (AP) — England's soccer players Monday considered the use of a "slow-freeze strike," a method used in South America, in their battle over wages and contracts.

The 2,700 professional players in England have called meetings in London today, Manchester Wednesday and Birmingham Thursday to discuss strike action.

One idea is that the players should copy the strike tactics used successfully in Argentina in 1946.

At every Argentine League match the first week every player stages a two - minute stoppage, then resumes play on the referee's whistle for the start of the game.

UNEMPLOYMENT

I an t Progressive Conservative members when he reminded the legislature that the sub-amendment proposed during the 1957 campaign by Premier Mr. Frost agreed reluctantly that it did.

"I've been taken by surprise," Mr. Frost said, explaining his confusion. "I've never seen the opposition vote against its own amendment."

He suggested the debate until the next half of the session, which will be reconvened sometime in late January. He added he was to have ended Monday night.

Mr. Dryden, speaking in the CCF amendment, said, if unemployment rose in the same proportion as last year there would be as many as 800,000 out of work in Canada by next March and 250,000 unemployed in Ontario.

He said labor legislation should be amended to provide the maximum work week from 48 hours to 40 hours a week without any reduction in pay.

NEED TO LOOK

Planning and Development Minister Nickle said the time had come for a look at the wage structure with a view to making Canadian goods more competitive with other countries.

He said his department had established a products research division to encourage Canadian industry to locate in Ontario and manufacture goods from raw materials.

Provincial Treasurer Allan said that more than half of the $100,000,000 offered by the federal government to municipalities for new sewage works would be used in Ontario.

The Ontario Water Resources Commission has approved municipal plans for $2,000,000 worth of sewerage projects since the federal announcement last month and plans for another $6,000,000 of work are now being prepared, Mr. Allan said.

DREAM COMING TRUE

Alcorn-Grenford Robbins said if the government was asleep, there was a "$30,000,000 dream coming true" in government plans to expand services during the winter on a job that that amount.

Albert Wren (L. Lah.—Kenora) urged the government to adopt a 20-point program to bost unemployment in northern Ontario.

He called for more highways and access roads in the North and a reduction of corporation taxes so, that resources industries would not pay more taxes than other industries. He urged also the removal of the "soaring tax" on the tax on diesel fuel and the tax on aircraft fuel.

Mr. Wren called Northern Ontario "a victim of economic geography" between the western and eastern economy."

"We are actually a province within a province and as such should be entitled to special attention in any Dominion-provincial conference on fiscal matters," he added.

ASKS GRANTS

He said Northern Ontario was entitled to special federal grants in the same manner as the Maritimes and the "have not" provinces.

"It is somewhat ridiculous that a have-not province such as Alberta would receive upwards of $20,000,000 in equalization grants while Northern Ontario starves economically in its need for roads and basic development money," he said.

Thomas D. Thomas (CCF—Cochrane) said the winter works program was a failure because the municipalities could not afford to participate.

He said the "overburdened" municipalities must pay 25 per cent of labor costs of any winter works project when already the municipal taxpayers debt has neared the danger mark of 20 per cent of the taxable assessment.

Mr. Thomas said in the boom year of 1959 outstanding taxes of property owners in Ontario amounted to $16,221,000, but last year, outstanding taxes totalled $5,828,000.

"These are the figures the government should bear in mind when it asks the municipalities the home owners — to accept more and more of the financial burden each property owner pays to the two senior levels of government," he said.

SHOUT HIM DOWN

Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender rose to defend the winter works program but opposition members shouted him down. The Speaker sided with the opposition, reminding Mr. Warrender that he had already spoken in the unemployment debate.

Ross Whicher (L — Bruce) urged the government to apply pressure on the federal government for the freezing of wages and prices of manufactured goods.

"Are you speaking for your party on this?" asked Attorney General Roberts.

"I'm speaking for myself," Mr. Whicher replied.

He said the controls could be lifted when labor and industry agreed to reduce their demands and work together to manufacture goods that could compete in price with foreign competitors.

Charles MacNaughton (PC—Huron) said part of the answer to increased employment was "hard selling" in foreign markets.

Reform Institutions Minister Wantrop charged the opposition with spreading "uncertainty and alarm" in the public mind and causing further unemployment.

"This temporary recession and unemployment is being used by prophets of gloom for political purposes," he added.

British Soccer Considers

'Slow-Freeze Strike'

LONDON (AP) — England's soccer players Monday considered the use of a "slow-freeze strike," a method used in South America, in their battle over wages and contracts.

The 2,700 professional players in England have called meetings in London today, Manchester Wednesday and Birmingham Thursday to discuss strike action.

One idea is that the players should copy the strike tactics used successfully in Argentina in 1946.

At every Argentine League match the first week every player staged a two - minute stoppage, then resumed play on the referee's whistle for the start of the game.

In every succeeding match, the strike was doubled from two to four minutes, four to eight and so on until the games were in a complete freeze.

The Argentine players won after a six-month fight.

The players will also consider four other strike variations to force the league chiefs into abolishing the maximum wage and granting more freedom in contract negotiations.

The strike meetings follow peace suggestions by the league chiefs for a maximum £20 ($56) a week—instead of the present £14.

The players want the maximum abolished completely and the right to negotiate their own contracts.

AT THE BELLE — Lovely Anne Francis, co-stars with John Kerr, Lloyd Nolan and Kay Medford in "Girl of the Night", playing tonight and Wednesday at the Belle Theatre. On the same program is "Bobbie Williams — a truth torn from New York after dark." Starring Bobbie Williams, with Kay Medford, John Kerr and Lloyd Nolan. Also a fast action short feature at the Belle.

Wednesday, December 14.

General Tendencies: Until sundown, every sort of chance is present for you to make a point to charm others and to criticize no one, as well as avoid breaking up any arrangements that you do not like. The evening brings you a chance to get all of your affairs on a much more firm and solid foundation and lends by a whole new and practical approach at your fullness.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Important you keep out of any argument between a comrade and one who ordinarily advises you, or you can lose out on much that is worthwhile. P.M. if you collect a higher-up, matter can be adjusted most wisely and admirably.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — You will certainly become involved in altercation between a partner and a higher-up, if you do not wisely remain neutral at this time. During P.M., however, you can help settle affair by clear thinking and by being more broad-minded.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Be sure you do the work that you promised, regardless of fact that you want to look into what is untried and novel which could be wrong for you, anyway. P.M. get together with an authority. Act intelligently plan future expension.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — You could arrive at the wrong decision in A.M. if you merely follow your intuition or the advice of those who are not experts. Evening is fine for having a good time and meeting the right people socially. Be charming.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Any opposition on your part could land you right in the middle of some argument that could cause business associates and family. Use the diplomatic, charming approach instead. Be witty, kind, gentle at own shots.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Use care on the road, with fellow workers, or in writing today. Avoid trouble. Evening is best for putting those constructive plans to work that will help you get ahead faster. Brook no interference from others.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Look into new methods and avenues of expression that will assist you to be more efficient and affluent. P.M. fine for putting into new operation old ideas that can bring a greater income in the future.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Be very certain you act circumspectly so that you do not disturb that sensitive member of your family. After remaining calm, you offset any possible argument. Be fine for having a wonderful time at some social affair.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Infinite care is necessary on the road today or there could be great damage done and your activities could be curtailed for quite some time. P.M. you will get help you need which will relieve tensions, so be alert.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Take care you make no commitments that will tax your financial reserves today. Evening, however, can be quite a success since good comrades will get together with you in some joint venture that is very promising.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Do everything in your power to maintain the prestige you now enjoy, since there are those who want to see you lose it. This will often bring you secret backing that will be most helpful and you increase future success.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — It is all right to study well any new ventures you have in mind, but take no immediate steps to put them in motion; in A.M. Tonight then is the ideal time to go over them with experts and then take initial steps. Be wary.

If your child is born today . . . while there is a definite humanitarian trend in the nature, there will also be a most practical sense in knowing how to put ideas and projects across. The earlier years may find your progeny floundering somewhat, but once the spiritual and the practical are nicely co-ordinated, then the chart becomes very successful and some very big projects will be successfully tackled.

CHILD FOR ADOPTION

ROGER — is a delightful seven months old baby-boy. Dark complexioned youngster of Anglo-Saxon parentage. Both parents are regular and his hair right brown and wavy. His progress at school has been excellent. Roger is quickly responding to the affection and security of his foster home. He is ready to accept discipline. This child is an ideal candidate for adoption by a home and parents of his own. In his words, "I want a dog." We are looking for a couple who would like to give him happiness.

Protestant couples interested in inquiring further about Roger with a view to his adoption, should write to —

Professor of Economics At Queen's Says Mr. Coyne Gets Rough Deal From People

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A group of 17 university economists has asked the federal government to dismiss James Coyne as governor of the Bank of Canada because of his fiscal policies.

How do other economists feel about it?

The Canadian Press conducted a cross-country survey and came up with divided reaction.

The 17 economists, with the University of Toronto, Carleton University in Ottawa and McGill University in Montreal, attacked Mr. Coyne is a letter last week to Finance Minister Fleming saying they had lost confidence in the bank governor's policies. It is a criticism of one man against Mr. Coyne," Dr. D. W. Slater, professor of statistics at Queen's University in Kingston, said Monday.

TREATED ROUGHLY

"Governor Coyne is getting a rough deal. The government I am convinced do not understand nearly as much about the relationship between monetary policies and prices as does Mr. Coyne and his advisers," said Dr. J. A. Crumpy, senior professor of economy and banking at the University of British Columbia.

Dr. Slater said university opinion is that the bank signals the beginning, not the end of hostilities, and a united front is followed up by detailed attacks on the central bank's policies."

Dr. Slater plans to make recommendations on the Bank of Canada in a memorandum being drawn up at Massey for submission to the federal government.

He said authors of the controversial letter obviously felt Mr. Coyne's policies have depressed both public and privately, provided that under certain circumstances that must be met by "countervailing measures."

TOO CHARITABLE?

Dr. Slater said the governor has been "too charitable" in recent statements as regards the role of the federal government in dealing with the present imbalance of trade.

"The governor has presented no sustained analysis of the framework of government policy within which he is working. He has spoken of the need of controlling inflation through borrowing by provincial and municipal governments and mentioning the need for the federal government to follow suit."

Dr. Crumpy said it significant that "no senior economist, specifically no Liberal economist" has come on the letter.

"As Canada's central bank of issue, Governor Coyne is properly concerned with maintaining the value of the dollar, the Canadian dollar and with stopping the building of new printing prices on that purchasing power.

Prof. F. J. Hasson, head of the University of Alberta's political economy department, said Monday — one of the signers—explaining the refusal of the University of Alberta to support the letter.

"We are agreed that any criticism of his (Mr. Coyne's) statements or policies should be published and set out very specific and precise economic reasoning, showing the errors believed to be present in them and possibly suggesting superior alternatives" says Hasson.

Prof. Andre Raynauld, head of the University of Montreal economics department, said most of his colleagues agreed the letter as presented goes not reflect the true feeling among economists.

SEES POLITICAL ANGLE

Prof. Raynauld added that premature release of the letter prejudiced its use as a "political instrument."

Dr. W. J. Waines, head of the economist department at the University of Manitoba, suggested economists wanting to criticize the bank should go through proper channels such as articles and speeches."

Prof. Maurice Lermer, head of the economics department at Sir George Williams University in Montreal, said the department's eight members refused to sign the letter "on the grounds that there was no proof to substantiate the charges."

Dr. Mark Inman, head of the department of economic and political science at the University of Western Ontario in London, said he thinks Mr. Coyne's policy has "been right in maintaining a tight-money policy."

A stimpl should have been made to "get Mr. Coyne's ear" if his economists wanted something done, he added.

Prof. C. A. Ashley, chairman of the University of Toronto's political economy department, declined to comment on members of his staff to express their opinions

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands and thousands of sufferers in the immediate substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking relief" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And with after relief in many cases, reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months.

In fact, results were so thorough on the subject, "so long as it is clear they are expressing their own opinions and not speaking for the department."

HAS NO REGRETS

One of the signers, Prof. H. Scott Gordon, head of the economics department at Carleton, said he had no regrets now that the issue has been put before the public."

"It is not true we didn't give reasons for our condemnation of Mr. Coyne's policies. We signed the letter have repeatedly criticized his policies and published form. Unfortunately the reasons for our criticisms were never published in the general press."

Prof. Gordon said economists have also accused the governor Mr. of falsifying statistics.

"We have published this charge and as yet we have no reply from the governor."

Dr. Donald E. Armstrong, director of the school of commerce at McGill University, said he objected to the fact the letter was released to newspapers and sent to Finance Minister Fleming. It should have gone first to the Bank of Canada.

Three members of the economic and political science department of the University of Saskatchewan added their voices to the controversy Monday, stating Mr. Coyne has moved in a "surprising lack of economic insight."

In a joint statement, professor G. E. Britnell, head of the department, Dr. Dunsky and, E. Safarian, senior economists said: "We are in agreement with the tenor and the intent of the letter to Mr. Fleming. . . .

"The Bank of Canada has paid little heed to a rein on the supply of money for far too long, particularly in view of the increasing rate of unemployment through the year."

SPANISH LEADERS — Spain's totalitarian regime under General Francisco Franco (right) kept itself politically and economically isolated from Europe for more than 20 years. But in the last 18 months Foreign Minister Fernando Maria Castiella (left) has been working to strengthen Spain's international links and contacts. (CP Photo).

Franco Runs Totalitarian Regime in Spain, Not Liked But They Cannot Let Him Go

Alan Harvey, chief of CP's London bureau, has made a reporter's tour of Spain. In this story he tells of the difficulties the dictatorship is likely to encounter after Franco goes.

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MADRID (CP)—Thirty million passionate people are waiting for the cork to be pulled out of the fizzy bottle that is Franco Spain.

They are waiting, and fearing. The stopper in the bottle is General Francisco Franco, a wintry little man on a white horse, and there may be an explosion when he goes.

Or there may not. A personal forecast, based on a two-week visit, is that there will be confusion, perhaps chaos, but little bloodshed. The legions of maimed men, diminishing now, recall what happened last time brother fought brother. Nobody wants another civil war.

Conscious of Franco's bad press abroad, the visitor may see things differently inside Spain. Persistent reports that this elemental, fiercely proud, lowered-looking country is seething with unrest can almost surely be dismissed. Old hands say there is no discernible focus of opposition.

Franco runs a totalitarian regime and few have any fondness for him, but his cold unlovable way of life wears others down, lished by a static society.

That is the drama of Spain. They don't like him and they can't let him go.

CHURCH BONDS STRONG

The visitor's strongest impression may be of a clinging conservatism. Tradition has the strength of steel in a predominantly agricultural country that has never known the softening influences of the Protestant Reformation, that reacts truculently and instinctively against anything threatening home, family, and—above all—religion.

In the land of the donkey and the cross, orthodoxy is triumphant. Roman Catholicism is a powerful force, particularly among women. It is the spiritual cement binding an anarchic and restlessly individualistic people. It makes Spain one of the most staunchly anti-Communist countries in the world.

Paradoxically, Communists are practically the only fight-back opposition. The 30 or so "democratic" parties are hopelessly divided. A daily barrage of Communist propaganda is aimed at Spain from Prague, Moscow and even Peking. If Franco died suddenly, possibly the only take-over attempt would come from the Communist underground or a few "exalados"—fanatics.

BLAME COMMUNISTS

The political atmosphere seems less oppressive. People talked freely of Franco, even in public places, but none admitted sharing Republican sentiments during the civil war. Several spoke of "atrocities" committed by the Republicans and seemed to regard the war essentially as a Communist onslaught against Spain's established order.

Time and again, fiery Spaniards stressed the importance of tradition and religion.

"Religion is something we have in our bones," said 25-year-old Martil Alvarez de Sotomayor, articulate member of one of Spain's oldest families.

"We imbibe it with our mother's milk. Centuries of religious strife left a certitude about life that comes out in the great moments. We may be absolutely mad, and frivolous about small things, but in this we are absolutely serious. We know what things are important, we know that life is hard, and we know how to die."

Spain, the traveller perceives, has fire in its blood. Here in this arid, self - dramatizing land, three civilizations flourished long before Christ and Christian Nords fought Moslem South for eight centuries, a thousand dreams of glory lie buried in the very dust.

ENEMY OF DEMOCRACY

Now, a mellowing process may be at work. Perhaps 23 years of peace have doused the Iberian flame. Perhaps a thin slice of worldly prosperity, increasing with Spain's tentative return to the European economic fold, may appease old jealousies.

How sad is Franco, really? British editor Ian Gilmour says the regime in rejoining Europe is like a prostitute trying to be a nun. American author and correspondent H. L. Matthews called Franco "one of the most tenacious and outstanding enemies of democracy in the world."

Observers seasoned in Spanish politics temper their criticisms of the austere, purse-lipped generalissimo from Galicia in the northwest corner of Spain. For some, this is a comfortable society. The diplomatic carousel goes round and round in tasteful apartments; maids are cheap, diplomats live in the millionaires' section of Madrid and have swimming pools in their gardens.

Allowing for such pastible bias, there still seems a feeling that Spain is "different," a case apart. It has never had a strong middle class and workers are not well organized. When there were free elections, in the first quarter of the century, they were usually "arranged."

NEED TOUGH BOSS

In one of the most probing sentences written about Spain, British writer Gerald Brenan described it as a society that "puts the deeper needs of human nature before the technical organization required to provide a higher standard of living."

Spaniards themselves say they are unruly and need a tough boss. Franco, single-minded, devout, with the military man's belief in iron discipline, probably sincerely believes he has divine blessing.

He rules ruthly, distributing judicious concessions to the groups that keep the intricate web of his coalition in motion. Army, church, big business and labor organizations are kept carefully in line. As soon as a personality emerges, Franco chops him down to size.

Strikes now are classified as crimes of military rebellion, especially strikers to be brought before military courts for trial and sentence.

Bright spirits suffer in Spain. Lacking outlets in a manipulated society, the talented and energetic feel themselves "superfluous men." Manuscripts moulder in desk drawers, unsubmitted to an iron censorship that restricts foreign films mainly to westerns and whodunits. A Shakespeare born in 20th century Spain, like the mute, inglorious Milton of Gray's poem, would "blush unseen, and waste his sweetness on the desert air."

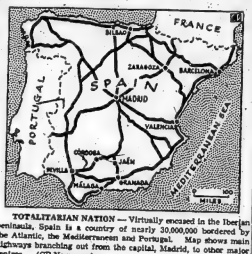
MONARCHY PROMISED

What happens next? Technically, Franco is committed to a monarchy but some see him holding office as long as there is breath left in him. He was 65 Dec. 4. He lives carefully and can point to forbears who died at 102 and 96.

One detached observer, a close student of Spanish politics, says if elections were held pretty much the same group would be returned. There hasn't been a general election since Feb. 16, 1936.

The pretender to the throne is 47-year-old Don Juan of Bourbon, great grandson of Queen Victoria. He waits patiently in a villa on the Portuguese Riviera, indifferent to reports that Franco is "grooming" the pretender's son for the job. The 26-year-old Don Juan Carlos is not regarded as a forceful figure.

A forecast is that in three to six years, Franco will hand over to a pretended regime, headed by a strong prime minister who would be given a term of five years in a bid for stability. One name mentioned is that of Alberto Martin Artajo, Catholic leader and former foreign minister.



Meanwhile Spain waits, chafing just apathetic, straining at the leash but seeing no escape.

"They're a pretty good bunch of people, the Spaniards," was one comment. "They need leaders but nobody is interested in leading—except leading the good life."

Tomorrow: Government divided on joining European economic partnership.

TRADITIONAL COSTUME—Tradition remains a strong force in modern Spain, a proud nation long isolated from the rest of Europe. Even the way people dress in rural communities shows a link with the past. Typical costumes of western Spain are shown in this street scene in the town of Caceres. The girl wears a colorful peasant costume and the boy has the black robes of a student. (CP Photo).

TOTALITARIAN NATION — Virtually encased in the Iberian peninsula, Spain is a country of nearly 30,000,000 bordered by the Atlantic, the Mediterranean and Portugal. Map shows main highways branching out from the capital, Madrid, to other major centres. (CP Newsmap).

Mobutu Seizes Kitona Air Base From Moroccans

Congo Issue Is Dumped In Lap of UN Assembly

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP) — The United Nations protested to Col. Joseph Mobutu today against the Congolese army's takeover of the former Belgian air base at Kitona.

Some 250 soldiers equipped with a few anti-aircraft guns and heavy machine - guns swooped down Tuesday on the vast air base as revealed by Moroccan troops of the UN force.

The Moroccans put up no resistance in order to avoid unnecessary bloodshed. But this morning troops of both sides faced each other in uneasy tension while UN reinforcements were en route to the base from two numbered Moroccans.

The head of the UN Congo mission, India's Rajeshwar Dayal reported to Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold that the takeover was "a flagrant interference with the mandate given by the United Nations by the Security Council and . . . a deliberate act of aggression against the United Nations."

Western diplomats said Mobutu, army chief and head of his provisional government, Justin Bomboko, Congo foreign minister, had been given for the base to be taken by force.

HAD PLANNED TALKS

A UN spokesman said five of Bomboko's commandos arrived at Kitona Tuesday for discussions on the future of the base" with the 50 Belgian technicians still maintaining the complex installations.

The technicians refused to enter into any discussions with the commissioners, who left the base and returned with a company of Congolese army troops.

After the Moroccan guards refused to allow the soldiers to enter, the company commander ordered his men to take over the base by force, the spokesman said. Four of the commissioners who argued against the use of force were arrested by the soldiers but were released later.

Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The Security Council-hit deadlock on the Congo crisis today, broken by throwing the issue to the 99-member General Assembly.

In a marathon session that ended at 2:45 a.m., the 11-member council finished its Congo debate by rolling rival East and West proposals for dealing with the crisis.

Ceylon's wily Sir Claude Corea pushed his package resolution—revolution—saving it for the assembly—when it became obvious that it would fail in the East-West shuffle.

The issue now will be dumped in the lap of the General Assembly where weary delegates are striving to finish the first half of the session by Dec. 20.

The Soviet Union cast its 92nd veto to defeat the Western resolution — co-sponsored by United States, Italy and Britain which called on Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold to withdraw UN forts to restore order in The Congo.

REJECT RED DEMAND

The West in turn voted down a Communist bloc demand that Patrice Lumumba, deposed Congo premier, be restored to full governmental powers, and that Congo army chief Col. Joseph Mobutu disband his forces.

The vote was two in favor with eight abstentions, a change from drastically the wording of the Western resolution with a series of amendments was roundly defeated.

A last - minute resolution by Poland which merely called for the freeing of Lumumba was defeated by a vote of three in favor, six against and two abstentions.

U. S. Ambassador James Barco accused the Russian delegation of confusion, fabrication and hypocrisy in the debate. He denied Russian charges that the Western resolution contained sabotage and said the UN force was "neutral and even apprehended as spies were Soviet nationals.

WITHDRAW RESOLUTION

Before the balloting Corea said he and Ambassador Mongi Slim of Tunisia had decided to withdraw their resolution after a check of delegations privately indicated it would not get the necessary votes.

The compromise plan would have the United Nations give stronger role in restoring order in The Congo.

Before the balloting Russian Ambassador Valerian Zorin and Hammarskjold clashed head-on over the UN command in the African state.

Zorin reiterated charges that Hammarskjold was acting as a tool of Western and colonial powers in The Congo.

Hammarskjold came back with a 45-minute statement in which he lashed out at those who kept the UN Congo command "under the cloak of secrecy and suspicion" and used as a "pawn in the games for unrelated purposes."

Famed Baritone Dies of Cancer

APPLE VALLEY, Calif. (AP) Famed baritone John Charles Thomas, star of opera, concerts and radio during his 45-year career, died Tuesday of cancer at his home in the desert.

He had been ill for months and in a coma for days. He underwent surgery, described at the time as minor, at the University of California at Los Angeles Medical Centre March 18, 1959. Death was attributed to intestinal cancer.

Thomas, one of the most popular singers of his day, was known for the deep, rich quality of his voice.

Thomas and his wife, Dorothy, moved to the desert community northeast of Los Angeles in 1954.

Over a time he managed a radio station here.

Thomas made farewell concert tours, although it was never billed as such, when he appeared in about 30 cities in Canada.

He made his first professional appearance with a Henry Clay Barnabee road company in London, Ont., in late 1912. He soon became a matinee idol in Broadway musicals.

But Thomas said he stayed in musicals only to get enough money to do concerts.

His concert debut came in 1921. Four years later he made his operatic debut in Washington.

Today's Chuckle

After a tiff with his wife, the harrassed husband declared that if women ever get equal rights, it will be quite a comedown for them.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis:—Mild weather now prevails over all the forecast regions but a disturbance moving rapidly eastward from Manitoba will bring some snow to northern and central regions tonight. He passage on Thursday will be followed by strong northwesterly winds with rapidly falling temperatures. In Southern Ontario mild weather is expected to continue until Thursday night.

HOUSE APPROVES COUNCIL TO AID UNEMPLOYMENT

Two CCFers Oppose Pre-Christmas Deal

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons Tuesday night approved the fourth item in the government's pre-Christmas package of legislation designed to combat unemployment.

Second reading approval in principle was given a measure to establish a productivity council to advise the government on means to increase production. The vote was 175 to 2 with Mac Nicol (CCF—Timmins) and Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) dissenting.

Mr. Peters asked why a productivity council was being set up to increase production when "we have it because obvious that it would fail in the East-West disunity.

The issue now will be dumped in the lap of the General Assembly where weary delegates are striving to finish the first half of the session by Dec. 20.

Man Hauled From Sand of Cistern After 24 Long and Anxious Hours

HOLLY SPRINGS, Miss. (AP) Rescue workers looped two ropes around a sloped man today and pulled him free from the red, wet sand of a cistern in which he had been trapped for almost 24 hours.

Weak but calm throughout his ordeal, Harry Miller, 44-year-old Negro, was hoisted out of the 20-foot cistern by crews of workers who had worked since noon Tuesday to free him.

Miller, 44, who helped direct his own rescue, was conscious and in good spirits when he emerged from the cistern. He was taken to hospital by ambulance.

The rescue workers, both whites and Negroes, took turns in crews of 10 descending into the treacherous sand and digging furiously by hand to free the trapped man.

Early frail, makeshift shoring which they had been able to rig during the night protected them from the crumbling walls of the cistern.

The treacherous sand at one time buried Miller, father of five children, up to his chin. By dawn today, diggers had uncovered the upper part of his body. Then, the two ropes were looped about his shoulders and buttocks and Miller was pulled free.

Holly Springs is about 45 miles southeast of Memphis, Tenn.

During the rescue operation, a fire department provided oxygen.

Hall Says New Rail Strike Deadline Fixed for May 16

MONTREAL (CP) — Frank H. Hall, chief negotiator for the non-operating railway unions, today announced that the rail strike postponed earlier by the federal government has been re-fixed until for May 16.

The strike date, one day after the end of the postponement period set by the government, must still be ratified by the unions' controlling body which meets Jan. 24.

Mr. Hall's announcement said the 15 - man union negotiating committee "is of the opinion that the strike vote has in no way been nested and that in the absence of agreement between the unions and the railways a strike should go into effect at 8 a.m. regional standard time, Tuesday, May 16, 1961."

The non-ops' strike, originally set for Dec. 1, was postponed Dec. 2 when the Parliament passed bill C-46—"an act to provide for the continuation of the operation of railways."

The bill, which expires May 15, was designed to delay any strike until the report of the royal commission on transportation which is expected March 31.

The unions called the strike to back up demands for a 14 cents-an-hour wage increase originally recommended by a conciliation board.

Bullets Kill Peace Hopes, Troops Open Fire on Colons

ALGIERS (AP) — Screaming, machine-gunning and fanatically determined resistance today confronted French settlers today confronted France with the most explosive civil crisis in her attempts to end six years of fighting in Algeria.

No one any longer spoke of "fraternity" between Moslem and European as the third day of bloody rioting that killed 120 persons and wounded more than 500.

The Moslems, who suffered most casualties, shouted that French bullets had destroyed all hopes of an Algerian union with France.

French settlers fired on by French troops Tuesday for the first time since the riots began, reportedly used more firepower as De Gaulle's plan for home rule in Algeria.

De Gaulle cut a day off his tour of Algeria and arrived home today. He will address the nation Thursday night on the crisis.

The other Premier threat to his plan to continue today in Algeria will be Clause-by-clause study of the bill was to continue today in committee.

The other measures which the government says will increase employment and which have been passed by the Commons in earlier stages provide: More liberal loans under the National Housing Act; Government-guaranteed loans by the banks to small businesses; and increased federal aid to the provinces for vocational training.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Tuesday night the government has more measures in its sleeve but did not say specifically that they will be part of the current session.

Before the Dec. 21 adjournment the Commons is to introduce and discuss increased disability pensions, tariff and sales tax and rural rehabilitation and development and get Finance Minister Fleming's supplementary budget Dec. 20.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the productivity council won't produce "wonders" but it will be a major step forward. When it was put alongside measures already taken and others to be presented to Parliament, Canadians would have new hope and opportunities.

He said there is a "tremendous demand" by municipalities to take up the government's offer to pay 50 per cent of welfare costs with a 25-per-cent write - off of the federal government's share.

Apparently it took considerable persuading on Kennedy's part to get Fleming to accept the post at $400,000-a-year job as Ford president. Ford was named to the job only a month ago, and to take the $25,000-a-year cabinet spot.

Fear at Least Fifty Killed As Tankers Collide, Explode

ISTANBUL, Turkey (Reuters) — Fifty persons were feared killed when two tankers collided and caught fire after a collision in the Bosporus straits today.

The tankers—the 18,300-ton Yugoslav vessel Prevlaka and the 20,992-ton Greek World Harmony—were heading in opposite directions.

After the collision, the blazing tankers locked together and drifted on to a third ship, the 1,641-ton Turkish Tuna, which three were badly damaged.

Fire spread above, roused from their beds by the explosion, watched as seamen plunged overboard to escape the inferno from blazing vessels.

The tanker fire brigade pulled the burning tankers apart and prevented the fire spreading to an adjacent shore petroleum depot.

A shipping official said the World Harmony was empty during the collision, and that the Prevlaka was extinguished but the Zoranic was ordered to burn from bow to midship.

Mandich Tenki and Atalsin Serchko, both crew members of the Yugoslav ship, said the tanker was heading from Burgaz, West Germany with 12,000 tons of benzine and some petroleum taken from the Russian Black Sea port of Teapse.

Some of the crew who jumped overboard were badly burned in the sea, which was on fire with blazing oil.

Strong winds made rescue and fire brigade operations difficult while dense flames and heavy smoke rose into the sky from the tankers.

Gregory Ratoff Dies

SOLOTHURN, Switzerland (AP) — Actor-director Gregory Ratoff died of a heart attack in a Swiss Clinic today of blood cancer, his wife said.

Ratoff, who wrote many of the film scripts of stage plays and films he directed, was born in Petrograd, now Leningrad, Russia, where he began his stage career. He went to New York in 1923 to appear on Broadway.

In more recent years he produced and directed the stage hit "All About Eve" and the film hit among them Black Magic, The Heiress and Call Me Madam before the war he acted in many Broadway plays.

CCF DRIVER OF FOREIGN CAR GETS RIBBING

Jobless Debate Lengthy, Warm

TORONTO (CP) — The CCF representation got some ribbing during an unemployment debate in the Ontario legislature Tuesday. But it was not the ribbing of its members driven a small foreign car.

Kenneth Bryden (Toronto Woodbine) preferred to be a champion of the Canadian worker, said Arthur Reaume (L—Essex North), yet he drives to work in a car made by German workers.

Mr. Bryden stood his ground. He refused to be dictated to by anybody, he said, and wanted no part of "an overstuffed, overpaid civil service."

This interchange prompted Leo Troy (L — Nipissing) to remark that Bryden was a champion of the Canadian Corporate Commonwealth Federation the Compact Theory Confederation.

Mr. Reaume, whose constituents include many Windsor automobile workers, suggested the auto industry should consult the government in providing its facilities to another area. He referred to the Ford Motor Company which closed its Windsor plant to Oakville, Ont.

TREATED LIKE COWS

"I don't think we can treat people like cows," he said.

Mr. Reaume said, "They work a few days and then throw him out on to the street."

He urged Premier Frost to have a talk with the automobile industry and explain its responsibilities to the community.

Speaking in a discussion of estimates for the department of economics, Mr. Reaume said officials like Windsor, Hamilton, St. Catharines and Oshawa would suffer further economic setbacks if manufacturers continued to increase the United States content of new cars.

Liberal Leader Wintermeyer criticized the department of economics for failing to conduct statistical studies in the vital areas of unemployment, automation, industrial expansion and business.

Provincial Treasurer Allan said it would be uncommercial to duplicate work done by the federal government's bureau of statistics.

Government bills were introduced to reconstitute and reorganize the department of economics, the department of planning and development, and the department of provincial secretary and registrar.

Development Minister Nickle will head the reconstituted committee on planning and development. Provincial secretary Dunlop will head the reconstituted committee on economics.

WOULD REDUCE SPEED

OTTAWA (CP)—City clerk Ali Hanley said Tuesday copies of an Ottawa council resolution calling for the reduction of train speeds in cities are being sent to all Ontario municipalities. The resolution, passed by council March 28, 1960, was passed after an Ottawa coroner's jury investigating the death of a railway worker recommended that train speeds be reduced to the speed limit of other vehicles.

Ford Head Kennedy's Choice For Defence Secretary Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Kennedy has reached the final stage in filling his cabinet—five down and five to go—and the odds seem fairly good he will be able to add another today or Thursday.

The latest selection, announced late Tuesday, was that of Robert McNamara to be his defence secretary. McNamara is now president of the Ford Motor Company.

Kennedy is announcing no timetable for his choices. All he has said is that he will announce outside his Georgetown doorstep his and others' selections as soon as that he expects to complete his cabinet within a few days.

Kennedy still must get his secretaries of agriculture, treasury and health, education and welfare and an attorney-general.

The latter is the one when he chose McNamara for the defence post.

"After much thought," McNamara said as he and Kennedy faced reporters on Kennedy's front lawn, "I have come to the conclusion that personal considerations must not be permitted . . . to serve the public when requested to do so."

Among the personal considerations McNamara had to give up was a reported $400,000 a year in profits of approximately $3,000,000 in Ford stock and options he now owns, plus an option to buy 250,000 more shares.

And what will that cost him?

"More than I like to say," McNamara said, with a chuckle.

Kennedy cut in here to say that he expects the cabinet officers he is now choosing to stay "for years."

McNamara's view:

"I will be here as long as I fulfil the position to the satisfaction of the president."

McNamara, told reporters he's a registered Republican who voted independent in 1956 and voted for Kennedy, he said: "I think my vote is my own affair."

Royalty Turns Back History's Pages At Wedding Ball for Belgian King

BRUSSELS (AP) — Europe's royalty, flashing its crowns and millions and attended by a small army of servants, turned back the history Tuesday night at Baudouin's gala pre-wedding ball.

Baudouin, 30, will wed his bride, 32, in a civil ceremony, Thursday. Lt. Baudouin's father, gave his parental blessing in a letter.

"By her tender presence at your side," he told his son, "Fabiola will be a source of precious support."

Those who lent their glasses to this included Princess Margaret.

(Reuters said Princess Margaret was awarded the sash of the order of Leopold and her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, received the Grand Cross of the order of Leopold II. The announcement was made early today by Baron de Bassompierre, a Belgian diplomat acting as the equerry of the Princess during her stay here.)

Mid-November's Jobless Show 61,000 Increase

OTTAWA (CP) — Four out of every 10 persons among Canada's 368,000 unemployed in mid-October were heads of families, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

At the same time, the country had 130,000 family units in which no one was bringing home a pay cheque.

These were among salient points in a detailed report on the jobless position in unemployed persons at mid-October, issued by the bureau along with its report on mid-November unemployment.

Of the 368,000 unemployed, 156,000 were heads of family units. Another 175,000—43 per cent of the jobless—were sons, daughters or other relatives living in family units. The other 10 per cent of the jobless, numbering 37,000, were not living with their families.

Duck Goes South To Florida On Jet Flight

CHELSEA, Mich. (AP)—All ducks fly south in winter, many of them ride in jet-propelled, Douglas-designed airliners.

That's the fortune of a certain mallard duck named Woody, who failed to use his wings but his wings; at the right time.

Woody came out of the egg, stayed behind when the rest of the flock departed for the sunny south. He woke up one morning to find himself frozen in the ice of a small lake near here.

The son of Albert Klein, a Michigan State University employee, happened along, chopped Woody loose and took him home.

Woody came out O.K. okay," said Klein, "but I figured we never get south unless somebody helped him."

Klein contacted Eastern Airlines, which flies a Douglas-built regular jet flights to Miami, Woody got a reservation on the first flight.

W. Ernest Tummon, Ex. MP, Foxboro, Dies in Hospital

William Ernest Tummon, Foxboro, former Federal member for Hastings South, successful farmer, interested in agricultural matters, particularly the Milk Producers of Ontario and prominent United Church layman in Belleville in the Belleville General Hospital early this Wednesday morning following an illness of almost a year and one-half.

He was born at Crookston 80 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Tummon and had been a resident of Hastings County all his life. For a number of years he resided at Tweed, but 20 years ago purchased a farm on the outskirts of Foxboro and had continuously resided there, although being retired for a number of years. During his lifetime he took a deep and abiding interest in the social, civic and church life in the communities and wards in which he was held in high esteem throughout the county.

In 1949 Mr. Tummon took an active interest in municipal life, being a member of Huntingdon council and served as reeve. He was prominent in Conservative party and served as president of his local association. He was active in the county association as well. He was elected as a member in the 1925 general election for the Federal House and being elected, served faithfully until 1935 when he retired from political life. During his term of office he represented his riding with ability and good judgment and secured for his constituency much progress. He enjoyed the friendship of all shades of political opinion and retained many friendships throughout his life.

EXCELLENT FARMER

Mr. Tummon was an excellent farmer and took great pride in his livestock. He was a noted breeder of cattle and Clydesdale horses, particularly of hogs. He became active in the work of the Hog Producers' Association of Ontario and served for many years as the efficient secretary. His counsel on matters of the hog producers was eagerly sought at meetings and he maintained a friendly relation with governments on matters of legislation pertaining to this branch of agriculture. He was also a member of the Toronto Stock Yard Board.

He was a stalwart and faithful member of the United Church and as layman took an active interest in all phases of church work. He was a constant attendant of the Presbytery meetings and was honored with the presidency of the Belleville Presbytery of the United Church, a position he filled with dignity and devotion. In his church at Foxboro, he served as leader for many years. Being musically inclined with a resonant baritone voice he sang in the choir and at social functions throughout the district.

Mr. Tummon also took an active interest in fraternal societies and was a member of Madoc Masonic Lodge, Foxboro L.O.L. No. 3, and the Royal Arch Preceptory of Foxboro No. 252. In all these organizations he was one of his time and ability to help advancement.

Surviving are his wife, the former Ethel Finley; two daughters, Mrs. Francis (Marion) Thompson of Erindale; Mrs. (Dr.) Frederick Preyer in Germany, and three sons, Frank Tummon of Lindsay, Evan (Tim) Tummon, Jack Tummon, both of Toronto; two sisters, Mrs. John Blue of Belleville, Mrs. Harry McCreery of Plainfield, two brothers, Percy Tummon of Toronto and Clayton Tummon of Belleville. Also surviving are eleven grandchildren one son, James Tummon, died some years ago.

IN RECOLLIGAM

CLARK. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Arthur Clark, who passed away December 14th, 1951.

Nothing can ever take away
The memory of yesterday.
Remembrance keeps him near.

CLARK. — In loving memory of a dear father, Arthur Clark, who passed away December 14th, 1951.

Dear father, you are not forgotten,
Though on earth we see you no more,
But in memory you are with us,
And there you will be for ever.

Sadly missed by son, daughter-in-law and granddaughter.

CHRISTOPHER. — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, and Grandma, Margaret Lucy Christopher, who passed away December 14th, 1958.

A silent thought, a secret tear,
A memory we always share.
Never remembered by daughter Mrs. Anne Gordon and grandson daughter Linda.

CHRISTOPHER. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Margaret Lucy Christopher, who passed away December 14th, 1958.

Mother dear, you left us lonely,
Left us when our hearts were sore,
You have left a lasting memory,
You have a heart holds dear.
Fond memories bring back your face,
Remembrance keeps her near.
Sadly remembered by husband Harry and family.

HUCKSTEPP. — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Bertha Huckstepp, who passed away December 14th, 1958.

Those we love we still come o'er us,
Memories of days gone by,
For moments those you ever near us,
Though you cannot be seen nor heard.
Never remembered by her husband and family.

School Bus Contracts Let By Quinte District Board

As result of their respective municipalities becoming members of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board, close to 300 students from Sidney township and the village of Frankford will have their transportation costs paid commencing January 1st.

Previously the municipalities of Sidney and Frankford had to pay their own transportation costs for students attending Belleville high schools.

At the December meeting of the high school board held Thursday evening, board members awarded bus route contracts for bringing rural students to Belleville. Of the six routes awarded three went to the Rathbun Bus Company; two of the regular routes and one feeder route were awarded to Claude Richmond and one route went to Bert Wannamaker.

There will be no change in the school population in Belleville as result of Sidney and Frankford becoming members of the high school board. Students from both municipalities are already attending city schools on an education purchase basis.

As members of the board, 72 per cent of approved student transportation costs are paid by the Department of Education.

TEACHER RESIGNS

The resignation of Mrs. Catherine Pryor as teacher at Belleville Collegiate was accepted, with Mrs. Anne Boyd being hired as replacement for the January to June period.

The board approved of the appointment of John Perry as head of the physical education department at Moira Secondary School.

Mrs. Evelyn Rye was named as principal's office secretary at Quinte Secondary, replacing Miss Marion Forward, who has resigned.

No action was taken on a request from the Belleville Fire Department for an increase from $2 to $5 for off-duty firemen in attendance at non-charitable public functions held in school auditoriums. The request was referred back for clarification.

School architect H. H. Roberts will be contacted by the board regarding plans for repairs to the auditorium at the Quinte Secondary School.

APPROVE PENSION PLAN

Board members approved in principle the idea of a pension plan for non-teaching employees of the board. It is expected that such a plan may be set up early in the new year.

The board agreed to go along as far as possible with a request from the "Belleville and District Trades and Labor Council which asked that the board stipulate a certain percentage of local labor be used when awarding future construction projects.

The 1961 board caucus meeting to decide on board committee appointments will be held January 4th with the inaugural meeting of the board scheduled for January 18th.

Commendation to chairman A. O. Drysdale for his work as head of the board during the past year was expressed on behalf of the board by member Roy Sills.

Montreal Firm Gets Contract For Subway Cars

TORONTO (CP) — The Star says the Montreal Locomotive Works will be awarded a $4,000,000 order today for 40 cars for Toronto's subway.

The new cars will be 74 feet long, compared to the present 57-foot length and will be of lightweight construction.

The Montreal company's tender was the lowest of about a dozen firms in Canada, Great Britain, Japan and the United States.

Board Disputes Bill But Pays Up After Talk

TRENTON — The Board of Parks Management met last night in the municipal board room, with all members in attendance.

Miss Marion Baker, secretary, read a letter from the C. K. Siddall Company of Toronto, contractors responsible for the installation of an underground sprinkler system in the Fraser Park - Library Park - Bayshore Park area. An invoice of $400 was enclosed. The board disputed the bill. Miss Baker said that the original bill for $3,600 had been in error and that a company official had agreed the invoice should have been for $3,384.02. The board has paid $2,200.

Miss Baker was directed to forward a cheque to the contractors for the last amount — $184.02—and mark it "paid in full."

After some discussion it was decided to insure equipment owned by the board, which will be stored in a town-owned shed over the winter, under a floater policy held by the town. The premium will be approximately $26. The value of the equipment is estimated at $3,192.83.

The members agreed that the scaled chart of all park underground sprinkler systems must be prepared and copies given to the town engineering department. This step was made necessary when town workmen inevitably dug up and damaged the system in Bayshore Park. The pipes run underground, under the road, between the park and library grounds.

A builder, speaking at a public works department workmen, recently dug up the underground pipes and cut the bleeder tube and cracked the pipe. The damage was received by the department, but the system was not located until Monday.

Miss Baker will write to the sprinkler engineering firm for the repair work and reminding him that the department will not be responsible should the system be defective when the water is turned on in the spring.

Present at the meeting were the chairman, R. M. Parker; Miss Baker, John Saylor, treasurer; William Ireland, Norman Armstrong, Clyde Mason and Bart Boers.

W.A. Entertains Cadets at Party

TRENTON — Sea cadets from RCSCC "Trent" were the guests of the Women's Auxiliary of the corps at a Christmas party last night in the Community Gardens where the "Trent" is located.

The auxiliary provided gifts for the boys and a supper, which was demolished.

A film on last summer's cadet activity in the Trenton area and at a training course in Halifax was shown. The Hills Brothers supplied musical entertainment.

A call back, presented to the cadets by the W.A. last summer, was displayed.

Women's Club Holds Footwear Fashion Show

TRENTON — Members of the Business and Professional Women's Club were entertained recently at the home of one of the members, Mrs. Earl Stewart, Shuter street.

Highlight of the evening was a fashion show with emphasis on footwear. Mrs. Lela Jordon was the commentator and the models were Mrs. Helen Hollman, Miss Anne McHenry and Miss Margaret McHenry.

Mrs. Jordon said that fashion experts agreed that Canada is setting the pace in shoe styling.

During the evening the members played bridge and bingo. Mrs. Priscilla Collins was the door prize.

Mrs. Barbara Edwards read tea leaves of guests who consulted her concerning their future.

Lunch was served by the hostess to round out the evening.

Rotarians Hear Address About Electronics

TRENTON—The guest speaker at this week's meeting of the Rotary Club was James Dobby, general manager of Essex Electronics of Trenton.

Mr. Dobby supplemented his remarks on the electronic industry in Canada by showing a colored film, covering all facets of the manufacturing of the electronic components and the application of electronics to modern living.

Manufacturing electronic components has become big business in the United States and Canada and the industry will grow with the countries, he said, adding that eventually the countries would grow with the industry, with the industry employing more of the country's raised workers, either directly or indirectly.

Public School Attendance High Says Supervisor

TRENTON — Attendance at Trenton public schools is at an all-time high this year.

V. P. Caswell, supervisor of public schools, reports that during November an attendance record of 2,010 was reached.

There is considerable crowding at the new Prince Charles Public School which was intended to accommodate all the students up to grade 8 who live south of Highway 2. However, after-school care started it was found necessary to move several pupils to Dufferin school and next year more students who ordinarily would attend Prince Charley School may have to attend Dufferin school, which lies north of the highway.

This year's school board discussed tentative plans to build a new school in the Byron Street area on the east side of the river.

Quell Garbage Truck Blaze

TRENTON — Firemen were surprised early when a large garbage truck, nearly a smoke from all sides raced down King street and came to a screaming stop in front of the Central Equipment was quickly assembled and the blaze was soon quenched.

It was understood that the fire was caused by smoldering coals in a load of garbage collected by the garbage men on Dufferin street.

The truck — and the garbage — received minor damage.

RAINS BRING DISASTER

BOGOTA, Colombia (Reuters) — Ten persons died and thousands of rains struck Manizales in West Colombia Tuesday. The victims were drowned or buried by landslides.

Suggests CLC Heads Live on Jobless Pay

OSHAWA (CP) — An Oshawa Labor Council executive official suggested Tuesday night that Canadian Labor Congress executives be put on unemployment insurance for a few weeks to make them fight unemployment harder.

William Rutherford said executives should do more than travel the banquet circuit speaking to service clubs.

A member of the United Automobile Workers (CLC), Mr. Rutherford spoke at a meeting of the council. He is a member of the council's executive board.

"Maybe it would decrease their waistlines, but it would put them in the forefront against unemployment."

Fine Job at Fire-Fighting

There was little about Monday's fire at the City Hall to remind one of the heroic picture of the fire-fighter which fits childish dreams—"fire, fire, fire, raging all about." But that does not mean that the firemen did not do a good job. Quite the reverse. They arrived to put the fire out before it could reach its spectacular stage—but certainly not before it had reached the dangerous stage.

The wisps of thin smoke which swirled up from basement doorways did not provide true evidence of the state of things below. A walk through the basement late Monday afternoon, when the last spark had been quenched, provided startling evidence of how close Belleville was to losing its venerable City Hall. Stout joists were charred for many feet—in several places burned right through. The wonder is not that the fire did eat its way into one ground-floor office, but that the flames did not reach the walls and race up from basement to clock-tower.

"Lucky" was how the firemen described their winning fight. But of course there was more than luck to this victory. Most important was their prompt arrival on the scene, but only slightly less so was the experience and training which enabled them to take prompt and precisely the best steps. Perhaps it may be said they were lucky that there should be an old doorway in the mayor's office, which they could chop through so that streams of water could be directed down the length of the joists, back towards the furnace, where the fire apparently originated. But it took experience and knowledge to grasp the opportunity which this provided.

It was not a spectacular job of fire fighting—but for that very reason all the more praiseworthy. The firemen earned their money by the next best thing to prevention—a quick cure before the situation became obviously serious.

Kennedy Picks His Team

President-elect John Kennedy has now chosen his state department team. Of all the positions in his cabinet, these are by far the most important as far as the other nations of the world are concerned. It is to be expected that Kennedy will himself play an important role in deciding foreign policies, but the men whom he has selected not only give a hint as to the direction of his thinking but also will assuredly wield considerable influence on him in the four years which lie ahead.

In Dean Rusk, the man selected as secretary of state, Kennedy has a man who served as assistant secretary of state under President Truman. He thus has prior experience in the state department.

Better known to most Canadians is Chester Bowles, under-secretary of state. His political connections date back to the days of Franklin Roosevelt.

Best known of the trio of foreign affairs experts named by Kennedy was his choice for ambassador to the United Nations, Adlai Stevenson. Stevenson had been offered the post earlier and had asked for time to consider. He widely believed that he wished to learn who would be secretary of state, his superior. His acceptance, therefore, would seem to indicate that he approves of the choice of Rusk for this post, a fact which will be considered an important point in Rusk's favor by many throughout the world who do not know enough about Rusk himself to form a firm judgment regarding him.

In Rusk, Bowles and Stevenson, one would expect Kennedy has selected a team which will likely eschew tripes to the brink, which will know how to be conciliatory without being soft and firm without being aggressive. Indeed, Kennedy himself seems to have set the atmosphere for the coming years at the state department when he declared he hoped the administration's foreign policy would become identified as being "for freedom," rather than simply "against Communism." Not all the forces which oppose Communism espouse freedom and perhaps the coming years will see the U.S. free itself from some of the entangling alliances with right-wing dictatorships which now so frequently embarrass it and its friends.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A WORD ABOUT RECOVERY

For one day each year the Christian Church opens its tomb-like doors and lets the body over the fact that Jesus arose from the dead. That one day is Easter Sunday. Then for the rest of the year the doctrine of the resurrection is carefully wrapped up and laid on the shelf. This custom is recent in origin. The Lord's life is meant to be celebrated, sung about, preached about and exclaimed over for one day each year — then after that, silence.

But this is not as the Bible would have it. Few people realize that the tremendous growth of the Christian Church in the first century was largely due to the message of the resurrection. A man had been crucified in Jerusalem and had risen from the dead. Surely this must be the Son of God. In the light of that body over the fact that Jesus resurrection men walked gallantly through the early Christian centuries. They suffered persecution and what is more they suffered death gladly. They were so filled with a sense of the living presence of Jesus Christ that otherwise mattered not even terror and death.

Too much the modern church has become a thing of organization, of creeds, of programs. Too little is it a valiant group of spiritual comrades marching through life with a banner flying over them on which is written the words, "He is risen."

We shall recover the power of the early Christian Church when we recover its message.

Solar Energy

BY HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

ARTICLE 3

The Sun has been a fascination for man throughout the ages. It has even been worshipped as a god and has been the cause of everything from radio interference to British bathing suits. The Sun can continue to provide power to mankind in the form of Solar Energy for the next 30 billion years or so.

Solar Energy simply means power derived from the Sun's light which is received here on earth.

There are limits to the Energy resources found on Earth in terms of coal, gas, oil and so forth, and in truth there is a limit to the light of the Sun, for it is using up 4 1-2 million tons of its mass every second in order to give off the radiation which it does, nevertheless, even at that rate, the Sun is likely to last another 30 billion years.

Because Solar Energy is relatively inexhaustible it may offer at some time and in some areas a substitute for the Earth's energy resources.

The problems of harnessing solar energy require a great deal of scientific research in order to overcome many difficulties. However, in the future, it is quite possible that one may find the Sun's energy under two headings: (1) the area relating to heat; (2) the area relating to light.

Everyone is well aware of how hot the Sun can get on a summer day and perhaps we all have heard the saying: "the sidewalk was so hot you could fry an egg on it." In this statement is true, it indicates that the heat from the Sun's radiation and thereby has become hot itself. Scientists, realizing this simple fact, have constructed what are called solar energy collectors in place of the sidewalks, which act in much the same way. Very simply, the idea of such a collector is quite basic and stems from the fact that dark materials absorb heat better than light or shiny materials. Therefore, a collector consists of a black surface which is protected by a transparent glass or plastic. The glass or plastic prevents the heat being lost by the surface, which is prevented from circulating air or by the outward radiation of heat. Therefore, a collector consists of a black surface which is protected by a transparent glass or plastic. The glass or plastic prevents the heat being lost by the surface, which is prevented from circulating air or by the outward radiation of heat. In this way, the black surface material becomes quite hot.

The next step is to transfer the heat of the collector into electricity. This can be done in two ways. If this heat is applied to water, the water, for example, will boil and give off steam. If this steam is then channelled through what is called a turbine, it will turn a wheel. The wheel in turn drives what is called a generator and when a generator is turned it provides electricity. Why it creates electricity, is not important (and frankly no one knows the answer).

Collectors, of course, will vary in size and design. Some will utilize mirrors to collect and reflect additional heat to the black material.

STORAGE BIG DIFFICULTY

One of the most serious problems to be solved regarding solar energy is storage. In how to store the heat, so that there can be energy and heat during periods of cloud or when may obstruct the amount of sunlight available, for example, during winter remains for a long period of time. The amount of sun radiation would be much less than in summer when there is always simply isn't "the usual mixture of sun and occasional wispy clouds" of which people (including teen-agers who many seldom both) feel the same way as I do, about the "sun-down" of K.B.W. radio station Buffalo.

I know that thousands of people listen to Listen to Kenny Kay, including myself and we are entirely in agreement that it is run, it is true, there is a bit too much news and advertising but it is run by someone who isn't "the usual mixture of sun and occasional wispy clouds" of which people (including teen-agers who many seldom both) feel the same way as I do, about the "sun-down" of K.B.W. radio station Buffalo.

Farmers' Union ...eetings Held At Many Centres

During the week of December 5th, local meetings were held at Carnell, Springbrook, Cooper and Roslin.

Canvass of farmers preceded each meeting and although the weather was cold, attendance was good. Others remains some canvassing to be completed in some areas.

The meetings heard Frank Gamble from Grey County speaking on the growth and activities of the movement since its origin.

Farmers are now divided into commodity groups each with its own policy and financing, promoting such policy and activity pertaining to the product regardless of other groups or marketing boards. The people have become so confused that they have given up in disappointment over the number of different policies and the lack of concern for each other. Agriculture must have one voice and one overall policy. If it ever hopes to achieve any of the aims and ambitions first promoted.

The Roslin meeting was a review of the meetings which were held by the various locals in the county, during the week.

The County of Hastings meeting, was held at Roslin, on Friday evening as a county gathering to assess the progress up-to-date and arrange for further activity.

The meeting opened under the chairmanship of Harold Murphy and the business period dealt with such topics as the coming International Plowing Match, hospitalization, group insurance and membership interests.

Presidents of the various locals in the county were called on to give an account of activities in their locals. Roslin Local president, Mr. Lorne Mackenzie, also welcomed the gathering to his local's meeting held by the local presidents reporting were: Tweed — Mr. John Hartley; Marysville — Mr. Bernard Murphy.

The guest speaker, Mr. Frank Gamble, past Ontario Farmer's Union secretary-treasurer since its early years of inception in Ontario, opened his address by reviewing the meetings he had held in Hastings County during the week. He stated that the enthusiasm of the members in the various locals throughout the County was good but on canvassing the farmers outside the union, they gave him the impression they were too busy with the everyday life of a farmer to take some time off and take a peek at what was happening to himself in this world of faith, hope and disparity.

Commenting on the growth of the Union in Ontario, since its early days, Mr. Gamble painted a picture in the minds of the audience of those few first union members who put up a stake on the horizon with the words "Parity Prices," on it, as their goal. Since that time, much opposition has been encountered both inside and outside the membership, but that stake still remains — the words "Parity Prices" for all, getting brighter as the years pass. The institution of the principles of deficiency payments, he felt, was helping the farmer draw nearer the stake, but a great deal had to be accomplished before the horizon disappears.

During the discussion period quite a number of topics were thrown sweet on — such as creating interest for members to get them out to the meetings, farm union policy, fame, the present fashion of co-operators, the life membership of the Farmer's Union and so on.

Following the discussion period, the chairman on behalf of the guest speaker and summarizing his remarks stated that Hastings County was pleased with some outstanding union workers over the years — each with a different slant on presentation to the farmers' position in the world today, and why the average family farm needs a strong grassroots organization.

To mention a few there are the Cormacks; the Millers; the Hutchinsons; the Provers; the Hopkins; the Parkers and now the Cambles, with his stake, has left a keen impression on the minds of the farmers of Hastings County.

The motion of adjournment by Lorne Mackenzie terminated the meeting.

The ladies finalized the evening with the farmers' bedtime snack.

Injured Miner Clings to Life

TORONTO (CP)—Alan Rose, on the brink of death for days with injuries from a mine cave-in, remained alive early today.

Doctors who gave up hope for his life during the weekend said his condition this morning was unchanged from Tuesday. He was in a coma.

The 38-year-old plumber from Manchester, England, was trapped in a cave-in at Timmins Nov. 30. He suffered internal injuries, and his right foot was amputated Friday.

New Members Join Two Hi-Y Clubs Tuesday

Twenty-eight new members were accepted into the Hi-Y Clubs of Belleville duringan initiation ceremony held yesterday evening at the local YMCA. The ceremonies were held in the "Y" auditorium.with a number of parents and guests in attendance to see 15 girls become members of the Beta Kappa Hi-Y Club of BCIVS and the admittance of 15 girls into the Belleville Girls' Hi-Y Club.

The new members bring both clubs up to their allotted strength of 25 members each. To date the two clubs, affiliated with the BCIVS, are the only Hi-Y Clubs in this city. There is an opportunity for others to be started as the other high schools in the area.

Although the club meetings are held at the local "Y", each club must be affiliated with some secondary school, with its members coming from that school's student body. A staff member acts in an advisory capacity for each club.

The two local clubs are quite active. A number of projects are undertaken each year to raise money. These include two dances, a penny-by the boys, a fashion show by the girls and ushering at church functions. From time to time other means of raising funds are devised since there is a very active service program conducted by the clubs.

Over the past year the two clubs at BCIVS have revamped and modernized the team locker and equipment rooms; they also did have made financial contributions to the Red Cross program of the "Y" and the Belleville United Appeal; addressed the Christmas Seal distribution envelopes for the local TB Association, aided sponsors the annual Mr. and Miss BCI contest.

Besides there and other useful activities the members also plan an annual trip to Toronto over February to some event. This year the members are hoping to go to Ottawa on a tour of the O'Keefe Centre. This trip is sponsored entirely by the members, with each paying his way.

In addition to school and community activities the local members are advised by Bert Barbour and Miss Margaret Snell of the B.C.I. teaching staff, as well as the regular staff members at the Belleville Y.M.C.A.

HIGH STANDARDS

The membership in the local Hi-Y Clubs, in fact in any Hi-Y Club, is dependent upon a boy or girl maintaining good grades at school work and in upholding the principles of the Hi-Y movement. These principles involve the creation of high standards of Christian character within oneself and the extension of ideals through one's school and community by way of humility and service.

The Hi-Y Clubs, of which there are 150 in Canada, with 3,500 members (the largest high school youth organization in Canada), have what they call a "four-square platform of living." This platform includes good sportsmanship, playing the game fairly and squarely to the fullest extent within the spirit of the rules; clean speech, expressing one's thoughts in proper language; clean scholarship, through constant attention to one's studies rather than cribbing for exams or trying to bust make the grade; and clean living, through respect for one's body, one's home life and the high ideals of Christian life.

It was to this sort of living that 28 new Hi-Y members dedicated themselves yesterday evening in the impressive candlelight initiation ceremony conducted by Gordon Parker and Vicki Wheeler, presidents of the Beta Kappa and Belleville Girls' Hi-Y Clubs respectively. Membership pins were presented to the new members by faculty advisers.

The induction ceremony was preceded by a banquet at which the Rev. M. G. MacFarlane of Tabernacle United Church was the guest speaker. His topic was "Creative Leadership."

Police Chief Gives Advice To City Christmas Shoppers

Twenty-one to businessmen, householders and shoppers aimed at making this Christmas as safe and free as possible, were issued today by Belleville Police Chief R. W. Probert.

Chief Probert pointed that with Christmas shopping now nearing its peak, the Yuletide upswing of crime might also be expected to reach a peak, particularly in days of unemployment conditions.

The tips are:

1. Salesclerkers are attracted to large stores because of increased sums in their safes. Keep as little as possible on hand.

2. Make deposits in night depositories after banking hours.

3. Make sure the safe in the store can be seen from the street.

4. Large firms should have trusted employees visit their offices during the weekends. But first notify the station that the employee will be doing this.

5. Report any suspicious persons in or around stores.

6. Make sure screws on door locks haven't been loosened.

7. If possible keep stores well lighted outside and inside.

8. Hijacking of trucks is prevalent at Christmas. Make sure they are locked. If trunks can't be kept locked hire a helper.

9. Keep valuable furs and jewellery out of shop windows after closing hours Furs can be fastened to mannequins

10. Beware of customers making requests which take long attendants away from front of the store.

11. Watch for prowlers around your property.

12 Wallets are safer in inside pockets.

13. Don't lay your purse on counters because pickpocketes are waiting to strike in Christmas shopping crowds

14. If an attempt is made to snatch your purse in the street, scream as loudly as possible.

15. Place parcels in your car out of sight. Parcels left on seats invite theft.

16. With presents in homes, housebreaking is more lucrative at Christmas. Keep lights on when out and even the radio playing helps.

17. Don't let persons into your house unless they can identify themselves to your satisfaction. Thieves are posing as waterworks and hydro inspectors.

10,000-Mile Nonstop Flight Is Completed

EDWARDS AFB, Calif. (AP)—A United States Air Force B-52G jet bomber landed today after a 10,000-mile nonstop flight without refuelling, breaking two world long distance flight records, the air force announced.

The first jet of the eight-plane bomber was aloft 19 hours, 43 minutes after taking off at 7:07 a.m. Tuesday from the runway on which it landed.

It was flown on a closed circuit course to El Paso, Tex.; Andrews AFB, Md.; Harmon Air Base, Newfoundland; Ellelson AFB, Fairbanks, Alaska; Phillip, S.D., and back here.

Col. Thomas Grissom, 36, Rapid City, S.D., commanded the plane and a seven-man crew on the flight.

Public School Board Balks At Requiring 60 Per Cent Local Labor for All Jobs

While appreciating the desirability of a high percentage of local labor being used in school construction projects, members of the Belleville Public School Board this week failed to give full approval to a Belleville and District Labor Council request asking that this be a stipulation when future contracts are considered.

The letter from the Trades and Labor Council was read at the December meeting of the board held Monday evening. It asked that the board stipulate that a minimum of 60 per cent local labor be used when future contracts were awarded.

Although failing to go along with the request, members said they appreciated the desirability of as much local labor as possible being used and promised to keep the matter in mind.

(Last night a similar request from the Trades and Labor Council was before the Bay of Quinte District High School Board. Members agreed to go along as far as possible but noted any action would have to comply with the practice of accepting lowest tenders.)

This week's meeting of the board was the final regular session of the year. The inaugural meeting for next year will be held January 9th.

Attending Monday's meeting were Chairman James Ritchie and members Bruce Bowerman, Francis Clarke, Gordon Hutchinson, Lyle Langabeer, Morley Loveless, Nelson McKibbon, Roy Smith, G. M. Trill, William Stevenson, W. A. VanTassell and Dr. J. Russell Scott.

The meeting was devoid of any contentious items and only routine matters were included on the agenda.

Installation of a water conditioning service for the Hillcrest school was approved by the board at a cost of $206. Part of the water requirements for the Hillcrest area school are obtained from a well on the remainder being supplied by tank truck from the city. City water mains do not extend to the Crescent area school.

Maximum salaries for school maintenance workers were increased by $10 per month. Maintenance workers had requested an increase in minimum salaries of $50 from $250 to $300 and the maximum rate. However, after reviewing maintenance salaries paid by the high school board and also by the city, board members found salaries currently being paid to maintenance men were in line.

Authorization was given for the purchase of new woodworking machines for the Sidney Mary School industrial arts department and also for consideration to be given to the replacement of similar machines at the Queen Alexandra School. Cost of the new equipment could run to about $1,500.

Mr. Thomas Simpson, manager of the local branch of the Bank of Commerce, was re-named as public school representative on the Bay of Quinte District High School Board.

Current accounts of $63,761.31 including $23,657.49 in payroll, were approved for payment.

12 Feared Dead

ZONGULDAK, Turkey (AP) — Twelve miners were feared dead and 35 believed trapped early today in a coal mine blast in this Black Sea coast city.

Emergency aid was rushed from nearby communities in the area which is Turkey's coal producing belt.

The miners were trapped just before dawn when gas exploded several hundred feet under ground.

Solar Energy

sis reaction without an appreciable loss of energy which, as was stated, is a problem in the area of heat. In short, sunlight is stored there is some loss, when heat is stored, there is considerable loss.

Though research development of Solar Energy, it is in its initial stages and requires more scientific and cultural attention. Its potential is vast. With the distinct possibility of a decline in the present world supply of traditional energy resources, every avenue which may lead to obtaining additional sources of energy must be investigated, for energy is the latch key to the future in a way in which it never was in the past. Where there is abundant energy, there will be found a high standard of living, where energy is scarce, one will find poverty, disease and ignorance.

At present, Solar Energy as a source of power is not considered in its infancy, but it will in all likelihood be the years to come play a major role in resolving the world's energy demands.

To be Continued.

CUBANS MISSING

TORONTO (CP) — Four Cubans, here on a trade mission, checked out of their hotel Tuesday leaving no word as where they intended to go or could be reached. Livestock dealers had expected the Cubans to look at cattle, sheep and swine.

Accident Victim Dies, Refuses Transfusion

VICTORIA (CP)—A member of the Jehovah's Witness faith died in hospital Tuesday night after refusing a blood transfusion.

David Cory, about 40, was admitted to St. Joseph's Hospital suffering shock after being involved in an automobile accident at nearby Sooke.

A hospital spokesman said the case will have to await an autopsy before it is determined whether a transfusion would have saved the man's life.

Nativity Pageant Reverently Presented by O.S.D. Students

With beautiful simplicity and reverent earnestness the students of the Ontario School for the Deaf presented for the 20th time, the old, old but ever new story of the "Nativity," to a packed auditorium on Monday evening. At each presentation there is a subtle difference, but the wonderful theme remains ever the same.

This time there was less pomp but more restrained emotion, with deep realism, taking one back 2,000 years to that glad night on the Judean Hills when the lonely shepherds heard the "Glad tidings of great joy" that a Saviour was born, Christ, the Lord.

The "Nativity," as presented follows the Bible narrative, and was adroitly arranged and directed by Miss Helen Keeler, whose artistic talent found wide scope in its portrayal. She was assisted in the musical portions and dialogue by Mr. S. Alec Gordon, also a teacher at the school. Mrs. Ben Graham was responsible for the make-up, while Jack Cooper acted as stage manager, with John Wright assisting. The incidental music, which accompanied each of the five scenes, was, for the most part, of the century and rendered by the ladies chorus, staff members of the school.

TWO PARTS

The program consisted of two parts; part one included the chairman, Mr. J. G. Demeza, superintendent's brief address, who welcomed the guests, especially those present for the first time, of which there were many. He pointed out the purpose of presenting the "play-ivity" pageant. Primarily it was to dramatize the story for the boys and girls of the School, also mentioning that some children who are either born deaf or develop deafness at an early age are handicapped by having no vocabulary, as children learn by hearing. When a child enters the School at five years of age he or she is 2,000 words behind hearing children, in that he has to learn a vocabulary. It is the privilege of the School to assist these deaf ones to take their rightful place in society.

SILENT NIGHT

The intermediate students presented the Rhythm Band, "Christmas Fantasy" with Mr. Graham at the piano, which included such old favorites as "Jingle Bells." Two carols were sung during this prologue, "Away in a Manger," and "Silent Night, Holy Night." Mr. Roger Rawlings of the staff, also favored with a delightful baritone solo, "He Came as a Babe from Heaven," (Humphreys.)

The second portion began with the "Annunciation" scene, showing the Virgin Mary slowly and reverently going to her devotions, her arrival, and the quiet appearance of the annunciation angel as he unfolds to her the marvelous event in which she has part. The humble costume of the Virgin added greatly to the lifelike realistic effect. Immediately preceding this scene with its deep violet color lighting, the ladies' chorus sang a 15th century German carol, and during the angel's visit, the "Magnificat," which was followed by "Ave Maria," the most reverently rendered by Mrs. A. Davidson.

SCRIPTURE NARRATION

A Scripture reading, setting forth the story of the coming scene, was given by Bruce Gregory, whose narration was most praiseworthy, both in its reverence and clarity, (it might be noted that Bruce is hard of hearing, but responds to the handicap), has attended the School for some time). Another clerical element was quite intriguing with the part.

All through the succeeding scenes, which included the "Arrival At the Inn," when Joseph heard the sad news that there was no room available, he turns humbly seeking charity, seeking the stable for his espoused wife (Mary), thereafter, the group of shepherds warming themselves around the little fire of coals on the bleak Judean hills, their strange, expectant looking into the dark sky as if waiting for something; the sudden appearance of the little shepherd telling of a strange light; the arrival of the angel bringing the glad tidings; King Herod's court, with the scribes, those with intimate knowledge of the Scriptures, the High Priest in his sacrodotal vestments, the arrival of the Wise Men and their inquiry regarding the new-born King; Herod's consternation (let his money-making intent, be wrested from him, the ignorance of the High Priest, who should have known the prophecy, who did not, all were most vividly portrayed, each one showing his own peculiar embarrassment. One wonders if the people today are any different from those of early times?

They did not remember the prophecy of the Messiah's first advent, even as today, how many remember that of the Messiah's second advent, which is told far more times in the Scriptures than that of His first.

Then the great Nativity scene is wonderful finale most beautifully given with Mary and Joseph, and the Babe; the adoring shepherds; the little cherubim raised about the Baby Kiner; the arrival of the Magi with their precious gifts, of gold, denoting kingship, frankincense, denoting sacrifice, and myrrh denoting death, and finally the adorning angels in white robes, and the singing of "We Three Kings," Adeste Fidelis", and "Christian, Awake" and then, blending all, the clear voice of the narrator from the high balcony ringing out, "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life", completed a picture not soon forgotten.

So lovely solos were rendered during the pageant, "Ave Maria" by Mrs. A. Davidson, sung "O Holy Night", by Miss Ila Dennis.

The cast in order of appearance, Narrator, Bruce Gregory; Mary, Bernice Spence; Angel, June Casselman; Joseph, Ivan Zenon Stuz, Eugene Fowler, Roman soldiers, Lorne Gibson, Bob Press; Inn Keeper —Roland Dube; Tax Payers, James Henderson, Douglas McConnell, Rudolfs Lacis; Joseph, Gilbert Lillie; Shepherds, Wayne Brady, Richard Clark, Gary Davidson, Mike McLellanaier, Melvin Lapinsky, Dan Richardson, Clarke Ward; young shepherd, Rusty Clarke; Herald Angel, Jean Show; Heavenly Host: Mary Ann Care, Carolyn Cousins, June Bowden, Janette Morgan, Beth Wright, Jime Rundle, Elaine Bennett, Jean Lamphier, Lee Hunter, Pauline Twohirbar, King Herod, Gerald Sullivan; High Priest, William Cosley; Aide, Roy, Billy Gregory; Scribes: Richard Salkey, Tommy Marwood, Slave Girls, Karen Lee, Kerry Dwyer; Wise Men, Bruce Fisher, Adrian Alnsworth, Bill O'Neill; Cherubs, Sandra Berlin, Suzanne Fleury, Paul Petrie, Ronnie McLeod; Heavenly Host, Ronnie Cunningham, Lee Hunter, Beth Wright, Annabelle Cronk, June Braden, Mary Ann Cox, Pauline Twohirbart, Elizabeth Spark, June Petrie, Beverly Clayton, Janette Morgan, Gloria Schneider, Jean Lambert, Elaine Bennett, Carolyn Cousins.

Club Activities

BETHEL-ZION 4-H CLUB

The fifth meeting of the Wood-Woodettes was held at the home of Ada Woodcock with 11 members and both leaders present.

Special mention was made of this home economist, Miss Lambert who will be a special guest at the next meeting which is to be held at the home of Diane Cronkwright on December 10th, at 8.30 a.m.

A discussion followed on the making of a bag or handbag, kits and the general matters of receiving different gifts.

A demonstration on how to press seams and darts was given by members of the group.

The home assignments included working on the record book; sewing on skirts and to bring to next meeting a small piece of woollen material for group work.

FOR FAMILIES

Family allowances were inaugurated in Canada by act of parliament July, 1944, and were first paid in July, 1945.

Keen Age Club Holds Party, Elects Officers

The Keen Age Club of Tabernacle United Church held its annual birthday Christmas party in the church parlors on Monday evening, celebrating its 13th birthday.

After a most delightful smorgasbord which was convened by the refreshment committee, there was a short business meeting. The money on hand was alloted to the different church committees thus winding up the financial year. It was noted that this club had a most successful year and that there have been five new members join the group in that time.

The new officers for 1961 were installed by the church secretary, Miss Ethel Horton: president, Marion Salisbury; vice-president, Margaret Stansfield; 2nd vice-president, Clara Lathanger; secretary, Betty Lord; treasurer, Audrey Davies; devotional, Kit Corbish; program convener, Mabel Whiting; welfare, Isabelle Goodfellow; business committee, Gwenn O'Brien, Mildred McClelland; catering committee, Gwen May, Doris Aldrich, Grace Whitkinson, Stella Burley; press reporter, Helen McCann; missionary and maintenance reporter, Jenny Mulvey; manse, Stella Burley; Wurlitzer committee, Lloyd Wiley, Beryl McIlmeter; official board, Stella Burley.

A program was arranged by Margaret Stansfield which included carol singing by the group, a lovely solo by Helen McCann with Myrtle Day accompanying on the piano; a trio, including Margaret Stansfield, Grace Williamson and Gwenn O'Brien, and a reading by the president, Stella Burley, entitled, "A Secret about Christmas Is:"

Prizes were distributed to the members, completing the Christmas party.

United Church W.A. Groups Meet Jointly

WELLINGTON — The United Church W. A. Christmas and evening groups of the WMS and the CGIT group met together, in Wellington, on Tuesday for their Christmas meeting. Mrs. H. Pierson, Mrs. W. Hamel, and Miss V. Valleau of the respective groups presided, with Mrs. J. McNeill at the piano. After the worship service led by Miss Valleau, a brief period of business was conducted.

A most interesting film strip entitled, "Each with His Own Brush", was shown. This film depicted the life of Jesus as interpreted by various Asian, African and Chinese artists, with Juano Hernandez as narrator. Mrs. Bernard Hernandez has appeared in various motion pictures. "Intruder in the Dust", "Stars in my Crown" and others.

CHRISTMAS CUSTOMS

Mrs. H. Nash was narrator for the balance of the program in which the various customs of Christmas in other lands were enacted. Germany's "Festival of the Family", which takes place the fourth Sunday before Christmas, was depicted by little Rita Pierson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Pettingill who lit the Advent wreath candles and sang "Silent Night". Mrs. E. Bond read the Christmas story according to the Bible. Sweden's festival of friendship was depicted by Carol Allison, one of the CGIT girls, as St. Lucia, who refused to marry a pagan. She was dressed in white with the traditional crown of green, entwined with red candles. Mrs. A. Gorham, in choir gown, sang the "Sweden Song of the Night". The Festival of "Lights of India" was enacted by Mrs. Arnold Foster, as the mother, in Indian sari, and with Connie Allison, Nancy Foster, Caroline Pettingill and Brenda Adams as the children, gathered about the table centred with the Christmas candles. They sang and read of the "Heavenly Child".

Mrs. Jack McNeill concluded the program by singing the lovely solo, "Star of the East".

Refreshments were served.

Warsaw Women Crowd In Store to Get Clothes

By DAVID SELLS

WARSAW, Poland (Reuters)— To judge by the crowds of women elbowing their way through the racks of dresses, the store might be selling Christian Dior gowns at $10.98.

In fact, most Western women would turn up their noses at the selection on display on the top floor of Warsaw's central department store. But it is the only place in the city where Polish women can get ready - made clothes at prices within their reach.

The store is a converted restaurant which once was the haunt of drunks, thieves and prostitutes. The clothes are hung on pegs on racks with little attempt to catch the customers' attention.

But the women flock in.

Until the "fashion salon" opened, women who wanted anything the least bit fashionable had to buy the material and hire dressers at a fee considerable cost.

The salon was opened to give the average Polish woman with some taste a chance to choose from buy dresses, blouses, skirts, suits and coats. To a point, the new department is successful, but many women have to search for suitable items.

SOILED BY HANDS

Some summer dresses are still on display in the salon, and often been badly soiled by handling. Most of the winter dresses on sale are markedly unfashionably cut.

But if a woman searches long enough, she can often single out some well-tailored items to buy.

The choice is scarcely as described as bargains in terms of Polish existence. A decent coat costs between 1,800 and 1,950 zlotys in a country where the average monthly pay of an industrial worker is about 1,650 zlotys. Much of the buying is on credit.

The salon puts on fashion shows every week, displaying elegant clothes to attract new customers. The dresses and suits shown never seem to be available for sale.

But Warsaw's women are used to disappointment after years of shortage. They keep coming back to the salon, hoping some day to be able to buy the fashionable clothes the store keeps tempting them with.

Legion LA. Holds Yule Party, Dance

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Belleville branch, of the Canadian Legion, held its annual Christmas party last Friday, with members of the branch and their wives as guests.

Dancing to the music of Mr. Charlie Thorn and Mrs. Annabell Hardwick was enjoyed by all. Mr. Jack Young, the caller for the square dances.

The hall was prettily decorated in keeping with the Christmas season.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Grace Burfoot the convenor of the evening and her committee.

On Saturday afternoon the members of the Auxiliary's children were entertained at the hall with Santa Claus visiting the younger ones while the older children partook of afternoon tea, taking in a show at the Park theatre.

Before Santa arrived with a gift for all the small kiddies they enjoyed singing Christmas carols led by Mrs. B. Bradford and Mrs. Irene Reed, at the piano. Mr. George Gulliver entertained the children with his accordion.

The arrival of Santa was exciting and he sang carols with the children, after which they all received a lovely gift.

Many thanks are due Mrs. Irene Reed and her committee who convened this most enjoyable day.

CGIT Elect 1960-1 Officers

CAMPBELLFORD — The last meeting of 1960 was held on December 1st, in the auditorium, beautifully decorated for Christmas, including a Christmas tree. The CGIT girls and leaders had a most interesting candlelight service which made a wonderful beginning for the month.

Hymn 68, "Angels from the Realms of Glory" was sung followed by silent prayer, in memory of Hattie Hawthorne, who passed away November 30, and was a vice - president of the auxiliary. President Ruth Holmes led in prayer.

During the regular business, several reports were read and adopted and correspondences was read. Joyce Dunlop, treas. Fay. Gertie Hartford, Louise Moore and Mary Green gave reports on the five groups.

It was announced that the location had been extended. Zella Bull, reporting for the Baby Band, said that the next meeting would be on December 14th, the second Wednesday of the month as usual. A small gift was given each of the nine members with perfect attendance for the year. Zella Bull and Gertie Cochrane volunteered to audit the books. Ruth Holmes expressed her thanks to all the leaders, also to Dr. Smith and Mr. Bates, for all the support and assistance received during the year.

June Bennett read the nominating report and Dr. Smith conducted the installation and dedication of the following officers: honorary president— Mrs. Dr. E. M. Smith; past president — June Bennett; president — Ruth Holmes; 1st vice - president — Greta Anne; 2nd vice-president— Daisy Reid; 3rd vice - president — Ona Reyerft; secretary — Pat Irwin; treasurer — Helen Potts; pianist— Dorothy Thompson; assistant pianist — Jean Watson; corresponding secretary — Marian Kellogg; friendship secretaries — Gertie Cochrane, Louise Roane; flower fund — Jean Irwin; supply secretary — Mabel McMaster; temperance — Mary Green; Christian stewardship — Wilfred Mutton; press reporter — Bernice Adams; literature secretary — Edith Symonds; Baby Band superintendent — Zella Bull.

A committee was chosen to cater for a wedding dinner in December. The members of group 2, (the group with the most points), was called to the front and each received a bow for her hair. Groups 4 and 5 served a lovely lunch, provided by all but the winning group, who got it at a social table of their or at the front.

A social time was enjoyed by all.

Firemen Hold Yule Party

WELLINGTON — The Wellington firemen, christened the new meeting room, which they built at the rear of the fire hall, with a Christmas party for their wives and children.

About 40 enjoyed a social time together.

One of the high-lights of the evening was the tap dancing of Miss Bonnie Hayden of Bloomfield. The other high-light was the appearance of Santa Claus who arrived and distributed gifts and candy to all the children.

A lovely lunch was served by the ladies.

St. Andrew's WMS Appoints 1961 Officers

The W.M.S. of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church met in the church parlor Tuesday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. F. Parsons, opened the meeting with a Christmas song.

After the business of the day was discussed, Mrs. Parsons called on Mrs. W. H. Walker, Mrs. J. Miller and Mrs. W. Mills to take care of the devotional part. Mrs. Walker spoke on the great Christmas hymn written by Phillip Brooks, D. "O Little Town of Bethlehem," Mr. Brooks was inspired to write this hymn while visiting the Holy Land and going over the land where the Savior lived.

This was an inspiring message and enjoyed by all.

A duet, Harvest favored with a solo.

Mrs. A. D. MacLean installed the 1961 officers.

Mrs. W. Barlow thanked the group for its confidence in the election to the presidency and presentage of the retiring president. Mrs. P. Parsons, with a past president's pin.

Lunch was served by the group in charge.

The W.M.S. officers for 1961 are: hon. president, Mrs. A. D. MacLean and Mrs. W. H. V. Walker; president, Mrs. W. M. Barlow; 1st vice-president, Mrs. J. Darvel; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. W. H. V. Walker; secretary, Mrs. E. M. Sider; treasurer, Mrs. F. Parsons; home helper, Mrs. Membership, Mrs. W. Mason; press secretary, Mrs. H. Elvidge; pianist, Mrs. Bert Walker; prayer, Mrs. Tidings," Mrs. R. Jones; welcome and hostess, Mrs. D. Kane and Mrs. H. Yorke; literature, Mrs. Moody; card secretary, Mrs. C. Reed; supply secretary, Mrs. C. Barrager.

Women's Activities

ST. MARK'S A.O.

DESERONTO — The December meeting of St. Mark's Church was held in the parish hall on Thursday of last week. The president opened the meeting. Fifteen members answered the roll call.

In the absence of Mrs. Crabbe, Mrs. Travers gave the treasurer's report, which showed a favorable balance.

Mrs. Coleman advised the members that it was usual at this time of the year to give a donation to the wardens. A motion was passed that a cheque be issued to the wardens. A donation of $10 was made for the children's Christmas party. The secretary gave $10 from the petty cash to buy candies for the Sunday School soldier.

Mrs. Coleman closed the meeting with prayer.

The ladies then enjoyed their annual pot-luck supper from a table heaped with all kinds of wonderful foods, marvelously decorated. Mrs. Wabelin and Mrs. Coleman were hostesses and, on Christmas tablecloths, a Christmas novelty was used as a place card. A huge glass bowl filled with colored balls centred the table and candles gave a pleasant accent during the meal.

Three members of the choir sang carols.

After the supper, Canon Wake-

W.M.S.-W.A. Elect Officers

HOLLOWAY — The regular meeting of the W.M.S. and W.A. was held on the evening of December 7th, at the home of Mrs. Ernest Robson with 17 ladies in attendance.

The worship service was led by Mrs. Alvin Donaldson and was based on the theme — "The spirit of man is the candle of the Lord". The Scripture was chosen from Isaiah 9:2-4 and Psalm 18:28 and read by Mrs. John Robson.

In the W.A. part, Mrs. Freddie Wellman presided opening with the theme hymn, "Let the Beauty of Jesus Be Seen in Me". In the business, the treasurer, Mrs. John Robson reported $94.80 from catering at Hoard's Sales Barne. It was moved that the usual donation be given to the M. and M. fund, and also that the church caretaking expenses be paid. It was decided that those who had reports to make out and program planning to meet on the evening of January 2nd, at Mrs. Freddie Wellman's.

A letter was read from Mr. Leasley, in charge of the catering for next year's ploughing match, informing the ladies that they had been placed on the list.

An estimate on the decorating of the Church and basement, was submitted by Mrs. Roscoe Robson.

Mrs. John Wilson gave a Christmas reading "There Are Ways of Keeping Christmas" and also read a message from the Presbytery Christian Steward-ship secretary, which stated that the 1961 missionary, for prayer, was Miss F. Marion Hudgins, of Pincher Creek, Alberta.

Mrs. Davidson, president of the Women's Association of Belleville Presbytery, was a guest at the meeting and spoke about the two women's organization, joining W.A. and W.M.S. and which will be called United Church Women in 1962. It was moved unanimously that the W.M.S. and W.A. amalgamate and be called Holloway United Church Women.

SLATE OF OFFICERS

The nominating committee presented a slate of officers and they were elected as follows for 1961.

President — Mrs. Freddie Wellman; 1st vice — Mrs. Charles Hoffman; recording and corresponding secretary — Mrs. Harry McMullen; treasurer — Mrs. John Robson; M. and M. treasurer — Mrs. Alvin Donaldson; pianist — Mrs. Earl Snider; supply — Mrs. Kenneth McMullen; citizenship — Mrs. P. Q. Victoria H-S Assoc Hears Choir

A large number of parents were on hand for the Christmas meeting of Queen Victoria Home and School Association. After the parents had an opportunity to visit the classrooms, the meeting was held.

Mrs. J. Smith, the president, welcomed the many members present and conducted a short business period.

The room count was taken by Mr. H. R. Frink, the principal with the singers of Mrs. Lyons and Miss Harris being victorious.

The Rev. R. D. MacLean opened the Christmas program by reading from the gospel of St. Luke, the original Christmas story.

A girls' choir, comprised of pupils of Queen Victoria School to the platform and marched into the auditorium singing "Jingle Bells". Their voices were sweet and lovely, indeed a credit to their leader. The choir sang several Christmas selections with the history of each piece being given by various members of the choir.

Some of the girls of Mr. Frink's class gave a humorous choral reading entitled "An Old Maid's Prayer to Santa Claus."

A vote of thanks to those participating in the program was expressed by Mrs. T. Kuchta.

Mrs. Bell announced that the other choir from Queen Victoria School led by Mrs. Stuart would be heard over C.J.B.X. Wednesday evening.

Refreshments supplied by Mrs. Stuart's and Mr. Roblin's room were served during the social hour.

Christmas Concert

BETHEL CHAPEL

The annual Christmas concert was held at the Bethel Chapel, on Monday evening, with a large crowd attending.

Following the congregation singing carols, the older students enacted the Christmas story.

In turn, the beginners class filed on the stage to sing two hymns.

Mr. Parks, Sunday school superintendent, addressed the students and their parents. He was proud to announce a record attendance of 196, had been attained last Sunday.

Assisted by Mr. Parks, Mr. Belch distributed the prizes and awards. Miss Annis Culleden received the only perfect attendance prize.

Each student was presented with a gift and a bag of candy by their class teacher.

MELROSE W.I.

MELROSE—A gay festive spirit prevailed at the annual Christmas meeting of the Melrose W.I., which was held at the home of Mrs. S. Gerela with Mrs. W. Ekbury as co-hostess.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with the dominant colors of Christmas, red and green. Soft music pealed from the record-player as the visitors assembled and deposited their gifts under the tinselled tree where later on, they were distributed by the local teacher, Miss Marcie, who acted the part of Santa.

The president, Mrs. K. McMechan, opened the meeting with a reasonable poem and welcomed the members and visitors and thanked the hostess for opening her home.

During the business session a committee was formed to take charge of supplying some needy families in the community with Christmas treats and sundries.

Mrs. C. Weese reported the tentative plans thus far of East Hastings District, in catering to the Plowing Match next fall, in which all institute branches are taking part.

FINE PROGRAM

At this stage, Mrs. R. Fox took charge of the program and called on Mrs. A. Long, who capably dealt with the motto, "The best gifts we get are from those who have nothing but themselves to give." She stated while this is the season of giving material gifts that teachers, doctors, leaders and many more whom we have met, have left their gift or stamp of never-forgotten qualities. One everlasting monument was the translation of the Bible and truly there is "Joy To the World" in abundant evidence of self-giving, of hands clasped in friendship and of hearty good wishes. Mrs. J. Sherman quoted a poem, "Going Home for Christmas" by Edgar Guest, which was followed by a reading by Mrs. C. Stratton, "From A Roadside," which stressed the fact that Christmas is for children since the first Christmas brought in a new concept of the rights and significance of childhood.

All joined heartily in singing several favorite carols with Mrs. C. Bates Sr. as accompanist, on her guitar, after which Mrs. C. Hagerman gave a reading entitled "The Nicest Gift."

Mrs. Fox presented the topic for "Christmas," in which she traced the origin of Christmas carols, each of which, like the event it celebrates, has a nativity of its own. "O Little Town of Bethlehem" was composed by Phillip Brook, a beloved pastor who had visited the Holy Land, while "Silent Night" was written by Father Mohr of Austria. "Joy to the World" was written in 1719 by Isaac Watts, who was born in Southampton, England, while Charles Wesley, brother of John, the founder of Methodism, wrote the beloved carol, "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." Research into the origin of our carols continues but the magic of them remains undimmed. Around the world young and old respond to them, because they speak to all the Miracle of Christmas and the hope of "Peace On Earth, Good-Will Toward Men."

A jumbled word contest, "Gifts for Him," was won by Mrs. Earl Badgley, with Mrs. J. McFarlane winning second prize.

Mrs. R. Graham gave a most interesting demonstration on how to make a Christmas tree from foil wrap. She deftly shaped each patterned piece and placed them in rotation on a central spindle until they formed a radiant miniature tree which she decorated with tiny ornaments, resulting in a beautiful decoration for table-centre or mantle.

A bountiful lunch was served by the hostess and the committee in charge.

FOR VARIETY

A salad bowl can be livened with a variety of cut vegetables and a sprinkling of fresh herbs.

Remove Turkey's Wishbone And Get More Neat Cuts

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—If you want to get more of those neat slices of white meat from your next turkey, remove the wishbone before cooking.

"It does make quite a bit of difference," says Dorothy Batcheller, home economics director for the Poultry Products Institute of Canada Inc. "If the wishbone isn't removed, the meat has to be hacked away as best as possible."

To remove the bone, draw back the neck skin until it exposes the wishbone area. With a sharp knife or scissors, cut the meat down to the bone and away from it. Scissors can be used to cut the bone where it is anchored at the shoulder bones and at the top of the breastbone. Lift out and put the skin back.

"If you're sentimental about th. wishbone, dry it in the oven, decorate with holly and give to the family to wish on as usual."

If a frozen turkey is purchased, it may be thawed in the package in which it comes. To hasten thawing, put in a pan of cold water.

NEEDN'T BE STUFFED

Remove the package containing the giblets and check the cavity to make sure it is clean. Wipe with a damp cloth or run water through the bird, then wipe dry.

Turkey does not have to be stuffed. Flavor from the dressing does not penetrate more than one-half inch into the meat and the same effect can be obtained by sprinkling the cavity with salt and poultry dressing. If you don't stuff, deduct five minutes cooking time for each pound of turkey.

If stuffing is to be made, Miss Batcheller recommends four- or five - day - old bread. It's dry enough if it crumbles when rubbed together.

The easiest way to prepare bread crumbs is to cut the crusts off, then cut one-quarter to one-third of a loaf in a clean tea towel. Form a bag with the towel, hold firmly and rub. Allow one cup of dressing for each pound of turkey.

RUB WITH FAT

When the bird is ready for the oven, rub with melted fat and cover with a tent of aluminum foil tucked at the ends but open at the sides so that the heat can circulate. Put on a rack in a shallow pan.

If you do not own a large enough pan make the frame of heavy aluminum foil and set on a cookie sheet. If you do not own a rack, substitute crossed kitchen forks, jar rings or any kind of a trivet.

"Forget about the bird for the first half of the cooking time. Frequent peeking, lowers the oven temperature and prolongs cooking time," explains Miss Batcheller. Remove foil during the last half hour to allow the skin to crisp.

For a true roasted flavor, cook at 325 degrees. The turkey is done when the drumstick twists easily from side to side or when the bone slips easily inside the joint. If a meat thermometer is used it should register 190 degrees in the meat or 185 degrees in the stuffing.

If the bird is allowed to stand in a warm place for 15 or 20 minutes the juices have a chance to redistribute themselves and carving is easier.

Smartly Coated

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Soft, shadow-check woollen in taupe makes a coat that has many smart and desirable features.

One such is the small mink collar of matching tone that is removable so the coat can be worn with a scarf for more casual occasions. Its line is semi-fitted with a bubble-type skirt from the gathered sides.

The sleeves are bell-shaped, short and easy, as are sleeves on the majority of the newest coats.

Women's Activities

MELROSE W.M.S.

MELROSE — The regular monthly meeting of Melrose WMS was held at the home of Mrs. R. Demille on December 7th, with 11 present.

The president, Mrs. J. Milligan, was in the chair and opened the meeting with a hymn after which she led in prayer. Miss Margaret E. Bailey gave a paper, "A Few Thoughts On Advent." Mrs. R. Macfarlane gave the Scripture reading.

The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. Embury with Mrs. C. Milligan as group leader. The treasurer, Mrs. Roy Badgley, stated that the sum of $129 was on hand. A letter was read from Mrs. Davis.

FINE PROGRAM

The group leader, Mrs. C. Osborne, gave a brief talk on Christmas. Miss M. E. Bailey made a few remarks on the true spirit of Christmas. Mrs. H. McMechan read a poem, "Around the Manger." Mrs. R. Badgley read an account of a Korean Christmas. Mrs. N. Demille gave a reading, "Wise Men," and Mrs. K. McMechan, "Christmas In Other Lands." Mrs. E. Embury read, "Forgive Us Our Christmases" and Mrs. R. Macfarlane read an article, "Christian Christmas." Mrs. J. Milligan read, "Why Do You Like Christmas." Mrs. C. Milligan read an article, "How Strange A Warrior."

Mrs. C. Osborne thanked all who had helped in the program.

The president expressed the regret of all the members at losing such a valued member as Miss Margaret Bailey, who is leaving soon to reside in Belleville. Miss Bailey said she was sorry she could not continue attending the Melrose W.M.S.

Mrs. J. Milligan concluded by reading a poem.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. N. Demille, served lunch, and a social hour was spent by all.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychologist, three clergymen, editors and a woman's editor. Each article is a summary of a family disagreement presented to the Council. The Council deals with problems, major and minor, encountered by guidance counsellors and social workers.

Candace T. — His work keeps him away all week. I want him to quit.

Chester T. — Other women manage fine. Why is she such a baby?

Candace T.: Chet is a long-haul truckdriver and must often be away for days on a cross-country jobs. When we were first married I didn't mind these absenses too much, because I had my job to fill the days and I could use the evenings for me. The freedom was nice, and so was the light housekeeping I could get away with.

But now it's six years and three babies later. I need a husband around and the children need more than a weekend father. When Chet leaves early Monday morning for a five-day hitch, all I can think of is Friday night when he'll be back.

The worst time is evenings when I see the other husbands coming home for dinner. And all I do is finish up the children's housekeeper, get to some function after they're in bed, and call it a day.

I know Chet could get work that would enable him to come home nights. Not that he's made less money, the sacrifices would be worthwhile. He'd have some home life, and I wouldn't be so lonely.

Chester T.: Candy knew what she was in for when she married me. She even encouraged me to ask for this assignment during our engagement because the pay was almost double what I was making on local jobs, and we wanted to buy a small home.

I was proud of her "guts" in being willing to be alone so much of the time. I figured there's a real behavistic, a grown woman, not a baby who's afraid to stay by herself.

But now she's whimpering. I realize she gets out of most of the care of the babies and the house. But she's free to get a sitter and to go places during the week. And we do have a wonderful weekend. I'm sure Candy will admit that. I take over the kids almost 100 per cent. They're so glad to see me and I'm ga-ga over them.

She's just indulging in self-pity. I've asked her to patient. In our concern, after you've put in ten years of this rugged schedule you're in line for an office job.

The funny thing is that Tom, my relief man, tells me his wife won't let him change back. She loves having the week to herself. She's using the evenings to go to night school.

• • •

The Council: The T.'s design for living is indeed hard by a young wife with small children. But for a mature, self-reliant woman it can have some pleasant compensations and byproducts.

Candace is obviously over-looking the "good" side of the deal in her preoccupation with her role as weekday widow.

With five days in which she's the boss of her own schedule, she can have the leisure at most and plan long quiet evenings for rest, reading, study or having the neighbors in. No need to keep dinner hot; many of these can play with the children before their bedtime.

She can gather that through baby-sitters and relatives, Candace can get away if she wants to. That means a chance to make herself more interesting and attractive through acquiring new knowledge and skill. A home-helper to have foods for which a husband's needs every evening. In addition to her children's all day, hasn't this latitude for self-development.

But instead of adjusting the days to yield the greatest return of accomplishment, Candace goes into a robot-like trance where she tends the house and minds the children mechanically a n d centres all conscious attention on poor little me. What a dullard she must be turning into! And in what a hurry!

Since Chester holds out to her the chance that he may be able to change his long distance commitments duties in a few years, and since the present job is to be likes and...gets well paid for, Candace would be smart to keep complaining and use this period to build up her self-sufficiency so Chester can continue to be proud of her.

If he senses that she wants him around more because she's unable to fill her idle moments herself, he may balk at having to serve as a sort of babysitter by an overdependent wife. If Candace wants him to accept that office job when it's offered to him, she must act like a magnet and not a millstone.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagner Shaw

HOLIDAY ENTERTAINING CAN BE INEXPENSIVE AND FUN!

With Christmas so very near, many questions from readers have come in, most of them with the same plaintive wail. "How do I entertain groups of friends so they will really enjoy themselves, and at the same time manage to do it inexpensively?" This problem is particularly for a parent when unexpected guests descend on you, as frequently does during the holidays.

My answer to this question is the informal buffet luncheon or supper. It is easy and relaxed kind of serving that everyone enjoys, even the hostess! It can be done inexpensively and at the same time make your guests happy. Here are some ideas relative to serving buffet — or "help-yourself" style — meals.

What are the advantages of buffet service? Mainly that it's frigidly and enjoyable. The hostess may enjoy it too, because she does not have to spend her time running back and forth to the kitchen. It calls for simpler foods and fewer courses than the average dinner meal. It is less expensive, because simpler foods and accessories are needed. Foods can be prepared well in advance of the party and then placed on the table for the guests to help themselves.

Does this type of entertaining call for special foods? Not necessarily, but it is more convenient for the guests if the food selected is adapted to self service, with a minimum of knife and fork to run all over the plate. Also, it helps to have foods for which a knife is not necessary. For example, if you serve turkey or beef, be sure it is sliced in fairly small pieces before placing it on a platter on the table. Hot casserole dishes and salads are an excellent choice, because they can be prepared ahead of time. Buttered rolls, a simple but really served dessert and coffee may round out such a menu. What more could your guests want?

When is it proper to serve buffet (other than luncheon or supper)? This type of entertaining is appropriate for almost all occasions. Large breakfast on a Sunday morning, usually referred to as "brunch," is one time that this type of serving fits in perfectly. Also, for a late evening get-together, such as a supper after an evening of bridge or games.

What is the difference between this formal and informal buffet? Buffet style, by its very nature of self-service, is informal. But for a large party where known guests are present, it can be made to have a more formal approach. For example, at a wedding reception, servants stand at the table to serve the food, and the accessories are more elaborate.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Question: I got married recently and there has been a fight in the family ever since. We read your column all the time and I am wondering if you can settle this mess. I had a very small wedding. My mother insisted that I have my sister with whom I am not get along as my attendant, and that my brother act as best man. I refused to do this, and had a girl friend that I have known a n d loved for twenty years stand by for me. My husband had his best friend and his best man. Ever since, my mother has been furious and everything has been very unpleasant. Let me know who was right or wrong. If it was wrong, I will tell them. I'll see this better hearing it from you. Mrs. D. R., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: You are absolutely right. A bride always has the prerogative of choosing her attendants, and the bridegroom most certainly selects his best man. I think your mother is being very unfair in her attitude and she has been wrong from the beginning. To continue the argument after your marriage is unforgivable. Try to reason with her, and then drop the matter and refuse to discuss it further.

WASH AND WEAR

WENNIPEG (CP) — The creation of wash-wear wonders is "something the Canadian housewife has been waiting for," says Fred B. Herschel, assistant superintendent of West Coast Woolen Mills in Vancouver. He says the process is still so secret only three people know it.

More Christmas Cookies

By Mary Moore

My duty to my pupils and my duty to my granddaughter conflicted.

I was making little orange sandwich cookies (see below) and it was pouring rain so Sue was inside with me. This is really dilly-archen I am baking for she pulls my skirt and wants to be lifted up to see — and fresh! — what I'm cooking with. She would have eaten this orange cookie mixture, in fact she did for her little hand was faster than mine. So I promptly plunked her in her high chair with some quartered oranges. I felt like a heel and wondered what Marianne would think because I would not let her play with cookie dough.

ORANGE SANDWICH COOKIES:

This dough is similar to fine shortbread — not very sweet and not crispy either. The little rounds are put together with an orange filling you will like. They keep well both filled and unfilled.

1 1-2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1-4 teaspoon double-acting or 1-2 teaspoon single acting baking powder, 1 cup soft shortening (1-2 butter), ¾-1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, 1-2 cup sifted icing sugar, tablespoons orange juice.

Sift flour with baking powder. Cream shortening with salt and orange rind until light and fluffy, gradually adding sugar. Blend in flour mixture, then orange juice. Refrigerate about 2 hours or longer. Flour board lightly and turn half of the dough out. Return remainder to refrigerator. Press dough into ball to make it stay together. It is like shortbread dough and wants to crumble but your warm hands pressing it will help to hold together. Roll out to 1-4" thickness, penalizing in pressing cracks at edges to perfection. Cut out with 1 1-2" round cutter. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet in 350 deg. Fahr. about 7 or 10 minutes. Do not brown. Roll out and cut and bake remaining dough. The amount makes 58 1 3-4" round cookies. When cool (or when to be served) put together in pairs with Orange Filling between: In top of double boiler mix: Together dry 6 tablespoons sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch and shake of salt. Add 1 cup orange juice (or juice and 1 tablespoon grated orange rind, and stir over boiling water until thick. Cover and cook 10 minutes, stirring once or twice. Cool before filling cookies with this.

NOTE:

The filling tends to soften the cookies, so if you prefer them crisp, fill as needed. Further Notice: 1) This amount will generously fill 44 sandwich cookies.

2) This is a simple all-purpose orange filling that may be used between layer cakes or in a jelly roll. 3) If desired, 1 egg yolk and 1 tablespoon butter may be added if you want to extend it and make it richer.

Tomorrow I will give you the recipe for cut-out sugar cookies.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Here we are in the middle of gift choosing time and you are probably as hazy as we are, as the years go on decisions seem harder to make. To most quite young people buying gifts, the thing is to get something to wrap up and have done with. Maybe that is the best way and one which one eventually goes back to.

Suggestions hit you in the face from all magazines and newspapers — money, or the lack of it, seems to be the main item. Electric blankets are comparatively here; there are warming devices for everything, even a warming blanket for plates. Warm plates, the secret of gourmet serving, are easy with a gaily striped electric plate warmer, washable cover and large enough for ten dinner plates. It is good looking enough to come into the dining room and there will be no more of the too-hot plates difficult to handle.

Something that caught our eye was a package of twenty-four kitchen gadgets; any woman would love this whether they ever had occasion to use them all or not. There were some unusual utensils such as a pastry brush, an egg slicer, a lemon grater and coasters.

There is a call bell, but how many have anyone to call any more? One little gadget which we used to have and would like to have again (where do these things go to?) is a strawberry huller which can also double for a pin feather picker. There is a wheel-like item which cores and sections apples, also a shoe string potato cutter.

Another item to be used on potatoes are potato nails; the illustration shows a nail driven lengthwise through a potato with the rest of the package of nails alongside. Is this a general practice in the baking of potatoes as that they will bake quicker? That is one we had not heard of.

Also included in this package were a blending fork, a corn popper, a Swedish cheese slicer, a nut cracker and an ice cream spade. A bottle spoon with a long handle and a long narrow bowl for getting the last particle from the bottom of a bottle looked like a good idea. There was also a sardine server which looked like a very small egg lifter, and a little thing called Skim-it. This fits on the inside of a saucepan over the spout area — and Skim-it. These are all very interesting and would be fun to receive.

Another part of the Christmas rush is the visit to the post office to get things away. These seem to be quite a difference in atmosphere and we finally boiled it down to the fact that you have to bring your own pen. Remember those other ones? They put a real hazard into addressing mail in the post office, but what if you forget yours or are not in the habit of carrying a pen?

We just read that a new treat awaits the post office patrons in New Zealand. The much-abused post office pen, liable to scratch, blot and collect hairs, has given way to the modern ball-point pen. They also are assuming the honesty of the public for they are not chaining the new pens to the desks. We can only hope that they do not have their illusions shattered.

We understand that Lord Beaverbrook had some illusions shattered when the art object which he had placed in the square at Newcastle, N.B., were smashed by vandals for no good reason. Newcastle was the town where he grew up and he was very saddened by this event.

So as not to end on a dreary note, we hope you enjoy your shopping in the brisk weather and that you get it done well and early.

Women's Institute

STIRLING W.I.

STIRLING. — Mrs. J.C. Gay, Church Street, was hostess for the Christmas meeting of the Stirling Women's Institute, on Wednesday evening, with a good attendance. Members and visitors were made welcome by the president, Mrs. B. Reid.

Mrs. W. C. West read the correspondence which included a Christmas message and words of encouragement to all from Mrs. Bessie Rodgers, Toronto, who was a faithful member and still is.

Mrs. Gay volunteered to prepare and present the report.

A fancy quilt has been completed and there is already a buyer for same. Appreciation is due the ladies who quilted this quilt and all concerned are worthy of many thanks.

It was nice to see Mrs. McMurray out to the meeting. She is always in a good worker but has found these last few months that her health will not permit activities in social work.

At this meeting each member was requested to bring an article worth $1 to be sold.

PROGRAM

Mrs. Maurice gave a synopsis of her son's experience moose hunting, and how the people in that part of Canada live. This was most interesting. Mrs. Clapper favored with a lovely solo, with Mrs. R. Williams at the piano. Mrs. B. Reid gave a reading from the Home and Country entitled "A Prayer On Growing Old." Mrs. M. Healy gave a reading, "I'm Only A Cigaret," which brought the program to a close.

The committee in charge, Mrs. C. Gay, Mrs. R. Williams, Mrs. B. Reid and Mrs. M. Heath, served a tasty lunch with all enjoying the social time.

A vote of thanks was expressed by Mrs. A. Stevenson, for the evening's entertainment.

TRY TO REGULATE

New Social Secretary Plans Big Things for White House

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The social secretary-to-be of the White House is a successful young career woman who fits right into the scheme of new things to come.

She is Letitia K. Baldrige, already an enthusiastic harbinger of plans by the next first lady of the United States, Mrs. John F. Kennedy, to make the White House a showcase for great American art and artists.

Miss Baldrige is an expert on Art Nouveau, the author of one book and working on another. She can type, use a transcript machine, play a fast game of tennis and strum a melodious guitar.

She speaks French and Italian fluently and she cooks the dishes of both lands. "A marvelous cook," a friend said of her.

Miss Baldrige, a six-foot-tall blonde in her early 30s, is known to all her friends as "Tish." She's an old school friend of the young mother who will become first lady Jan. 20.

Through some 20 years the two have continued their friendship. Miss Baldrige once told a reporter she had watched Mrs. Kennedy "grow through the years with grace and serenity" and added "she's going to bring a great deal of distinction to the White House."

Her story is one of the girl from Omaha who went east for school, worked as a government girl, went to Europe, became an embassy social secretary and came back to New York in a public relations job.

She and Mrs. Kennedy, the former Jacqueline Bouvier, went to the fashionable Miss Porter's school in Farmington, Conn. Miss Baldrige was two classes ahead. Both went on to Vassar College in Poughkeepsie, N.Y. Mrs. Kennedy was studying in Paris the year Miss Baldrige was social secretary to the wife of U.S. Ambassador David K. E. Bruce.

Later, Miss Baldrige was social secretary to U.S. Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce in Rome, from 1953 to 1956. This was the job about which she wrote her book Roman Candle.

Prior to her new appointment, she was director of public relations for a New York jeweler.

She comes to her new job, she says, "very happy, very excited and very scared."

As social secretary she will handle everything from formal state dinners to answering mail for Mrs. Kennedy.

FOXBORO GUILD-W.M.S.

FOXBORO — The December meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Guild and W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Chapindale on Thursday evening with a good attendance.

Mrs. Lyons the W.M.S. president, opened the meeting and followed the worship service as prepared by Mrs. Agnes Le Cocq.

Business was discussed, reports were given which showed a good balance on hand from all departments. "Thank you" cards and sick calls were received.

Mrs. Bartlett gave a reading, "The First Christmas Eve". Mrs. Scott played "When Christmas Comes", and a piano solo "Star of the East", rendered by Sharon Chappelle. Mrs. Lyons read "Christmas in Nigeria", which brought a most interesting and worthwhile program to a close.

Refreshments were served and Mrs. Lyons moved a vote of thanks to the hostess for opening her home.

Christmas Cards Became Popular Mere 100 Years Ago

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Many Londoners were outraged when Sir Henry Cole, a patron of the arts, sent the first Christmas cards in 1843.

The cards depicted a family toasting the recipient. The puritan element of the city said the cards would encourage drunkenness.

London artist John Calcott Horsley was commissioned to produce the first hand-colored cards. Sir Henry ordered 1,000 of them and sold those he did not use for a shilling each.

The following year a few others sent cards and the custom seemed to be catching on mildly. But cost kept the custom to the upper classes and it wasn't until the 1880s, when manufacturers began printing cards on lettered Valentine stock, that ending of Christmas cards became widespread.

The lace borders made it impossible to distinguish a Christmas card from a Valentine card until the message was read. Fringes and tassels became popular during the period and many cards had elegant frames.

MANY HAD CROSSES

The quality of the early cards was generally high. Many were made from 12-color plates and resembled oil paintings. Birds and flowers were favorite subjects and the cross, now associated with Easter, appeared on many cards.

High cost became a problem again in the 1880s and the high-quality cards faltered. As one means of cutting printing costs, "Xmas" was often substituted for "Christmas."

The first use of postcards as Christmas greetings was in Germany. Their lower cost made them popular for a time but postcards returned to the critical idea of cards enclosed in envelopes.

Many of these early cards, including the controversial one sent by Sir Henry, now are part of the Coutts Hallmark collection of antique cards on exhibit at the National Gallery in Ottawa.

Santa Claus appeared on cards as early as 1850. He was slim, serious and called St. Nicholas. Over the years he became robust and fat although he has shed a few pounds in recent years.

BELLS ARE POPULAR

Bells, an early Christmas symbol, head the list of favorite greeting card subjects for 1960. Second on the list are poinsettias. Trees, candles and holly are prominent and reproductions of paintings by the old masters and Canadian artists are being used.

Canadians are expected to spend about $9,000,000 on Christmas greetings this year, about one-third of the amount spent on cards.

While Toronto remains the centre of the greeting-card industry in Canada, many interesting designs originate with religious orders in Quebec.

The Benedictine monks of St. Benoit du Lac offer a wide selection, including some modernistic designs. The Benedictine nuns, who have been producing cards for 50 years, have decided not to offer any until a new set can be worked out.

The Sulpician Order of Notre Dame Church and Notre Dame de Bonsecours buy and sell cards displaying the beautiful Montreal cathedrals.

Cards are printed from paintings by Mother Mellis at the Convent of the Sacred Heart in Montreal. Many show the Christ Child. Other Quebec cards are done by Mrs. Leonie Colagelo of Verdun who uses the Dame Christiana. Others come from Madeleine Fortin of Beauce.

Then Illinois, with 27 electoral votes, seemed on a time to be in doubt for here again Kennedy had only a hair-line victory. There were Republican - Democratic exchanges of fraud and counter-charges.

In the south, there were grumblings against Kennedy's Negro rights promises and threats of bolting electoral pledges. There is nothing in the constitution to prevent any electoral voter from supporting another candidate, though this is done rarely.

As the threat against Kennedy subsided, legislators talked again, as in the past, of the urgent need of electoral college reform, but with little expectation that anything would be done.

ONE RAISED A STORM — Canadians spend an estimated $2,000,000 a year on Christmas cards, about a third of it on cards such as these. The idea of exchanging cards started in 1843 when London artist John Horsley produced the first hand-colored card (right centre). The card showed a family drinking a toast and raised a furore from the puritan element of the city.

Other cards shown: Top row (left to right): a pink and black card sold by the Sulpician Order of Notre Dame Church in Montreal; a child's card, complete with a real musical toy; one of the so-called "sick" cards, this one with the inside carrying a number of various greetings ranging from "happy ground hog's day" to "happy 1st day of spring."

Centre row: Another card by the Sulpician Order, this one in bright shades of black, orange, yellow and blue; one of the ever-popular snowman themes; the Horsley card, now in the Coutts Hallmark collection on exhibit at the National Gallery in Ottawa.

Bottom row: A sample of the plain design still popular with many givers; and a card designed for overseas friends. (CP Photo).

Delegation Asks Federal Help In Many Ways

OTTAWA (CP) — A delegation of unemployed from Windsor and Peterborough has called for distribution of government-owned food surpluses to unemployed and needy citizens.

It also asked, in a brief to the government, for federal help towards hospital and medical plans for the unemployed; an increase in family allowances; a national 40-hour week, with strict control on overtime; and "continuation of unemployment benefits for the duration of unemployment."

The brief was presented by the Windsor unemployed organization to Labor Minister Starr and other members of the federal cabinet. Later, the delegation was to meet with Liberal and CCF party officials.

The group, numbering about 100—80 from Windsor and 10 from Peterborough—came here in a 24-car motorcade. Before meeting with the cabinet team, they paraded in front of the Parliament Buildings carrying banners with such slogans as We can't Live on Promises, and We Want Work.

Thursday, according to Serge Gogelle, spokesman for the group, they have an appointment with Premier Frost in Toronto. It will be joined there by other delegations of jobless from Hamilton, St. Catharines, Peterborough, Oshawa and Toronto.

The brief said unemployment must be treated as a national emergency requiring "decisive and drastic measures, not pious declarations or gimmicks like the pitiful small winter works program that will do little to provide jobs.

It called for a "distinctive" Canadian auto industry and for greater protection for Canadian manufacturing as a whole.

The brief demanded that the government enact legislation to stop industries "running away" from high wage communities.

It also demanded were emergency government loans to guarantee manufacture of Canadian goods from Canadian materials, immediate action to increase Canadian content of cars and other products, and establishment of "fair profit law."

Kennedy Wants to Restore Western Confidence in U.S. And Bolster Home Economy

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — John Kennedy's great ambition for 1961 is to restore Western confidence in United States leadership and to bolster the sagging American economy.

But the Democratic president-elect, handed a paper-thin mandate Nov. 8 in one of the most dramatic U.S. election races in years, faces formidable challenges and roadblocks as he attempts to bring his country into the era he calls the "new frontier."

Small but powerful conservative elements in his own party threaten to wreck his legislative plans while a diminishing stockpile of American gold may strain foreign assistance programs at a time when many impoverished nations need greater aid.

Kennedy, at 43 the youngest man to win the presidency, will seek to overcome a recession at home, strengthen the Western alliance, speed U.S. missile production and reach some understanding with Premier Khrushchev.

He plans to tackle these tasks, along with such other prime domestic issues as greater federal aid for schools, a higher minimum wage and a health plan for pensioners in the first year of his new four-year term.

Vigorous and determined as he is, Kennedy is no miracle worker. He must replace President Eisenhower did before him — an able adviser. The calibre of his cabinet may go a long way in determining how well he does. Undoubtedly Kennedy will seek another term in 1964. He will need some major successes to strengthen his public support.

JOB FOR JOHNSON

Part of his achievements will depend on the new Congress and the skill of his vice-president, Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, in rallying congressmen to Kennedy's side. Johnson, majority leader in the last Senate, surprised the country with a spectacular triumph in Texas where he was reported in trouble because of his support of Kennedy, the first Roman Catholic to win a White House victory.

In the November congressional voting, the Republicans made only minor gains, and the Democrats have clear majorities—65-34 in the 100-seat Senate and 261-176 in the 437-seat House.

But some key committees, such as Senate finance and House rules, are controlled by conservative southern Democrats who refused to support Kennedy in the election campaign.

Northern liberals have demanded a purge of the southern rebels but veteran campaigners have urged caution lest such a move turn the entire south against Kennedy.

Kennedy walks on a political tightrope in the south because of his open support of school integration and his pledges to eliminate discrimination against Negroes in jobs, housing and use of public facilities.

But if it had not been for the Negro vote, Kennedy may not have joined over Republican Vice-President Richard Nixon in November. Roman Catholic, Negro and Jewish voter helped offset the anti-Catholic vote against Kennedy in the western and southern regions. Even so, Kennedy emerged with the thinnest margin of popular votes in some 80 years—a mere majority of

'61 Is the Year Labor Leaps Into Canadian Politics

Hand-in-Hand With the CCF

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor leaps into politics in 1961.

Hand-in-hand with the CCF.

Canada's organized labor movement — more than 1,000,000 workers makes a big step into federal politics at a massive mid-summer rally in Ottawa July 30-Aug. 4.

Once the New Party is born, labor will battle not only at the bargaining table but also in Parliament.

It will still go after higher wages, better working conditions, more fringe benefits.

But it will also be in the public arena fighting for new laws, more economic planning, a bigger role for government in the common good.

With its reformist, semi-socialist party of the people, labor hopes to take over from the Liberals — to face Canadian voters with a clear-cut choice between the Left and the Right. The move into politics while significant, is only one of the many faces of the trade union movement, which is taking a new look at its old self, its ethics, aims and aspirations.

The stage is also set for:

1. A great debate on national versus international unionism, a painful period of reappraisal that may rock the Canadian movement before it is resolved.

2. An effort to unite the 80,000 Quebec unionists in the Confederation of National Trade Unions with the 1,100,000-member Canadian Labor Congress.

3. Overtures to workers in unions expelled from the CLC to rejoin the parent body of Canadian labor, which tossed out the powerful Teamsters Brotherhood and the Seafarers International Union for raising older congress affiliates.

4. A new railway crisis—unless federal government succeeds in settling the multi - million-dollar wage dispute between the major railways and 111,000 of their workers before an emergency ban on a rail strike expires May 15.

5. A new attack by labor leaders against what they regard as anti-labor legislation in Newfoundland, British Columbia and Ontario—as well as against the federal government for its temporary withdrawal of the right to strike by railway workers.

6. A vigorous drive by trade unions for more action by government and business to solve Canada's recurring unemployment problem.

These are some of the potential 1961 highlights from what is shaping up as a dynamic decade for labor in Canada.

The face of labor is changing. The movement is growing up. Like business, it is big and powerful. It now has its specialists — economists, research experts, education ists, public relations officers—and all signs point to a rapid growth in this field.

But like business, it also has its rascals. Labor will go all out in 1961 to clean its own house, before government tries to do it.

If the present peaceful coexistence between the maverick Teamsters and Seafarers suddenly dries up, there may be some bitter strife within the union movement as CLC strife stirs swoop in on the outsiders.

On the economic front labor will go after more money, shorter working hours, higher old-age security benefits and family allowances.

To meet the vast unsatisfied needs of the people, labor wants more buying power in the hands of everyone—and higher wages on No. 1 on its list to achieve it.

There will also be more demands for a guaranteed annual wage, for closer parity with American pay, for a shorter work week with the same take-home pay, and for better pension plans.

Labor may also finally achieve a long - cherished objective—a labor college where young trade unionists can get an academic grounding in industrial relations, economics, politics, history and the social philosophies.

And for the era of automation there will be pressure for a co-ordinated plan aimed at training new and old workers in the know-how of modern technology.

Santa and the Christmas Tree Had Strange Origins

By JULES LOH

NEW YORK (AP)—Most traditions are children of strange ancestry, and the two most popular Christmas customs—Santa Claus and the Christmas tree—may have the strangest heritage of them all.

Does it come as a surprise that the lighted tree is entirely Christian in origin while the jolly figure sometimes called St. Nick was born of pagan parentage?

True, the name Santa Claus is derived from St. Nicholas—or Sinter Klaas, as the Dutch called him. But the saint and the elf have nothing in common except the name.

This is how they came to be joined in Christmas lore:

For years the feast of St. Nicholas, Dec. 6, was observed in Europe by giving gifts to children. He is their patron saint, and the custom still is practised in most European countries.

Few historical facts are known about the saint. He was bishop of Myra in Asia Minor and died about the year 200. He was an orphan, and a generally accepted legend is he often helped poor children by slipping coins through their windows at night.

Dutch immigrants to North America brought the traditional "visit from St. Nicholas" with them. They had clung to the custom even after the Reformation.

Later, when the English founded the colony of New York in the same territory, their children liked the idea of a nocturnal visitor coming to their homes, too.

But the idea of a bishop was disagreeable to the New Yorkers, many of whom were Presbyterians. Also, they did not celebrate feasts of saints.

In the withered pages of Germanic folklore, familiar to these Anglo-Saxons, was the pagan god Thor.

He was the god of the peasantry an elderly, jovial man with a long white beard. His color was red, his element was fire, and his hearth was sacred to him. On the occasions when he left his home among the ice-bergs of the northland, where he fought the giants of ice and snow, he frequently would come down the chimneys into his element. His role in a chariot pulled by two white goats, Cracker and Gnasher.

The foregoing gifts at Christmas was traditional with the English-Americans, and it was not surprising the jolly old elf now familiar to us all should emerge as the new delivery boy.

In most European and South American countries it is the Christ child who sends the gifts, his angels who deliver them. The Germans called the infant Christ Kindel. When they immigrated to North America he became Kris Kringle but became identified with Santa Claus.

TREE FROM ADAM

The Christmas tree evolved this way:

In medieval days a favorite pre-Christmas pageant was the Paradise Play, depicting the fall of Adam and Eve, the promise of a Savior and the coming birth of Christ.

A fir tree hung with apples represented the Garden of Eden and the symbol soon found its way into homes on the feast day of Adam, and Eve, Dec. 24. Germans also had the custom of erecting in their homes during Advent a candle - bedecked wooden pyramid topped by a star, signifying the "Light of the World" which shone from the stable at Bethlehem.

During the 16th century they began combining the two symbols, usually adding beneath the tree the Christmas crib which formerly stood at the foot of the pyramid.

Trees began appearing in American homes after the first big wave of German immigration in about 1700. The practice picked up momentum when another large group arrived about 1830.

By now the tree is the symbol of an "old fashioned" Christmas —and still represents Paradise in the hearts of the young.

Diefenbaker Denies Federal Vote Just Around Corner; Govt. Popularity Decreases

By JAMES NELSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's four main political parties, including the first gentle bruises of each other, election campaign, plan policy and strategy conventions in Ottawa in the new year.

By early August, they should have whipped up a storm.

The man who has the choice of a new general election date is Prime Minister Diefenbaker, warmed his party workers two months ago, however, not to become too eager. He denied then that a new federal contest was just around the corner.

Since 1957, the Conservative government, one of the largest in the history of Canada, has been in office. Parliament reach the half-way point in October and, according to public opinion polls, a slump in Conservative party popularity.

The extent of the slump was shown in the shift of two provinces—New Brunswick and Quebec—to the Liberal party camp, and Liberal loss of 114 seats in four federal byelections.

While speculation of an early general election gained ground rapidly during the year, until it was dampened by Mr. Diefenbaker, some of the opposition parties assumed it was prepared for a contest.

TO DRAW PLATFORM

Liberal planning was farthest advanced. At a study conference on national problems last August in Kingston, "a bulging bushel of ideas, some of them good, some of them not so good," to quote the party's monthly, the Canadian Liberal—was produced for study at the national Liberal rally to be held here Jan. 9-11. The rally will produce the Liberal platform for the next general election.

Conservative policy and tactics will come under study at a large session of the party's rank and file at the annual meeting March 16-18. Allister Grossart, national director, said the meeting will take the form of "a series of seminar discussions presided over by cabinet ministers on the affairs of the party."

It follows the special meeting of party executives and campaign organizers in October, at which Mr. Diefenbaker pledged his government would carry out all of its 1957 and 1958 election campaign pledges.

"We have entered away the under-brush," he said. "We have just begun to fight. You ain't seen nothing yet."

The other parties of consequence in federal politics—the CCF and Social Credit—which lost all its seats in the 1958 election—are less prepared now for a general election.

PLAN CONVENTION

The party being formed by the CCF and the Canadian Labor Congress is to have its founding convention in July, 31-Aug. 6, at which it will elect a national leader and lay down its political platform, expected to be a left-wing one appealing to both farm and labor voters.

Formation of the party was approved by the CCF national convention in August, which elected Hazen Argue its national leader, and the CLC's national convention in Montreal in April.

Social Credit, which was re-elected provincially in British Columbia this year, is trying to form policy committee meeting here in mid-January, preparatory to a national leadership convention July 4-7. Indications from its recent meetings are that its party will softspedal its monetary reform policies.

In preparation for the round of conventions, the Liberals and CCF-ers early sought to widen the base of their support by appealing to all "disenfranchised Canadians." Aware of the inroads the New Party might make on his forces, Liberal Leader Pearson told a September press conference:

"We are still Liberals, and everyone else is trying to become Liberal. Why doesn't the CCF talk about socialism, and the Conservatives talk about conservatism?"

OPINION SHIFTED

Whether liberal-socialist or not, Canada's sentiment is measured by public opinion polls has shifted away from the conservatives. They got 54 per cent of the popular vote in the March, 1958, general election. The polls gave them 38 per cent in September, 1960. In the same period Liberal support rose to 43 per cent from 33 per cent and the CCF climbed to 13 per cent from nine.

Byelections were held in four federal constituencies in October—three of which had retarded Conservatives in 1958. They actually retained Niagara Falls with Judy LaMarsh, who had their only woman MP, and took Quebec Labelle from the Conservatives with Gaston Clement succeeding Senator Henri Courrier-de-Cosmos, former state secretary.

The New Party made a dramatic entry into the Commons with the election of Walter Pitman, 34-year-old high school teacher, in Peterborough, Ont., riding which had been solidly Conservative for 40 years.

The only Conservative victory in the four byelections was in Mr. Diefenbaker's Royal constituency where Hugh John Fleming, former premier, was elected occupied by former veterans minister Alfred J. Brooks, before he was appointed to the senate. Mr. Fleming already was in the cabinet as the result of a first-time provincial election when the byelections were held.

While the opposition parties did their planning for conventions and preparation for election, success in the byelections, the government was left free to devote concentrated on its image in Parliament.

SESSION MET EARLY

Calling the Commons and the senate together two months earlier than usual to start Parliament's 1961 session, Mr. Diefenbaker was able to get legislation program that caught public attention—"bold, unified measures everyone appeal and his long-range attack on basic unemployment problems.

Though criticized by labor for not postponing legislation of the right to strike in the railway crisis, the government has taken the initiative in all large with the argument that a strike had to be prevented in the national interest.

And it denied a subsidy to the railways in the form of a loan guarantee, money the government has available from the sale of Canadian stock already unemployment, rather than to help the railways meet the demands of their unions for increased operating employees already having working week.

As the new session opened, the Liberals were plagued with disappointments to the Senate—bringing the 105-seat upper house to 100 Conservatives for the first time since 1945.

Opposition leaders exclaim, and the reflection of it upon his whole administration, that Mr. Diefenbaker's high point of the year was his address to the United Nations General Assembly in New York, first spokesman after Premier Khrushchev's attack on the UN's secretariat. It was one of the few occasions which was free of Mr. Diefenbaker government, and Mr. Diefenbaker himself, won almost unanimous support from a wide cross-section of the press.

Accused Says He Was Hung Over Door, Bag Put on Head

NORTH BAY (CP)—A North Bay man told Supreme Court Metropolitan Toronto police hung him by his ankles over a door, burned him with a cigaret and held a plastic bag over his head to force him to plead guilty to a statement admitting to a theft.

Stephen Lepine, charged with theft of four television sets from a North Bay warehouse, made the accusations during an application by his defence counsel to have the statement declared inadmissible at a preliminary hearing into the charges.

Lepine, John James and Theodore Villeneuve, stopped during a routine traffic check were taken to headquarters when police saw two television sets in their car.

Lepine said that during questioning that followed, he was kicked in the groin and punched in the stomach by five officers. One of the five then held a plastic bag over his head, he said, removing it briefly to ask him to sign a statement.

"They then tied my feet with my tie and hose and hung me over a door for about 15 minutes," he testified.

He said a detective then pressed a lighted cigaret against

Ceilings May Be Lowered By Legislature

OTTAWA (CP) — Government legislation to expand vocational training for unemployed may in fact lower existing ceilings, it was suggested Tuesday night at the Senate banking and commerce committee.

"This seems as a bit of a shock to me," said Senator David Croll (Liberal, Ontario), arguing that the government bill actually pays less in most cases than the ceilings provided in the legislation it will replace.

The committee, after prolonged questioning, finally approved the measure which already has passed the Commons and goes back to the Senate before royal assent.

It would provide federal aid up to 75 per cent for all vocational school construction for a period ending March 31, 1963, dropping to 50 per cent after that. Training teachers would be assisted in the province by a 50-per-cent federal grant, a new feature.

The point pursued by a number of senators was that the present act was amended in 1956 to give the provinces virtually unlimited discretion to provide whatever training they felt was employed.

Now that discretion is limited, said Senator Croll. Committee Chairman Salter Hayden — the latter said outside the committee that his interpretation of the legislation would be that it was wide enough to "drive a team of horses through."

The committee was told that 4,638 persons were trained in the 1959-60 year in 24 basic vocational programs to fit unemployed for the Canadian economy. About the same number would be trained in the first fiscal year and estimates were that the number might be doubled next year. Cost for the latter last fiscal year was about $7,000 counting federal and provincial shares.

Lack of Canadian Magazines Obstacle to Young Writers Royal Commission Is Told

TORONTO (CP)—A lack of Canadian magazines is an almost insurmountable stumbling block for the ambitious young Canadian writer the royal commission on publications was told Tuesday.

Freelance writer June Callwood said magazines such as Maclean's, Chatelaine and Toronto Star Weekly were the only three top magazines in Canada buying articles.

It was tough for a Canadian to sell to United States magazines which were suspicious of Canadian stories unless they dealt with "mounties, the north or hockey."

She was one of six persons who appeared before the commission. The others were Lloyd M. Hodgkinson, president of the Magazine Publishers' Association of Canada; Hugh Greenfield, director of the University of Toronto Press; H. J. Campbell, chief librarian for the Toronto Public Library; W. W. Seccombe, president of Seccombe House, and C. A. Pollock president of Dominion Electrohome Industries Limited.

Miss Callwood suggested any move that would encourage more magazines on every level of expression would be a good thing for her profession. She said it was the practice for a budding reporter to work on an out-of-town newspaper before being hired in Metro. "Now there is no out-of-town magazine left," she said.

Miss Callwood said U.S. restrictions forced Canadian authors to seek publishers south of the border. These state that if a Canadian publisher reprints more than 1,500 copies of a book into the U.S., the Canadian author loses his copyright.

Mr. Hodgkinson asked that the government advertise more in Canadian magazines and less in U.S. publications. He told the commission that the Canadian Home Journal could be traced to unfair competition from U.S. magazines.

Mr. Campbell urged the commission to propose every possible "assistance to the successful extension of the image of Canada abroad through Canadian periodicals . . ."

Canada Drafts 10-Year Plan For NATO at U.S. Request But U.S. Ignores Own Advice

OTTAWA (CP)—A year ago, the United States suggested that the members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization draw up their plans for how the military alliance should develop in the next decade, at least a 10-year plan for NATO.

Canada came up with a set of proposals after months of headscratching in the external affairs department and presented it to a per which External Affairs Minister Green is due to take to Paris present to the Dec. 16-18 NATO ministerial meeting in Paris, Mr. Green will be in the U.S. Minister Harkness leave for Paris today.

The United States, however, apparently neglected to put its preaching into practice before it preached to others. The U.S. has not circulated any paper on a 10-year plan for advance of this week-end's conference. It thus appears that any definite plan will be only in the vaguest terms.

The U.S. is said to have a plan secretly NATO and Soviet Union control over American nuclear weapons, but has not released it.

MAY BE PROBLEM

This plan may be treasured officials in Paris by the U.S. though officials say it is difficult to see how it could be kept secret. However administration can comfort the incoming Kennedy administration.

In any event, it is the view of the Canadian government that any decision on such an American plan would have to wait for

A NATO heads-of-government meeting. Canada hopes such a meeting will be held next spring Canada is interested in seeing the alliance grow, especially economically.

One subject which may tend to divide the alliance and which Canada more than likely will be discussed in Paris is the Algerian situation. This problem is even more pressing than in recen years because the stability u France itself may be at stake

Judy LaMarsh Given Praise On First Speech

OTTAWA (CP) — The lady member for Niagara Falls made her maiden speech in the Commons Tuesday and got verbal slap on the back from President MJF H. W. Herridge and Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

In a sure voice and without reading a word, Judy LaMarsh, who won for the Liberals in an Oct. 31 byelection, spoke for 15 minutes on the government's bill to establish a productivity council.

Mr. Herridge, CCF member for Kootenay West, said Miss LaMarsh is a colorful addition to a rather drab political landscape. He said her speech showed thorough preparation, thoughtful assessment and concern for her constituents who were unemployed.

At the night sitting, Mr. Diefenbaker also congratulated Miss LaMarsh on her speech. He said a speech in keeping with the best traditions of the Commons. He recalled the "excruciating experience" he had himself before the "ordeal" of his maiden speech 26 years ago.

Miss LaMarsh, 35-year-old lawyer, said layoffs are accelerating in her riding and that many homes there won't find any Christmas cheer in the unemployment situation.

She asked whether the council could be a positive force for private industry. She also said the council could help if government claims it will do.

"In the name of the jobless, don't hesitate to put Canadians back to work now."

Frost Praised By Severest Critic In Legislature

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost's severest critic during legislature Tuesday commended him for establishing a provincial history which otherwise might be lost.

Andrew MacDonald said Mr. Frost must be given the highest praise for establishing the Champlain Society which publishes in Ontario historical series of books.

The fourth volume in the series was presented to members at their desks Tuesday. It is a history of the province's early religion, written by Rev. Ernest J. LaJeunesse, provincial archivist at Assumption University, Windsor.

In the foreword of the book, Mr. Frost says the Windsor area had the distinction of having one locality in Ontario that could claim "a continuous settlement" antedating the British conquest.

The first volume in the series, The Valley of the Humber, was by Edwin C. Guillet, appeared in 1957. The second, by Donald Lemmes, Royal Fort Frontenac by Professors Joseph Lamontagne and Richard Preston, and King's Action Before the War of 1812, edited by Professor Pierre Berton, published in 1958 and 1959.

Other volumes are now in various stages of the historians on the Muskoka-Lake of Bays region and the Grand River Valley.

Police Affirm Charges Will Be Laid

TORONTO (CP)—Police said Tuesday night gas charges will be laid against a shopkeeper who fired a tear gas pistol at four men outside his store early Tuesday, sending two of them to hospital.

Herman Reichert, 39, told police he had been in fear of necessary to fire the gun to protect himself and his property from drinking Canada shares its anti-American views.

"Some persons have a concept that gold opens all doors," the senator said. "We should slam Canada's door in their face."

PM SPOKE EARLIER

His half-hour speech in the upper house followed by 22 hours Prime Minister Diefenbaker's speech earlier when he did not work after they put a gag rule through.

Canadian-Born J. Galbraith Being Mentioned as Next U.S. Ambassador to India

NEW YORK (CP) — When the name John Kenneth Galbraith was first mentioned in talk about possibilities in President-elect Kennedy's administration, many Americans thought back to the first days of Franklin Roosevelt's tenure of the presidency.

Roosevelt's "brains trust" of university professors and authorities in a dozen fields quickly became famous and an object of ridicule in conservative circles.

The Canadian-born Galbraith, 52, a Harvard economist and long a leading member of Mr. Kennedy's academic advisory council, is being mentioned as possibly the next United States ambassador to India.

His admirers have been hoping he would be given a position in the reins of power in Washington but this would have been too much for Republican business groups which frequently have been pricked by his often-caustic criticism.

During the recent election campaign, Mr. Galbraith was frequently reflected in Kennedy's questioning of the state of the economy.

American life while many of the country's citizens go to bed hungry at night and to work in the morning on the need to help underprivileged Americans have fallen below standards.

WERE GALBRAITH'S IDEAS

Galbraith expands on these points and others in one of the most widely-read of modern economics text, The Affluent Society.

American, Galbraith wrote, has developed a system which can create highways, improved vacuum cleaners in the space of a few streets, bigger television sets and violence-ridden public parks, but has been and safer deodorants at the same time failed to provide adequate sewerage or better schools and hospitals.

He urged government to produce the things the public really needs. This is one area where his views run counter with those of Kennedy.

Similarly, Galbraith questions the goal of expansion for every form of business activity.

ANGERED BUSINESSMEN

Galbraith, born on a farm at Iona Station near St. Thomas and educated at the University of Toronto, had his first taste of government work during the last war. He was deputy administrator for the office of price administration but resigned after two years. He held the lid on prices so tightly that many businessmen were outraged.

In the 1952 and 1956 election campaigns he was urging his views on Adlai Stevenson. The latter's ideas on mass-awareness was eventually expanded to provide speech material and policies for the Democratic party men.

In addition to contacts throughout the group, Galbraith first made the acquaintance of John Kennedy and his elder brother Joseph when they were at Harvard. Galbraith was their tutor for a

As ambassador to India, Galbraith would be in a post that would put him in touch with the most critical diplomatic positions in the new government. Kennedy has said that the future political course of much of Asia depends on the success of India's industrial revolution. That in turn depends in large part on how generous is the help other countries are willing to provide.

'Waiting for Kennedy' Leaves Many Questions Undecided

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Three little words — "Waiting for Kennedy"—are emerging as the conventional preamble to answering most questions.

After patiently sweating out the 1960 presidential election campaign, Britain and Europe are resigned to a further hiatus pending President-elect Kennedy's assumption of authority next January.

The uncertainly extends to some vital topics, most incident Western policy on China, a possible Eastern-West meeting and the role of NATO ministerial council in Paris.

CHINA PROBLEM

The latest indication that Britain is "waiting for Kennedy" came in Monday's House of Commons debate on China, Joseph Godber, parliamentary secretary to the Commons that a country as large as China was better left to the United Nations than outside it.

He said the new American administration would have to think about six weeks.

The view is know what the policy of that administration will be, but we hope to discuss this question with the Americans at this stage. . . .

Some observers interpret the reference as indicating that Britain is softening in the U.S. attitude to China.

The possibility of another summit meeting also waits on Ken-

Senator Croll Says Canada Is Negating U.S. Embargo

OTTAWA (CP) — A vitriolic attack on Canadian policy on exports to Cuba was made Tuesday by Senator David Croll, an ex-Cuba lobbyist.

He told the Senate that what he described as Canada's willingness to sell the "sinews of the goods on which the United States has placed an embargo" was a revolting example of the philosophy of "anything goes for profit." Canada was negating the U.S. embargo.

Senator Croll said the Cuban trade mission now in Canada "should be sent packing on the next boat." If Cuba could buy goods elsewhere, it would. Canada had no excuse for believing this country could not survive if it refused to trade with drinking Canada shares its anti-

Senator Croll said Canada's duty was to bring communism to Cuba and helped establish a Red government which could be used as a missile base. . . .

He said the best way to Cuba the products that United States won't sell, Canada should be attempting to find a solution to the trade disagreements which now exist between Cuba and the United States."

The meeting was turned over to W.M.S. which followed with the president, Mrs. Morley Phillips presiding.

BIRTH OF BEN

The clock tower of the British Houses of Parliament was completed May 31, 1851, and the chimes of Big Ben first heard July 11.

LONDON (CP)—Two separate events — The birth of Prince Andrew and the marriage of Princess Margaret—drew more-than-usual attention to the Royal Family in 1960.

While the birth of the Queen's third child was the object of world-wide interest, it was the wedding, with its medieval magnificence, that was to over-shadow everything else as the year's most spectacular royal event.

There were the fairy-tale elements of the marriage of the beautiful princess and the commoner, photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones. There was the glittering pageantry of the May wedding with the simple but moving exchange of vows before the great walls of Westminster Abbey. There were the cheering throngs of well-wishers and, finally, the honeymoon in the romantic Caribbean.

With the engagement announcement coming within days of the February birth of Prince Andrew, world attention was focussed on the Royal Family almost continuously for the first six months of the year. Seldom has there been such a contentment so-called "fairy-tale" stories.

TOURS CURTAILED

Readers were entertained with revealing from information on the diaper material for the baby princess to the latest tonic on the former girl friends of Armstrong-Jones. Hardly a day went by without some revelation hitting the front pages. It didn't stop during after Princess Margaret and her husband were settled in their residence at Kensington Palace.

Because of the birth and marriage many of the activities normally undertaken by the Royal Family were curtailed. Overseas tours were trimmed to a minimum, and formal events at home at least three visits to British were cancelled for much of the year.

The Queen and Prince Philip, who have been increasing their overseas visits yearly, understandably made drastic changes. Their longest official tour was to the Shetland Islands on the Royal Yacht Britannia. Prince Philip's longest lone journey was a four-day visit to Canada and the United States during which he opened the British Trade Fair in New York. The only time they went outside the United Kingdom together was on a private week-end visit to the Danish royal family in Copenhagen.

VISITED AFRICA

The travels of other members of the family were similarly held down. The Queen Mother made one three-week journey to Rhodesia. Princess Alexandra went to Ghana to attend the first Nigerian Independence Day celebrations Oct. 1, and to take part in the centenary celebrations of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada in Soest, Germany, in July.

The Duke of Gloucester was the only other member of royalty travelling abroad during the year. He spent several days in Cyprus—the first time royalty visited the island since it gained its independence—and he made two visits to British Army regiments in Germany.

In 1961, the travel programs will be much heavier.

The Queen and Prince Philip will carry the biggest share of it. They leave Jan. 20 on a six-week tour of India, Nepal, Pakistan and Iran. Then in May they make a state visit to Italy for three days. In November they begin a five-week visit to West Africa, touring Ghana, Gambia, Sierra Leone and Liberia.

The Duke and Duchess of Gloucester plan to visit Greece in May. The Duke is also planning at least three visits to British Army units in Germany.

The Queen Mother, the Duchess of Kent, Princess Alexandra, Princess Margaret and her husband all enter the new year without any overseas trips on the schedule. But spokesmen say this has little actual bearing on their activities since many trips are undertaken at relatively short notice.

18 Countries Rounding Out New Charter

PARIS (Reuters)—The United States and Canada today joined 18 European countries in rounding out the charter of a new international economic organization for its signing, expected Wednesday.

The Organization for Economic Co-Operation and Development (OECD) will succeed the post-war organization for European economic co-operation created in April, 1948, to rehabilitate west Europe's economy with American help.

The OECD's three main aims are:

1. To achieve the highest possible economic growth and employment and a rising standard of living in the member countries while maintaining financial stability.

2. To contribute to sound economic expansion in member as well as non-member countries in the process of economic development.

3 To contribute to the expansion of world trade on a multilateral, non-discriminatory basis in accordance with international obligations.

The OECD will consist of its founder members—Austria, Belgium, Britain, Denmark, France, West Germany, Greece, Iceland, Ireland, Italy, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Norway, Portugal, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and Turkey—plus the United States and Canada, associate members of the former organization.

Canada is represented at the meeting by Finance Minister Fleming and Trade Minister Hees, plus a group of advisers.

Electronics Co. Complains Of Overflow Ads in Mags

TORONTO (CP)—A Canadian electronics company today told the royal commission on publications that "overflow advertising from United States publications circulating in Canada" gives U.S. manufacturers a market advantage over domestic firms.

Dominion Electrohome Industries Limited of Kitchener, Ont., in a brief to the commission, stressed that "traditionally, the appliance, television and high-fidelity business is supported by heavy advertising and promotion budgets."

"U.S. companies have been able to win tremendous advantages in terms of name identification and product acceptance due to heavy overflow advertising from U.S. publications circulating in Canada.

"... Largely because of this name and product pre-condition, we have seen the big U.S. companies enter the Canadian market and, to a relatively short time, gain acceptance of a high order. This overflow and largely free advertising places us in equity as compared with a purely Canadian company in several ways.

IMPRESSIVE IMAGE

"1. An image of the U.S. company as one with highly-developed engineering and a powerful position in the U.S. market is very impressive to a Canadian purchaser.

"2. With such a platform in the mind of the Canadian consumer, equivalent dollars spent in Canada for advertising will carry much greater impact than the same dollars spent by a purely Canadian company.

"3. Mat services, layout advice and artistry from U.S. advertising are freely available to the Canadian subsidiary, reducing the Canadian investment in the development costs of advertising."

The brief said that "it is the opinion of our directors and officers ... that a truly Canadian magazine press, edited by Canadians for Canadians, is essential to the future of Canada. ...

"For Canadians to know themselves, a truly trans-Canada Canadian periodical press is essential. Also, to live effectively with others, Canadians must know themselves."

GROWING CITY — Madrid, the capital of Spain, is a wealthy, beautiful city in a poverty-stricken country. It already boasts the two tallest skyscrapers in Europe and is the scene of an active construction program. Shown here is Avenida de Jose Antonio, a main street. (CP PHOTO)

SPANISH SHEEP — This is a familiar sight in the wood-producing plains of northwest Spain. But economic development remains a key problem in the resources-poor country where ocean outnumber automobiles. Under a dictatorship for almost four decades, Spain now is taking first uncertain steps toward linking its economy with the rest of Europe. (CP PHOTO)

Spain Teeters on Brink Of Returning to Old Days Or Lurching Into Progress

Alan Harvey, chief of CP's London bureau, found an unenviable ideal future over-seeing policy during a tour of Spain. In this story he tells of the difficulty the nation is having making up its mind.

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MADRID (CP)—The coming months may decide whether Spain is to move into the modern world or lurch back into economic primitivism.

The issue is almost that stark. Over the last 16 months, totalitarian Spain has taken the first faltering steps toward "Europeanizing" an economy long encased in a cosy protective cocoon.

Now comes the next stage—and Spain hangs back.

Will it go boldly forward to return to the old easy ways? Observers say the cabinet is split on the issue.

It is an important question because economics hold the key to political development in this yellow - brown, resources-poor peninsula where oxen outnumber automobiles.

Through four decades of dictatorship, broken by a few years of fragile democracy, Spain has stood aloof from the rest of Europe. Now it is edging toward a new respectability, and Western watchers hope there will be no relapse.

"We hope that the opening of new economic windows will permit some political windows to be opened as well," said a senior diplomat.

DRAINED OF WEALTH

There are excuses for financial feebleness. In the searing Civil War, the country counted 1,000,000 dead and suffered shattering material loss. Gold worth millions of dollars was shipped to Russia for safekeeping, and there it stays.

In 1946, Spain recoiled under a United Nations diplomatic boycott. The wound went deep. People recall this event of 14 years ago as though it happened yesterday, and claim it rallied a prickly-proud nation around dictator Franco.

With no Marshall aid, Spain drifted into insolvency. Then came the dramatic decision—to "go European" and link with OEEC, the Organization for European Economic Co-operation.

Under agreements announced July 20, 1959, Franco's busted treasury got an aid cushion totalling $421,000,000 from OEEC and U.S. sources in return for pledges to liberate a muscle-bound economy. Measures included devaluation of the peseta, partial freeing of imports, controls on state spending and higher interest rates.

Overnight, the foreign exchange position was transformed. By last September, gold and foreign holdings had leaped to nearly $900,000,000. Foreign policy luxuriated in the new climate.

CLOSER RELATIONS

Fernando Maria Castiella, the foreign minister, visited European countries. Links with Franco tightened; Anglo-Spanish relations were marred only by the long dispute over Gibraltar; the prospect of a royal wedding between King Baudouin and Spain's Dona Fabiola erased say discord with Belgium.

Now the second stage of economic liberalization is due. And there are conflicting views.

One theory is that Spain is doing nicely. The agricultural sector has been 99 per cent freed, raw materials 75 per cent and manufactured goods 30 per cent. Therefore, it is said, Spain has only a little way to go in manufacturers to meet the OEEC minimum of 50 per cent, the target set for next March.

But there is some shaking of heads. An old inhabitant of Madrid says Spain is pulling the wool over OEEC eyes. An economic official said the second stage is being scotched.

Grapevine reports tell of official intervention in cases where imports threaten domestic industries in which important people have an interest. A big foreign oil company has been shut out. With politics and economics inextricably mixed, criticism is heard of the Instituto Nacional de Industria, a state monopoly.

CORRUPTION GOES ON

Vested interests and corruption are part of the system.

A word that describes shady ways of doing business is "enchufe," or electric plug. An "enchufista," or wire-puller, gets the full force of the financial current.

Social justice is a remote ideal, though Franco has fashioned something of a welfare state with health services, gleaming new hospitals and workers' universities. Opportunity is nevertheless restricted. A Madrid mechanic, outstanding in his profession, is emigrating to Toronto or Montreal because he can't see a future for his children here.

Five centuries ago this land of corridas and castanets, of feast days and fiestas, controlled the world's mightiest empire but it has always lacked intrinsic wealth. Natural resources are scanty. There is no oil and water is insufficient. With 46 per cent of the 30,000,000 population working on the land, Spain has the lowest agricultural yield in Europe and one of the highest, though declining, birthrates. Its annual national product per capita is about $310 compared with $1,800 in Canada.

ISLAND AMID POVERTY

Impressions in Madrid may be misleading. Here is a lovely city, spacious and luxurious, pressing itself on the two tallest skyscrapers in Europe, a warm-hearted capital bursting at the seams with new building. But it is a rich metropolis in a poor country, a jewel sparkling on a parched plateau.

It will be a long time before Spain achieves "a sociedad opulenta"—the affluent society. But things are probably better than they were.

An experienced observer said he feels the country is just approaching the crest of the economic hill after a long, hard pull.

Perhaps. It may be noted that conscript soldiers earn half a peseta a day, a fraction of a cent; that unskilled workers make less than a dollar; that 20,000 live in caves around Madrid; that professional people often do two jobs. But the old Madrid hand reminds you that workers no longer wear canvas shoes, as they did in the old days.

Perhaps there is something in the Spanish spirit that shuns the infrastructure of modern material facilitators. There are only 120,000 television sets (favorite: I Love Lucy) in the country.

"I can't understand it myself," said a Spanish acquaintance, glancing around in an animated cafe. These people seem here have barely enough to keep going. But they don't think much about tomorrow. We like to come here and drink. And there is always football and the bullfights.

We have so little money that money hardly matters."

Tomorrow, Spanish women are becoming emancipated.

Stirling

STIRLING — The Stirling Women's Institute members enjoyed a visit with the residents of the Home for the Aged, Belleville, a home of comforts, supervised by Mr. and Mrs. Ken Yorke.

The Stirling W.I. ladies put on an entertainment of readings, music and community singing, leading a "treat" for the folks. One of the gentlemen moved a vote of thanks.

It was heartwarming to have the folks joining in the singing, faces with smiles and a brilliant sparkle still can come to their eyes, what a privilege it is to share joys with others which add so much to one's Christmas spirit. The meaning of Christmas is gift giving but only in the way Jesus had done.

After the afternoon's program at the "Home" the ladies visited with different people especially those who couldn't come and join in the program.

The ladies voiced the opinion "it was good to be here."

Several societies visit these people and it is truly worth the time and effort. More of this work should be exercised. It is good for them and it is surely good for the visitors.

PLANS FAIL

BONN (Reuters)—Plans to sign a three-year trade agreement between West Germany and Russia fell through Monday night, apparently over the question of including West Berlin as part of West Germany.

Cards Marked 'Postage Due' To Be Delivered

OTTAWA (CP) — Christmas cards marked "postage due" by United States postal authorities will be delivered in Canada without collection of any additional postage from the addressees, Postmaster General William Hamilton announced Monday.

Last year some cards mailed in the U.S. and going to Canadian addresses didn't cross the border because they lacked sufficient postage.

This Christmas the U.S. authorities have decided that any such cards, which bear a return address will be returned to the sender. Those which do not will be taxed for postage due and forwarded to Canada.

The additional postage will not be collected by Canada to avoid embarrassment to the mailer in the U.S. and the addressee in Canada, Mr. Hamilton said.

WAS OLDEST PILOT

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP)—Funeral services were held Monday for Frank Coffyn, 82, last of the five original members of the Wright Brothers exhibition flying team and developer of many pioneer aids to aviation, who died Saturday. He was the oldest pilot in the United States. Orville Wright taught him to fly in 1910.

1960 in Review

A-SUB LAUNCHED — Britain's first nuclear-powered submarine Dreadnought is launched at Barrow-on-Furness, Lancashire, in a steady buildup of the Royal Navy's strength during 1960. About 80 per cent of the navy's ships, including a guided-missile cruiser, have been built in the last 10 years. The Dreadnought is expected to go into service in 1962. (CP Photo from UKIO.)

Britain Enters New Year With Smaller Armed Forces And Much Better Weapons

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Britain enters the new year with smaller armed forces, more atomic and hydrogen bombs, its first nuclear-powered submarine, and considerable criticism of its reliance on American weapons.

This year has seen some of the most significant changes in Britain's military might since the Second World War. Conscription ended after 21 years, total military manpower dropped to about 480,000 from 535,000, the RAF built up its fleet of atomic-armed bombers to more than 200, the navy scrapped its last battleship and its first A-sub came sliding down the ways.

Britain's dream of modern, streamlined services — developed in a five-year reorganization program—now is within reach.

But despite the remarkable accomplishments, the year is ending amid controversy. The trend to close military integration with the United States has stirred strong opposition. This was particularly evident when the U.S. Navy was granted port facilities in Scotland for its nuclear-armed submarines. Earlier, it blew up when the government cancelled the British Blue Streak missile in favor of an American model.

WANT INDEPENDENCE

Critics are arguing that with an annual defence budget of about £1,000,000,000 Britain should be free of all American strings no matter how intimate the alliance may be.

The government's answer is that duplication is a waste of money. Anyway, it says, what good is an alliance without complete co-operation?

An obvious effort to divert attention from the destructive might of hydrogen bombs, the government has sought to focus public attention on the buildup of its conventional strength. And it had some interesting facts to offer.

With the plan for an all-volunteer military services now virtually assured, the number of national servicemen during the year dropped to 80,000 from 125,000. At the same time the volunteer force climbed to 400,000 from 390,000.

CONSCRIPTION TO END

During 1961 the number of drafters will be cut by two-thirds and the last man is scheduled to be discharged in 1962. Then, with forces cut to fewer than 400,000 highly-trained men, Britain hopes to boast of its finest military force in history.

The government will spend a record £128,000 on advertising and public relations designed to boost recruiting. Officials are confident it will produce the necessary results.

Living conditions for servicemen have been improved. New uniforms are on the way, many unpopular jobs have been farmed out to civilians, and new trades have been introduced to stimulate interest.

The only major departure from the original five-year program occurred during the year when the government placed a contract for a new supersonic manned fighter plane. In 1957, when the program was launched, it was said that missiles would take over the job now done by flyers.

BOMBERS HAVE FUTURE

Two years ago, manned bombers were given a new lease on life. And now there is no indication when manned planes will be replaced by purely mechanical devices.

Until 1965, Britain's V-bombers will carry regular atomic and hydrogen bombs. After that they are scheduled to get the American Skybolt missile.

The Royal Navy in the last five years has received one new carrier, one new cruiser, its first guided missile ship, 13 new submarines — including the atomic - powered Dreadnought — 24 anti-submarine frigates and eight anti-aircraft frigates.)

This means that about 80 per cent of Royal Navy ships have been built in the last 10 years.

The navy is also the only service which has a manpower worry. Of its 85,000 men—its full quota for the 1962 target date—only about 400 are National Servicemen.

This compares with the army's 45,000 and the RAF's 15,000.

BACK MANNED FIGHTER — In a major departure from original plans, British defence strategists have decided manned fighter planes still play an important role in the RAF. Complete change-over from manned aircraft to mechanical missiles has been postponed. The piloted Swift jet carries an air-to-air missile attached to its wing ready for firing. (CP from UKIO.)

Bill to Provide Treatment Referred Back

TORONTO (CP) — A government bill to provide treatment instead of jail sentences for alcoholics was referred back to the standing committee on legal bills Tuesday night when it encountered opposition in the legislature.

Attorney/- General Roberts, who spoke in support of the bill for final reading, said his legal staff would review it to see whether there should be changes in the penalty section of the bill.

The bill, amending the penalty section of the Liquor Control Act, provides for a fine up to $50 or 30 days in jail or both, for a first offence; compulsory detention in a reclamation centre for up to 30 days for a second offence and voluntary treatment up to 90 days for subsequent offences.

Joseph Gould (L — Toronto Bracondale) said the amending bill gave power to a magistrate to send a first offender to jail for drunkenness. At present, a first offender may be fined from $10 to $50 or given 30 days in jail in lieu of payment.

"This piece of legislation makes no distinction between a first offender and a repeater," Mr. Gould said, adding that a person on a weekend spree could end up in a treatment centre.

Mr. Roberts said he would study Mr. Gould's suggestion that the bill stipulate only a fine for a first offender or a jail term in lieu of payment of the fine.

Premier Frost said if the new program proved useful treatment centres might be established in various parts of Ontario for the chronic drunkenness offender.

Canada Signs Pact to Help World's Undeveloped Lands

PARIS (Reuters) — Twenty countries including Canada and the United States today signed an agreement setting up a new economic organization whose major aim is to help underdeveloped countries.

Finance Minister Fleming signed for Canada during the brief ceremony formally establishing the Organization of Economic Co-operation and Development.

Fleming read the first half of his speech in English and the rest in French. He told the new group:

"For Canadians this occasion has very special significance. For us, the Atlantic has never been a barrier. Rather it has been a physical link to Europe, a great highway of commerce and migration for centuries. Today we impart a new significance and strength to the Atlantic bond."

Douglas Dillon, undersecretary of state, signed for the United States.

CREATE STRONG LINKS

Describing the agreement as a "historic document," Dillon said: "The step we now are taking after nearly a full year of intensive negotiation will forge a strong, new link between North Europe and North America.

"It represents a major advance in our efforts to strengthen the economy of the entire free world."

The agreement is designed to provide from North America and 18 Western European countries the kind of aid that put Europe's war-ravaged economy back on its feet.

The OECD is expected to start its work here next Sept. 30 as successor to the 18-member Organization for European Economic Co-operation.

The OEEC, in which Canada and the U.S. held only observer status, was able with large-scale American aid to salvage Western Europe's economies after the war.

WORK FINISHED

Its members felt that the OEEC had finished its work and that it now was time to join with Canada and the U.S. in creating new organization primarily aimed at giving economic and technical assistance to the countries of Latin America, Africa and Asia.

Two other aims of the OECD are:

1. To aid the development of the world economy by gaining the economic growth, employment and standard of living in member-countries.

2. To aid the expansion of world trade.

6.6 PER CENT

across Canada—is the third based on the recently-adopted official measure of unemployment. This figure covers 401,000 people "without work and seeking work" plus 36,000 on "temporary lay-off" up to 30 days.

Of every 100 persons unemployed at mid-November, about 35 were men. Of these, 42 were married men. About 19 of every 100 jobless persons were under 20 years of age, the bureau said.

INCREASE SMALLER

The 61,000 increase in unemployment between October and November was slightly lower than the 8,000 jump in the comparable period last year.

The report said that about 71 per cent of those without work and seeking employment had been out of a job for five months of less. Another 15 per cent have been unemployed for four to six months and 13 per cent for seven months or more.

Changes in employment in general followed seasonal patterns in all regions. Unemployment was higher than last year in the Atlantic, Ontario and Prairie regions. There was little change over the year in the Quebec and Pacific regions.

However, on a month-to-month basis, employment declined from October to November of this year.

Most of those released during the month were in seasonal industries—a little less than half in agriculture and most of the remainder in construction and manufacturing.

ONTARIO FIGURES

Here is the unemployment picture in Ontario:

The unemployed figure for mid-November was 127,000, compared with 120,000 at mid-October and 104,000 in November, 1959. This was 5.3 per cent of the labor force, up from five per cent in October and 4.5 per cent in November last year.

Layoffs occurred in primary iron and steel, shipbuilding and heavy electrical machinery and equipment. Employment levels continued low in farm implements, heavy machinery and road-building equipment plants.

In contrast, there were better job recalls in the automobile and fender plants as well as some rehiring by makers of aircraft and railway rolling stock. Publicutting operations were at a high level and construction work remained steady. The over-all decline of 15,000 in employment from October to November was said to be about normal for this time of year.

MADOC

E.M. Burnside OAC Lecturer

MADOC — Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph has announced the appointment of Edward B. Burnside, B.S.A., of Madoc, as lecturer in the department of animal husbandry.

A graduate of Madoc High School, he obtained his B.S.A. at O.A.C. in 1959 when he was awarded the Cockshutt Scholarship for post graduate studies in dairy cattle breeding.

He has continued his studies at O.A.C. and will receive his Master's Degree at the fall convocation of the University of Toronto.

As a student he was president of the "College Royal" and was an active participant in student affairs and athletics.

His duties at the college will include teaching and research in the field of animal breeding.

Mr. Burnside is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Burnside of Madoc Township. His wife, the former Lauren Mavelle, of Windsor, will graduate from Macdonald Institute in the spring.

DESCRIBES NEW IRELAND

TORONTO (CP)—A picture of a new, industrialized Ireland, free of traditional myths about the country, was described here by Ireland's first Irish ambassador to Canada, William Patrick Fay. He said an industrialization program adopted 12 years ago has seen a rise in employment and new opportunities for young persons in business and industry.

Shipping Year At Lakehead Said Completed

FORT WILLIAM(CP) — The 1960 Lakehead navigation season ended Tuesday when the Canadian Steamship Lines' Fort Henry cleared with a cargo of newsprint, bound for Detroit.

Harbormaster Capt. Duncan A. Beaver reported the vessel cleared about 4:30 p.m., shortly after another CSL vessel, the Nagarry, departed with a cargo of grain.

The ice-breaking tug James Whalen arrived here about 4 p.m. It is to winter here and assist in opening the harbor next spring.

Capt. Beaver described the 1960 season as "very good" and said total tonnage handled was about 2,000,000 tons better than last year. Total shipments this year were "nearly 14,000,000 tons," including grain, iron ore, newsprint and other cargoes.

WILL RELEASE REPORT

He said in an interview that an official report on tonnage and other shipping details will be released soon, probably early next year.

Capt. Beaver estimated the number of ships that docked here at about 1,400.

In 1959, grain ships alone numbered 1,025. An additional 376 ships carried away iron ore from northwestern Ontario mines.

The 1960 season opened April 10. The season saw 95 ocean vessels visit the Lakehead through the St. Lawrence Seaway to load 23,376,944 bushels of grain. In 1959 — first year of the seaway's operation — 81 "ships" loaded 19,300,000 bushels.

Odds, Ends From the Pen of Knight

By HERSCHEL HART

Dr. Frederick Lincoln died in Washington, D. C., after a prolonged illness, at the age of 72 years. Burial was at Arlington Cemetery, Virginia.

The sportsmen of this Nation and, for that matter, the world, have lost a valuable ally in the passing of Fred Lincoln. We who knew him have lost a wonderful companion and a staunch friend.

The study of birds was his life interest. From 1913 to 1939, he was the Curator of Ornithology in the Museum of Natural History in Colorado, his native state. In 1920, Fred went with the U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey and he continued with its successor, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service. At the time of his death he was assistant to the Director of Fish and Wildlife Research of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife where he devoted his profound knowledge and experience to wildlife matters to special and technical research projects.

It was he, as a Federal wildlife specialist, who organized and directed the first government-sponsored bird-banding project in America... The results of that work, from a monumental job, enabled him, in the early 1920's, to define a pattern of the main flyways used by waterfowl during migrational movements. To-day the migratory bird hunting regulations are based on the flyway concept as he developed it.

Fred was a prolific writer on ornithological and conservation subjects, having turned out between 300 papers and popular articles. His writing appeared in all sorts of publications, ranging from technical journals, scientific circulars and leaflets to handbooks, magazines and newspapers. He wrote "The Migration of American Birds" and co-authored number of other books. His latest publication was with Dr. Ira N. Gabrielson in producing "Birds of Alaska" in 1959.

Awards came to Fred from time to time in token of the whole-some work he had done and was doing, among them an honorary membership in Denmark's leading ornithological association, an honorary Doctor of Science degree from the University of Colorado in 1956, and the Department of the Interior's Distinguished Service Award that same year.

While Fred loved birds, he was not blasted about it. He believed that birds were put here for a purpose. Thus, he enjoyed hunting as they are supposed to be hunted—in the duck blind, even as you and I, watching the birds and shooting his share. A few years ago, while hunting near my home with the late Dr. Logan J. Bennett and me, I saw him kill his last woodcock ever with a gun, or, for that matter, shoot.

It will not be easy to replace Fred. His passing leaves a wide gap in the ranks. He was an able man in his life's work, a fine gentleman and a faithful friend. We shall miss him sorely.

NEW LINE SIZES FROM POLY LINES

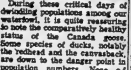
For the past 50 years or more, the sizing of fly lines has been designated alphabetically as to diameters. For example, A means .060", B .070" and so on. With tapered lines, the two extreme diameters are shown. For instance, HDH would indicate a double-taper ranging from .046" through the line's length to .046" at the taper tip.

Well, that was all right so long as fly lines were braided from silk cocoon with linseed oil dressing. With the introduction of plastics, the line sizes ceased to mean very much. While differences in specific gravities of the materials used necessitated heavier and new sizings, a new systemic dressing speeded up manufacture, including final blessed oil method.

The line companies for years have been considering the revision of size designation. Recognizing that the weight of the line is the vital factor, line sizes should be graded with that in mind. Diameters no longer tell the whole story.

Word now comes from my good friend, Dick Jessiman, of Cardinal Line Company, that Mr. Leon Chandler, V. P. of Cortland, has been meeting with a committee set up by the Associated Textile Manufacturers Association on the problem of line sizes. They have come up with this solution.

Thirty feet of the line in question is the determinating factor. The weight of this 30 feet is measured in grains. The grain is a convenient unit of weight of the English system of weights. Its definition is from wheat, being a grain of wheat taken from the middle of the wheat ear. Seven thousand grains equal one pound avoirdupois.



Now lines are designated simply by numbers, starting at No. 1 for an H line (former designation). Thus a No. 1 line (in the Cortland 333 floating line) weighs 80 grains. A No. 2 weighs 90 grains, and so on. Your line dealer will have the chart.

Additional designation will be added to the basic number for "Floating, "S" for Sinking, "I" for Intermediate. The prefix "DT" denotes a double-taper line. Thus a line now designated "HDH" (Cortland 333 floating line) weighs a double taper, class 9, floating line. Sounds complicated but it isn't actually. By referring to the chart your dealer can give you exactly the line you want — model, type and weight. That is something he can't do under the old system. Now he, and you, have to guess.

Additionally, the new system is not perfect by any means. The change must be made gradually. And during the transition period both the new and the old designations will be used on the label. I, for one, will welcome this change. Often I am asked to recommend lines for certain rods. Under the old system, I, too, had to guess. Now exact information can be given.

CANADA GEESE

During these critical days of dwindling populations of our waterfowl, it is quite reassuring to note the comparatively healthy status of the Canada goose, the former race of ducks, notably the redhead and the canvasback, are down to the danger point in population numbers. None of these birds can be shot legally this year. But the Canada goose seems to be doing all right.

In Wisconsin's Horicon Marsh which, since time began, has been one of the important way-stations for hunters, this year the conservation boys report a concentration of 80,000 geese—the largest number ever recorded.

Missouri reports a concentration of these big birds numbering 87,000 on the combined areas of two refuges.

PEOPLE I DON'T WANT TO MEET

In Ishpeming, Michigan, lives a man named Roy Cardew, evidently he lives in the suburbs of the country. Recently he was awakened by dogs barking and upon investigation he found seven black bears in a maple tree in his yard. He grabbed his rifle, ran out, and shot six of the seven bear on an adult and five cubs. The seventh, an adult, managed to escape.

Now, I don't know what the Michigan bear law is and I don't care. In these days of vanishing frontiers and increasing scarcity of game, this sort of thing is completely inexcusable. Any man can perpetrate such wholesale slaughter but one for an AP release with six dead bear in beyond my understanding. How, I wonder, can he reconcile himself with his conscience and put in a good night's sleep? As I say, Mr. Cardew is well up on the list of people I don't want to meet.

Fish Take Up But Lake Ontario Catch Lower

TORONTO — The preliminary estimate of commercial fish production in the first nine months of 1960, shows 28,645,000 pounds landed at a value of $3,050,000 to the fishermen. This compares favorably (up 0.7%) with the 28,432,000 pounds estimated on a similar basis for the first nine months of 1959.

In Lake Ontario, production dropped 22.8% to 1,215,000 pounds with a landed value of $201,000. Perch produced increased substantially from 16,000 to 158,000 pounds, and white perch reported, from less than a thousand pounds to 18,000. Sunfish was up from 46,000 pounds to 92,000 pounds; and rock bass, from 7,000 pounds to 23,000 pounds. Bullhead and catfish combined totalled 184,000 pounds with little change. Carp production dropped from 343,000 pounds to 237,000 pounds. Whitefish landing were down from 240,000 pounds to 158,000; yellow pickerel, down from 89,000 pounds to 72,000; smelt from 183,000 to 127,000 pounds; and eels were down slightly to 99,000 pounds.

Once Proud Hawks Have Flopped Badly

Sport Slices...

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. LARVER, Sports Editor

Outside of the National Hockey League, the 1960-61 puck season could be dubbed next spring "The Year of the Deep Red."

Win, lose or draw, the Montreal Canadiens and the Toronto Maple Leafs have no worries attendance-wise. Both the M. L. Gardens and the Forum are packed when the Leafs and the Habs entertain league guests.

The fortunes of war, however, tend to fluctuate the attendance in Boston, New York and Detroit.

In the Eastern Professional League, the habitants are flocking to the Bull Auditorium, whenever the free-wheeling B. O. Canadiens pay host to the league underdogs. Anything under 3,500 sees Sammy Pollock and his investigators down town to see where the fire is.

But it is a vastly different story in other centres of the E.P.L. Billy Reay, Soo coach, told this corner when he was here a week or so ago that the Shirks are averaging 2,000

Kingston is ranging anywhere between 1,500 (one night recently the take was down to 1,533) and 2,100. Sudbury Wolves reported a season's high a few nights ago of 3,500 when their champions played there. The Kitchener Beavers are playing to a lot of empty seats in their beautiful arena.

On the Ontario Hockey Association senior circuit, the "Standing Room Only" signs are misleading in dark storerooms.

The Windsor Bulldogs in senior "A" days, when the Mc-Farlands played there on a Sunday, and other clubs too for that matter, pulled in crowds ranging from 3,500 to 4,000 apiece.

Now if the Dogs attract anything over 1,500 they know there's no professional football game in Detroit.

The other clubs of the senior loop, according to reports from the western part of the province, are playing to crowds of 600-700. After arena and other expenses are paid, it is fairly obvious the players won't need extra ammunition to take home their share of the "share-the-wealth" profits.

That here is an odd situation.

Three examples from the Niagara Falls (NY) Gazette and the St. Catharines Standard speak for themselves.

Said the Niagara sports columnist: "Hap Emms and his Niagara Falls Flyers when they were playing in Barrie last season averaged less than 1,000 in junior "A" hockey. Last night in their first home games in the Colonel City this fall, just under 2,000 a game."

"Hap's team now pays 20 per cent of the gross gate as rental and shows a profit of about $1,500 a week. And it could increase. A check of license plates around the Falls' arena shows some 25 per cent of those at games hail from New York State, probably from just over the bridge."

"The Barrie people were actually peeved when Hap took his team out of there to play in the Big Roar centre, but who can blame him?"

Now listen to what sports editor Jack Gatecliffe of the St. Catharines Standard has to say:

"It is rather alarming to see the apathy with which the present Teepee team is being treated by local hockey followers.

"It is giving away no trade secrets that the relatively low attendance at games this season has caused great concern not only among the Teepees executive but also throughout the entire Colonel City sporting organization."

"Are St. Catharines hockey fans tired of junior "A" hockey or is it just a case of a letdown after a Canadian championship has been won?

"This is not meant as a threat, but merely as a statement of fact," writes Gatecliffe.

"If the attendance at Teepee hockey games doesn't improve after the turn of the schedule in late 1961, it is well within the realm of possibility that Chicago may decide to channel its players elsewhere in the future."

"It happened in Barrie. It could happen here."

Senior "A" hockey folded in St. Catharines because of lack of support. Junior "A" could go the same way."

It is rather a strange situation inasmuch as St. Catharines is only some 14 or 15 miles away from Niagara Falls.

But the statement "it is well within the realm of possibility that Chicago may decide to channel its players elsewhere" intrigues this department.

A few days are at a press conference Belleville Junior sponsor H. J. McFarland stated "We hope to have junior "A" or professional hockey here in the Very near future."

Shorts Stops Mr. Martinez

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cecil Shorts, 32, stopped Vince Martinez, 31, at 2:46 of the fourth round of their scheduled 10-round welterweight battle Tuesday night.

The Cleveland boxer, bidding for a chance at the welter title, from the two judges and referee.

knocked Martinez down four times in the fourth round before referee Jackie Davis stopped the fight. The punch that ended the scrap was a vicious right to the chin of the Miami Beach, Fla., veteran.

In the co-feature of the card, Pete Rademacher, 200, of Columbus, Ga., won a unanimous decision over Willi Besmanoff, 205, Detroit. The former Olympic heavyweight champion got a chance at the welter title, from the two judges and referee.

Won One In Last Nine

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Chicago Black Hawks have been the National League's biggest bust in the last several weeks.

The Hawks, considered as most likely to give Montreal Canadiens a run for first place in the early weeks of the hockey season, have won only once in their last nine starts.

Tonight they get a chance to consolidate their hold on fourth place when they play host to the troublesome New York Rangers in the league's only game.

Rangers are in fifth place with 21 points, six less than the Hawks, but have been moving up lately with four wins and two ties in their last eight games.

DEFENCE IS FURIOUS

Chicago hasn't been scoring any goals and its defence has been porous, to say much. Bucko Pilous says he has no intention of giving goalie Glenn Hall rest. Hall has seen his goals against average climb to 3.07—the poorest mark he's had since coming into the NHL with Detroit Red Wings in 1955-56.

"Hall is the heart of the team," says Pilous. "Sure he has let a few soft ones go by . . . but he's entitled to the odd lapse.

"If other members of the club were as consistent as Hall we'd be breathing down Canadiens' neck for the league lead."

Hawks have fallen 13 points behind the Montreal Canadiens.

CLAIM A MODEST RECORD

In "the nine games they've scored a modest 19 goals and allowed 35.

Pilous says benching Hall, who has won 203 in 203 consecutive league games, would be "like cutting off my right arm."

"The blame rests with the other members of the club," he says. "They haven't been skating or checking as they should and as a result are giving the puck away and in so doing making a sitting-duck out of Hall in goal.

"But we have problems that we can't lick. I think this team will snap out of it."

Leafs Recall Edmundson

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Punch Imlach of the National Hockey league Toronto Maple Leafs announced Tuesday that Gerry Edmundson has been recalled from Rochester Americans of the American League as an emergency replacement. Leafs are plagued with injuries.

Looking ayer the Leaf lineup, Imlach said that Captain George Armstrong, defence man Carl Brewer and forwards Ron Stewart and Larry Regan definitely will be out for at least another three games.

Dick Duff, injured in last week-end's home-and-home series with Chicago Black Hawks, will not play Thursday at Montreal against the league-leading Canadiens although he may be dressed for the Saturday night game here against Boston and Sunday's game at New York.

To top things off, goalkeeper Johnny Bower was taken to hospital Tuesday to have a footless cut stitched after being struck by a skate. Bower was expected to stay to close the cut but he'll be back in net Thursday.

"The cut was nothing serious" club spokesman said.

Soccer Pros Reject Offer

LONDON (AP) — Professional soccer players from clubs in England and Wales have rejected offers of a new wage scale and contract which gave one month's notice of a strike.

The move was taken by a meeting in London representing about one-third of England's 5,000 soccer professionals. Other meetings of players in the Midlands and northern England are scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday.

A strike would bring the English League soccer program to a standstill.

British Tennis Experts

Hail Italy's Victory

LONDON (AP)— British lawn tennis experts today hailed Italy's entry into the Davis Cup challenge round and gave the European champions a 50-50 chance of defeating Australia.

"It now is possible for the Italians to take the cup away from the Australians," said Dan Maskell, chief coach at the British Lawn Tennis Association. "It would do the game good to get the cup back to Europe."

Britain was the last European country to hold the cup, 30 years ago. It has since been monopolized by the United States and Australia.

The Italians must have a big chance, said George Worthington, professional at the Wimbledon All - England Lawn Tennis Club. "If they do get a grip on the cup, they'll be almost unbeatable on hard courts."

Davis Cup matches in Australia are played on grass courts.

Italy reached the challenge round by eliminating Britain on Monday in the interzone finals at Perth, Australia. The champions-to-be round is set for next June 30-28.

British newspapers gave Jaroslav Drobny, former Wimbledon and Egyptian champion, no chance of repeating his victory. Drobny had offered his coaching services to Britain but was turned down. He then joined the Italians.

Aces Trump Indians 4-2

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec Aces climbed into a three-way tie for first place with the American Hockey League Tuesday night by defeating league - leading Springfield Indians 4-2 before a crowd of 2,313.

The Indians retained a 12-point lead over the idle second-place Cleveland Barons and a one-point place with the Aces are Buffalo Bisons and Hershey Bears.

Michel Harvey led the Quebec attack with goals while singles went to Michel Labadie and Gerry Collins.

Defensive scorers were Bruce Cline and Bill Sweeney.

Aces took a 2-1 lead in the second period after a scoreless opening period. They outscored the Indians by the same margin in the third.

Referee Art Skov handed out 10 minor penalties, six going to the Aces. Cline left came while Quebec's Collins was in the penalty box.

Marcel Paille stopped 20 shots for the Springfield net while Gerry McNeil of Aces stopped saide 15.

Sox Hurler Wins A.L. Mound Title

BOSTON (AP)— Husky Frank Baumann, strong young left-hander with Chicago White Sox won the American League's 1960 pitching championship with a 2.68 earned run average.

Official league pitching averages were released Tuesday, confirming unofficial averages announced at the close of the season.

He was 13-6 last season, completing seven of 20 starts with two shutouts. In 185 innings he allowed only 11 home runs—one in every 16 innings—a league best.

Baumann of Detroit, who lost more than he won, was second with 2.79. The slim right-hander led in games pitched and the league in strikeouts, whiffing 201 in 252 innings.

He and Baumann were the only pitchers qualifying for the leadership finishing 130 innings or more) who had an earned run mark below 3.00.

Would Expand Hull Arena Into Centre

HULL, Que. (CP) — Hull city council was asked by its arena commission Sunday night to approve a $1,000,000 plan to extend facilities at the Hull Arena. No city finances would be required for the plan. If the expansion project, council was told.

Ald. Donat Gareau, a member of the commission, said provincial government grants, arena profits and private donations would, within five years, cover the whole cost of a curling rink, swimming pool, gymnasium seating alleys, outside tennis courts and a baseball park.

Council postponed its decision to the next meeting.

Each Selects 28 Players
New Loops Pick Up $4 Million Tab

BOSTON (AP) — Officials of the Washington and Los Angeles teams go behind closed doors today to pick the players who will stock their new American league teams.

Each newcomer will select 28 players from a pool of 126 provided by the eight existing teams. The price tag on each player is $75,000. It amounts to the biggest player transaction in baseball history. At least $4.2 million will change hands before the meeting breaks up.

Both general managers, Fred Haney of Los Angeles and Edward Doherty of Washington, were generally optimistic.

"Once we get our squad picked we'll be able to do some manipulating," Haney said. "The players in the pool are not so bad-looking."

"At least we'll get a start," Doherty agreed.

WILL FLIP A COIN

Each team must select 10 pitchers, the infielders, outfielders, and two catchers. The newcomer ak players can be for any

'Bus-Boys Meet Bell-Hops'

Macs, Whitby Tonight

Gordie Bell and Bus Gagnon, a couple of old lacrosse enemies," and later team mates, will face each other from behind opposite goals at Memorial Arena tonight when Bell-hops Bell-lands play host to the Whitby Hillcrests.

The Macs, coached by Bell and the Hillcrests, coached by Gagnon, will meet head on in a very important OHA Eastern Junior "B" Hockey League fixture here at 8.30.

First place, or at least a share of it, is the stake up for grabs in tonight's contest.

The McFarlands, with only a loss in their last two games, can climb into a deadlock with Peterborough by defeating the Hillcrests. Peterborough has nine points, the Macs seven.

Whitby, on the other hand, can take over the six-team loop's top rung all alone with a victory over Bellevigils. Kingston and Whitby are tied for second place with eight points apiece. It's a very tight league this year with only clubs and with the short 20-game schedule, every game is a big most importance. The Macs' next game will be one week from tonight against Peterborough here.

Belleville and Whitby have met once before this year, the opening game in Whitby, with Belleville squeezing out a close 6-5 win. Gagnon will have his players fighting all out to gain revenge tonight.

Coach Bell expects to have his squad at full strength for the tilt although high-scoring centre Gary Geyer's leg is still a question mark. He missed the club's last game of Kingston.

And tonight will mark the first

Bulldogs Top Senior Race

WINDSOR (CP)—Members of the leading Windsor Bulldogs continue to dominate the Ontario senior group scoring race, unofficial figures released Tuesday show. They include the game of Dec. 11.

Joe Zorica with 13 goals and 20 assists for 33 points has an eight-point grip on the top spot. Teammates Ray Brown and coach Joe Klukay are tied with 25 apiece.

Brown leads in goals scored department with 19 while Zorica's 33 assists lead Klukay by two.

Tied for fourth are Stratford Indians' Billy Flick and Windsor's Jack Costello with 21 points. Strathroy Rockets' Jack McCreight has 19 and Windsor's Lou Bendo and Strathroy's Art Sullivan and Paul Oliver have 18 apiece.

Ross Childs of Windsor has already 13 goals in 10 games to lead the loop's goaltenders with a 2.1 average. Second is Bud Derrick of Newtonbrook Athletics with a 3.4 mark.

Sidelined at the circuit is Stratford's Bill Ramsay with 60 penalty minutes served.

Patterson Wins Ring Writers Top Award

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Patterson, the first man to regain the world heavyweight boxing championship, Tuesday was named winner of the Edward J. Neil memorial plaque as "fighter of the year" for 1960. The award was made by the Boxing Writers' Association.

It was the second time that Patterson, still a proud fighter, has been voted the Neil award, named in memory of the Associated Press sports writer who was killed in 1956 while covering the Spanish Civil War. The other double winner was Carmen Basilio in 1957 and 1957.

Patterson was the youngest to win the heavyweight crown when he knocked out Archie Moore in the fifth round, Nov. 30, 1956. That made him the Neil winner for that year. .

Ingemar Johansson, June 26, 1959; in a shocking upset, Patterson bounced back from that third round knockout and flattened the previously unbeaten Swede in the first round of their rematch last June 20.

Patterson polled 71 of the 76 award Jan. 17 at the writers' 35th annual dinner.

Call Mobster From Cell For Quiz

By G. MILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate boxing probers were slated to call mobster Frankie Carbo from his prison cell for questioning today about his role as an underworld czar of professional boxing.

Carbo is serving a two - year sentence in New York on state charges of illegal undercover manipulations in big, time prizefights.

The Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee decided to call him, after hearing testimony that Carbo for years seemingly held vast power to make or break a boxer or manager through his influence.

He was named as close to the top officials of International Boxing Clubs which were broken up by the courts as a monopolistic group controlling the staging of championship bouts.

Carbo has been arrested five times on murder charges but never convicted. He is a reputed one time gunman for the old Murder, Inc., mob.

This is the last scheduled day of this phase of hearings in which the subcommittee is exploring the extent of gangster influence in boxing.

Carbo still faces extortion conspiracy charges in Los Angeles.

He is accused of trying to muscle in on the ring earnings of former champion Don Jordan.

In testimony Tuesday Charles (Sonny) Liston, the top contender for Floyd Patterson's crown, swore that if underworld figures are cutting in on his ring earnings, he never knew it. "He said he'd get rid of them if he ever finds they do."

Liston, who has a spectacular 30 wins, one loss boxing record and a long record of arrests in St. Louis, insisted he was unaware that either Frank (Blinky) Palermo of Philadelphia or John Z. Vitale, a St. Louis bootlimn, have acted as his undercover managers.

His listed manager is Joseph P. (Pep) Barone of Allentown, Pa.

Liston said his first information that Palermo and Vitale might have cut themselves in on his earnings came from testimony in the hearings.

The boxer, who said he can't read or write, denied knowledge of a letter bearing his signature and sent to former lightweight champion Ike Williams last May 15. The latter expressed faith that "Frank and Pep" would get Liston a crack at the championship. He said he would know whether the "Frank" mentioned meant Palermo, because he doesn't believe he ever dictated such a letter.

He also said he can't recall having made five long distance telephone calls to Vitale or Vitale's girl friend, Millie Allen, in St. Louis. John G. Bonnell, subcommittee special counsel, told the fighter the St. Louis police had found records of these phone calls.

Liston said he did call Miss Allen once, when his brother-in-law was looking for a job and he thought she could help.

Taylor May Replace Brown For Title

NEW YORK (AP)— Jim Taylor, Green Bay Packers' crunching fullback, rates a solid chance to win the National Football League ground - gaining title which has belonged to Jimmy Brown of Cleveland Browns since he entered the league four years ago.

Taylor has rolled up 1,508 yards in helping the Packers to the brink of their first Western Conference title since 1944. He is only 58 yards behind Brown and each has a game to play in the 12-game regular season.

But Brown faces New York Giants, the league's stingiest team against the rush, Sunday, while Taylor goes against Los Angeles Rams Saturday.

Quarterback Milt Plum of Cleveland leads the league's passers with a 62.9 percentage, is first in average gain of 8.33 and his percentage of interceptions with .01, having had only one pass pilfered all year. Plums statistics have gained 2,001 yards and scored 17 touchdowns. He has completed 132 of 210 throws.

Quarterback Johnny Unitas of Baltimore Colts leads in yards gained with 2,929, breaking Sammy Baugh's single - season record by one yard.

'Lip' Thinks He's Being Blackballed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Leo Durocher says he was never offered a job as manager of Los Angeles's new American League team and that he believes there may be a conspiracy among club owners to keep him out of baseball.

"I'm not too much concerned with losing the Los Angeles job as with the general pattern," Durocher told columnist Melvin Durslag of the Examiner Tuesday. "Somebody has put in a knock for me and I don't seem to be wanted.

"They may think I'm too controversial. I have never weighed my words. I always say what's on my mind. Maybe sometimes this isn't good. A guy like me makes a lot of enemies. When things were good with me, I probably stepped on a lot of toes, without even knowing it. These birds may be the ones now giving me the knock.

"I can take the knocks, but I can't take a blackball when I'm trying to find a job."

Durocher, 55, formerly managed the old Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants. The new Angeria job with Los Angeles Angels went to Bill Rigney Monday.

SITES REJECTED

TORONTO (CP) — Two urban sites for a multi-purpose sport stadium seating 60,000 persons were rejected Tuesday by planning commissioner Matthew B. Lawson in a report to the Toronto Planning Board. Commissioner Lawson rejected Ramsden Park and Rosedale as possible sites because valuable parkland would be destroyed. He suggested more consideration be given to three other urban sites, Riverdale Park, Exhibition Place and the present Maple Leaf Stadium site.

Yankees Go Home

Tennis Aussies Irked

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)— The two youngest members of the United States Davis Cup squad left for home today, irritating Australian tennis officials who said the Americans had cut their exhibition appearance scheduled for January.

Dennis Ralston, 18, of Bakersfield, Calif., and Chuck McKinley, 19, of St. Louis left by air with assistant captain Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of Dallas.

Australian tennis officials were irritated by the abrupt pullout, saying they had been promised an appearance of Ralston and McKinley. The Australian national c h a m p i o n s h i p s starting Jan. 19 at Melbourne.

"It is true Ralston and McKinley had intended to stay," said David Freed, U.S. captain, "but when we were eliminated from the Davis Cup competition the picture changed. They would have to stay around for a month without playing in any tournament.

RETURNED FOR XMAS

"They wanted to be home for Christmas and, under the circumstances, I agreed it is probably best."

Earl (Butch) Buchholz of St. Louis decided to remain in Australia and sign a professional tennis contract as planned.

Barry Mackay of Dayton, Ohio, the starter also had decided on the jump to pro ranks, said he wanted more time to think it over.

Withdrawal of the two youngsters from the Australian nationals followed Australian charges of poor sportsmanship on the part of the Americans and a report that they had wrecked their dressing room in Perth in a fit of rage after losing the interzone finals to Italy.

Freed denied the latter charge and demanded a retraction from the Sydney newspaper (The Sun) which gave the story front page headlines.

Royals Hold Hull-Ottawa To 1-1 Tie

MONTREAL (CP)— Last-place Montreal Royals surprised Hull-Ottawa Canadiens Tuesday night by holding the runaway Eastern Professional Hockey league leaders to a 1-1 tie.

Reggie Grieg put Royals ahead at 19:21 of the first period on a blueish shot, set up by Lalo Denis and Skippy Burchell.

Don Boyda, last season's playoff champions but cellar dwellers most of this season, had only the lead throughout the penalty-free, second period.

But Hull - Ottawa came back strongly in the third period and defenceman George Bouchard fired in a 20-footer on a pass from Yves Locas for their tying marker.

Fast-skating and hard-checking Royals, without three regular defencemen and using third string goalie Claude Cyr, earned them the tie.

The result left Canadiens, unbeaten in their last 10 games with 45 points and royals with 18 shots.

Cyr stopped 27 shots, 11 in the third period, while Ed Johnston of Hull-Ottawa turned aside 16 shots.

Only two minor penalties were called by referee Bruce Sims. Neither figured in the scoring.

Stewart Kids Quiz Panel

TORONTO (CP)—Ron Stewart, halfback for the 1960 Grey Cup champion Ottawa Rough Riders, missed Tuesday night before a studio and television audience that Montreal Alouettes must win an interest in Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Stewart made the suggestion during the CBC panel program Front Page Challenge when panelist Blair Fraser pressed him for a players' viewpoint on the multi-million dollar trade of Alouette quarterback Sam Etcheverry and Bill Mitchell, Tiger-Cats to the other Big Four league club.

Many of those watching the program thought Stewart was making the statement on the basis of information or rumor but later in an interview he stressed the idea was "only speculation on my part."

The question wasn't supposed to have come up at all." he said. "But Blair Fraser kept pumping me for an answer and I came up at the spur of the moment with the only angle I could figure.' Earlier this season Stewart was judged the outstanding Canadian pro football player for 1960.

TWO PLAYERS DIE

GLASGOW (AP) — Two Scottish soccer players died Tuesday of injuries suffered in Saturday's matches. Roy Hughes, a 17-year-old schoolboy, bumped heads with another player and was knocked out. He revived and finished the match before being taken to hospital. Jimmy McNulty, 28, also suffered a head injury. He slammed into a brick wall at full speed.

Western Hockey

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Lucien Dechesne, portly goalkeeper in the pace-setting Calgary Stampeders, has made a timely return to Western Hockey League action following an ankle injury which forced him to the sidelines for several weeks.

He picked up the injury with five minutes remaining in a game against Vancouver Canucks Nov. 26. Calgary was leading 1-0 and Dechesne insisted on finishing his night's work. The Stamps held on to win 1-0.

Dechesne got back into play last Saturday and blanked Vancouver again as Stamps won 2-0.

He held Victoria Cougars scoreless for 53 minutes and 35 seconds Tuesday night as Stampeders won 3-0 to stay two points ayead of the second - place Canucks, who beat Winnipeg Warriors 4-2.

Cody Yelpaval gave Calgary a 1-0 lead when he scored on a 30-foot screened shot. Ron Leopold got the winning goal. It was his 22nd of the season and tied him with Norm Jashenko in the league scoring lead. Doug Mousley broke Dechene's shutout.

Cougars coach George Agar unveiled the latest newcomer to the Victoria squad, defenceman Geordie Kerr, formerly of Seattle Ste Marie Thunderbirds of the Eastern Professional League. He gave a good account of himself.

At Vancouver, Lorne Davis and Howie Hughes shot Warriors into a 2-0 first-period lead. But Canucks bounced back to beat Jack after two periods and clinched it with 31 seconds remaining in the game.

Larry Popein and Larry Cahan got the first two goals for Vancouver and Danny Belisle added the other two. Belisle whom Canucks obtained from Kitchener Beavers of the EPHL, is due to join the Canucks for scoring punch, picked up his 11th and 12th goals.

Rod Gilbert Takes Over Junior Lead

TORONTO (CP)—Rod Gilbert of the high-flying Guelph Royals vaulted from third to first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A scoring race when he contributed five goals and three assists in three games last week.

The crafty right winger has a league - leading 21 goals and 15 assists in 16 games.

Official figures which included Monday's game, show Gilbert has collected 35 points, three more than Peterborough Peter Wayne Boddy, one in hospital with a concussion. Boddy has scored 15 times and assisted on 17 others.

Doug Senior of Peterborough moved into third place in the scoring race with 28 points on 10 goals and 14 assists. Jean Ratelle, Gilbert's linemate and centre, is tied with Murray Hall of St. Catharines Teepees with 29 points.

Wayne Rutledge's monopoly in the goaltending race was extended for the seventh consecutive week as Niagara Falls Flyers' ace recorded his first shutout at the hands of the Toronto Marlboros Sunday, reducing his average to 2.47 goals a game. Rutledge's mark is now over the three - goals - a - game mark in 17 games played to date.

Import Curbs On Lead, Zinc May Be Illegal

WASHINGTON (CP)— There's a serious possibility that President Eisenhower's import curbs on lead and zinc may be illegal.

Confusion and doubt over his tariff-setting powers arose out of a lower court ruling which the surprised administration urgently appealed to the United States Supreme Court. The high court now has refused to review the case.

Under the ruling, made by the court of customs and patents appeal, the president is considered to have authority to accept or reject specific tariff commission recommendations — but not to modify those recommendations.

The lead and zinc curbs, imposed by the president two years ago over the protests of Canada, Australia and other suppliers, were in the form of a modification of harsh tariff commission recommendations to block foreign competition.

Officials say the administration likely will ask the next Congress to plug loopholes in the existing law to give President-elect Kennedy greater flexibility in handling tariff commission proposals.

The lower court made the controversial ruling in granting an appeal against higher tariffs imposed on British bicycles under the "escape clause" of U.S. trade agreements.

The "escape clause" allows the American government to revise a tariff bargain it has made if import ts threaten to injure an existing American industry.

McKEEVER RETURNS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mike McKeever, college football star who suffered a brain injury that probably has ended his football career, is back at classes.

Mike, who played for the University of Southern California with his twin brother Marlin, returned to classes Monday. He is majoring in finance.

He was discharged from hospital Nov. 11 after surgery and is almost back to his playing weight of 220 pounds. He is to be kept under observation for about eight or nine months, making it doubtful that he will play football next year. He may be forbidden to play again.

WANTS TITLE BOUT

NEW YORK (AP)—Andy Nelserrailer, American representative of light-heavyweight Erich Schoeppner of Germany, said Monday he has notified the U.S. National Boxing Association that Schoeppner would be available for a tournament to determine successor to Archie Moore as world champion. The NBA recently withdrew recognition of Moore as champion.

Hugh O'Brian Now Playing Sixth Season as Wyatt Earp

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — There is, concededly, inevitable monotony in playing the same role year after year, no matter how successful the actor's vehicle.

"But there are certain definite advantages, and they aren't all money," says Hugh O'Brian, now playing his sixth season as ABC's Wyatt Earp.

O'Brian, cast and production crew have spent five of six months, turning out a full year's supply of the western at the rate of two a week.

"I keep my nose to the grindstone for 5 to 8 days," said O'Brian, "but after they are finished there are six or seven months of the year to do a whole range of things I'm interested in."

ENDS JAN. 8

Wyatt Earp will be finished with the series, as far as O'Brian is concerned, Jan. 6. After that he will be free to take on other acting jobs, preferably movies, stage and television appearance dates, even to travel and do nothing.

Jayne Meadows has flown in from California to fill in for Betsy Palmer on I've Got Secret tonight while Betsy is doing some acting on Steel Hour . . . Polly Bergen is in the midst of another whirlwind of extensive activity which is slowing down To Tell the Truth, and the jello jingling between Bennett Cerf and Allen Ludden on What's My Line? is getting to be a bit of a burn, too . . . Keith Larsen has asked for and received his release as star of CBS Aquanauts, on the grounds that the underwater activity aggravated an old head injury. Peter Gray will dive in as his replacement.

OFA Policy Reaffirmed By Farmers

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario farmers called Tuesday for cooperation from the government agencies in a "program of planned production and surplus disposal" of farm products.

A members' meeting of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture "reaffirmed OFA policy of planned production," a federation press release said.

"The members passed a resolution asking that agricultural organizations immediately begin work on a program for emergency policies, but more particularly programs of action and research aimed at establishing adequate pricing of primary farm products," it said.

The OFA's annual convention last month proposed that the federation adopt a policy of planned production and study ways to implement the policy.

Tuesday's meeting saw several members support a system of planned surplus over domestic requirements for use "to help all the hungry peoples of the world," the federation said.

Members also decided to ask the Canadian Federation of Agriculture "to do all in its power to bring about a reduction in the price of imported cars to encourage trade between countries."

United Co - operatives of Ontario was asked to study the possible establishment of a fertilizing plant in northern Ontario to produce domestic fertilizers for farmers in the area.

Says Report Is Over-Rated

OTTAWA (CP)—Arthur W. Evans, Canadian trade commissioner in Liverpool, said Tuesday that reports that Canada is pricing itself out of world textile markets are over-rated.

Canadian cottons and some synthetic textiles are being exported to Manchester, centre of Britain's textile industry, he told a press conference.

A few months ago, he added, two Canadian clothing manufacturers went to Manchester to buy some British textiles, taking samples of their Canadian-made clothes to show what was needed. They came home with $350,000 in orders.

Mr. Evans is one of the 111 trade commissioners at the current export promotion conference who have come to Ottawa from 49 countries for interviews with export-conscious Canadian producers.

Hugh O'Brian Now Playing Sixth Season as Wyatt Earp

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — There is, concededly, inevitable monotony in playing the same role year after year, no matter how successful the actor's vehicle.

"But there are certain definite advantages, and they aren't all money," says Hugh O'Brian, now playing his sixth season as ABC's Wyatt Earp.

O'Brian, cast and production crew have spent five of six months, turning out a full year's supply of the western at the rate of two a week.

"I keep my nose to the grindstone for 5 to 8 days," said O'Brian, "but after they are finished there are six or seven months of the year to do a whole range of things I'm interested in."

ENDS JAN. 8

Wyatt Earp will be finished with the series, as far as O'Brian is concerned, Jan. 6. After that he will be free to take on other acting jobs, preferably movies, stage and television appearance dates, even to travel and do nothing.

Helen Traubel, Noted Singer, Now Happy in Doing Movie

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I don't believe in fate," said Helen Traubel. "But it is amazing how single events can change the course of your life."

The career of the former opera singer's life has taken a sudden change from star-retirement to working 12 hours a day making a movie.

"I had decided to cut my career down to almost nothing," she said. "I had worked hard for many years, and I thought I deserved to slow down. I didn't get restless; I'm very good at doing nothing.

"Then Jerry Lewis called me up and offered me a part. At first I said no, but then I got interested. I'm glad I did. I've fascinated watching Jerry create comedy."

Now she plans other films and even a TV series.

WAS ON RADIO

One of her first ventures away from the operatic stage — she was a Met star for years—was on the old Duffy's Tavern radio show. She was clowning with Ed Gardner (Archy) one day when Jim Durante's producer, Phil Cohan, happened in from the next studio, Bingo!

It was the perfect combination of Durante and Traubel that got her out of the Brunhilde get-up and into the public's domain. Success as a warm and witty entertainer. That turn of events also led to her break with the Met.

After the singer made a radio club debut, Rodolph Bing, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera, cautioned about perverting dignity. She still smarts over the incident.

"Cilleos could be a very good bowler, but he's just plain lazy!"

FACES MURDER TRIAL

TORONTO (CP) — Mary Reinhardt, 36, Tuesday was committed for trial, charged with murder in the stabbing of her husband Raymond Anthony Reinhardt, 47, Nov. 1.

Soccer

LONDON (Reuters) — Results of soccer league games played in the United Kingdom Tuesday.

League Cup

Fourth Round

Aston Villa 3 Plymouth Argyle 3
Burnley vs Nottingham Forest, postponed.

Senior Hockey

GALT (CP)—Bob Mader saved Galt Terriers from their fifth consecutive defeat Tuesday night during the second half overtime session of overtime play left the 4-4 tie with Strathroy Rockets in an Ontario Hockey Association senior game.

Strachan played an outstanding game, turning back 40 Galt drives, 20 in the third period. Butch Martin and Darryl Sly were the only other Terriers to beat Bree.

Bruce Jones gave Rockets their fourth one-goal lead at 2:46 of overtime when his corner passout deflected past Galt goalie John Reinhart off a skate. Paul Oliver, Willie Hess and Harry Bender also got other Strathroy snipers.

The game was played on slippish ice which makes puck-carrying and passing a hit-and-miss gamble in the final 20 minutes.

Reinhart stopped 25 Rocket shots and was lauded for a sixth forward in the overtime when Mader forced the tie.

The results left the standings unchanged. Rockets are still fifth, three points in front of the cellar Terriers who have eight games in hand.

Thursday, December 15

General Tendencies: The day time finds you able to handle whatever comes in a very efficacious and resourceful fashion. Be sure to look beneath the surface and find the true motives for your own as well as other'personal actions. Then through tonight make sure you do nothing to upset present conditions. Unreal cars on highway. Avoid accidents at home and don't argue with anyone. Beware.

Aries (March 21 to April 19)—Your gains are best for successfully handling any important financial or personal affairs. During P.M. take care you do not sever connections with one who, is important to your well being by using caustic or unkind words.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—Intensified you crave a far better understanding with those you consider as associates in any way. Concentrate on those affairs that are of long duration. P.M. do all in your power to increase or bring about harmony at home.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)—Much important work can be done with facility in any sphere of your life today, if you buckle down early. Be careful while out driving tonight as well as in any corresponding you may have to do. Any errors apt to be very costly.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21)—Important you work constructively all day long and also get your appearance at its very best. Get started on some new and lucrative venture. P.M. do not be extravagant where home matters are concerned. It isn't worth it.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21)—Have nice little surprises ready for your family today and increase love within the home. P.M. try not to be forceful with those whose company you keep tonight, but co-operative and gracious. A smile will work wonders for you.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23)—You can buy, sell, leave orders, conferences . most successfully during the day hours. P.M. don't sacrifice to the point where it will hurt you, both in personal or social life. Search that happy medium in all things.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)—It is best to go to your banker and get the right advice so that you can handle all those financial and property matters wisely. P.M. carry through with ideas and don't listen to a pompous friend who can steer you wrong.

Scorpio (Oct. 2 to Nov. 21)—This is a good day to think exclusively of your particular needs and desires. Don't neglect health or beauty treatments you need. P.M. be most careful while dealing with superiors so that you do not jeopardize their friendship.

Sagittaries (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—You are right day to look for whatever is perzing and get it cleared up, also to incorporate better methods so that you can insure greater success in the future. P.M. time for meditation on the Orest Truths. Extend.

Capricorn (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20)—Be sure you find out what your true place is with those close to you and to go after your hopes and wishes with determination and in a most ethical fashion. P.M. agree with one who is an authority in the field that interests you.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—You can get all public affairs handled most efficiently and quickly today. Get a bigger bit rating, too. P.M. steer clear of alternation between higher-up and associate. Be sure you keep your word or promises made.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—You can handle every situation wisely now and new partners can be placed in their rightful category. P.M. take health treatments you need and don't work too hard on small, unimportant details. Retire early.

If your child is born today . . be, or she, will have a very strong will, so it is necessary that you early teach to use it in the right directions, also to give logical reasons for doing things. It is also important that you early teach the facts of life, then the chart becomes very fine and the forte here is in the field of research, whether in medicine, as an investigator, or in the field of education.

"Sad news in the basement."

Thinks Canadian Magazines Could Sell in U.S.

TORONTO (CP) — A London, Ont., journalism professor, who writes for United States magazines on the side, said today Canadian publishers might not be giving sufficient thought to circulation possibilities south of the border.

Prof. Gerald J. L. Wild, head of the journalism department at the University of Western Ontario, said his article on the subject—submission on publications was a private one.

He suggested the Canadian government "make funds available through Canada Council, the learned societies, the universities and perhaps other non-profit institutions for assistance to existing (cultural) journals and for the establishment of new ones."

Prof. Wild, a Time and Life correspondent in London for 20 years, said: "We are doing with affairs of the mind, with the free flow of knowledge in a society dedicated to that freedom."

He said Canadian editors of foreign periodicals might outright label as "biased or objective" but that many "are not to be read."

"More than 1,000,000 Canadians choose foreign magazines presumably, read them. It seems to me a grave matter indeed to decree 'thou shalt not read this' whether it be for economic, or political reasons."

He said he had examined the last five issues of Atlantic's Monthly and Chatelaine and "found that at least half of the textual material was of much general interest and of such quality that it might well appeal to a broad American readership."

Locked in Cellar

TORONTO (CP) — A bandit locked a Toronto jeweler in his store cellar Tuesday, night and made off with $700 in cash and an undetermined amount of jewelry.

David Davidovits was alone in the store when the man entered, holding a hand in his pocket as though, he had a gun.

MISSILE SUCCESSFUL

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The U.S. Army has scored a second straight launch success with a two-stage model of its Pershing tactical missile. The 34-foot solid-fuel rocket reared away from this test site Monday and propelled a simulated warhead about 180 miles down range. Brig. Gen. Richard M. Hurst, commander of the army ballistic missile agency, termed the flight a complete success.

Laotian Forces Battle Fiercely In City Streets

By BRUCE RUSSELL

VIENTIANE (Reuter) — Mortar and machine-gun fire rocked Vientiane as a battle between left wing and rightist forces for control of the capital of strife-torn Laos continued today.

Right wing pro-American Gen. Phoumi Nosavan launched an assault Tuesday with a heavy mortar barrage after which his troops, wearing white armbands, swarmed into the city. Defending were forces under neutralist paratroop Capt. Kong Le, supported by pro-Communist Pathet Lao troops and Soviet 105-and 130-millimetre howitzers flown in by Russia this week.

Kong abandoned his command post and his forces fell back toward the airport and the centre of the city under the shock of the initial assault. The attack met with heavy counter-barrage from mortars.

By sunset, the pro-Communist troops, wearing red armbands, started to withdraw along the Western sector of the city behind a screen of small arms fire.

Casualties appeared light, but could not be determined as machine-guns splintered and bullets whined through the streets.

In Bangkok, reliable sources in close touch with Vientiane said it was still anyone's battle. Phoumi appeared to have driven from the city by a counter-attack Tuesday night but fought his way back in this morning.

(The sources said Soviet-made howitzers bombarded several rightist areas across the Mekong River from Vientiane but there was only one serious casualty. Canadian artists (state pro-West-ern Thailand has aided the right-ists.)

THEY WANT JOBS — A delegation of unemployed from Windsor and Peterborough, Ont., paraded on Parliament Hill in Ottawa. The 100-strong delegation came to Ottawa in a 24-car motorcade to meet with federal cabinet ministers. They asked for distribution of government-owned food surpluses to the unemployed and needy, federal help with hospital and medical plans, for the unemployed and an increase in family allowances. (CP Photo).

DESERONTO

Light Agenda For Consideration Of Town Council

DESERONTO — The regular meeting of the town council was held on Tuesday night due to the election falling on the regular meeting night. All members were present with the exception of Reeve Metcalfe.

The Water Resources Commission notified council regarding the changes whereby the plumbing regulations now come under the commission instead of the Health department Council moved that the regulations be returned over to the Plumbing and Sanitary Inspector.

The Lake Ontario Development Association asked that they be supplied with a quantity of the brochures of the town for distribution at four meetings shows early in the new year. It was agreed that they be supplied brochures printed for the use of the Association and other interested parties.

A request from the Library Board for some repairs to the Library was referred to the Chairman of the 1961 property committee.

The street committee gave a brief report on the work done during the past few weeks. The street committee reported that an investigation had been made of the request to have a light placed on Dundas St. between Fourth and Prince Streets and if the pole was suitable would recommend that the light be installed.

On recommendation of the Fire committee council passed the yearly pay of the volunteer firemen.

One by-law to establish a street allowance 50 the so-called Water Street along the bay shore was passed.

There was quite discussion regarding the holiday on Boxing Day and Jan. 2nd and council passed a motion that the mayor declare both days civic holidays.

A recommendation regarding Christmas bonuses for town employees was deferred to the next meeting.

Councillor Howard inquired of the Mayor regarding the section the Public Utilities was taking to install the additional street lights which the council had requested some time ago. He was informed that the installation of the new power line to the Ideal Tenders and the transfer to the new sub-station would keep the Utilities employees busy for some time.

Govt. Receives Big Majority On Defence

LONDON (AP) — About 70 Labor party members abstained from voting for a Labor motion in the House of Commons Tuesday night and helped give the Conservative government a big vote of confidence on its defence policies.

It was the biggest party rebellion in Parliament since the late Aneurin Bevan led left - wingers against the leadership eight years ago.

The vote came at the end of a debate on a Labor party motion criticizing the government for failing to press for a "balanced nuclear strategy in Europe" and relying unduly on the nuclear deterrent.

The motion did not go far enough for the strong body of Labor MPs who want Britain to renounce nuclear weapons unilaterally—the policy adopted at the party conference in the face of bitter opposition from Labor Leader Hugh Gaitskell.

It was defeated 318 to 262.

Job-Hungry Group Accuses Govt. of "Weasling" on Promises

OTTAWA (CP)—A job-hungry group of Windsor workers accused the federal government Tuesday of "weasling" on promises to help the unemployed in Canada.

After a morning meeting with five federal cabinet ministers, the 100-man delegation conferring with the Liberals and then with the CCF-New Party caucus.

George Gopelle, 39, an unemployed Windsor auto worker and a leader of the delegation, told the CCF and one New Party MPs that "the biggest politics is weasling in a long time" happened during the talks with government officials.

He charged that the cabinet ministers "passed the buck" to government back to provincial and municipal governments.

He also appealed for CCF-New Party support for an organized front for jobless workers, claiming the Windsor motorcade to Ottawa was "a b o s t a g e" by some who profess support for the New Party.

"I think you have people like that in every party," said CCF Leader Hazen Argue.

Later, Mr. Gopelle said his remark about blackjacks was made as a constructive criticism in an effort to encourage support for the plight of the unemployed from labor, farmers and others who back the New Party.

He said a reporter he had for Windsor Labor Council in mind specifically when he mentioned lack of support.

The brief made a series of proposals aimed at helping out-of-work men and women. One urged more the distribution of government-owned food surpluses to unemployed and needy people.

It also asked for federal help toward hospital and medical plans for the jobless, an increase in family allowances, a national plan for work week and continuation of unemployment benefits for as long as a worker is out of job.

One of the delegates—Norman Lloyd of Windsor—is blind. He called for help for sightless people who are unable to find work.

"We're bloody well going to fight for jobs," said Mance Mathias, chairman of the Windsor Unemployed Organization.

In an interview, he said he felt the trek to Ottawa had succeeded in pointing up the plight of the jobless.

"We're satisfied with the public reaction," he said. "But we're not satisfied with the government's action."

Five Youngsters Spend Night In Dense Bush

LAYTON, N.C. (AP) — Five youngsters returned Tuesday to the cottage they ran away from 24 hours before—apparently the worse for a night they spent huddled in the woods in bitter cold weather.

Several of the nearly 1,500 volunteers who had searched for the children through most of the night felt they were lucky to be alive.

"I don't see why they didn't freeze to death," said Kenneth Johnson, who found the children —three girls and two boys— huddling together for warmth in the 14-degree weather.

One of the girls, Shirley Pearson, 13, said they had run away from the Knights of Pythias home because they had been mistreated. She said a matron had whipped her 11-year - old brother, Jimmie, and hit him over the head.

CONVINCED BY GIRL

She said she had no thought of leaving until Tula Faye Tester, 13, another of the runaways, came to the home about a week ago.

"She started talking about it," said Shirley, "and I got it in my head."

"I got homesick," said Tula Faye. "I said I wanted to go home, and she (Shirley) said she wanted to go home, too."

Jimmie Pearson told reporters the separating he received at Thanksgiving had nothing to do with his leaving. He said he had virtually forgotten about it.

"They (the girls) wanted me to go with them," he said, "so I didn't want to leave."

The other two runaways were Dennis Walker, 8, and Nina Walker, a half brother and sister of the Tester girl.

Instead of returning from school in Clayton on a school bus as usual, the children walked off and wandered into a thickly wooded area.

Mrs. Alma Sasser, a house mother at the home for 13 years, said she "slapped and spanked" Jimmie Pearson about three weeks ago for failing to perform his chores in the kitchen.

Moira

MOIRA — Mrs. John Holden accompanied Mr. Elmer Holden and other relatives to the funeral of their aunt in Syracuse, last Thursday.

"Moira Victory Class" met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nafiel on Thursday night with a good attendance.

A member of the 4-H Club members attended the award night in Shilling on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wallace and Brian of Frankford were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Ketcheson.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McInroy, Peter and Gary, Belleville, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McInroy.

Recent guests at the home of Mrs. George Foster and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Foster were Dr. and Mrs. Jack Ketcheson and family of Guelph; Mrs. Lawrence Ketcheson of Wallbridge; Mr. and Mrs. Coleman Townsend and family of Hallowy; Mr. and Mrs. Omay Draxup and family and Mrs. Fred Beckett and Dawn, all of Harold.

Moira Institute met at the home of Mrs. Ross Ketcheson on Wednesday for its Christmas meeting.

Mrs. Olive Williams, Belleville, spent the dinner hour on Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Blake Ketcheson. Mrs. Ketcheson went home with her daughter to spend the rest of the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Benson Kellar of Peterborough were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kellar.

New Trademark Is Unveiled

OTTAWA (CP)— The publicly-owned CNR quietly unveiled its new trademark Tuesday—a slightly white line that spells out CN with a modernistic flourish.

The new symbol, first step in a long-range program to revamp the railway's entire public image, replaces the traditional yellow letters on a black square superimposed on a red maple leaf.

The new crest has a; stark boldness. The letter "C" and the letter "N" flow into one another like a piece of steel rail.

21 Bills Passed

OTTAWA (CP) — The first 21 divorce bills of the current session were given final reading in the Senate Tuesday.

Passage of the bills — which now will be sent to the Commons — raised questions about the course to be followed by the CCF group in dealing with the divorce petitions.

As the last session Frank Howard (CCF—Skeena) and Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming) staged a five - month blockade that held up hundreds of divorce actions.

"I may be worse this year," Mr. Peters said last week.

MOWEEK MADE

The lawn mower was invented in 1868 in the United States.

Hog Producers Want System Of Open Sales

MITCHELL (CP) — A system of open sales, with the highest bidder getting the produce, could eliminate the problems which have been besetting the province's hog marketing operations, Everett M. Biggs, assistant deputy minister of agriculture for Ontario, said Tuesday.

The minister told the annual meeting of Perth County Federation of Agriculture the hog marketing system should avoid any ar-suggestions that some buyers are given preference.

"Someone has suggested that we are after the 11 men who constitute the Hog Marketing Board," he said. "That is not true.

"The problems which have grown up r e c e n t l y can't be blamed on you (the committee), but the responsibility must be accepted by the 11 men at the top.

"Our quarrel and differences of opinion are with those men.

Commenting on a report that the department had threatened to withdraw the compulsory marketing powers invested in the Hog Marketing Board, Mr. Biggs said: "It is a fact, not a threat, that we might have to consider withdrawing c o m pulsory powers.

U.S. Abandons Moon-Reaching After 4 Failures

More Powerful Rockets Needed to Match Reds

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The United States today failed for the sixth straight time to send a satellite around the moon when the giant rocket exploded in flight.

The spectacular blast ended a four-shot Atlas-Able carrier rocket program — a $40,000,000 failure.

American space scientists now must await development of more powerful rockets, expected next summer, for future moon launchings.

The 10-storey-tall rocket, carrying a 380-pound space craft in its nose, rose smoothly from its searchlight - illuminated pad at 4:11 a.m. today. The satellite was packed with electronic instruments designed to help the most extensive study ever attempted of the moon's environment.

The huge rocket appeared to be flying a true course for 70 seconds, then it suddenly lurched violently and erupted with a blinding flash that illuminated the Atlantic and its beaches for several miles.

SEE BALL OF FIRE

A massive ball of red-orange flame billowed upward, scrolling thousands of feet in the sky for several seconds as tons of fuel were consumed in a boiling inferno. Flaming pieces of the rocket fell into the Atlantic several miles offshore.

The rocket's extremely difficult mission was to hurl the space craft to the moon 240,000 miles away in 60 hours.

The future hope is that the moon missile target for U.S. missiles men who had propelled five earlier rockets toward the moon without success—and leaves Russia with a commanding lead in the field of space exploration.

Soviet scientists last year hit the moon with Lunik II and took the first picture of its hidden side with Lunik III which is now swinging earth satellite which eventually should crash the moon on its first orbit.

"If Able II," she said at one point, "that this bill is not designed to create jobs or immediately alleviate unemployment for the 429,000 (unemployed in mid-November) or any part thereof and that there has been misrepresentation to the public at large about the scope of this measure and its goal?"

JURY OWN PART

This is just one part of the program, said Mrs. Starr; she was the third cabinet minister to take charge of the legislation. Others were Trade Minister Hees and Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

GREECE SELLS PLANES

ATHENS (AP) — Greece sold and delivered 50 U.S.-built F-84G jet fighter planes to Yugoslavia at a bargain price of $1,000,000, including spare parts, the Athens Daily Port disclosed today. An air ministry spokesman confirmed the report and described the aircraft "as obsolete," having been replaced long ago by more modern types of jets namely the F-86E and F-86D.

King of Nepal Seizes Control, Arrests Premier

KATMANDU (AP) — King Mahendra of Nepal today personally assumed control of the government, ordering the arrest of Premier B. P. Koirala and other members of his elected government.

By royal decree today, the 39-year-old king proclaimed an emergency, suspended the constitution and, ordered the arrest of Koirala's cabinet ministers.

Koirala was arrested, also, with Home Minister S. P. Upadhyay, by the army chief of staff, Gen. S. Nerra, and driven under guard to Mahendra's palace.

Army troops moved in to take over control of the government radio station, ministerial offices and other important installations.

Mahendra is the hereditary ruler of this tiny Hindu monarchy between India and Tibet.

He held absolute power before personally preparing the constitution ordering elections last year. In drafting the 1959 constitution Mahendra reserved to himself power to dismiss the government and take over personal control if he considered it necessary.

The king succeeded to the throne on March 13, 1955. The Koirala cabinet was formed in May, 1959.

LONDON MAN ARRESTED

Belgian King Marries Shy, Spanish Girl in Regal Splendor

BRUSSELS (AP) — King Baudouin of the Belgians today married a dark-eyed Spanish aristocrat in glittering ceremonies that saw the nervous bride close to tears as she ran into difficulties with her 30-foot train.

The 30-year-old king wed Dona Fabiola de Mora y Aragon of Spain and deeply moving ceremonies — the first in the throne room of the palace of Brussels, the second amid religious splendor in the medieval Roman Catholic Cathedral of Saints Michel and Gudule, to the postwar world where royalty has taken some hard knocks the bride-to-be in the street shouted as of old:

"Long live the king, long live the queen."

A smiling confident Baudouin constantly comforted his bride with whispered words and gentle pats on the hand.

There were hitched.

Princess Margaret's husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, could not immediately find his seat at the civil ceremony.

Then a television cameraman dropped a heavy lens on the floor of the palace throne room.

But Fabiola's 20-foot long train caused constant trouble. At one time it caught on the arm of the only the quick action of a palace flunkey prevented her from sitting on the train.

At the church ceremony the train caused more trouble.

Baudouin then took over and personally supervised its arrangement.

Inside the church, Fabiola's nerves gave way again and some flowers slipped from the bouquet in her trembling hands.

Joseph Cardinal van Roey, Belgium's highest Roman Catholic dignitary, repeated the service in French. Fabiola at one point seemed to sway a bit. Baudouin shot her an anxious glance.

Outside it was a cold, slate-grey day, but in the hearts of the Belgians and guests that included

Castro Charges His Enemies, Are Equipped With U.S. Arms

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro, in one of his angriest speeches, charged today that enemies of his revolution were being equipped by the United States with a powerful new "special explosive."

Castro made the charge in a six-hour address at a meeting of the Electrical Workers Union that was summoned to oust what he called "traitorous" leadership.

Amaury Fraginals,' booted out as boss of the union in absentia, has been accused of blacking out Havana for four days with 11 well-placed bombs.

The whereabouts of Fraginals is not known. Diplomats sources said he was not among 11 known members of the electrical union who fled asylum in Venezuela in hassles Wednesday.

Fraginals was one of the leaders of a march of his union to the presidential palace last year to protest what they claimed was an attempt by the Communists to infiltrate the labor movement. Workers to dictate a union election.

Some members of the union meeting Wednesday night said they were not allowed to enter the meeting that paved the way for the Red-line directorate to take over. They claimed the hall was packed with pro-Castro and Communist followers.

Pulling in a personal appearance at the meeting Castro scathingly denounced the union leaders as "counter-revolutionaries." His unexpected appearance appeared to underline the gravity with which the regime viewed the

Favors Early Expiry of Pact To Share Taxes

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost told the legislature Wednesday he favors a proposal attributed to an aide of Quebec Premier Lesage to end the current federal-provincial tax-sharing arrangements at the end of 1961 instead of the scheduled expiry date of March 31, 1962.

"I would favor any move to make more realistic the area of tax fields at present occupied by Ontario," the premier said.

first real open defiance from the labor group.

His face contorted with rage, he seemed to grope for the vilest insults his enemies by U.S. Central Intelligence agents and "Yankee Pentagon bandits."

He denounced anti-government elements, he added, included "puppets garbed in cassocks"—a reference to Roman Catholic priests.

"I propose to you," he said to the meeting, "that we shake up the electrical industry so that enemies will know the generous revolution can stay for whatever circumstances dictate."

MEMBERS TANGLE IN NAME-CALLING, VIOLENT BATTLE

Eastview, Sarnia Under Discussion

TORONTO (CP)—Bitter fumes from Eastview and Sarnia swept through the legislature Wednesday night as Premier Frost, a cabinet minister, and two CCF members tangled in a name-calling, violent battle that neared the stage of bedlam.

Kenneth Brydges (CCF — Timonio Woodbine) charged Attorney - General Kelso Roberts with negligence in the pursuit of justice and the government with failing to look after the interests of municipalities.

Speaking in the throes debate, he pressed Mr. Roberts to reveal if the attorney-general intended to continue the appearance from a departmental inquiry into the financial affairs of the suburban Ottawa town of Eastview.

QUOTES EVIDENCE?

He quoted the transcript of evidence which revealed testimony by W. Bolton, an auditor of the department of municipal affairs, to the effect that the mayor of Eastview had asked if a shotgun of town hall would have to be reported if they were registered.

"You're acting like a man who house a dangerous court."

Gordon Cushenan (L — Russell), mayor of Eastview, rose on a point of privilege to say he had not made such a statement to the auditor.

"Either you or Bolton were lying—one or the other."

CCF Leader MacDonald.

"I gave evidence in good faith, the way I knew it," said Mr. Le vergne. "I think I am Christian enough that when I give evidence under oath, I know the gravity of it."

Gordon Cushenan read the evidence where he denied it," said Roberts shouted.

He said the evidence had been

Review Hospital Premiums Soon

TORONTO (CP) — Premiums under the Ontario hospital insurance plan will be reviewed by the legislature's new Health Committee, Health Minister Dymond said Wednesday.

He made the statement in reply to a question from Ross Whicher (L — Algoma) who asked whether the Ontario government was considering reducing the premiums in view of the fact that the province's hospital insurance scheme is without any direct cost to the taxpayers.

Dr. Dymond said the latest reports indicated the Quebec plan will likely be similar. It appears Quebec will have to levy new taxes totalling $25,000,000 to cover the plan's costs.

Haile Selassie, Ousted By Coup, Flies Back Home

Son Installed as King By Reform Government

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—Several persons were reported killed today in street fighting in Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital, as Crown Prince Asfa Wassan was proclaimed king.

The proclamation was read by the capital's radio as Emperor Haile Selassie was reported to have arrived back in his country in defiance of the new regime there.

Ethiopian four-hour radio reports told the outbreak of street fighting.

A radio broadcast from Addis Ababa monitored in Aden proclaimed the coup "glorious" and "negus," which means king in the Ethiopian language of Amharic.

The broadcast also named Ras Imru as the new prime minister. He is a former ambassador to India and believed to be a member of the royal family.

DEFIES WARNING

At the same time the emperor was said by a spokesman at the Ethiopian Embassy in Rome to have defied warnings by leaders of Wednesday's coup that military action was being taken against any plane trying to land in the country.

The emperor left Sao Paulo, Brazil, Wednesday night a few hours after hearing that an army coup d'etat had ended his 30-year reign and installed his son, Crown Prince Asfa Wassan, as head of a reform government.

Haile Selassie is a member of a ruling line which claims to have been founded about 1000 B.C. He celebrated the 30th anniversary of his coronation Nov. 2 although his reign was interrupted for almost six years after the Italian dictator invaded his country in 1935.

He is a devout member of the Coptic Church and regards his country, with a population of about 18,000,000, as the oldest Christian nation in the world.

Radio r ep or ts from Addis Ababa said parliament had been suspended and martial law was to be put in effect.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the British foreign office disclosed that the U.S. government had made an informal approach to Britain for a joint decision. He said the British government was ready for clarification of the situation in Ethiopia before taking any action on the request. Addis Ababa radio said the coming and outgoing flights had been suspended until further notice and "the armed forces have been ordered to take the necessary measures if the order is not carried out."

Dr. Dymond said the new government had taken over with the support of the armed forces, police and "educated young-sters" and would end "3,000 years of injustice."

The government guaranteed protection for foreign capital and interests and claimed that "all foreigners are satisfied under the present conditions."

It said that under Haile Selassie the common people had been deprived of their liberties and

Canadian Soldier, 19, Handed Back After Defecting to Communists

OTTAWA (CP)—A 19-year-old Canadian soldier who defected to Communist East Germany last month was handed back to the West by his would-be protectors Wednesday.

Pte. John Strobl, of the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles, was given over to Canadian military authorities at Helmstedt, a border point between West and East Germany.

Strobl, a German immigrant to Canada, was posted as absent without leave (AWL) last month only five days after his unit arrived in Germany to serve with the Canadian Infantry Brigade.

He is the third Canadian who has defected to the Communists in Europe. He is the first one to be rejected.

Strobl's home town was not immediately known, but his mother is believed to live somewhere in Manitoba.

In 1955, Pte. Ralph Bernard Frederick Cross of Moose Jaw, Sask., a corporal in the Royal Canadian, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, vanished from East Germany and later granted political asylum by the Communists.

Cross, then 27, disappeared after a weekend leave. He left a wife and three children in Canada.

A September, 1959, Pte. Guy Bouchard, 23, of Montreal, a member of the 1st Battalion, Royal 22nd Regiment, disappeared from the Iron Curtain. He later wrote to his parents asking for training manuals to assist him in learning a mechanic.

It is believed that Cross and Bouchard are still in Germany.

Authorities have could not say why Strobl was returned. It is not known whether he will be court-martialled.

Pro-American Laotian Troops Get Upper Hand

VIENTIANE (Reuters)—Fighting raged here for the third straight day today as pro-American rightwing troops appeared to be gaining a edge over leftist troops backstopped by Soviet weapons.

The main body of paratroop Gen. Kong Le's pro-Communist troops was reported today retiring north of Vientiane, but token forces were still doggedly holding out in the city itself.

French eyewitnesses who drove to the airport two miles west of the city today reported most of Kong Le's troops had moved out to the north along the road to the Plaine des Jarres, a northern Laos, is the seat of King Savang Vatthana. The royal capital is in right-wing hands but the north is the traditional stronghold of pro-Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas.

BUILDING ON FIRE

In Paris today, a sharp battle was underway outside the United States operations mission in Vietnam where a building fire had been ablaze.

An Associated Press dispatch from Bangkok, Thailand, said the U.S. Embassy in Vientiane was hit by an artillery shell but its personnel was withdrawn. An American Embassy spokesman in Bangkok was the source of the information.

Vientiane central hospital reported seven soldiers dead and 10 wounded as well as 10 civilians dead and 200 wounded.

Radio r ep or ts said the main body of his troops have escaped unscathed from the encircling area for the north, Defence Minister Gen. Phoumi Nitikaconm, of neighboring pro-Western Thailand reported today.

Nitikaconm said the rightist forces obtained control of Vientiane airport Wednesday night. The airport was a leftist strong-hold.)

Another AP dispatch from Bangkok said Gen. Southone Pathammavong, a former army commander of Kong Le's forces fighting in Vientiane, today fled to Thailand.

The former commander-in-chief of the Red Laos army has crossed the Mekong River and surrendered to Thai authorities at Srichiengmai.)

Girl Student Says Kidnapping More Fun Than Going to School

SULTAN, Wash. (AP) — A spunky blonde teen-ager told police she was kidnapped at gunpoint Wednesday but managed to skip out on her abductor in his car.

Hazel Irene Orlich, 17-year-old high school senior, said, "It was much more fun than going to school."

Hazel told police a man came to the door of her home before school. She said he and she were alone, and when he learned Orlich had gone to work he ordered her inside saying he wanted to leave a note.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Orlich, had already left for the bank where they work. He is manager.

Hazel said once the man was inside, "he pulled out a hunting knife about six inches long and told me to come with him."

"They got in an old car and

A drove to the western Washington town of Monroe, seven miles from Sultan. The man stopped at a busy intersection where there was a phone booth.

"He made me . . . get in the booth with him," Hazel said. "He told me to be still, and I did. We both talked to dad. I was trying to tell dad that the man said he was a cop and the sheriff. The man told dad if he wanted to see Hazel he must bring $25,000 to the phone booth in the next 20 minutes."

Hazel said the man then told her to get in the car and drive on west to Everett and he would follow in another car.

She turned around, drove back to Monroe, where she telephoned her father she had escaped, and then drove to her father's bank.

Meantime her father had left $2,000 in the phone booth, but it was not picked up.

LOCAL FIREMEN HAD BUSY NIGHT

Local firemen were called out three times over the past 36-hour period. At 7:18 last night there was a call to the Marsh property where some timbers were burning, apparently as an after result of a swamp fire in the afternoon.

At 8:36 p.m. there was a false alarm call to Kresge's store where a combination of wind direction and chimney smoke gave the impression of a roof fire.

The third call occurred this morning at 10:20 o'clock when firemen were called out to help extinguish a swamp fire by the Bakelite plant on East Dundas Street.

NO VOTES CAST AT ADVANCE POLL

All was quiet this morning at the advance poll for Ward 3 in the council chamber at City Hall. By noon, no one had been in to cast his ballot in favor of one of the two candidates for the office of separate school trusteeship in the ward.

Aspirants are Paul E. Fleming and Mrs. Marjorie Irvine and Patrick Callery of Willow Park, both of whom were nominated Dec. 7.

If competition stands right, a vote will be held Monday. The first was held Dec. 5 when there was a contest for the public school trusteeship in Ward 4.

MRS. JAMES W. HAGGERTY
Granby-West Huntingdon

Following an illness of two years, Mrs. Essa Lucinda Haggerty, formerly of West Huntingdon, died in a nursing home at Granby, on Wednesday morning. She was born at West Huntingdon 83 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Morton, and had resided in Quebec for the last two years, the remaining period of her life being spent in West Huntingdon and Belleville. She was the wife of the late James W. Haggerty, who for many years was treasurer for the County of Hastings.

Mrs. Haggerty was a member of the Western Church, Quebec, at West Huntingdon and when health permitted was most active in all branches of church work. While in Belleville she attended St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. She was well known and highly respected throughout the county and endeared a wide circle of friends who will sincerely regret her passing.

Surviving are three daughters, Miss Berniece Haggerty of Toronto; Mrs. Ralph (May) Lowe of Scott Lake, Quebec, and one son, Barton Haggerty of West Huntingdon, and one sister, Mrs. Charles Aitchison of Belleville. Also surviving are seven grandchildren.

Resting at the Duffin Funeral Home, Stirling, the funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. STEWART FRASER

A lifelong resident of Stirling district, Mrs. Ethel May Fraser of Stirling, wife of Mr. Junior Stewart Fraser, died Wednesday in Peterborough Civic Hospital after being in failing health for six weeks. She was 73.

Born at Northern, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lester Zufelt, she moved to Stirling 55 years ago from Glen Ross.

An active member of the W.A. and W.M.S. of St. Paul's United Church, Mrs. Fraser was also a member of Laurel Rebekah Lodge, Stirling.

Surviving besides her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Roy (Helen) Chapman, Region, three sons, Lester of Peterborough; Gerald of Glen Ross and Albert of Stirling, one sister, Mrs. Albert Black of Campbellford; 14 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Computers Not Fantastic IBM Expert Tells Foremen

Carl Corcoran, manager of International Business Machine's Toronto data centre, last night tried to dispel some of the awe with which many people regard electronic computers in the first of the guest speakers at the December meeting of the Quinte District Chapter of CALA at the Knights of Columbus hall.

He said there was nothing really fantastic about computers and they did right almost just think about it." The most interesting thing about computers is their ability to store information indefinitely and to associate it with new data which is fed into the machines on punched cards or magnetic tape. The holes in the cards trigger the mechanism in a computer's "memory" and in no time at all the machine knows the work which normally would take a man, or team of men, a long time to figure out.

In 1951, when Mr. Corcoran joined IBM, people were talking about computer which could print 100 words a second. That was considered fabulous, at But within three or four years the machine computer was developed which could print 500 words a second. And, just recently he heard of a computer which could print 2,000 words a second.

NEEDS INSTRUCTIONS

Although electronic computers can perform the time it takes to solve a problem or complete a difficult mathematical problem, they are nowhere near as versatile as man's brain. The human brain can think. A machine cannot. A man can be given general instructions and he will carry it out. So can a machine, but first it must be told he who do the intermediate steps.

NAVY'S LONGEST

BELGIAN KING

five kings, four queens and 16 princes and princesses. It was a warm and happy, hospitical occasion.

Fabiola — dressed in a long white satin gown with trailing bridal veil — was first to fight back a few tears of happiness. But she was reassured by smiles and a comforting pat on the hand by her royal husband.

A brilliant royal audience of European royalty — even a few Hollywood celebrities from the Near and Far East—looked on with approval.

In a real-life world, stirred by civil strife and uprisings, here was a monarchy gaining another queen.

Dream attained.

For the Belgians it was a dream come true.

They had been without one since the tragic death of Queen Astrid in an automobile accident 25 years ago.

And for Fabiola — two years older than her husband, it was a royal dream come true.

In her 20 years as a native Spain, she wrote a story fairytale in which a girl who became a queen.

Her beaune was called Queen Myrta.

"And wishing henceforth to please everyone," Fabiola wrote, "she was always determined to be the best, the most beloved queen in the world."

Fabiola and Baudouin had to go through two long wedding ceremonies.

The first was the civil one in the palace room of the Count of Brussels palace.

ROYAL ENTERTAINING

Among those looking on were: King Olaf of Norway; Queen Juliana of the Netherlands; former king and queen Umberto and Marie Jose of Italy; ex-tsar Simeon of Bulgaria and King Michael and Anne who still bear the titles of king and queen of Romania. Also Britain's Princess Alexandra and her commoner husband Antony Armstrong-Jones.

Thousands cheered along the packed streets decorated with Belgian and Congo flags as the couple rode from the palace where civil service was performed by the burgomaster to the church for the religious ceremony.

They repeated their marriage pledges at a Roman Catholic service at the 700-year-old Cathedral of St. Gudule.

The bride's gown was designed by the French-Spanish couturier, Balenciaga.

Baudouin wore the insignia of the Order of Leopold who was the father of the Belgian monarch who gave the Congo to this country.

Earlier in the year it became the lot of this shy young man in glasses — who rules but does not govern — to grant independence to The Congo and thereby separate Belgium from an empire.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials started on the up side today in a quiet stock market. All other sections moved lower.

Oil and Industrials were up .39 at 506.63. Golds were off .05 at 87.84. Base metals were off .26 at 157.36 and western oils .18 at 80.51.

The 11 a.m. volume was 380,000 shares compared with 447,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Steico led Industrials, adding ¼ at 6¾. Shiltik, Argus and Bathurst Pulp improved ½.

Loblaw Incorporated was off ¼. Giant Yellowknife, a recent larger weakened golds, both off ¼ at 11¾ and 4¾. Campbell Red Lake gained ¼.

International Nickel was under pressure in base metals, off a half-point at 56¼. Noranda eased ¼ while Falconbridge improved ¼.

Senior uraniums were off.

The stock market Wednesday scored its ninth day of progress for Industrials. They have gained more than 14 points during that period.

On index, industrials were up .39.

Beaver Colonies Guarantee No Winter Kill of Fish In Depleted Lingham Lake

Beaver colonies building dams on the upper reaches of the Black River have unwittingly guaranteed there will be no winter kill of fish in water depleted Lingham Lake in Grimsthorpe township.

Lack of fall rains following the completion of dam repairs at the big man-made lake caused some uneasiness on the part of Moira Conservation Authority officials, but dynamiting of 12 upstream beaver dams has resulted in a 27-inch rise in the lake level, which will be more than sufficient to guarantee against winter kill of fish.

There are 12 feet of water above the coffer dam and the lake area is more than double that initially required to allow dam repairs.

Built back in 1925 by the Ontario Department of Public Works, the Lingham Lake dam, 20 miles northeast of Madoc, is now operated by the Authority as a storage dam to help summer flow in the Moira.

Last fall the lake level was lowered to allow installation of a gate valve in the dam to allow for more efficient operation. Installation of the valve was completed early this month.

Contrary to reports, lowering of the lake level did not result in any fish kill, but tears were expressed the winter might result in killing of fish by ice.

SOME DAMS BLOWN

To forestall this possibility Authority officials decided to have upstream beaver dams blown, thus releasing water to help fill the lake.

"There is now lots of water in Lingham Lake for the fish. The beaver dams have saved the day," noted Authority Field Officer Michael Dunlop.

Authority chairman Bruce H. Smith noted there had been much publicity during the late summer resulting from claims of Peterborough fishermen that receding water level had killed fish at Lingham Lake.

Investigation by wild life officials at Tweed had proved on fish had died, he said.

"Lingham Lake is a private lake," the chairman of the Authority observed. "We should charge a $35 license to fish there. Then maybe we'd get a lot more publicity."

In the absence of Alderman George Whalen, chairman of the water committee, the advance committee the committee report at yesterday afternoon's Authority meeting at Camilton when he ceased some uneasiness on the part of Moira Conservation Authority officials, but dynamiting of 12 upstream beaver dams has resulted in a 27-inch rise in the lake level, which will be more than sufficient to guarantee against winter kill of fish.

Conservation Body Planning Winter Works

The Moira River Conservation Authority will make application for provincial grants of up to $6,000 worth of winter works projects, most of which, if approved, would be spent at the Col. Rocco Vandervoort Conservation Area east of Thomasburg.

Members of the Authority voted to make application for the winter works approval at the final meeting of the authority held yesterday at Camilton. Approved winter works programs are subsidized to the extent of 75 per cent of labor costs.

Conservation areas committee chairman Reeve Elmer Wilson of Huntingdon township, told the meeting that the Vandervoort Conservation Area improved to be an exceptionally popular spot since his official opening last summer. Since that time more than 50,000 persons had visiting the area, he said.

Since the official opening the Authority has purchased the Carter property, thus giving an additional 1,000 frontage for the entire length of the area.

Further development work for the area is now planned, some of which is expected to be done this coming winter as a winter works project. Included will be extension of the road way across the former Carter property to open up the river-front property for public use and provision of sand to develop a sand beach for children's swimming.

Bath Approves Diving Lounges

KINGSTON (CP)—The village of Bath, 18 miles east of Kingston on Highway 33, has gone "wet." The deputy returning officer, Mrs. Ronald Wood announced today the "wets" obtained 210 votes, the "drys" 200 on licensed dining lounges and 210 "wets" to 200 "drys" on unlicensed dining lounges. The vote was held Wednesday. The drys chalked up 116 votes. A margin of 60 per cent of the votes required to carry the issue in favor of the wets.

A recreation report brought to the meeting by query from Sidney township deputy reeve property owner living in Bath and Sidney township. This, he said, was killing sims on the property. The property owner said his department was aware of the condition but that beaver dams were not on Authority property and nothing could be done about it. He said plans were to cut the flood out sims and it was expected there would be no loss of timber.

Dept. Plans to Plant Quarter Million Trees on Authority

The Tweed branch of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests plans to plant a quarter of a million trees on Moira River Conservation Authority property next year.

This was noted yesterday by Dennis Thomas, representing the Department, as he spoke at the final 1960 meeting of the Authority held at Camilton.

Mr. Thomas noted that this year a total of 175,000 trees had been planted as compared with 95,000 last year. Continuing purchases of vacant farm land by the Authority were making the increased plantings possible, he said.

The Ontario Department of Lands and Forests supervises Authority forests under long term agreements.

Mr. Thomas noted that changes in forest agreements would provide for larger reforestation grants from the province and he urged early consideration by the Authority with a view of signing the new agreement which could be made retroactive to April of this year.

If this was done before March 31st, 1961, the local Authority would be eligible for $4,325 in reforestation grants instead of the $2,093 which had been received this year.

ELMER HEDING KILLED

Reforestation committee chairman T. C. Graham of Tweed, gave credit to the Department of Lands and Forests for the management of Authority forests and also gave a run-down on properties purchased this year for reforestation purposes.

Good Fellowship Prevails In Capacity Crowd Attending Annual Fire Dept. Banquet

Merry enlightened and forthright opinions and suggestions regarding local civic administration were presented in a light not often, and especially of such affairs except at such a leading social occasion of the annual firemen's banquet, which was held at No. 2 Fire Hall yesterday evening. This is not, of course, to cast an aspersion upon the other leading social political function, the Wheel Street Debating Club's annual meeting.

It is merely meant to point out that, at the affair held yesterday evening the speakers are fed in advance of their expositions and so may make their comments at greater length and with a much deeper searching of the other subject, than, at the latter function, where there might be a suspicion of brevity in some speeches for the mere fact that on one is fed until after the speeches are over.

It is surely this feeling of good fellowship and expansion that is engendered by a municipal feast that allowed such "Senator" Harry Rollins to deliver eminent local authorities as to live into the files of this city's past administrations and to expound upon the greatness that encompassed the community's political life in the days of Belleville's "Jimmy Walker", it is through such adroit comparisons of the past with the present that the speaker's forte is derived although the subtleties are sometimes lost in the somewhat piercing character analyses, which seem to crop up from time to time.

It is surely the fine feast that is the Belleville firemen's banquet, lifted by Robert Principe, Q.C. who was the principal speaker, praisal of the activities of the recent city administrators. Somewhat deliberately, there were his remarks concerning their leaders, although the speaker was most careful to allow that some past mayors had a peculiar flair and flourish for the fine art of introducing a speaker in a manner which made or earned them all the rage of the assembled guests.

It was a capacity audience that was last-tendance was large and near to hear the eminent speakers and partake of excellent fare. Such is the fame of the Belleville firemen's function as expectedly there were some in attendance from as far as Napan with a pen to contribute towards the underprivileged children's work in which the local firefighters are active.

The usual fine representation by every municipal fire departments in this part of Ontario to add their voices to the activity, in fact even the local fire sirens added their own an alarm had to be answered in the midst of the festivity. Some incoming actually were ready to believe that "Senator" Rollins had just found a lost sheep with twist his silver tongue around. Such optimism was unfounded, however, in the opinion of a former city solicitor who has on occasion expressed his opinion that personality in question could find anything.

Good humor is also a recurring feature of the banquet and this year was no exception with the local good humor man, Art Dumont, on hand to add association and, perhaps, created a humorous character for Belleville when he referred to Chief Vance as being one of the "saddest" in Ontario Fire Chiefs' Association. It was felt, however, by some that surely the local chief was worthy of the title "Big Daddy."

The Reverend Peter Murphy, former padre (RC) for the fire department was present and expressed his appreciation of having been associated with the department and wished its members the best of luck in the next hockey season for the local police.

Greetings from the local clergy were the Reverend William McGee, his department's new padre (RC) and Major J. Carter of the Salvation Army.

In his concluding remarks Fire Chief Vance, Belleville's Fire Chiefs, complimented the firemen on their interest and activity in community affairs.

President-elect Irving Brownlow of Local 497 of the Provincial Fire Fighters' Association gave greetings to the guests on behalf of the local whose members were doing duty as hosts and waiters.

order to boost the riches of the favored few" and that Ethiopia was falling behind other African states in improving the standard of living.

There was no mention of violence or arrests in any of the dispatches on the coup. Some diplomatic quarters believed the coup was touched off by resentment among the army officers against Haile Selassie's autocratic, personal rule.

Ethiopia held its first direct parliamentary election in 1957 but Haile Selassie has always retained final authority over the country. The council of ministers is directly responsible to the emperor.

Haile Selassie heard of the coup in Sao Paulo, while on his state visit to Brazil. At first his secretary dismissed the reports as "malicious rumors" but as they gained strength the emperor decided to fly back to his country.

Fire Dept. Hires Eight New Men For 48-Hour Week Next Year

Commencing January 1st, members of the Belleville Fire Department will go on a 48-hour week as compared with the present 54 hours put in by fire-fighting personnel.

Making ready for the change, the department took on eight additional firemen on December 1st for a one-month training period before becoming full-fledged members of the department on January 1st.

Fire Chief Gerald Vance said that starting the first of the year his men would work 48 hours per week on a two-platoon system.

City council fire committee chairman Ald. Walter Elliott noted the 48-hour week was a compromise reached last year between the department and city council. At that time firemen had asked for a 40-hour week but full wing negotiations agreed to the 48 week commencing in 1961.

"I think we got some good men in the new personnel," commented the fire committee chairman. "We had a great number of applicants to choose from."

Fire Chief Vance noted that all men taken on the first of the month were either born or raised in the city.

By coincidence the training period of the recruit firemen has already been marked by one serious fire and a second blaze, which could have seen serious proportions.

Last week the new men helped in fighting the fire at Foley Foundry on Front Street, and again this week they assisted at the city hall blaze.

The new firemen taken on the department are A. C. Ryan, R. Christopher, R. Riles, G. Parks, S. Payne, W. Williams, J. Ross and W. Skinkle.

The fire department staff now totals 50 including the chief.

J.-B. Boyce and Sons Limited are pleased to announce the appointment of Mr. Ken Pinder as Sales Manager for their new and used car departments.

Mr. Pinder's many years of experience in the automotive field will greatly facilitate the distribution of the products of Chrysler Corporation, Rootes Group and Mercedes Benz in this district. — (Advt.)

Seize Bogus 10-Dollar Bills

HAMILTON (CP)—RCMP and detectives Wednesday night raided a downtown hotel and seized $2,000 worth of counterfeit $10 bills.

Police said the money was "very well made," although there were slight distortions.

Six persons from the Brantford district were arrested.

Charged with possession of counterfeit currency were John Prowse, 41, Catherine Cromwell, 18, Leo Shaler, 22, and Sylvester Joseph Shaler, 20, all of Brantford, and Teresa Hie, 21, and Gordon Hie, 30, of Harley.

Trade With Cuba

Some Canadians may be uneasy about Canadian trade with Cuba. They may feel that in taking advantage of the quarrel between Cuba and the U.S. to move into the Cuban market, Canada is betraying its neighbor and best friend.

It is possible to build up a strong case against any such contention. For instance, it can be argued that the U.S. embargo on trade with Cuba, far from being an effective method of countering Communist influence in that country, is practically forcing Castro into the arms of Khrushchev—and that, by trading with Cube, Canada is in effect providing some possibility that the Cubans may avoid becoming the economic peons of the Kremlin.

The better course, though, seems to us to place dependence on the good sense of those we have elected to run our national affairs and, in the absence of any strong evidence to the contrary, to accept the probability that any decision made by the Federal Government that respects trade with Cuba is in the best interests of Canada itself and not inconsistent with our responsibilities to the U.S. and our other friends and allies.

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker made it clear on Monday, in the House of Commons, that his government has no objection to Canadian firms dealing with Cuba. He had some reservations regarding Canada being used as a point of transshipment for U.S. goods, but did not appear to rule out all such transactions. In this connection two points should be noted. Firstly, the U.S. is likely to be particularly touchy about such transshipments and could, if it wished, stop them entirely by the simple, drastic, expedient of forbidding the sale to Canada of any goods of the type which Cuba formerly obtained from the U.S. Secondly, Mr. Diefenbaker's interest in trade between Cuba and Canada is certain to be in the beneficial effects on Canada's economy rather than in helping the Castro regime. It is surely obvious that any small benefits which might accrue to our economy by Canadian firms purchasing goods in the U.S. and then shipping them to Cuba cannot compare with the stimulus to employment which would result from the sale to Cuba of Canadian-made goods. Even if the U.S. had no objections whatever to transshipment of U.S. goods to Cuba, the Prime Minister could be expected to view this with disfavor, as reducing the potential market for Canadian goods.

If, however, there is no grave reason for concern about official Canadian policy on trade with Cuba, this does not hold true of possible developments in other facets of the problem. We have in mind, about the possibility that Canadian subsidiaries of U.S. firms might be forbidden to participate in this trade—and we think that Canadian resentment of such a prohibition would be justified.

Now, however, there is news of possible trouble on the labor front. According to Victor Reisel of the New York Daily Mirror, the International Longshoremen's Association plans to boycott Canadian docks from whence goods are shipped to Cuba. The Longshoremen have every right to co-operate with the U.S. Government in making the embargo on trade with Cuba effective in their own country and, indeed, will earn praise for this display of patriotism. We would even have some sympathy for any effort by the U.S. leadership to prevent the breaching of the embargo by the transshipment of U.S. goods through Canadian ports. But if the Longshoremen's Union, or any other U.S. union, attempts to hamper the movement of Canadian-made goods, then we shall have an interference with Canadian sovereignty at least as serious as any prohibition by U.S. firms against sales to Cuba by subsidiaries in Canada.

It would be most interesting to see what stand Canadian longshoremen would take. We suspect that this would be one occasion on which they would quickly rebel against U.S. leadership and would refuse to assist in implementing U.S. foreign policy at the expense of the Canadian economy.

STRENGTH FOR THE DAY

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE COST OF EDUCATION

In a pamphlet sent out to its alumni, a good private college gave the hard facts of its finances. The annual tuition fee is about $1,200 per year. But, it costs just over three times that much for the college to educate each student. For every student who attends, the college must pay out another $2,500 per year.

The costs of higher education are frightening — and they are getting worse all the time. Even the greatly increased tuition charges of recent years have not kept pace with rising expenses. Many college faculties are badly underpaid; libraries lack up-to-date books; laboratories are overcrowded.

Yet alarming as these costs are, we must resist the temptation to simplify more vital to the economic, social, political and moral life of a nation than a strong system of education. One reason for Russia's great progress since World War Two was unquestionably been her intense emphasis upon education. The United States and Canada, for example, spend millions and millions more on alcoholic liquor, and gambling. We could easily afford a first class educational system if we were willing to put first things first.

As citizens of a democracy, we are the ones who have responsibility for providing good education. We need to vote more money for it. We need to give more generously toward it, too.

Peaceful Uses of A-Energy

Part One

BY HON. ROBERT W. MACAULAY
Ontario Minister of Energy Resources

ARTICLE II

The basis for nuclear energy is the process of what is called fissioning uranium. Once this has been done, other fissionable materials, such as uranium 233 and plutonium, are produced. At present, plutonium is used almost entirely for military purposes, and peaceful uses of atomic energy are based for the most part directly on the fissioning of uranium, and not on the fissioning of material produced from it.

Atomic fission (splitting of the atom), produces heat and radiation. The chief difference between using uranium for a bomb and using it peacefully is that in the one case the heat and radiation are released very quickly indeed, whereas in the other, they are released more slowly, continuously, and under control.

NUCLEAR FISSION HEAT

So far, it appears that the major peaceful use for nuclear heat will be to provide steam for the generation of electricity. Already, electricity is being produced in this way. In this country, it is expected to become an economical means of generating electricity in high fuel areas of the world some time before 1970. Heat energy could be used for space heating but apart from one project in Sweden little is being done in this respect. Clearly, nuclear heat could also be used to provide process steam for industry, but it is not economically feasible, the cost of using nuclear heat in this way is expected to be competitive in the foreseeable future.

There are at present some military uses which may soon become peaceful uses also. The United States is using small reactors to provide steam to drive submarines and to generate electricity in the future in remote areas. Such small reactors may in the not too distant future be justifiable as the power source for icebreakers, submarine supply ships and for remote, fuel-short civilian communities, whether as a direct source of heat for industry and space heating, or as a source of steam for propulsion and electricity generation. At present, as a direction of research in a cost study by Canadian engineering house, sponsored by Atomic Energy of Canada Limited, there is no Canadian or foreign community, both sufficiently remote and sufficiently large to be able to justify a nuclear instead of conventional fuel, expensive though such conventional fuel may be in this country.

The advantage of nuclear propulsion, from the Canadian point of view, is that it would have the advantage, already apparent in military applications, of long independence of the need to consume large quantities of oxygen. It is this need which prevents the conventional submarine from staying for any length of time submerged. The breaker must leave the Arctic to refuel and hence how much shipping can get through to the northern ports and back, measured in this factor will operate in the Lawrence Seaway season. Also, enabling the icebreaker to be used continuously at critical periods at the beginning and end of the shopping season.

USING RADIATION

For all practical purposes only two general sources of radiation need be considered, electron beam radiation from high energy machines, and gamma radiation from radioisotopes. The best radioisotope presently available as a radiation source is cobalt-60, which is cobalt which has been made radioactive in a reactor. X-rays, a third type of source, seem to be practicable for photography.

Radiation is already being used in industry to produce the most valuable uses of radiation may be the ways in which it allows us to see things in ways in which we could not see them before. We can, for example, irradiate things while they are being made, or watch machines while they are operating and thus see the defects before we could not see before. Sometimes we can effect changes in a multitude of products by subjecting them to radiation. Examples of both these types of radiation are now being applied in every walk of life.

INDUSTRY

Sources of radioactivity are being used in industry to control the thickness of sheet. The thickness of film can be controlled by irradiating it in the production line. If a bin is being filled with some material such as coal, or sand, when it certain level is reached the flow can be shut off. Also the filling of the next bin can be started. Radiation is being used in the case for photographing metal parts, castings and welds. If there is a flaw, it will be found out quickly, even though the flaw is hidden from the eye itself. At one time, for example, the inside welds in a tank were carried out by cutting open a random number of the welds, and assuming that the rest of the welds were good if the ones cut open were good. Such a method was both expensive and inefficient. Many other uses are being found in industry by using radioactive tracers. In refinery and pipeline operations, for example, where delays and shutdowns are extremely expensive, tracers are very valuable. You can send a few batches of different materials through the line, and you can mark the division between one batch with a small quantity of radioactive material, and when this material registers on the other end of the pipeline or simply closes one valve and opens another without a pause in operations or any mixing of materials, and the different products go to the right destinations, correct tanks. In refinery operations, where the chemical industry complex, faults can be exposed by using a tracer, and a tracer of radioactive isotope can find the fault quickly and cheaply.

Radiation can cause chemical changes in the way in which it affects materials. It is hoped in the future that this will lead to radiation to increase the toughness and durability of materials such as plastics.

To be Continued.

Syd Learns To Drive A Sports Car

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

What a certain woman I know calls "an emotional hedge against the male menopause" arrived at my door one cold winter morning. A dashing little black sports car with red leather seats and enough instruments on the dashboard to baffle a jet pilot.

This was my first venture into the "personal car" field, and I felt that happened was that the sturdy station wagon I had last year was transformed into a sleek, fast job, and my insurance was jacked up accordingly by the big, soft-spoiled self-operating car I had left behind.

But, like learning anything — how to ski or play the piano — learning to drive a sports car is enormously stimulating and satisfying after the break-in period.

Breaking yourself in, that is, not the car. I now feel much safer (as well as sportier) in a little bug than I ever did in the Aviadrome Express.

For one thing, I didn't realize how much power was at my controlling me. I would sit back and glide through traffic, sometimes with my mind a thousand miles away. This is impossible in a sports car; you are right on top of it, controlling it and aware of every second.

This seems like hard work at first, but it's rewarding fun. Tooling down to the office every morning becomes an exciting game with the day's delicious waste of time. The car responds ecstatically to your every touch and more important, won't do anything I don't want it to do.

I wonder if one of the reasons for the increasing auto accident rate over the years may be directly attributable to loss of control and thus loss of responsibility in the complicated mechanism we call the road. Power brakes and power steering are, in a way, repulsive substitutes for a manoeuvrable, hand-balanced car. Functional car.

The wagon, of course, has its own uses — for long trips in the summer, for piling in seven children in snow-suits on their way to school. But I am a dozen times more alert driving the Black Beast, and besides I feel like Tom Mix whenever I settle down the canvas. Who can imagine a pinto with power steering?

"This is probably the last time I'll be here . . . I'm getting married."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

25 YEARS AGO

December 15th., 1960

Unknown to the laymen, railroad men and officials in this city are devoting time and efforts that are unheralded and unsung and unheard in the roar of traffic and increasing demand for their abilities. In Belleville one of the most important divisional entries in Ontario, railway maintenance employment has nearly doubled in some departments. One hundred and five men, an increase of 100 per cent are now employed in the rail saw department. Other branches have increased in proportion.

Belleville is the service centre for long numbers of the "iron horses" and cars that roar daily across a continent. Indicative of this important phase of railroad work is the fact that over ninety engines were serviced here in 24 hours. In 1938 the Belleville branch of the railroad utilized 123 million gallons of water; Up to the end of October this year, 125 million gallons were consumed.

Two Montreal hospitals have prohibited visitors except in most urgent cases because, hospital authorities said Friday, there was an unusual number of common colds and cases of influenza throughout the district. City health director said, there was a small epidemic of "bronchial trouble" which was being mistaken for influenza.

50 YEARS AGO

December 15th, 1910

About a dozen members of the Sons of England and their wives attended the first performance at Griffin's Theatre last evening, and later went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harman where a dainty supper was spread à la the spacious dining room of the former Balmoral Hotel. A most enjoyable evening was passed.

Mr. D. G. Sleeker is in Toronto on business.

Rev. Canon C. Blagrave, Rector of Christ Church went to Malloc where he will give an address this evening.

Mr. Arthur Parker of the branch of the Bank of Montreal in Hamilton, is home on a visit.

Old Radical Dies in Bed

Washington Post

To the surprise of many — including, we must confess, ourselves — the old revolutionary, Comrade Willie Foster, has died peaceably in his bed at the ripe old age of 84.

It was a rather incongruous end for one whose prestige in proletarian circles rested mainly on the fact that he was once an associate of such fiery characters as Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg.

Of course Comrade Pleck in his later years had been a puppet as pre-cise as that of the East German Peoples (Communist) Republic's decrees which manipulated his or-Rial actions were wound round the fingers of Comrade Ulbricht, the general secretary of the party. He was quite a time, however, when it looked as though Comrade Pleck might be in deep trouble.

That was in the summer of 1953, after the Kremlin had been astonished and disgusted by the spontaneous revolt of the East German workers and while the late Lavrenti Beria, Georgi Malenkov, Beria and Khrushchev were still undecided. Anyway, Comrade Pleck, who had gone to Moscow for the funeral of Comrade Stalin, was in no hurry about turning to Berlin.

Presumably, though, Comrade Pleck did return and even managed to retain his title to the end, despite the struggle which must have been. Like those Old Bolsheviks Malenkov and Molotov, he was blessed with a combination of luck, knowledge, adaptability and the instinct for survival.

Still, in his revolutionary youth, he doubtless had been considered sad and credulous as the best of them.

One cannot help wondering what he thought about it all in the end, especially as he contemplated the drabness, poverty and sullenness of the people around him, many with the roaring prosperity of the unprecedented capitalist Germany to the West.

smiled and there was nothing that would justify at this stage the laying of any charge in a criminal court against the member from Russell."

He said the investigation was continuing.

Mr. Bryden charged the mayor with failing to live up to his responsibilities to his municipality.

"He is to be pilied rather than condemned . . . you would think the only recourse he would have would be to resign his office of mayor and his seat in this House."

Mr. Lavergne presented his case to the electors in the Dec. 3 civic elections and was defeated, Mr. Bryden added.

He said he hoped the attorney-general would make a complete statement to the legislature when his investigation of evidence was completed.

"Are you suggesting I haven't done my duty?" Mr. Roberts said angrily.

"As an attorney - general you should be ashamed of yourself," Mr. MacDonald said.

PREMIER UTTERS FRAT

The premier threw himself into the battle when Mr. Bryden began to speak about the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, investigated this year by a royal commission on the purchase of land at Sarnia. . .

Mr. Bryden said the report handed down by Mr. Justice George McGillivray of the Ontario Court of Appeal was "nothing more than a rehash of Sydro's brief to the royal commission."

"Your actions are beneath contempt," Mr. Frost said. "You're a disgrace to this House—both of you," he added, shaking his fist finger at CCF Leader MacDonald. "I think the proceedings of this House have gone far beyond decency when a member impugns the honor of any honorable justice," Mr. Frost said. "You're a pelt, yes, a pelt—"

"A pair of what?" demanded Mr. MacDonald.

Mr. Speaker William Murdoch tired to keep order, but the member didn't hear or didn't heed the banging of the gavel.

CHARGES CONTEMPT

Mr. Bryden charged the premier. with "absolute contempt" of the rules of parliamentary procedure. . .

"Your snake-in-the-grass tactics," shouted Mr. Frost.

Mr. MacDonald demanded the premier withdraw his statement that "we are snakes or lower than that."

"He and his slimy ways," the premier said, pointing at Mr. Bryden.

Earlier, Mr. Lavergne defended the municipal policies of himself and the council in a 90-minute speech. He said he had no regrets or apologies for the town's administration with which he was connected for 16 years, the last 12 as mayor.

"Everything that was done was done for the people of Eastview and the municipality," he said.

The department of municipal affairs' investigation found that town lands had been sold at far below normal prices, firms had been given low and illegal tax assessments, council had paid, it said and the mayor a bonus under the rules of guest entertainment, frank borrowing had been made illegally, auditing had been slipshod, and the town treasurer had been incompetent.

FOR FIRST TIME

"This is the first time I have had the opportunity of telling my story," Mr. Lavergne said. "I'm happy I enjoyed a little part in the rise of Eastview."

The mayor said Liberal Leader Wintermeyer made charges against him to satisfy friends in Ottawa who wanted "to beat that Lavergne down." He accused Mr. Wintermeyer of trying to "sow the seeds of doubt and suspicion."

Mr. Lavergne admitted the council had broken certain provisions of the Ontario Municipal Act, but he added that the legislature had legalized many of the improprieties by approving private bills submitted by the town.

"Many of the people down our way were trying to say we are crooked with $2,000,000, but if I had that I wouldn't be here defending myself. . . . I'd be down in Mexico or some place."

He said the lavergne's money had been "poured" into new streets and other services, demanded by the residents.

Mr. Lavergne said he would have to grant solicitation and subpoena power to the municipal affairs department to obtain the information he needed.

Legion LA Names 1961 Executive

CAMPBELLFORD — A pot-luck supper was enjoyed by about 30 members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion, at the regular December meeting.

One new member, Com. Mrs. Cooper, was installed. Comrades George Bibby and Ed Bowen conducted the election of officers for 1961, which resulted as follows: president, Comrade Lillian Shaw; 1st vice-president, Com. Dianne Ferrill; 2nd vice-president, Com. Phyllis Hubie; secretary, Com. Miriam Shaw (acclamation); treasurer, Com. Doreen Mechetuk (acclamation); welfare convener, Com. Mae Phillips; publicity-arms, Com. Queenie Anderson; and the executive, Comrs. Noll Atkinson, Margaret Quackenbush, Anna Maddocks, Helen Stephens and Dorian Lloyd.

The immediate past president, Com. Edith Macmillan, is also a member of the executive committee. Sally McGregor was appointed assistant standard bearer. Com. Ruth Kenny is to be canteen convener for January, February and March.

Com. Edith Macmillan's name was drawn for the dollar night prize and Com. Helen Diffield won the regular meeting prize which had been donated by Com. Macmillan.

It was requested that any member who could help beg candies for the Legion Christmas party, to be at the Legion Hall on Friday afternoon, Dec. 16.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Lady Listowel To Sing Again In London

BY STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Lady Listowel, former Toronto jazz vocalist Sheyle Wise who gave up singing two years ago when she married the Governor - General of Ghana, will be back before the footlights Sunday.

The 27-year-old blonde mother of one, living in London again now that her 56-year-old husband, Lord Listowel, is a member of the British parliamentary delegation to NATO, will climb to the stage of the Royal Court Theatre Sunday night and sing several songs from The Pyjama Game.

She is taking part in a one-night revue, Songs in the Theatre, Sunday night either spitting or singing.

"I am loving getting back to it all again," said the pretty lady. "But I am not doing much at the moment — the toughest thing about a comeback is getting people to know you're available for work."

GAVE IT UP

When Miss Wise married Lord Listowel she was quoted widely in British newspapers as saying: "I want to be a good housewife—I am giving up jazz singing for ever."

But she said that after they were married "we both decided that I should go back to acting and singing when it became possible."

Mother's Role in Parent-Child Relationships Is Outlined

At St. Michael's parish council meeting the League delegate to the Social Life Conference, Peterborough, Mrs. R. Bellamy, gave the lecture, "The Role of a Mother in Parent, Child Relationship" as it was originally presented by Monica Brault at the conference. The following are statements from the address: a child's needs are acceptance, security, protection, independence, guidance and example. This is where the parents come in with a united effort to put these into practice. The mother sets the spiritual climate.

It is time to call the bringing up of the family "Our Job" as the most important question is the child's vocation. Charity is the chief virtue.

IMPORTANT TEACHING

The teaching of sex is important. Pope Pius XII addressing Catholic mothers several years ago quoted, "You have to prepare your sons and daughters, so that they may pass with unfaltering step, like those who pick their way among serpents." Walter Farrel defined 'purity' as 'passion — under the control of reason, enlightened by faith.'

A quote from Pope Pius XII of October, 1941 "With discretion of a mother and a teacher, and thanks to the open hearted confidence with which you have been able to inspire your children, you will not fail to watch for and to discern the moment in which certain unspoken questions occur spontaneously to their minds, and are troubling their senses. It will then be the mother's duty to lift aside with a father's duty to his son, carefully and delicately, to unveil the truth as far as it appears necessary to give a prudent, true and Christian answer, and set their minds at rest."

"The proper concept to inculcate in your children is, we are created by God in His own image and likeness. It is only the mistake of sin which is wrong.

"If by the time your children are teen-agers they respect their body as a temple of the Holy Ghost, he or she will have respect and reverence for all other adolescents.

LIFE-GIVING ROLE

"The mother's role is a life - giving role — not just bringing children into the world through love, example and prayer, she leads them to Heaven."

Following the address, the members divided into groups to discuss these two questions: how the following of the Liturgical Year benefit Christian family living. What part is the effect of the domineering parent on the child in the home.

The members of the discussion groups concluded that the answer to question one was that the observation of different cycles in the liturgical year, such as advent, Lent and the many feast days throughout the church year would make better Christians in their daily life.

In answering question 2, the group felt that the child brought up by a domineering parent would definitely show the effects in his own marriage. The lecture and discussion periods were enjoyed and appreciated by all the members.

VALENTINE BALL ORGANIZED

The Rt. Rev. J. P. Sullivan opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Herbert Brown presided. An executive meeting preceded the general meeting Mrs. G. Gallagher gave the treasurer's report. At this meeting it was decided to have a "Valentine Ball," sponsored by the League, in February in St. Michael's Academy auditorium. It was also decided to give a lecture to the C.W.L. Civic Action committee for the Nicholson Catholic College Bursary Fund. Plans for a tea in March were discussed.

Following the minutes of the executive meeting, the business of the general meeting took place. A paid-up membership of 536 was reported by Mrs. R. Ackerman. Mrs. H. Ryan, spiritual convener, stated that Rosaries had been said for the deceased members at the funeral home.

Mrs. J. Boyd reported that she was sending a shipment of used clothing to Manitoulin Indian Reservation Mission this week. Any member wishing to send any used clothing may contact Mrs. Boyd at her residence, 36 Oak Street.

REPORTS GIVEN

A Brownie report was read by Mrs. E. Bowers on Our Lady of Fatima Pack. Mrs. F. Dominico thanked all the ladies who helped so generously with the bazaar and tea. Mrs. D. Jones has accepted the convenorship of the Valentine Ball. The president read a detailed report of the bazaar, showing a gross income of $2,945.98 and a net profit of $2,600. She thanked all the members who worked zealously with the convener of the bazaar, Mrs. C. Reed, and presented Mrs. Reed with a CWL pin for outstanding efforts. Mrs. Reed thanked all the members who co-operated to make the bazaar such a wonderful success and accepted the convenorship of the 1961 bazaar.

The president presented Monsignor Sullivan with a cheque for $2,000.

BURSARY RULES

Mrs. Brown stated that she had attended the Civic Action CWL committee meeting at which the rules and regulations of the Nicholson Catholic College bursary were drawn up. It was felt that due to the small amount of interest realized from the 'Bursary Fund' this year should be left to accumulate. The president stated that private contributions to this fund would be greatly appreciated. Cheques may be sent to the secretary-treasurer, Mrs. E. J. McQuiggan, Shamrock Road, Belleville, Ont.

An effort would be made in the new year to have members from the three parish councils visit the Hastings County Home for the aged each month, alternately. Christmas baskets will be sent to the needy families in all three parishes. Christmas gifts will be purchased for the Catholic patients in the Belleville General Hospital and the Home for the Aged.

Following the adjournment of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. B. Hoot and her committee.

Women's Guild Holds Yuletide Program

St. Andrew's Women's Guild met on the evening of December 6th with Mrs. Robert Michael presiding.

Mrs. J. Smoke read the Scripture. Misses Marner, Vincent and Hurst sang a Christmas hymn; Miss Marilyn Hurst and Mrs. E. Boyce favored with a piano duet; Miss Linda Marner sang a carol, "Angels We Have Heard On High," and Marilyn Hurst chose the carol, "What Child Is This?"

Mrs. Elvidge gave the financial statement and reported on a most successful bazaar. Plans were made to give financial aid to the children's Christmas parties, the Deaconess Training School building fund and the board of managers.

Mrs. McKay, Mrs. Barlow, Mrs. Shaw were appointed the nominating committee to bring in the 1961 slate of officers.

Mrs. Ely gave a reading "Could You Spare Five Minutes At Christmas?"

Mrs. Tounsley and her group served a nice lunch for the social hour.

Fall Session Of Arts, Crafts Closed

The fall series of classes in the Arts, Crafts and Hobbies sponsored by the Recreation Committee came to a successful closing on Monday for the ceramic, silk screening process, Mosaic tile, and on Thursday for the leather and the art class.

These classes were all filled to capacity. The work that was done during the ten lessons was displayed the last evening of the classes at 9.30 at which time a social hour took place, and coffee was served.

A fine showing in the art of making ceramic and mosaic was attracting attention, also silk screening. The leather had good workmanship in their pieces displayed. Three were purses belts and bill folds.

The work done in the painting class was conducted by Mr. P. Airola, the instructor, at which everyone was happy to find they were making good progress.

Ninety - three people attended the closing. These classes will again be under way about the middle of January.

Bayview H-S Hears Talk on 'Silent Night'

The Bayview Home and School Association's general meeting was held recently in the school with Mrs. S. Whitaker presiding. The devotional was conducted by Mrs. G. Hutchison, followed by Mrs. business portion of the meeting.

A report was given by Mrs. F. VanKempay on the dance which was held recently by the association. This dance was a big success and thoroughly enjoyed by everyone.

It was announced that the next meeting will be held on January 10, 1961.

Following the business, the following Christmas program was presented by the students and staff of the school: a choir of 20 students, under the leadership of Mr. Reid are to be congratulated selections. Both the children and M. Reid are to be congratulated on the fine job they did, much hard work practising resulted in a delightful evening for all the parents.

Following the choir, a short film entitled "Silent Night" was shown. This was the story of how the beloved Christmas carol "Silent Night" came to be written.

After the meeting adjourned, refreshments were served by the Grade V mothers.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

EGGLETON W.M.S. AND W.A.

MADOC JUNCTION — The December meeting of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. Bruce Stapley, on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Stapley presided over a program which she and Mrs. Harry Clarke had prepared and opened the meeting by reading a beautiful poem in keeping with the theme, on Christmas. The Scripture lesson, St. Luke 2: 1-19 was read by Mrs. Weston Harlow with the commentary on the lesson being given by the pastor, Mr. George Dyson.

All enjoyed the solo, "Christmas Night" sung by Mrs. Harold West of Stirling, with Mrs. Bruce Stapley playing her accompaniment.

An interesting reading, "Christmas in China," was given by Mrs. William McMullen.

Nineteen adults and 1 child were in attendance.

Mrs. B. Stapley spoke briefly welcoming the visitors, thanking the executive and expressed best wishes to the 1961 president, Mrs. Keith Johnson.

Mrs. Maurice Clancy, Mission Band leader reported $46.50 had been raised. She also asked the W.M.S. members to save their used stamps and give them to any Mission Band members.

Mrs. Murney Kirkey, Baby Band leader reported $8.00 had been raised.

The W.A. president, Mrs. William McMullen took charge.

The January meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harold Chambers with Mrs. Maurice Clancy preparing the program.

Mrs. McMullen expressed thanks to Mrs. Stapley for the use of her home and also thanked all for their co-operation in assisting her with the W.A. work during the past year.

A reading "Roadside Window" was given by Mrs. Clancy.

Mrs. H. West rendered another solo "How Great Thou Art," and asked all present to join in the chorus.

Another reading "That God is Love" taken from Missionary Monthly paper, was given by Mrs. B. Stapley.

The meeting was dismissed by Mr. Dyson.

Two groups were formed and a skit was presented, based on words found in Matthew 12: 10-13.

A social half hour was enjoyed with an exchange of Christmas gifts and dainty refreshments served by the hostess.
